Mr. KESSLER. Because we did not know exactly what that was doing. This amendment came from Mr. Garfinkel, of the Attorney General's office. When he spoke to us originally, he talked about the people who were bypassing the tax as a result of buying paper and then having it imprinted, and we agreed that we would try to incorporate that. We took his language, which included these other words, and it goes way beyond what we intended to do.

Mr. DENT. Is it not true, Mr. Kessler, that the illustration that I used here is not only conceivable but the reason for taking out these particular amendments?

Mr. KESSLER. I do not see how it can be.

Mr. DENT. Would you say then that if a contractor gets a contract to build a bridge and he asks the steel company to give him a bid, could the steel company give him a bid on the bridge materials fabricated or non-fabricated whereby the contractor would pay the tax only upon the weight of the steel used?

Mr. KESSLER. I do not believe I quite understand you, Senator.

Mr. DENT. Let us put it this way. There is a bridge built. The contract for the steel is $8,000,000. Of the $8,000,000 approximately, there might be $3,000,000 of that which would be the cost of the steel in the raw. However, after they bend it to shape and weld it, cut it and drill it, the cost of that steel is $8,000,000. Now where would you place the tax?

Mr. KESSLER. If who buys the steel?

Mr. DENT. The contractor is buying the steel.

Mr. KESSLER. The contractor buys the steel?

Mr. DENT. That is right.

Mr. KESSLER. That is no different than it is today; that is, there has been no change in the tax from that angle. I understand that there are some large companies in Pennsylvania who will buy steel and have it fabricated because it is cheaper for them. Ordinarily, however, when steel is purchased for bridges, it is purchased in sections or fabricated sections, as you well know.

Mr. DENT. Well, do you not realize that on page 7 you have removed the fabricating of that steel from the tax? Maybe I cannot — —

Mr. KESSLER. No, we have not. If we have, then, Senator Dent, the original bill did not call for it because the only thing we are putting in is that in addition to these other definitions of sale at retail, we say that the sale at retail shall include this printing and imprinting. Now how you can read into that that it also provides for the fabrication of steel is more than I can see.

Mr. DENT. Well, Mr. Kessler, your amendment originally said, when you wanted to put in the imprinting, it was to protect the department against the very evasion I am talking about. Every State in the Union has that feature in their sales tax. Every State in the Union says that sale at retail shall include the producing, fabricating, processing, printing or imprinting, but what have you done? After the amendment was accepted and because the Department of Justice said that this was an avenue of evasion, then you come along and you put an amendment in and you take out the words "producing, fabricating and processing." Does this not mean that you exclude producing, fabricating and processing when you take it from the act, or do I not know how to read a bill?

Mr. KESSLER. I presume you do, Senator Dent, but please keep this in mind. If that were possible or if it is possible under this amended bill, it was possible under the old act.

Mr. DENT. That is exactly — —

Mr. KESSLER. We have not taken anything from the act. In fact, we have added to it.

Mr. DENT. Exactly what, Mr. Kessler?

Mr. KESSLER. Fabricated material has been added to it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Kessler, that is true because certain Pennsylvanians took advantage of the situation due to the fact this feature was left out of the original draft of the act, which is contrary to any other sales tax in the entire United States. In no State in the Union can they buy the steel in bulk, and then pay the tax on the bulk steel and not pay on the fabricated bridge sections. There is no other State in the Union where they tax such materials. Yet, you have fixed it in this bill so that they will buy the bulk steel and if you do not think they will, take the amendment out and let the amendment as it came from the Justice Department.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, Senator Dent, as I mentioned, was a party to the drafting of the original bill.

Mr. DENT. That is right.

Mr. KESSLER. We have not removed anything from this section of the bill. We have simply added that the printing or imprinting of tangible personal property is a sale at retail, which we have added.

Mr. DENT. Thank you, Mr. Kessler.

Mr. President, I know that I am accused of being all kinds of a fast talker, but I can read. I might not be able to read reading real good, but I can read writing.

Mr. President, the reason that that was not in the bill is because it was an oversight in the drafting of it. If every person in this room will remember, when the final draft of the tax bill came over to the Senate, we worked all night and almost all of the day and no Member of this Senate went into the fine points of that bill, no matter who the Member is. When we found that that was missing, other people found that it was missing, too, and they have taken advantage of it.

When the Justice Department came in with this amendment to include "the producing fabricating processing printing or imprinting of tangible personal property for a consideration for persons who furnish either directly or indirectly the materials used in the producing fabricating processing printing or imprinting," it was accepted by the Senate Committee, if such a committee met, because it was included in the first draft of this bill that came to the Senate floor. What happened? From the time it came onto the floor, in less than two days, the people who had been taking advantage of that section of the act, who never belonged in there or should never have been put in it in the first place rather, found they neglected to put it in and after putting it in, then they come along and take out of that amendment the words "producing, fabricating and processing." If it has no affect on the bill, why was it taken out? If it has no affect upon the fabrication of material, why was it removed?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I want to advise the Majority side that I have here about thirty-two amendments to the tax bill. It is five minutes to six. Just what do you want to do? If we start, we are going to finish, so maybe the Majority Leader can advise us.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, it would appear as though we are not going to be able to argue the amendments this evening. Therefore, I would suggest to the Senator, unless we decide to hold a meeting later in the evening and I have had no indication that we are going to do that, that he hold his amendments until tomorrow's Session. In the meantime, allow any other Senators who have comments to make them.

I, myself, would want to talk at least fifteen minutes. However, I am not going to be able to do that this evening because that would take us considerably over our deadline. There may be other Senators that might have some short comments to make in relation to what has been said up until now about the sales tax. I would suggest to Senator Lane that he hold his amendments until tomorrow and allow other Senators, who have short comments, to make them, and we will try to adjourn by five or ten minutes after six.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, — —

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia yield to the Senator from Washington, Mr. Lane?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I agree with the Majority Leader. I do not believe that I should attempt at this late hour to offer these amendments. Therefore, we will be prepared and will offer the thirty-some amendments at tomorrow's Session.

I yield now to Senator Weiner who, I believe, wants to make some remarks.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the Members of this body, without engaging in any personalities, that if they would take the trouble to read the Governor's Tax Study Commission Report, and after they have completed that if they would lay beside that report the bills that we have presented here, House Bill No. 330 through and including House Bill No. 337, they will find that any similarity between those bills and the Tax Study Commission Report is purely coincidental.

The tax bills are merely an exercise by some of the best attorneys in this State who represent rather large and important clients, as far as they are concerned, in removing them from the tax bill and the tax burden that the people of this State will have to face.

I think it behooves every Member of this Body, before he votes on any of these bills, to read them very carefully and I think to probe his conscience to determine for himself just whom he represents, whether it is the people who elected him or some of the few and narrow interests that make up some of the fabric and industrial parts of this State.

I feel that if any of these gentlemen sitting here today vote on any of these tax bills merely on the say-so of somebody who happens to run the Caucus, either in the Democratic Party or in the Republican Party, they are doing themselves and the State an injustice. Those of us who will be here during the next biennium, and will have to vote on these bills and on other matters of a fiscal nature in this Commonwealth, will find that we face some rather dire as well as serious problems which include all of the Members and all of the persons living in this Commonwealth, not merely the manufacturing and other narrow, selfish interests.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass fiually?

AMENDMENT OFFERED

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I have an amendment here to introduce at this time which I had no intention of presenting. However, after reading the bill, and the amendments which were presented by the Republican side, and listening to the crocodile tears from the Senator from Delaware County for the great struggling industry of the shipbuilding of Sun Oil and listening to the other Republican Members of the Senate who are always crying great crocodile tears for industry, I am compelled at this time, Mr. President, to offer an exemption on behalf of the little people of this great Commonwealth.

Mr. President, I may say that on March 2, 1956, I did not vote for the sales tax. I did not vote for it then, and I will not vote for it now. I said it was an unjust tax then on the little people and I repeat that today, even more so.

Mr. President, this bill as written today will go down in the history of Pennsylvania as being the greatest bonanza, the greatest give-away, that industry ever secured from this Commonwealth. It will be remembered as the tax bondage into which the little people were voted by the Republican Majority in the 1957 Session.

You took a tax that was to be deducted from three per cent to two per cent, and you went and you raised that tax back to three per cent so the little people would have to pay it. With the same stroke of the pen, Mr. President, you relieved shipbuilding, the utilities and all big industry in Pennsylvania. Therefore, Mr. President, I submit the amendment, asking that this Body relieve from the payment of this sales tax all those unfortunate members of the Commonwealth who find themselves on public assistance, unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation and social security. If we can relieve Sun Ship, if we can relieve big industry, we can relieve these struggling people.

Accordingly, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I understood that it was agreed by the Democratic leadership that amendments would be offered tomorrow and not today. Now I must recognize someone over there in authority, and it was agreed that no amendments would be offered today but they would be offered tomorroy.

Now with that understanding, I would suggest to the Senator that he withdraw his amendment and offer it tomorrow.

AMENDMENT WITHDRAWN

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I withdraw the amendment. That will give me more time to make another speech when I introduce it tomorrow.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Donolow, withdraws his amendment.

And the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 337, Printer's No. 160, on final passage, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS SIGNED

The President (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. WHALLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WHALLEY offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 18, 1957.

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, March 25, 1957 at four o'clock, p.m., E.S.T.; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, March 25, 1957 at four-thirty o'clock, p.m., E.S.T.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

In the Senate, March 18, 1957.

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, March 25, 1957 at four o'clock, p.m., E.S.T.; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, March 25, 1957 at four-thirty o'clock, p.m., E.S.T.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, March 19, 1957, at 1:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 6:09 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time, until Tuesday, March 19, 1957, at 1:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, March 18, 1957.

The House met at 4:30 p. m.
The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend CHARLES E. RITTER, JR., Pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, White Haven, Pa., guest Chaplain and guest of the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Post, offered the following prayer:

Unto Thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. O my God, I trust in Thee, let me not be ashamed, let not mine enemies triumph over me. (Psalms 25:1, 2).

O God, who seest that of ourselves we have no strength, and who knowest that without Thee we are not able to please Thee, or do any good work. Give unto us Thy Holy Spirit to be with us and help us in all our deliberations. Preserve us from falsehood and error from strife and vain glory, from pride and selfishness, from arrogance and greed, from complacency and hardness of heart, from idleness and sloth, from intolerance and indifference to the opinions, rights, and needs of others, that, as Thy humble servants elected by Thy people and called by Thee, we may be faithful stewards and worthy of the confidence and trust that has been placed in us. Help us, we humbly beseech Thee, to always think those things that be right. And give us, by the same spirit a right judgment in all things and such knowledge of Thy truth and goodness, that whatever we do here may be in accordance with Thy will, to the edification of Thy people, and to the eternal praise, Glory and Honor of Thy Holy Name, through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journals for Monday, March 11, Tuesday, March 12, and Wednesday, March 13, 1957 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

Senate Bills for concurrence Nos. 274, 291 and 315.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

PENNSYLVANIA TURNPIKE SYSTEM

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 18, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I transmit herewith for consideration of your Honorable Body legislation in regard to the Pennsylvania Turnpike system which may well be the most important matter to come before you in this session.

We have ample reason in the mismanagement and corruption which unfortunately characterized the administration of the Turnpike system to take a hard and serious look at its operations and its prospects. The results of the special Grand Jury investigation, initiated by the Department of Justice of this Administration, indicate to date that a former Chairman of the Commission and his relatives did indeed plan and participate in what I was forced to call "the greatest public swindle of all time." While such misconduct in office and abuse of trust is a matter primarily of individual and political responsibility, it is also an indication of weaknesses in the law itself and the methods which the Legislature had previously devised for the management of the Turnpike system.

Nevertheless, shocking as such abuses may be, they are not in themselves the primary reason why this comprehensive legislation is submitted. We are not looking backward to lock doors from which millions of dollars were stolen; we are looking forward to the future of the Turnpike system and all that it means to the economy and convenience of the people of Pennsylvania.

Operating efficiency can be accomplished by the simple process of appointing dedicated administrators, and by doing what should have been done long ago—requiring the Turnpike Commission to obey the same laws as to competitive bidding which are applied to all other State operations under the Administrative Code.

But we must go much further, if we are to meet our responsibilities in adjusting the Turnpike system to the new circumstances which now confront us.

That is the essence of this legislation.

Briefly, it is based upon the supposition that we cannot have a system of superhighways that is half toll and half free. The passage of the Federal Highways Act of 1956 has made the concept of toll highways obsolete and unworkable. The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission is thereby freed of its responsibility to extend, as economic feasibility made possible, the Turnpike system. It is finished. We cannot anticipate the construction of another mile of new toll road in Pennsylvania.

Accordingly, we need conservators for the existing Turnpike system as provided in this legislation. The obsolete authorizations to build toll roads are repealed, and the Department of Highways will undertake the responsibility of constructing equivalent free highways in cooperation with the Federal program.

The conservators will have the duty of fulfilling the contractual obligations and indentures which were entered into by the Turnpike Commission. The legislation now submitted has been most carefully prepared by the Department of Justice. It has been reviewed by eminent bond counsel who generously volunteered, without compensation, to assist in the drafting of the bill. We have no doubt that the contractual rights of the bondholders are fully preserved.

The conservators will have, in addition to their responsibility to the bondholders, a responsibility to the people of the Commonwealth. That responsibility will be the efficient and economical operation of the Turnpike system; its reasonable and gradual integration with the regular state highways system; and the very difficult and most important duty of developing a plan for freeing the Turnpike system of tolls at the earliest possible date.

The conservators will not have an easy job.

The original Turnpike system was brilliantly conceived and economically sound. There is grave doubt that more recent extensions were so wisely planned, and based on present prospects, it is touch-and-go as to whether the Northeast extension will truly pay its way. Present default is prevented by what are in effect payments out of principal—the excess construction funds—which in itself is a scandalous evidence of miscalculation and mismanagement.

It must be our hope that the future administrators of the Turnpike system will be able to cope with the mistakes of past administrations. So that they may be better prepared to do so, this legislation proposes a new concept in management. The old way has diffuse responsibility. No one is the real chief executive. A strong chairman seizes the power. A weak chairman scatters it into the hands of a staff that has no central direction. The legal officer is independent of the attorney general.

In frankness, we must all admit that the job of Turnpike Commissioner, well paid and with 10 years of tenure, was used for political reward. It was a questionable system.

It is now proposed, under this legislation, that the members of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Board, the conservators whom I have mentioned, will serve without pay. There should be no political contention for the place. Instead, the Governor will be able to appoint six citizens of Pennsylvania with special abilities in such fields as finance, public administration, industrial management, personnel and labor policy, civil engineering—the skills which the directors of such an enterprise should have. They must be evenly divided in their party membership. The Secretary of Highways will be the seventh member, ex-officio.

One additional and compelling reason for a nonsalaried Board is this: no member of the Turnpike Board should have a personal interest in prolonging its life by a single day. The member should be dedicated to their own abolition.

The Board will name an Executive Director, who will be responsible for executing the policies it sets.

It may be pointed out that the proposal is similar to the system we have long accepted for the operation of Penn State University, the school districts of the State, and many successful public authorities.

The Board will be responsible for the salary schedules and personnel policies of the system; it will contract for maintenance services with the Department of Highways; it may let major repair and reconstruction contracts under competitive bidding; and, as long as tolls are in effect, it will set the rates, collect the money, and make its proper payments for operating costs and debt service.

It is not solely for the benefit of users of the present Turnpike system that we should press for the elimination of tolls and the use of the Turnpike as a free highway. That it would be desirable in itself goes without saying, but the great pressure to free the system comes from the fact that it cannot economically survive as a toll road without doing a grave injustice to the people of Pennsylvania. The continuance of tolls on the Turnpike system indefinitely will mean:

1. In the years to come, the great majority of the Nation's express highways will be free. They will be equal to or superior to the Pennsylvania Turnpike, which will be toll. We will be the victim of discrimination in the Nation's highway system.

2. Future highway planning and construction in Pennsylvania will be seriously hampered by the considerations which must be given the Turnpike's economic stability. If we protect the Turnpike from free highway competition from other cross-state routes, our industrial development and transportation opportunities will suffer. If we do not so protect the Turnpike, and build our highways system according to our true needs, the Turnpike itself may deteriorate to a dangerous degree due to lack of funds for maintaining its surface, adding to its lanes, and doubling its tunnels.

The dilemma is such that we must prepare ourselves for a course of action which will make free and equal all the major limited access highways in the Commonwealth.

This legislation opens two methods for that accomplishment.

The first is the best. It is the development of such a conclusive case as to points I have enumerated that we, and the other states with toll roads, will prevail on the Congress to bring them into the interstate system as free roads. Under such a plan, the outstanding bonds would be called in and paid off from the proceeds of Federal appropriations for 90 per cent and State appropriations for 10 per cent made available for the purpose.

In the event that such Federal action cannot be achieved, there is a second method which might be acceptable. Under this proposal, the Commonwealth's own Motor License Fund could finance the retirement of Turnpike debt under a lease agreement between the Highways Department and the Turnpike Board. The Turnpike system would then become, in effect, a freeway financed as a long-range capital improvement of the State's general highway program.

I do not think that we can allow this problem to drift much longer. It would seem to me that the General Assembly will appreciate its importance equally with the executive branch.

To sum it up, this carefully drawn and thoughtful legislation will:

1. Provide the Turnpike system with better management during the period of its remaining life as a toll road.

2. Give the system the benefit of nonpolitical direction.

3. Install a program of competitive bidding for the purchases and construction contracts of the system.

4. Build proper defenses now against the possibility of future defaults on Turnpike bonds.

5. Make the Turnpike free of tolls at the earliest practicable date, so that it can achieve its maximum usefulness as part of an integrated interstate highway system for use of the people of our Commonwealth and of the United States.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN P. SAYLOR WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair notes the presence of and welcomes to the Hall of the House the gentleman from Cambria County, the Honorable John P. Saylor, a Member of Congress.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 10 entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of March 7, 1901 (P. L. 20) entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class" providing for minority party representation in council.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Rigby.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman form Allegheny, Mr. Rigby, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RIGBY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he sincerely believes this type of legislation is good legislation?

Mr. RIGBY. Mr. Speaker, I certainly do believe this is good and I am sincere in wishing this legislation for the city of Pittsburgh.

Not only do I believe it is good legislation, but all three of the major newspapers in the city of Pittsburgh believe so also. If Mr. Kamyk would read the Pittsburgh newspapers, he would know that.

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, I do read the Pittsburgh newspapers. I do not always agree with them, although I agree with them most of the time.

Mr. RIGBY. Mr. Speaker, I will furnish the gentleman with copies of the editorials, if he would like to read them.

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman can save those for his debate. I want to ask him a couple of questions, if the Speaker will permit.

Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman think that similar legislation should be introduced for third class cities, boroughs and townships?

Mr. RIGBY. No, sir, Mr. Speaker, because the problems of the smaller cities are not similar to the city of Pittsburgh or the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. KAMYK. One further question, Mr. Speaker. I want to ask the gentleman if he knows that the League of Cities is opposed to this bill?

Mr. RIGBY. No, I do not know whether they are opposed to it and, furthermore I do not care.

Mr. KAMYK. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, House Bill 10 calls for an amendment to Section 1, Article XIV, of the Act of March 7, 1901, entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class."

This Act was Charter Act of the city of Pittsburgh. The bill under consideration provides that at each election of councilmen in the city of Pittsburgh there should be elected at least one councilman of the minority political party.

I call to your attention the fact that the history of bills introduced in this session of the Legislature does not include similar legislation affecting third class cities. boroughs and townshps. In the absence of such similar legislation, I can only conclude that this action by the sponsor of this bill is an attempt to deprive the citizens of Pittsburgh of their right to a free expression of their choice of councilmen.

The introduction of this bill certainly cannot be modified by the true belief that all municipalities should have minority representation in council or similar bills would have been introduced and acted upon in conjunction with House Bill 10.

Not all of the Members on the majority side agree with the sponsor of the bill. In evidence I offer the following that appeared in the Pittsburgh Press on Friday, February 1, 1957. I am quoting from the Press:

> GOP Leader Cites Flaw in Council Bill. Fears Plan Would Put Democrats On Borough Boards.
> A Sewickley Republican explained today why he is against a bill that would put some members of the GOP on Pittsburgh's now all-Democratic Council.
> "I heard the voice of the folks in my district," said State Representative Laurence V. Gibb, "and they don't want any changes in the present good government that we enjoy in the boroughs and townships."
> The paper right here was quoting Mr. Gibb.
> Now, there is no stronger or more outspoken Republican anywhere than Mr. Gibb. He would not be opposed to seeing some Republicans on Pittsburgh Council. In fact, he would shout "hurrah" if that event occcurred.
> But if it's right for the minority Republicans to be represented on Pittsburgh Council then it's equally right for minority Democrats to be represented on councils and commissions of the GOP boroughs and townships, reasons Mr. Gibb.
> The bill as now written by Rep. Joseph P. Rigby, Shadyside Republican, applies only to Pittsburgh.
> But Mr. Gibb fears that it may be amended on the floor of the House to apply to all cities, townships and boroughs. And he said he has been advised by many borough councilmen and Republican chairmen that they want him to keep on opposing the Rigby bill.

There are a few other remarks, but I do not want to take too much time of the House, so I will stop right here. This the end of the quote from the Pittsburgh Press.

Further, this bill should be opposed because this bill is wholly opposed to the home rule doctrine which has been debated in this House on many occasions and which has been proven to be favored by this body under this administration and under former administrations. Incidentally, the home rule doctrine is heavily favored by the League of Cities which is comprised of representatives from almost all of the municipalities and which concerns itself with the problems confronting the governments of such municipalities.

In evidence I offer the following that appeared in the Legislative News, Pennsylvania League of Cities. It appeared on February 1, 1957:

> SPECIAL ATTENTION. H. B. 10 (No. 9, Page 6 —Legislative News Letter, January 10, 1957). This bill provides for minority representation in City Council in Pittsburgh, (at least one member). The bill was reported out of committee and will be on first reading calendar in the House, Monday, February 4.
> "The provisions of the bill are in direct opposition to the Report of our Resolutions Committee, proposed and adopted by our Philadelphia Convention in December. Resolution No. 1 reaffirmed our support of the principle of HOME RULE. Sub-section (b) opposition to any legislative action in 'determining the political composition of local legislative bodies.' (See January 1957 League Magazine, page 20.)
> While the fact that H. B. 10 applies only to Pittsburgh, it could well be that similar legislation could be passed affecting all of our cities, if this attempt it successful.
> Your city should take immediate action to oppose the passage of H. B. 10. Advise your representatives in the House and the Majority and Minority leaders. The League office should be advised of your action to strengthen our position on Home Rule in the Legislature.

I urge the Members of this House to vote against the adoption of this bill, first, because it is bad legislation; second, because it is an attempt to deprive the citizens of the city of Pittsburgh of their constitutional right to free elections.

There is one other reason for opposing this bill which, in my opinion, transcends in importance the reasons already given and that is this: If the Members of the majority party in the House will act affirmatively at the request of one of the Members of this House solely because that Member, as in this case, the sponsor of the bill, requests such action with the result that a municipality whose government consists of membership of the opposition party shall be limited in the exercise of a free franchise, then this House will be establishing a precedent unheard of in democratic government anywhere. The net result, of course, will be that the government of every municipality of the Commonwealth will eventually become the absolute servant of the majority party in the Legislature, whether the majority party be Republican or Democrat.

I ask the Members of this House to oppose House Bill No. 10.

Mr. RIGBY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kamyk.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kamyk, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KAMYK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RIGBY. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the gentleman would tell me whether they have minority representation on the Board of County Commissioners in Allegheny County.

Mr. KAMYK. Yes they do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RIGBY. Would the gentleman be in favor of ripping that out?

Mr. KAMYK. That is a constitutional provision. It worked just as well as city council of the city of Pittsburgh did. I am not in favor of making any changes.

Mr. RIGBY. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the gentleman would support legislation that would set up councilmanic districts in the city of Pittsburgh so that we may set up a system similar to the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. KAMYK. I answered before I was satisfied with the councilmanic set up in Pittsburgh as it is.

Mr. RIGBY. I believe the gentleman would be.

Mr. Speaker, of course I introduced this legislation because I feel sincerely that it is very god legislation. It is a piece of legislation that is badly needed in the city of Pittsburgh, and I am not going to stand here and make a lengthy speech because I have in my hand editorials which have been printed in our Pittsburgh papers that very well gives the story. I would like to submit them for the record.

House Bill No. 10

Editorial Reprinted from the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Dissent at City Hall

A bill to put representatives of the minority party on Pittsburgh's City Council has survived the vote of a House committee in Harrisburg and now advances to a vote on the floor of the chamber. If only the bill could be considered on its essential merits, that is, as an aid to better government in Pittsburgh, it would pass both House and Senate handily.

But, unfortunately for Pittsburgh, the bill is a political lightning rod. It draws fiery bolts from the powerful and influential Democratic organization here, which doesn't want its total grip on City Hall weakened in the slightest. It draws angry sputters from Republican leaders of many boroughs and townships where the GOP enjoys one-party government: these leaders fear the precedent of requiring minority representation in a local government.

Politics aside, the bill makes sense. Complete one-party rule in both the executive and legislative offices of the State's second-biggest city, where annual budgets now run well into the forty millions, tends to remove government from the public. It certainly inhibits open debate. Any differences between the Mayor and his Councilmen are threshed out secretly, in what normally would be the equivalent of a party caucus. Where the Mayor and his Councilmen are of one party, and where party discipline is strong (as it surely is here), the secret caucus is the truly deliberative agency while the open Council meeting is simply a formal ratifying body.

There would be far more open debate in City Hall, and thus far more public interest in city government, if, as the bill in Harrisburg would ultimately require, two of the nine Councilmen were of the minority party. They would ask the nagging, nasty, and often needless questions that would keep the majority party on its toes. Given the enormous registration advantage that Democrats enjoy here, there's not much chance of having such nagging, nasty, and often needless questions asked unless minority representation is required on Council, as it has been on the County Board of Commissioners.

The minority-representation bill concerns only Pittsburgh. It deals with a demonstrated need in the governing of one of the nation's foremost industrial centers. Can't the lawmakers in Harrisburg put politics aside and meet this need by passing the bill?

THE PITTSBURGH PRESS AND THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH also have commented favorably upon this Bill and have urged its passage.

Editorial Reprinted from the Pittsburgh Press, January 21, 1957.

MINORITY COUNCILMEN?

An effort will be made next week in Harrisburg to get committee approval in the State House of Representatives of a bill that would provide for minority representation in Pittsburgh's City Council.

The idea has merit. The way our city politics works, city government usually is a one-party affair. There was a time, many years ago, when it was all Republican. For some years now, it has been all Democratic.

It would be in the interests of good government to have some provision for minority representation in the city's law-making arm. A vigorous minority would be a check against arbitrary action by the majority; it would also give the minority party a look-see at the machinery of city government and a better chance to develop policies to present to the voters.

A good city administrative need fear no such minority in Council. Its actions are bound to be reviewed in time, in any event—by the voters in the final analysis. A poor, or indifferent city administration might have reason to fear a Council minority—but that's just where such minority representation can be of great service to the voters.

The principle of minority representation is followed in our county government—and the excellence of Allegheny County's government has been remarked for years. The fact that one of our three County Commissioners is a member of the minority party hasn't disrupted county business—in fact, it has strengthened it.

Minority representation has been provided for Philadelphia's City Council under that city's new charter.

The proposal of Rep. Joseph P. Rigby, Shadyside Republican, to extend minority representation to Pittsburgh may have a chance of passage through the present Legislature, in which Republicans hold majorities in both the House and Senate.

Under present-day conditions, minority representation would favor the Republicans by opening up to them seats in Council. Under other conditions, it would help the Democrats.

But regardless of partisanship the proposal is in the interests of the people, giving them an additional safeguard in the conduct of their municipal business.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Rigby.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Rigby, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RIGBY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READING. Mr. Speaker, I have been interrupted somewhat in listening to the debate on this, but I would like to inquire whether the gentleman has explained the meaning of the amendment that was put into this bill on second reading.

Mr. RIGBY. Yes, Mr. Speaker. The amendment was suggested by my colleague, Mr. Goldstein, in which the minority party would have to have at least 35 percent of the registered vote at the past general election.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, as I read the bill, in order to have a minority representative, the minority party must have had at least 25 percent of the registered electors of that city at the previous election.

Mr. RIGBY. I think the gentleman has an old copy of the bill, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I am looking at Printer's No. 96. Is there a later Printer's number?

Mr. RIGBY. There should be, Mr. Speaker. The amendments called for 25 percent of the registration of the last general election.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman explain why that amendment was put in?

Mr. RIGBY. Well, very frankly we are trying to get a few votes for it, trying to soften them up.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman how many councilmen they have on the council in the city of Pittsburgh?

Mr. RIGBY. We have nine men serving on it Mr. Speaker. I would not call them all councilmen.

Mr. READINGER. And 25 percent would be at least one-fourth, would it not?

Mr. RIGBY. That is right.

Mr. READINGER. Does the gentleman believe it is proper to ask for minority representation and then allow them only one for 25 percent or better?

Mr. RIGBY. Of course we wanted two, not one.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask whether the amendment was put in for the purpose of securing votes from some district that would be adversely affected if this amendment had not been put in?

Mr. RIGBY. Well, of course, it was put in to get votes wherever we might be able to get them, naturally. I am not objecting to any votes, of course. I do not know whether you know the registration in the city of Pittsburgh or not.

Mr. READINGER. Does the gentleman believe that 15 percent of the minority party should be deprived of a minority representative under his bill?

Mr. RIGBY. No. I believe the Republican party, which has in round figures 100,000 registered voters, certainly should have some representation in the city of Pittsburgh. I do not know whether you are aware of the fact or not, but we do not even have debate in our city council.

Mr. READINGER. Did I understand the gentleman a while ago, Mr. Speaker, when he was being interrogated to say that he is in favor of having minority representation in all of the boroughs in Allegheny County?

Mr. RIGBY. Oh no, the gentleman did not hear that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, in view of several poorly answered questions given during the course of this debate, I am thoroughly convinced that this bill needs a great deal more study.

Therefore I move that the bill be recommitted to the Committee from which it emanated for further study and possible amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to inquire before the motion is put if the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr.Goldstein, desires to debate the bill or the motion?

Mr. GLODSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to debate the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield for a moment?

Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, withdraw his motion temporarily to permit the gentleman to debate the bill?

Mr. READINGER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I only rise because the Minority Leader raised the question as to the reason for the insertion of the 25 percent.

It was my idea and it was for this reason, there may be a time when either party would have only a very small percentage of the vote, three, or four, or five percent. Under those circumstances, being in the nature of a "spinter part," I felt that it would be unfair that a party, whether it be Republican or Democrat, would have minority representation.

I am hoping for the day when we get back to the Republcans having 98 percent and the Democrats having two percent in Pittsburgh. Under those circumstances we would not want the Democrats to have minority representation.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I want to commend the gentleman from Allegheny for his frank admission that if the shoe was on the other foot he would not want any changes.

Mr. Speaker, this is "crybaby legislation," Simply "crybaby legislation." If my party or your party cannot control and elect a full councilmanic ticket, then the thing to do is to come down and have the Pennsylvania House and Senate pass a bill doing something that the people at home do not want done.

It has been pointed out that as times change control of the General Assembly changes. When the Republicans are in control, they enact this kind of legislation, and if the time comes perhaps when the other party is in control, they enact "crybaby legislation."

I am distinctly of the opinion that the people in Pittsburgh, not the Members of this House from all parts of the Commonwealth, are quite competent to determine who should be the members of their council. The party should put up a ticket, both parties, and then be content to abide by the result. If we start "crybaby legislation," we are not likely to see the end of it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Cities—Counties—First—Second and Second Class A for the purpose of further study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. RIGBY and ANDREWS and were as follows:

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 269 Printer's No. 134

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 317, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1913 (P. L. 155) entitled "An act regulating the letting of certain contracts for the erection construction and alternation of public buildings" further regulating the letting of such contracts.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a brief statement with reference to this bill.

During the past week the Electrical Contractors under the leadership of Paul Gary, who is the Executive Officer of the national office of the Electrical Contractors, has been in conference with the Associated General Contractors. They have been discussing the heart of this very bill and they have been endeavoring to reach a conclusion in which both the General Contractors and the Electrical Contractors will agree upon a program.

I have been informed, but I do not have the official information, that the Electrical Contractors have agreed to the general principle which this bill exemplifies.

Therefore, until we can obtain accurate information as to the results of those conferences, I would like to move that this bill be placed upon the Third Reading Postponed Calendar.

As soon as we have obtained information from Mr. Gary as to just what the agreement was, we will call the bill from the calendar.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on third reading postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 369, Printer's No. 110,

House Bill No. 370, Printer's No. 111, and

House Bill No. 371, Printer's No. 112,

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 381, entitled as follows:

An Act fixing fees to be received by the prothonotary in counties of the first class and providing for the time of payment.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 161, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of December 27, 1951 (P. L. 1742) entitled as amended * * * requiring the Department of Revenue to appoint the recorder of deeds in each county as an agent for the sale of tax stamps.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire who amended this bill last week? I have forgotten.

Mr. LAFORE. Mr. Speaker, my colleague from Montgomery, Mr. Jones, amended the bill and in his absence I will try to answer for him if the gentleman has any questions.

Mr. READINGER. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Lafore.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Lafore, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LAFORE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell the House why it was deemed necessary last week to amend this bill to give recorders of deeds the privilege of declining to act as agents for the Department of Revenue in issuing these sales stamps?

Mr. LAFORE. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that in certain small counties with a very minimum of real estate transactions it would not be profitable for them to accept this commission.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman for his honest answer.

Mr. Speaker, I think we should vote against this bill. In the first place it is a purely political ripper bill.

Our Secretary of Revenue now has the privilege of selecting in every county the persons he thinks should issue these real estate tax stamps. So now we impose upon him the duty of appointing all recorders of deeds and we give him no choice.

On the other hand, as the gentleman has so honestly stated a minute ago, if is is not profitable for a recorder of deeds to issue these stamps, the poor Secretary of Revenue has to go looking around the county to find somebody who will do it at his own loss. I suppose that would have to be a Democrat. Surely you could not get a Republican to volunteer to serve for a Democratic Secretary of Revenue at a loss.

I think this bill should not have been reported out and should be soundly defeated as being against good government.

Mr. LAFORE. Mr. Speaker, I must wholeheartedly disagree with the gentleman from Berks. I think he will be the first to agree with me that if a bill is in the public interest and alleviates hardships and inconvenience, particularly on the members of his profession, it should pass regardless of the fact that there are a few isolated instances where the recorder of deeds would not accept this assignment because it was not practical.

I think in the great majority of cases the recorder of deeds would accept it willingly and thus make it a lot easier for the public, and particularly lawyers, to obtain the stamps in connection with the recording of deeds in the same office, instead of making it necessary to go in many cases outside of the court house and get the stamps at some distant place.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman one further question?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Lafore, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LAFORE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman inform us in how many counties the recorder of deeds is not now authorized to issue these stamps as agent for the Secretary of Revenue and which counties those may be?

Mr. LAFORE. Mr. Speaker, I can only say that some months ago in my county of Montgomery, also in Delaware, and I believe in several others, the Secretary of Revenue removed this privilege from the recorder of deeds and placed it in an outside agency's hands. There may have been many others, but I am not familiar with them.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask how far removed from the normal place of recording these agents are established?

Mr. LAFORE. It is outside of the court house in Montgomery, I am not sure of the exact location.

Mr. READINGER. It is in the city of Norristown?

Mr. LAFORE. I believe so.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

My argument still goes, I do not believe this is a good bill.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman state whether he has information as to why the sale of stamps in 1955, I believe it was, was removed from the recorder of deeds in Delaware county to agencies outside of Delaware county?

Mr. READINGER. I had no knowledge of the fact that that was done. I cannot answer the question.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, in support of this bill I would like to call the attention of the House to the fact that when the sale of the state stamps—that is the real estate transfer stamps—were removed from sale in the office for the recording of deeds in and for the County of Delaware, there was no agency in the county of Delaware that had these stamps for sale. They had to be obtained outside the county or through a title company. I know that from personal experience. It was quite a hardship.

Presently there is a state agency operating in the County of Delaware at the distance of some blocks from the court house where a taxpayer can walk and can buy stamps.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I urge that the sale of these stamps be placed where the deeds are recorded, in the office for the recording of deeds.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, we fortunately have a recorder of deeds in Cambria County, I think we are going to keep him, and so I think I will support this bill.

Mr. MOSCRIP. Mr. Speaker, we have had this both ways in Bradford County, in the hands of a private agency and in the hands of the recorders. We found a great deal of inconvenience to the people when it was not in the recorder's office.

For one reason, the hours when the stamps were sold were different from the court house. If you happened to close late in the afternoon, very often the papers would have to lay over a day, or perhaps a weekend, before stamps could be secured. It was particularly difficult for people who came to record their papers without lawyers who had to go to two places. Perhaps they would be late and they would have to wait until they came to town the next week.

It is much better and much easier for the public as it is now, in the hands of the recorders, where they can buy everything in one place. If the public has any questions, the deputies in the office can answer them. I think this is a good bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, this bill as it was originally written, I think, was a good bill in that it made it mandatory for the Secretary of Revenue to appoint a recorder of deeds as tax agent.

I certainly agree with the gentleman from Montgomery County, Mr. Lafore, that the sole consideration here is the convenience of the public. I also agree with Mr. Moscrip, but this is not making it mandatory on the part of the recorder of deeds to accept that agency. It gives him discretion and I think it, therefore, is a bad bill. If it were mandatory that the recorder accept the agency, I think I would be glad to vote for it. This is again going to be a political football, and I am going to vote against it.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, the Minority Leader has called this bill "ripper legislation." I want to say to the ladies and gentlemen of this House in the County of Delaware the effects of ripper legislation were accomplished but it certainly was not done by an Act of Assembly but by the present administration at the state Capitol.

I am going to ask the ladies and gentlemen on both sides of this House to support this legislation.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, it is not too often that I agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, but in this case I do. As I said before, there is the old axiom that you cannot have your cake and eat it too. If you are making a thing mandatory, if it is as good as the proponents of the bill say it is, and I agree with them whole-heartedly, then I do not think a recorder of deeds of any county should have the right to decline that appointment. There has not been pointed out one instance on which it could work a hardship on any recorder of deeds to sell these stamps. I am sure no recorder of deeds would be put to any hardship or very little expense, if any, that he would not be more than compensated for by selling these stamps. Therefore, unless the sponsor of the bill agrees to re-amend it to put it in the present form, I am going to be forced to vote against it much as I hate to do so.

Mr. LAFORE. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the very fact that the recorder of deeds would not accept this assignment shows that his volume of business is of such minimum that it would not be working a hardship or inconvenience on a very great segment of the population of his county.

Therefore, I should think in the great majority of counties the recorder of deeds would accept it, and by virtue of that fact would eliminate the hardship which is now being imposed upon the public by virtue of having to go to another location to procure these stamps.

I think further it might be of interest, particularly to the minority leader, to know that these amendments were suggested by the Secretary of Revenue in the Cabinet of the Governor, and so I would say they were administration amendments.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether the gentleman's last statement is correct or not. I assume it is since he makes it, but I would follow by saying the Secretary of Revenue is not the repository of all wisdom either.

All this bill is doing is saying we are going to let the individual recorders decide to inconvenience the public or the Secretary of Revenue and I would rather have it be the Secretary of Revenue so we can put our fingers right on where it is coming from if somebody is going to be inconvenienced.

I agree with Mr. McCormack in saying if you had not amended this bill last week—and I argued against the amendments then—it would not have been too bad a bill. But the way it is now, it is just no good. If the gentleman thinks he is going to accomplish anything by transferring the right to inconvenience the public from one person to a group of other persons, then I cannot follow his reasoning.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I come from a small county, a sixth class county, in which the recorder of deeds has served in that capacity for a great number of years. Over the years since I have been here in Harrisburg, this has been one of his pet gripes. He has always wanted to get out from under this particular obligation which he feels is not compensatory in a proper manner.

I think the fee is one-tenth of one percent on the tax stamps they handle.

I would, in all fairness, like to see it go back. The deeds have to be recorded in that office, and I think the attorneys, rightfully so who handle the deeds, should be able to negotiate their business and purchase their stamps from the recorder of deeds of that county. Whether or not he wants to be the agent, he holds the public office wherein the people who deal with this matter are important.

I would like to say in a great many rural counties, this is not profitable. There is very little real estate that is transferred in a year in that office. The tax stamp sales are very light, but I think it is a service we owe to the people of that county and particularly to the profession which handles the deeds that have to be recorded.

I wonder if the gentleman from Montgomery would consider amending this bill back to its original form, and have it state that the recorder of deeds has to do this, he shall have no alternative, so that many of us from the rural counties, who want to support this bill, can vote for it.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I think this bill in its original form was all right. This is one of the times when we should recommit a bill and send it back to committee. I think the committee should study this bill and decide whether those amendments which were offered on the floor were good amendments, or whether those amendments, since they have been offered on the floor, have to be taken out on the floor. Would the Speaker please inform me as to that?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman repeat his question?

Mr. LOVETT. Amendments which have been made on the floor of the House and put into a bill, must they be taken out on the floor of the House rather than in committee?

The SPEAKER. They must be taken out on the floor of the House.

Mr. LOVETT. They must be taken out on the floor of the House? Then I would request that we pass this bill over and give the gentleman an opportunity to take the amendments out of this bill and leave it in its original form.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, reading the language in the bill and hearing the comments in this debate, I fail to find any mandatory order upon the recorder of deeds to accept an appointment made by the Secretary of Revenue.

The bill says the Secretary of Revenue "shall appoint," but there is nothing in the bill which says that the recorder of deeds must accept the appointment. I doubt whether a real, literal interpretation of the bill would require the recorder of deeds to accept the appointment as a transfer stamp agent.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Stroup.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Stroup, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to ask the gentleman the reason for the amendment, then?

Mr. STROUP. I cannot answer that question, Mr. Speaker. That is why I made my suggestion. That is why I interpret the bill the way I have. Originally it was a "may" bill as far as the Secretary of Revenue was concerned. When it was originally written and amended in this session, the words say the Secretary of Revenue "shall appoint." I still maintain under that language the recorder is not required to accept the appointment. Therefore, I doubt the wisdom of the amendment as it is.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman, how would we make it mandatory other than by the use of the word "shall?"

Mr. STROUP. I think if the language read, "The department shall appoint the recorder of deeds in each county and recorder must accept said appointment," it would then be mandatory.

Mr. READINGER. I regret having to speak again on this subject, but I would like to differ with Chief Justice Stroup.

If we impose upon the Secretary of Revenue the duty to appoint a certain individual who is also holding office by virtue of the laws of this Commonwealth, there should be a corresponding duty to accept. There should not be any privilege of rejecting, because if that were the case then we would be telling the Secretary of Revenue to do something and nobody would be there to receive the something he had to do. Therefore, nobody. absolutely nobody, would be authorized to issue these stamps.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, it has always been my impression and understanding of the interpretation of language that the question of appointment still leaves open the question of acceptance of said appointment. However, I shall bow to the greater legal knowledge of the gentleman from Berks and concede that it is a debatable question.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1957. No. 26.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 19, 1957

The Senate met at 1:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Robert D. Fleming) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At the request of the President pro tempore of the Senate, the Honorable M. Harvey Taylor, the Chair is presiding at today's Session.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend Doctor FERDINAND DERK, Pastor of the First Methodist Church, Shickshinny, offered the following prayer:

May we unite our hearts in prayer.

Lord of all being, we acknowledge Thee as the giver of every good. Our lives find their source in Thine. Every moment our strength is renewed from Thy bounty. Our spirits continually rejoice in ever-brightening hope and expectation. Even death cannot frighten us for we are sons of the living God.

Thanks be to Thee, O gracious Father, for Thy constant care, for friends and companionship, for work and play, for love and joy, for home and Country, for liberty and justice.

We join with all Thy servants today who lift their hearts and voices in grateful praise to Thee. We pray for our land and Country. Let Thy wisdom so guide in its affairs that more and more they may serve Thy will. Lift our citizenship to the plane of holy living after the pattern of Jesus, and use us for the glory of Thy Name, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. MAHANY and Mr. WADE, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

STUDENTS FROM ST. THOMAS HIGH SCHOOL, BOROUGH OF BRADDOCK, ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, it is my pleasure this afternoon to present to the Senate a delegation of thirty students from St. Thomas High School, in the Borough of Braddock, Allegheny County. They are students of American History, and they are accompanied today by Sister Rosaire and Sister Eunice.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair welcomes the visitors from Allegheny County, and hopes that your stay here will be both interesting and informative.

STUDENTS FROM HANNAH PENN JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL, YORK, PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, it is an unusual pleasure for me today to introduce to this Senate a group of students who are here, because this particular group of students, gentlemen, are students from the Hannah Penn Junior High School of which I have the honor to serve as principal. They are brought here by four members of the faculty of that school, led by the teacher of ninth grade civics at the Hannah Penn Junior High School, whose name is Harry A. Seyler and who is my son.

Therefore, Mr. President, it is with a great deal of pleasure that I introduce these students to you.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair, on behalf of the Senate, certainly welcomes the guests of Senator Seyler. We are, indeed, happy that you are able to be here and see in operation one of the outstanding Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, your own Senator, Senator Seyler.

INTERROGATION

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, in order that these students might further see in operation their own Senator, Senator Seyler, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Senator Seyler.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SEYLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator Seyler, in order for your students to observe how you answer questions, I would like to ask you whether or not you carried out the mission that I assigned to you last week, by going over to the Attorney General's office and asking him whether or not he thought that the contract between the Department of Welfare and various individuals was constitutional and in accordance with our law?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I will be very happy to give that answer in just a moment.

Mr. President, last Wednesday, the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany, asked this question. I subsequently found out that, although he presented this question in his usual ingenuous and naive style, he had been in a previous conference and, as a matter of fact, already knew the answer to the question. Mr. President, this is, I think, what is known as a lawyer's trick and I think it is considered a very clever one, particularly in the northwestern and more remote regions of the Commonwealth. However, I do not mind answering the question even at that.

Mr. President, I have gone to the Attorney General. The question that Senator Mahany asked me to ask the Attorney General was whether Exhibit No. 5 of this report, which we received from Secretary Shapiro, was illegal. Just to refresh your memory, Exhibit No. 5 is an agreement drawn between one Donald Armsby—it serves as a sample of all the agreements made by the Department of Welfare—and the department so that the said Donald Armsby, as a student, pledged himself, in return for receiving certain sums, to continue to be employed by the department after graduation in the special field for which he was being trained.

The answer from the Attorney General amounts to this, Mr. President. There is nothing illegal, because no illegal action is involved. The agreement itself is better described, I think, as perhaps incomplete. It certainly did not relate the true status of the said Donald Armsby or the other gentlemen involved under the same type of agreement. They were, as a matter of fact, already employees of the Commonwealth.

It has been the policy of the department, I am told, since about 1943, to have certain young men and young women, who select this type of work, to be employed by the department and, at the same time, go to school and learn to better practice the arts and sciences of which their particular specified job is composed. Up to comparatively recently, Mr. President, these persons were employees because they were attached to a certain State institution, and during the time they were not actually engaged in going to school, they were working at that institution. Recently, as you know, the Secretary has attempted to greatly extend that program and with the encouragement of the Legislature, by legislation which we passed in the 1955 Session, he has had increased funds for this purpose and has, therefore, found that arrangement no longer serviceable. Therefore, these persons have been serving as employees, but not attached to any particular institution. However, they are assigned to institutions as the need and opportunity is indicated.

In drawing up this agreement, on the face of it, it seemed to violate Article III, Section 10, of the Constitution, as you know. However, it did not, in fact, violate it because these persons were being employed in exactly the same way as they previously had been. It was simply that the form of the contract was incomplete, and I think the Attorney General, at one point, used the expression "inartfully drawn." I can tell you, therefore, that I do not feel there was anything illegal about it. The same type of in-service training, in addition to being used in the Department of Welfare, is used in the State Police; it is used in the Department of Public Assistance.

However, Mr. President, I would say to you that we have now—and when I say we, I mean the department—instituted a new form which correctly states the relationship of the employee to the department and which is taking the place of these incomplete and inadequate forms. I have a copy of that, and I would like to send it over to Senator Mahany so that he can look this over. I would like to have Senator Mahany's expert opinion. His opinion does not necessarily have to be given on the floor, but sometime when we can get together privately, I would like to know whether he feels that this new form, drawn by the Department of Justice, is an adequate one. In the opinion of the Attorney General, it is.

That, in brief, Mr. President, is my answer.

Mr. MAHANY. In the first place, Mr. President, I do not think that was a very brief answer. I wonder what kind of a mark the pupils who are here today would give the professor on such a long answer to such a simple question.

Mr. President, the contract was not incomplete; it was just in error. Evidently, it was illegal. Senator Seyler tried to skirt around that word and not use it. He tried instead to use the words "incomplete and inadequate." By putting in as a word of description relative to these people that they were prospective employees, that made the contract illegal. Now that Senator Seyler has found out that I had a conference with the Attorney General before I talked to him, and the Attorney General did tell me that, and we concurred that by referring to these people as prospective employees, that in itself would make this contract illegal because under the Constitution we are not allowed to pay State funds to anyone who is not an employee.

Now, Mr. President, this thing has been fixed up. I do not know whether they fixed up the contract or whether they fixed up the arrangement, but evidently now they have recognized the fact that the former contract was illegal and that is the reason now why Mr. McBride has drawn another contract. Is that not true, Senator?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I do not agree with the gentleman's analysis of the situation at all. I bow to the gentleman's learned status in the law and I have often found him to be a philosopher, but I cannot allow him to give me lessons in semantics. A thing is either so or it is not so. There was nothing illegal involved here and, therefore, there was no illegality.

If the relationship of the employee to the Commonwealth had been an illegal one, in violation of Article III, Section 10, then there would have been something illegal. There was no such illegality.

I pointed out to the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany, that exactly the same relationship between the department and employees has existed since 1943, and there has been no question of any illegality. If Senator Mahany prefers to call it an error, I will accept it as an error. I said it was an incompleteness, but there was an error in drawing up the agreement because it did not accurately and adequately describe the relationship between the Commonwealth and the prospective person who was going to sign the agreement. Since it did not correctly describe that relationship, it was an incorrect agreement. However, to my mind, and I think this is the opinion of the Attorney General, there was no illegality inasmuch as the real relationship which existed, no matter what you put down on paper, was a legal one. Therefore, there was no illegality, but simply a lawyer's error in drawing up the agreement.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

CALENDAR

HOUSE BILL No. 337 CALLED UP

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call up, from Page 2 of today's Final Passage Calendar, House Bill No. 337, Printer's No. 160.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

FINAL PASSAGE CALENDAR

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of House Bill No. 337, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228) entitled as amended "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act" eliminating provisions which would reduce the rate of the tax and the use of prepaid tax receipts changing and clarifying certain definitions making further exemptions changing the procedure for the collection of the tax and the administration of the act and providing appeals.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, will Senator Kessler submit to an interrogation to clear up a few points on the tax bill on which he has worked so long and diligently?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Kessler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KESSLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Senator, do you interpret the words "exploring and mining" to include mineral development?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, during our Conference Committee Report last year on House Bill No. 2101, it was the intent of the committee to exempt all phases of the mining industry. We did not want to put coal in a bad light with respect to other communities. It seems to me that if we intended to exempt exploring, which we mention here and the mining itself, then mineral development, which I understand is preparing the mine for operation, certainly should be exempt. In fact, it is necessary in order to, as we say in the definition of a manufacturer, place personal property in a form or composition or character different from that in which it was acquired.

I certainly think it was the intent of the Conference Committee to exempt that phase of mining.

Mr. WALKER. Senator, is "exploring and mining" to include such activities in mining as may be required by Federal and State laws and regulations?

Mr. KESSLER. Would you mind repeating that, Senator Walker?

Mr. WALKER. Do you interpret the word "exploring and mining" to include such activities in mining as may be required by Federal and State laws and regulations?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, it seems to me that if the Federal government or the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania insists upon certain parts of equipment or establishes certain requirements before mining of coal will be permitted, then certainly those items ought to be exempt from taxation. I refer to such things as ventilating fans, the rock dust that is used to settle the coal dust to prevent explosions, the signal systems that are required and other safety devices that are essential; otherwise the mine would not be permitted to run. It seems to me they are directly used and, therefore, should be exempt in the production of coal.

Mr. WALKER. Senator Kessler, one more question. Coal is not specifically mentioned in any of the taxable categories. Is coal construed to be a home, business, industrial or commercial supply, in your interpretation of categories 4 and 5?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, the present sales and use tax is built up on a category system which means that unless an item is mentioned in a category, it is not subject to tax. We specifically excluded in the Conference Committee discussions any reference to coal in the categories, because it was not our intention to tax coal.

If any interpretation were to be made that home supplies or industrial supplies, I believe you said, and commercial supplies were to include coal, it would be contrary, I am sure, to the intent of the Conference Committee and this General Assembly. In fact, during these amendments to House Bill No. 337, we considered putting a specific exemption in to remove coal from any possibility of tax.

I would like to make one further comment about coal and that has to do primarily with our largest competitor in the soft coal industry, West Virginia. West Virginia does not tax anything that is used directly or indirectly in the extraction of mineral resources from the earth. West Virginia, I believe, is our largest competitor with respect to coal. They have a sales tax in West Virginia, but they interpret it differently with respect to coal.

Mr. WALKER. Thank you, Senator Kessler.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, we are now considering the bill that is calculated to raise almost fifty per cent of the needs of the State or, let us say, about forty per cent. One of the main objections to a sales tax is that not only does it bear heavily upon people who are least able to pay, but it sets up a system whereby the State of Pennsylvania has 300,000 collectors to collect the tax from businesses, ranging from a large department store to a small corner store. We know that where you have a system of 300,000 collectors, there are bound to be leaks no matter how efficient the administration. Personally, I feel that if we could divide the same tax and place it at a level other than your retail store and thereby reduce the number of collectors from 300,000 to possibly 10,000, this State would probably gain possibly $100,000,000 in two years' revenue in better collections.

However, Mr. President, we have the bill as it is, with all its 300,000 collectors. Nevertheless there are situations where the bill is not clear. You take the construction industry, for example. Our Department of Revenue has found it difficult to collect this tax in all instances, because there is an uncertainty as to when a building contractor is a consumer, in which event he would pay the tax. The same situation exists when he is a seller, in which event the purchaser from him would pay the tax.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am presenting an amendment to clarify this situation. In other words, this amendment would spell out when a building contractor is a consumer and subject to the tax, and when he is not a consumer and, therefore, not subject to the tax.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would call to the attention of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Silvert, that the bill is on Final Passage and if it is his desire to offer amendments, it will be necessary that he make a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed Third Reading and then ask for unanimous consent to present his amendments at that time.

RECONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL No. 337

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 337 passed third reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. How did the Senator Vote?

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

AMENDMENTS OFFERED

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 1, by inserting after "(C)"; "and"; Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 2 and 3, by striking out "Clause (j) and paragraphs (11) and (17) of clause (1)"; Amend bill, page 7, by inserting between lines 3 and 4: "Section 1.1 Clause (h) of section 2 of the act, added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), is amended by adding at the end, a new paragraph to read: "Section 2. Definitions.—The following words, terms and phrases when used in this act shall have the meaning ascribed to them in this section, except where the context clearly indicates a different meaning: * * *

"(h) 'Resale.' * * * "(3) The transfer of ownership, custody or possession of awnings, blinds, window screens, prefabricated cabinets (other than bathroom cabinets and cabinet sinks), appliances, machinery, equipment, lockers and storm windows and doors in conjunction with an undertaking to install such property. * * * "Section 1.2. Clause (j) and paragraphs (11) and (17) of clause (1) of section 2 of the act, added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), are amended to read:"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 12, by inserting between lines 2 and 3: "Notwithstanding any other provision of this act, the term "sale at retail" shall include any transfer for a consideration of the ownership, custody or possession of materials and supplies to be incorporated or installed by the purchaser (either directly or through an agent) into a building, structure, highway, pavement, or other improvement to real estate. For the purpose only of this paragraph, the term "materials and supplies" shall include, but not be limited to the following tangible personal property: "(1) All property which when combined with other property becomes an integral part of a completed building, structure or improvement to real estate. (2) Electric wiring, fixtures and associated circuit control equipment. (3) Protective and decorative coatings. (4) Road construction materials. (5) Pipes, valves, pipe fittings, plumbing accessories and fixtures. (6) Air conditioning equipment which becomes an integral part of a central cooling system of a structure, and which is intended to become a permanent installation, and is particularly adapted to the premises for this purpose."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, under the present sales tax act, the Department of Revenue recognizes the contractor as the consumer. Therefore, it becomes incumbent upon he contractor to pay taxes on just about everything that goes into the house. I think it would be a lot better, and would allow the department to police the sales tax much easier, if we leave the law as it now is written.

Therefore, Mr. President, I oppose these amendments.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, in reply to Senator Mahany, I think the amendments were probably prepared by the Department of Justice. I think that department is better fitted to make that decision than Senator Mahany.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I would like to say to Senator Barr that this is the first time I have known the Department of Justice prepared the amendments which Senator Silvert sponsored. However, I still feel that the present act, as far as these particular items are concerned, is being administered with a certain amount of certainty and I do not want to disturb that.

Mr. DENT. Mr .President, for the moment I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Silvert, who desires the floor.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, may I read a short statement which was given to me by the department?

"Under the present regulations, a contractor is considered to be a consumer in most cases. These regulations were written in a form acceptable to the construction industry and in a form consistent with proper and economic administration of the law, but it is possible that a court might determine that a contractor is, for instance, the vendor, rather than the consumer of a toilet he purchases for installation into a building. Such determination would result in bonanzas in the form of tax refunds to construction contractors who previously paid tax and included such tax as an element of cost in construction contracts. In addition, such determination would result in substantial dislocations and confusion in the construction industry.

"It is also possible that road construction contractors would be in a position to receive refunds of millions of dollars which they paid in sales tax on road construction materials. This amendment will clarify just when a contractor is a consumer on when he is a vendor, and thus alleviate the present, precarious and dangerous situation, which makes it impossible for the Department of Revenue to write any regulation pertaining to the construction industry with a certainty that such regulations would be upheld in the courts."

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, will the Clerk please read the page and the section to which this amendment applies?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Clerk will again read the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amend Bill, page 7, by inserting between lines 3 and 4: "Section 1.1"—

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, Senator Mahany said that he thought it would be best if this were left as the Act was written, because they have arrived at some kind of a program over in the Department of Revenue. Does Senator Mahany realize that we are amending an amendment? The Act is not the same today as it was when originally placed on the books. This Act was amended by Senate amendments. We are trying to amend that amendment because of the extra confusion that has been added by the amendment inserted by the Senate.

Incidentally, if I read right, Senator Mahany not too long ago said this: "Too many uncertainties in the present law," he said, "would be eliminated if all the exemptions were spelled out to the letter." That is exactly what the Attorney General is attempting to do by these amendments. I might say that all of the amendments which we will offer today have been compiled by the Department of Justice, working with the Department of Revenue, and the amendments, outside of the ones that I will call specific attention to, are remedial amendments aimed at taking what Senator Mahany calls the "confusion" out of the administration of this bill. They are not intended to hurt anybody or to add or subtract from the revenue, only as that revenue is incidental to good administration.

I believe that it is a blind policy being followed on the other side to defeat all of these amendments. The amendments, themselves, have noting to do with putting more tax on or taking more tax off of anybody. I believe that we should consider the amendments as to their merits and not as to their sponsorship.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, it is true that I did say a week or so ago that I felt we should make the exemptions certain. I also suggested at that time that we have a general sales tax and spell out the exemptions and that if we decide to have a general sales tax, we should spell out the exemptions and be articulate about them. However, contrary to what Senator Dent says, this is not an amendment to the amendment. Since we have not affected the present law by our amendments, then the present law stands, and this particular part of the present law has not been affected by the amendments which we have placed in House Bill No. 337 which are underlined, and, as Senator Dent knows, set out and set apart the amendments from the present law.

I also feel that most of the Senators want to act upon this bill today. Perhaps there will be another chance to vote on remedies in the Act. We may do that by presenting another bill to amend the sales tax. At that time, perhaps, we can spell out some of these things. However, I feel that it is necessary for us to act on this bill and send it over to the House for concurrence. Perhaps the House will not concur in it; I do not know whether or not they will concur. I hope they do. If they do, then at a later date we may then consider some amendments to the sales tax which are not incorporated in this bill.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, this Act does not go into effect until May 31. Does the Majority Leader intend to leave the impression that it is good legislation even if it is bad? Does he mean that they must get this bill through now, regardless of whether it is in good form or not? Why the haste? What is the rush? Are we afraid that we have opened the door to only certain individuals and certain interests in the State, and that unless we rush the bill through and get it from the calendar, the heavy pressures from those who have had the door slammed in their faces, when they asked for amendments, might become too much for the Senators to stand? If it is a bill arrived at with cool, calm deliberation, why need we be afraid of keeping it on the calendar where it can be worked upon? Why do we have to spend thousands of dollars to present a new bill later on, to amend out of this particular bill sections which we know are wrong today? It just does not make sense. It is not the type of operation that this Senate is accustomed to performing, and I am very much disturbed over this rush on this particular bill; especially with the admission that there will be another bill to correct that which is wrong in this bill.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, there is no use in continuing with this kind of debate, because Senator Dent tries to twist what I say into what he thinks he would like to have me say. I certainly did not say that we would have another bill. If we decide that there are some inaccuracies or something which needs to be cleared up, then we may present another bill .

Mr. President, we feel that the present law is certain relative to these things that go into houses. The department has ruled that the contractors are the consumers. The department looks to the consumers for the payment of the tax on the various things which they buy to install in houses. There has been no showing that there is a need for any change in the present law. That is the reason we oppose this amendment.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment? I want to hold a side-bar conference with my attorney.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, now that I have been advised by my counselor, I wonder if the Senate recognizes the fact that this amendment does not deal only with house building, but it deals very easily in the broad sense of contractor-consumer relationship in this particular bill, as it is now written. It is true that there have been some regulations which have clarified the situation in so far as utilities going into homes, and appliances that might be put into a newly constructed home, but there is still a very grave concern on the part of the Revenue Department as to the relationship between the contractor and the purchaser in the matter of road construction and other large contracts. If, in this bill, the contractor can become the vendor, then is it not perfectly proper for the Department to ask that we clarify the situation so that no matter what goes into the production of contract, it will be taxed to the contractor, and he then would pass it on to the ultimate consumer or those who had hired him to perform the contract?

This goes further than household appliances. I think the Department is perfectly clear on that. No little taxpayer is going to come in and take a test case on the matter. You all know that there has been almost a conspiracy in the deliberate nonpayment of the taxes in the Commonwealth by large taxpayers, and this is only an effort to clear it up.

However, if the gentleman will tell me that they are not intending to take any amendments offered today, we will go through the motion of presenting the amendments to make the record clear and let it set at that stage. If the amendments that we are offering are not to be considered on the basis of the merits of them, then we will offer the amendments, have them voted down by the Republican side and, at least, make the record for the future.

Mr. President, I would like to interrogate, at this time, the Majority Leader.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Is it the vote of the Republican Caucus to deny all amendments today?

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, the Republican Caucus is not taking any Caucus action on this. As I have talked with various individuals, they have told me that they would like to vote on the bill today, whether it be at 3:00 o'clock, 4:00 o'clock or 11:00 o'clock tonight. They want to have the bill acted upon today.

Mr. DENT. Did you talk to twenty-six individuals?

Mr. MAHANY. No, I probably did not talk to all twenty-six, but I talked to a representative number.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, Senator Mahany and myself, if no other persons do, we do understand each other. We, of course, on this side understand that the amendments will all be turned down. However, I ask the Democratic Senators, who have amendments, to present them and give the logic for the amendments, and then let it rest at that unless someone questions us.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I think the gentleman from Titusville did answer our question, because he knows that if any amendment is accepted, the bill cannot be voted upon finally today. So, indirectly, he has answered the question; the answer being that the Republicans have limited themselves to the bill as it is before us. In other words, the Department of Justice means nothing to them. I have talked to a number of Republican Senators on the other side and they do not understand the bill.

On that little duet between Senator Walker and Senator Kessler, I would say that somebody should get two punched fare tickets on the Pennsylvania Railroad and send them in and maybe we can get a copy of it.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SILVERT. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SILVERT and Mr. DENT, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Barr,	Hays,	McMenamin,	Schmidt,
Camiel,	Kalman,	Mullin,	Seyler,
Dent,	Lane,	Murray,	Silvert,
Derk,	McCreesh,	Ruth,	Stiefel,
DiSilvestro,	McGinnis,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Donolow,			Yosko,

NAYS—27

Berger,	Kessler,	Propert,	Walker,
Blass,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Scott,	Watkins,
Chapman,	Kromer,	Stevenson,	Watson,
Ehrgood,	Madigan,	Taylor,	Whalley,
Elliott,	Mahany,	Van Sant,	Wolfe,
Flack,	Mallery,	Wade,	Fleming,
Harney,	Pechan,	Wagner,	Presiding Officer

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, speaking only to the Members on this side and the Members on the Republican side whom Senator Mahany did not get an opportunity to talk to and, therefore, may possibly be still open to good amendments, I have an amendment here that I think is not at all a controversial one, except that there might be possibly a legal controversy as to whether it is necessary. However, I am convinced that it is necessary.

In the Act, as it appears, it was clearly the intent of the Legislature to tax the service of wrapping or packaging when done from another person. Now this is stated in the Act as an exception to one of the exclusions, which is sort of an upside down, topsy-turvy way of putting it in. This is found on page 11 of the Act, in case anybdy is following me.

This is a peculiar way of putting it in, and it raises a possibility that legal objection will be made to it in the way it is stated. Secondly, it makes it very difficult for persons affected by the Act to understand that this service is taxable, and the only thing that these amendments do is to amend or place into the Act, under Section 201, this service which is taxable since that section contains the positive statements of those things on which the tax is imposed.

I think everyone will admit that that will put it in a form which would no longer be open to question or challenge, legally. It will also put it in the form whereby all persons affected by this section of the act will understand that this service is taxable.

Therefore, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent at this time to offer amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 3, page 14, line 20 and page 15, line 1, by striking out "and clause (c) of Section 203"; amend Sec. 3, page 15, line 2, by striking out "are" and inserting in lieu thereof: "is"; amend Bill, page 20, by inserting between lines 3 and 4:

"Section 3.1. Section 201 of the act, added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), is amended by adding at the end, a new subsection to read:

"Section 201. Imposition of Tax.— * * *

"(d) There is hereby imposed upon the rendition of the service of wrapping or packageing for another a tax of three per cent of the purchase price incident to the rendition of such service.

"Section 3.2. Clause (c) of section 203 of the act, added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), is amended to read:"

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I object to these amendments, believing that they are unnessary and simply will clutter up the law. The present regulations, which I would like to read, say that the entire charge for wrapping or packaging is taxable even if portions of the charge may be separately stated and attributed to labor or service.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, Senator Kessler, like myself, suffers from the disability in some cases of not being a legally trained person. He does very well, as a matter of fact, but I say that he suffers from this disadvantage as I do also.

Now I think the point here is that, yes, the regulation makes that statement. However, the fact that it is stated negatively, and in a place which is not perhaps the proper place for such a provision, leaves it open, as I understand it, to legal challenge. It also makes it obscure to any person who is seeking the source and authority upon which that regulation is based.

Now it is the considered judgment, as I understand it, of the Department of Revenue and the Department of Justice that this amendment is necessary in order to make this clear and to make it enforceable. We have heard a great deal of comment, and I think Senator Kessler has said that he has heard a great deal of comment, about certain obscurities and certain dubious ways of stating material facts in the law. This is certainly one of them, Mr. President, and I think if the Senator gives it some thought, he will feel that these people, guided by their experience in administering the Act and having decided that this is a necessary amendment, perhaps we should give some consideration to it.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I move that the amendments to House Bill No. 337 be adopted.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, yesterday I did not have sufficient time to answer Senator Dent because we wanted to adjourn at 6:00 o'clock, so I made a few notes on the back of yesterday's Calendar as to what the Senator said relative to this bill. I feel that much of what he said was a misinterpretation of what the amendments seem to do.

Senator Dent said that he does not get his messages in the newspapers very much. However, every time I pick up a newspaper, I see where Senator Dent had said something or other. I think he probably gets more publicity than any other Senator here, and perhaps that is because he says more in the Senate than any other Senator.

I think that Senator Watkins properly answered the shipbuilding amendment and justified it because of all the States that have a sales tax, I understand there is no State which taxes their shipbuilding industry. It is an industry which is unique in itself. This industry, if we taxed it, could very well move across the river into the neighboring State of New Jersey and there give employment to the people in New Jersey. It is one of those things that is difficult to tax. As I stated, no State has seen fit to put a tax on the shipbuilding industry.

Senator Dent stated that we should not tax some things to some people and not tax the same things to somebody else. Well, every State that has a sales tax has exemptions. Ohio has exemptions, California has some exemptions and Florida has some exemptions. Most every State does have exemptions, depending upon the use to which the article is put. In Ohio they have a general exemption or exclusion from their sales tax which excludes all items that are used or consumed in a manufacturing process, and we have tried to transfer the language of the sales tax in Ohio into our sales tax. Where you have that language, then you are going to have an exemption of an article or an item which would be taxable to one company or to one person and not taxable to another person or to some other company.

I remember back in 1951 when Senator Dent made quite a long speech in the Senate. I told him, when he got through, that industry certainly had a strange suitor that day. I remember the Senator talked at length on an amendment, which he sponsored, that would exclude from the old one per cent sales tax all items used or consumed in the manufacturing process. Under his amendment, at that time, screwdrivers and hammers and every item used in the manufacturing process would have been excluded from the sales tax. Yet, yesterday he belabored the point and accused us of selling out to big interests when, only a few short years ago, he presented about the same type of philosophy.

I know it is useless to play back Senator Dent's records because what he said back in 1953 might very well be changed, in the light of what he thinks now in 1957. The fact of the matter is, yesterday he told me that he was against a certain amendment which today he seems to be for. I cannot keep up with the Senator and, as I say, it is useless to play back to him what he played so well back in 1953.

These amendments have been worked on by Senator Kessler—and he has worked at length on them—and others. I have met in his office at times and have helped him with these amendments. I would say that most every amendment in House Bill No. 337, which has been put in by the Senate, is a clarifying amendment. There is no question about it. I do think there is very little revenue that will be lost if we adopt these amendments over the amount of revenue which is now received. The fact of the matter is, I think a lot more will come in as a result of these clarifying amendments.

There are one or two amendments in here that do eliminate tax on an item which is not taxable under the present law. For instance, Senator Pechan thought it was not quite right not to tax crutches and those things, and hearing aids, and then put a tax on false teeth. So, we have an amendment in here which eliminates from the sales tax the tax on false teeth. Therefore, whatever amount of tax we now get from the sale of false teeth, we will not get if we adopt these amendments.

Now we have been accused of all types of things relative to our intentions when we put these amendments into House Bill No. 337, most of which are untrue. Many of my Republican colleagues have told me that they grow rather tired of being hit over the head by various arguments relative to this sales tax, when what we are trying to do is take all of the responsibility of passing revenue measures so that the Governor may spend all of this money. In other words, the Governor has the fine job of spending it, and the Republicans have the tough job of voting on tax measures to raise it and it is not a very nice position to be in. I am sure if our positions were reversed, and we had a Republican Governor and a Democratic House and a Democratic Senate, I think that he would be more charitable when the Democratic Members would have to raise the money for the Republican Governor to spend than has been the case with the present Administration and our present Democratic colleagues in the House and in the Senate.

Senator Dent did touch on this foundation thing that we are exempting. We have exempted the machinery that is used by our manufacturing plants, and we thought also, inasmuch as machinery was exempt from the tax, that any strong foundations that would have to be put under the machine, in order to hold up the heavy weight of the machine, should also be exempt because, after all, the foundation and the machine are almost one, and if one was exempt, certainly the foundation upon which it rested should be also exempt.

We could probably go on here for a long while and talk about this, and arrive at no particular decision or particular agreement with our Democratic colleagues, because I do not believe if we Republicans accepted their amendments, they would vote for the tax on final passage. They just put in these various amendments, figuring that they are going to make some political hay out of it at some future time, and I think most of them are presented for that purpose.

I remember a couple of years ago when the Republicans took the brunt of the sales tax. The Democrats talked for hours relative to it. At that time, Senator Dent and others predicted that I would be the Minority Leader in the next Session of the Senate. I had a little trouble becoming the Majority Leader, but there was never any question that I was going to be the Minority Leader. I want to point out to Senator Dent, in spite of all his predictions and also Senator Barr's predictions, that there was not one Republican incumbent that voted for the sales tax in the last Session in either the House or the Senate who ran for re-election and was defeated. On the other hand, there were a great many Democratic Senators and Representatives—especially the Representatives, since there was only one Democratic Senator defeated—who voted for the classified income tax and opposed the sales tax and who are not back in the House today. The Republicans are now enjoying quite a large majority in the House and a larger majority in the Senate than they had at the last Session. Therefore, if you want to make particular hay out of the sales tax, you are welcome to do so.

I want to point out to you also, Senator, that there were certain leaders—I do not like to refer to them as labor leaders; perhaps they are more Democratic leaders than they are labor leaders—who were represented on the Governor's Tax Study Commission, of which I was a member for a short time, and their finding was that the sales tax was much more equitable for the little man than the income tax. Therefore, contrary to what they told you two years ago, they have now decided that the sales tax is O.K. and even suggested, if we needed more revenue, that we also include clothing and other items, which we do not expect to do at this Session of the Legislature. I hope it will be many years before we have to include clothing in the sales taxes. However, they did come up with that, Mr. President, and I feel they are for a sales tax. I noticed in the last two days that they have said these particular amendments to the sales tax are not acceptable to them. I do not know how they arrive at that conclusion. I think that these amendments are good; they are used to clarify the present sales tax act and I believe will make the present sales tax a much more workable one.

I hope that you will see your way clear to vote for House Bill No. 337, as amended, on final passage.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I yield to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, at this time.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I do not know whether this bill would be a better bill or whether it would be a worse bill if Senator Mahany can discredit me. The fact that he spent most of his time digging into the past to try to discredit my statements has little or nothing to do with the bill. I might say that two years ago, when I offered the amendment for the consumed products in the process of manufacturing, I also voted for that same amendment last year, and will vote for it this year. However, Senator Mahany at that time voted against my amendment when it was offered and he is now crying for the amendment. Therefore, when it comes to changing positions, Senator Mahany is quite adept at that act himself. Although he is a litle heavy on his feet, he dances very well when it comes to changing positions.

Mr. President, I do not think that the question of foundations was clearly discussed by the Senator, because this does not only apply to foundations which are an integral part of a piece of heavy machinery. This says "foundations under all buildings to be used for manufacturing utilities or shipbuilding." It does not say anything about the foundations only to be under the piece of machinery that is exempt. When you go into the fact that you are exempting machinery, you are exempting machinery not used in the process of manufacturing by your amendments.

For instance, here is an analysis. If Senator Mahany doubts who wrote it, he can come over and see my two-finger touch system that I use on a typewriter once in awhile. He will notice that I sometimes cross my i's and dot my t's. However, for instance, does he know that the amendments, inserted by Senator Kessler, have this effect? I think that it is one which is very, very important.

They say now that any additional piece of equipment not now tax-exempt will be exempted if, at the time of purchase, the manufacturer intends to use the item more than fifty-one per cent of the time in an exempt activity. I would like to ask any Member of this Senate whether or not, in their opinion, any piece of machinery not now exempt will exer be taxpaid by the people who were able to get this amendment into the bill.

He condemned the House of Representatives, and yet, the House of Representatives voted, almost to a man, for House Bill No.337 when it came through the House of Representatives. There were very few Democratic House Members who voted against the bill.

Senator Mahany said that if they did accept our amendments, we would still vote against this bill. I cannot speak for my colleagues, Mr. President, but I will tell you what I will do. I will guarantee you that you will receive the majority of votes from this side if you accept our amendments. In fact, you may receive all of them. You will receive mine and, knowing me, I believe you know that when I say something, I usually do it.

Another fact that Senator Mahany mentioned is that under these amendments, they do not cost any money and the revenue is not reduced. Let us see whether they do or not. If a contractor does a job for a utility, if he is going to devote the machinery that he has to fifty-one per cent of the time to working for a utility, his machinery is now tax-exempt. Those are the exemptions you put into the Act and I do not think you care what they mean. I do not think you care or know what they mean. I do not think that it makes any difference to you whether the amendments mean thousands or millions of dollars in taxes to be spread out over the ordinary cititzen, just because you are exempting certain privileged groups. Let us see why these groups were exempted.

Senator Mahany seems to think that we do things only for political reasons, that we want to make political hay. I voted for your tax bill the last time, and if you were short of votes on that side, the State of Pennsylvania would not have to suffer, because I would have the courage to vote for it again and again and again. If you had the courage of your convictions, you would be standing on this floor fighting for a general sales tax because that is what you have come out for publicly. If I would have come out publicly for it, I would be on this floor fighting for it and would not be exempting more and more and more of the privileged peoples from the sales tax. I think Senator Mahany may destroy the faith of the people, who do not know me, in my statements and in what I say. However, the records will prove over the years that I have not said too many things that I cannot answer for at any time of the day or night.

I know why these amendments are in the bill, and I think it is proper that this be made part of the record. Let us look at this. This may also answer why there are less Democratic House Members than there were two years ago.

The election was not won or lost on the basis of how they voted on the sales tax or the income tax. I will tell you how it was won or lost. It was won or lost because you had Eisenhower. Incidentally, Eisenhower has a Democratic House and Senate and they have to raise the money for him to spend under the largest budget ever conceived by man, let alone put into the record books, $72,000,000,000. He promised to the people of the United States a $60,000,000,000 budget within two years if he were elected. He has the highest budget ever recorded in the history of any organized government or civilized country.

Let us see why you have these amendments and let us see who they hit. Let us see if my roll call does not touch every amendment that I have talked about. These are the contributions and the contributors to the two political parties. I am not ashamed to read the contributors to our Party, and I am going to give them to you. They are a little disproportionate, but they are there.

Two hundred and twenty-five of the largest United States corporations, which will all be exempt from this bill, contributed to the Republican Party $1,816,000 and contributed to the Democratic Party $103,000.

Eighty-eight corporations participating in the Atomic Energy Program—and all the companies interested in the Atomic Energy Program are exempt under this bill—contributed $387,000 to the Republican Party and $34,000 to the Democratic Party.

Twenty-nine of the big oil companies—now that is no relationship to Sun Oil and I do not want the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Watkins, to get excited about Joe Pew. I want him to know that I have learned that he believes we should build a statue to Joe Pew and when he puts the bill in, I will vote for it. Twenty-nine big oil companies contributed $344,000 to the Republican Party and $14,000 to the Democratic Party.

Ten leading radio and television station licenses—read the amendments in here pertaining to that phase of this collection of taxes—contributed $37,000 to the Republican Party and $1,000 to the Democratic Party.

Thirty-seven leading advertising agencies—incidentally, when you look into the printing and all of the rest of the things which deal with newspapers and the rest of it, you will find your reason for this—contributed $51,000 to the Republicans and nothing to the Democrats.

This next one is almost equal. I guess they counted the lawyers on our side and counted the lawyers on your side and they worked this out on the basis of mathematics. The American Bar Association contributed $5,000 to the Republicans and $2,500 to the Democrats. That is why all laws dealing with lawyers get passed unanimously.

The American Medical Association gave us nothing. Do you know what they did for the Republicans? They gave you the same thing.

The American Petroluem Institute—of course, I am sure you are all educated enough to know what petroleum is; it is an oily sort of a substance—gave $171,000 to the Republicans and to the Democrats they gave zero.

This next one is the one I like. The United States Chamber of Commerce gave $10,700 to the Republican Party and gave nothing to the Democratic Party. I am going to resign from the Chamber.

The National Coal Association contributed $28,500 to the Republican Party and nothing to the Democratic Party.

The National Association of Manufacturers contributed $81,475 to this particular commitee and to the Democrats, nothing.

The National Association of Electric Companies gave very small contributions, but just to get in on the honor roll, they contributed $2,000 to the Republicans and nothing to the Democrats.

The Association of American Railroads this time played it very cautiously. They gave the Republicans $3,500 and then they got real cautious and gave us nothing.

Mr. President and Members of this Senate, I do not care how many derogatory remarks are made about me, or my memory, or my shifting positions or anything of the kind. Nothing will change the fact that this bill is designed to take care of a special, privileged group which has always been taken care of. There is nothing in this Act that points to anything but that conclusion.

Senator Mahany defended the shipbuilding amendments. Is it not true that two years ago we recognized the seriousness of the shipbuilding industry and we exempted from the sales tax the shipbuilding industry on all vessels over fifty tons? Also at that time we exempted any repair jobs done by contract in order to keep the shipbuilding companies that they said would move out of the State. What happens under this amendment? You now exempt every possible, conceivable item used, from a paper clip to a main mast. There is no justice in this; I do not care how much defense is made of it. We exempted the shipbuilding industry and it was perfectly happy. However, someone conceived the idea that maybe we ought to get a little more out of this pumpkin pie. Therefore, they have taken them completely out of the realm of taxation.

Senator Mahany is wrong about the fact that in States which have sales taxes, none of them tax shipbuilding. He is absolutely wrong. Offhand, I can tell you one State which taxes it, because I have the records, and that is the State of California. It not only taxes the shipbuilding activity, but it also taxes supplies taken on by ships which hit their ports. None of us have complained a bit about the amendment taking out of the taxable realm the supplies that are purchased by ships stopping in our ports and moving on to other ports. We are not complaining about that amendment at all. Yet, they do in California.

I am tired of hearing everybody talk about Ohio and its wonderful tax base. I, again, make you the offer that if you will take all of the State tax laws in Pennsylvania off the books and put on the books a complete set of the Ohio taxes, including utilities, including railroads, including the manufacturers, the chattel taxes, the mercantiles and the rest of them, I will support it. In fact, I will co-sponsor it with you, Senator Mahany. If Senator Mahany wants the Ohio taxes, I will co-sponsor them with him. If he wants the Michigan tax base, I will co-sponsor it with him If he wants the New Jersey tax base, I will co-sponsor that with him. If Senator Mahany thinks they are better taxes than we have in Pennsylvania, trot them out and we will co-sponsor the taxes and put them through for you.

You know and I know what has happened. They talk about a certain tax in Ohio and then they say this is exempted in Ohio and, therefore, they come to Pennsylvania and exempt that. When that is exempted in Ohio, some other item is taxed in Michigan. These same people then come up and say, "In Michigan, this item is exempted." So, they come in and we exempt the item which is exempted in Michigan. Then they go to California and to all the other States and we end up not with one exemption that one State has, but we end up with all the exemptions picked up from all of the States.

Why do we not pick on one particular bill? If you want the Michigan tax bill, go ahead and put it in. If you want the Ohio tax bill, put it in. If they can raise $580,000,000 with a three cent tax out in Ohio, certainly we in Pennsylvania, with thirty per cent more population, should easily be able to raise $700,000,000. Therefore, if that is the history of the situation, let us go into it. If they can raise $600,000,000 a year, or $1,200,000,000 out in the State of California with a three per cent tax, let us put it in Pennsylvania. We will raise somewhere near the same amount because our population and business activities are somewhat similar. If that is what you want, just say so.

This business of trying to say that the labor leaders were for the so-called sales tax and all that was in it, if you will carefully note, the labor leaders have come out and have said that the amendments—they have not objected to the original tax bill. They have not run from the position that they took on the Tax Study Commission, and neither has the Democratic Party run from that position. However, show me where any labor leader in Pennsylvania has given you permission to use his name or his organization as approving the amendments which have been made here in the Senate to this tax bill. Certainly, you can start through a title and all of us might say we are for the title. However, if you write in under the title all kinds of covenants and amendments and restrictions and regulations, you certainly cannot hold us to an agreement that we made upon the title. So it is with the labor men.

Yes, they endorsed the present tax bill because they said it was the lesser of two evils. They are entitled to that opinion and they are entitled to that judgment. I still do not agree with them. I do not say that it is the lesser of two evils. However, they did not agree to your amendments, and they have authorized me to say that they have not and will not agree to the amendments. This does not make any difference because I think that when you read the riot act of how many votes we lost in the General Assembly—and I know Senator Mahany and I know it would have hurt him sorely to have been the Minority Leader. He has never been in that position, but it would have hurt me more sorely to have been the Majority Leader, because I have never been in that position. It does not phase me a bit whether I am a leader, Majority or Minority, or whether I am a Member, Minority or Majority.

I assure you that long before I was the Floor leader on the Democratic side, on every bill which came upon the floor that I thought had to be explained, in what I thought was my interpretation of it, nothing held me back. Hour long speeches were made long before I was a Member. If you are geting tired of hearing them, I am awfully sorry for you. If you want me to, I will dictate them and put them onto a recorder, and you can take them home and listen to them at your leisure.

I am sure that you are tired and you want to go home. I was tired yesterday and I wanted to go home. However, you are a little more tired than I am, but the people of Pennsylvania might also be tired. They might be mighty tired of switching this tax burden around and keeping the pot boiling all the time so that by stirring up a lot of—you say I misinterpret things. Senator Mahany and Senator Kessler say that I am a propagandist. There is no worse propaganda in the world than the propaganda put out to the newspapers and put out through the radio and through television that this is a bad State in which to do business. Why am I fighting on this floor? I am fighting because I do not believe it is a bad State in which to do business. I believe, counting its peoples, counting its resources, counting its skilled help and counting its tax burden from local to State Government, this is still the best State in the Union to do business.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I thought it might be well to give the gentleman from Titusville a little political lecture. I do not think he read the returns properly last year and I do not think he read them properly in 1955.

It is true we had a great white father for four terms but, fortunately for us, you will only have yours for two terms. I think a local election kind of tells the way the people are thinking. We took our position on the tax situation in this State early in 1955 and we succeeded in capturing twenty-six courthouses.

The gentleman says they increased their majority in the Senate. That is true. They went from twenty-six to twenty-seven, but I think we all know the history of the gentlemen who lost. I want to also tell the young man on the other side that in that same county, every Democratic House Member was elected. I want you to look back to—I cannot say the word on the floor—what you called a reapportionment act that you passed here in the Session of 1953. With a real apportionment act, the Democrats would still be in control of the House of Representatives. I come from a county where, if they had divided it properly, instead of four Legislators running in one place, we would have elected at least six more. I come from a county which is the only place where there are four Legislators in three different Districts running together.

I can remember early last year in the campaign when the then Republican Chairman, Mr. Hall, agreed with Mr. Butler that they were going forth to try and solicit small contributions, as was recommended by the Subcommittee on Elections of the United States Senate. Everything was going good until finally Mr. Hall said, "Well, we are not going to go along with it."

Now I just want to tell you the reason why. Gifts of $500 from officials of 225 large corporations brought the GOP $1,816,517. Officials of 100 big businesses, with the largest defense contracts, gave $1,133,188 to the GOP and only $40,000 to the Democrats. This is your hard money coming out now. Of the forty-seven leading Wall Street investment and banking firms, they gave $219,000 in big gifts to the Republicans and, God save us, they gave us $2,000. There were twelve wealthy families in this Country who gave to the GOP $1,040,206.

Now because such big contributions are essentially undemocratic, this Subcommittee saw an urgent need to put teeth into the law limiting big gifts. We as Democrats, supporting the Subcommittee's conclusion, went for the small contributions. Why did the Republicans wreck this plan? Because the Republican Party is lavishly financed by a few wealthy individuals with a keen interest in such matters as corporation tax cuts, high interest rates and a friendly attitude in the anti-trust drive in the division of the Justice Department and the regulatory agencies of the government. In short, the GOP does not need five and ten dollar bills.

As the Democratic State Chairman, I was approached by many and various industries in this State, wanting amendments to get out of this bill. I have talked with my various friends on the other side and we had agreed, not officially but between ourselves, that once we open the door, they will all be in for exemption. I say here today you fellows have broken your word. The friendly few, the big contributors, are getting out, and the little fellow is geting in deeper.

I would like to say to the populace, that the Democrats who voted for Stevenson and the Democrats who voted for Eisenhower, as of today the way this bill is being passed, you, the little fellows, are being saddled, while the big fellow that gave the big money to the Republican Party is being exempted in this, the worst bill that has ever gone through here.

I remember when the first sales tax bill passed here last year. I said it was unworkable and could not be enforced. The Majority Leader insisted on voting on that bill that night. It was not three weeks later when they had to pass a whole new bill to correct some of the inequalities and some of the unenforceable parts which were passed in the first bill.

The same thing is true here today. If you go back in the back and talk to many Republican Senators they will say, "Oh Joe, put it through this way and we will pass some other bill correcting it in a few weeks."

I do not believe in that type of legislation and I do not believe the majority on the other side believe in it. We are here on a sworn duty to perform our work and we should pass bills that can be enforced. We should pass bills which, when the sales tax auditors go out, they can audit. We should pass bills wherein those on the other side, a favorite few, cannot be told by a Republican bigwig, "Do not pay the tax. We will correct it in the next Session of the Legislature."

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I would like to take issue with the Senator from Westmoreland on a few remarks.

Earlier this afternoon he said that the word "foundations" which we have inserted into this bill might be applied to building. I would like to call the Senator's attention to the exact wording of the language here on pages 7 and 8 where we are defining "'sale at retail'." It says:

"The term 'sale at retail' shall not include any such transfer for the purpose of resale or the transfer of tangible personal property"—not real estate but tangible personal property—"but not limited to machinery and equipment and parts and foundations therefor."

As I read that, "foundations therefor" applies solely to the machinery and equipment. I think the Senator should know there is a distinction legally between tangible personal property and real estate. We are talking here about tangible personal property.

The second item I want to correct the Senator on is, if I can refresh his memory back to a meeting in Senator Mahany's office when a group of us were discussing this bill, we had before us House Bill No. 2101, Printer's No. 1703, in which the following language appears:

"Where tangible personal property is utilized for purposes constituting a use as herein defined and for purposes excluded from the definition of use the predominant purpose shall determine whether such purposes constitute a use as herein defined."

That is exactly the same language that we have put in the amendments to House Bill No. 337. It was removed from House Bill No. 2101 in our Conference Committee report, on the express statement of representatives of the Department of Justice that they would interpret "use" this way.

Now what has happened, the Department of Revenue is ruling that if a mine car, which normally hauls coal from the face of the mine up out of the mine, is used at all to haul miners down to the face of the mine that use, just incidentally, of hauling individuals makes that coal car completely taxable under this sales tax law. That is a complete abrogation of the understanding that we had down in Senator Mahany's office. That is why we reinserted that amendment, because it was our understanding that is the way the bill would be administered.

I am not quite finished, Mr. President. If I may, I would like to refer to the Governor's Tax Policy Advisory Committee whose report was issued in December 1956, and I want to read, first of all, the members of that committee:

The Honorable Thomas Kennedy, Vice President, United Mine Workers of America; Willard F. Rockwell, Jr., President, Rockwell Manufacturing Company—they are Co-Chairmen—The Honorable Kendig C. Bare, Mayor of Lancaster; Harry Boyer, President, Pennsylvania C. I. O.; Francis O. Case, President, Glen Alden Coal Company; Clifford F. Hood, President, United States Steel Corporation; The Honorable Arthur J. Gardner, Mayor of Erie; George H. Love, President, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company; Matthew H. McCloskey, Jr., President, McCloskey and Company; David J. McDonald, President, United Steel Workers of America; Joseph A. McDonough, President, Pennsylvania Federation of Labor; and James M. Symes, President, Pennsylvania Railroad.

On page 3 of that report, the committee says:

"The Committee accepts the necessity of continuing the sales tax at a rate of three per cent. It compared the impact of the sales tax very carefully with that of a personal net income tax, since a graduated income tax is not now legally permissible, and found that the sales tax is less burdensome to the great majority of Pennsylvania families."

Then they developed that point further. As I mentioned yesterday, on a tabulation here known as V-A in the appendix, they cite the figures of the imposition or the effect of the sales tax at three per cent under present law, and a tax of three per cent on taxable income on tax paid on federal tax liability and in every instance, for the average earning family in Pennsylvania, the present tax impact is less than any of the others would be.

Another factor I would like to call to the Senator's attention is his repeated reference to Ohio. I have here an Economic Bulletin issued by Leonard A. Drake, Economist, of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia. It is dated July 1956. I would like to quote from portions of it, under the heading "Taxes Compared":

"Picture yourself as an officer of a corporation charged with locating a new plant in Ohio or Pennsylvania. First, the state tax comparisons:

"Corporate net income in Ohio, no tax; in Pennsylvania, 6%.

"Capital stock and franchise tax in Ohio, 1 Mill; in Pennsylvania, 5 Mills.

"Taxes as percent of total net investment:

"Local, in Ohio, 1.13%; in Pennsylvania, 1.06%"—in our favor locally.

"State, in Ohio, 0.14%; in Pennsylvania, 2.26%.

"Total, 1.27% for Ohio as against 3.32% in Pennsylvania."

There is a tabulation on the back of this report which indicates that in Pennsylvania, the portion of State tax revenue that is paid by corporations is thirty-eight per cent. We are the highest of ten States arranged in order of population. Massachusetts is second with twenty-seven per cent, New York with twenty-two per cent and so on down the line. Ohio has three per cent, as against Pennsylvania's thirty-eight per cent.

If those figures are questioned, I would like to refer you to "The Relative Tax Cost to Manufacturing Industry," a report put out by the Pennsylvania Economy League, Western Division, which was prepared for the Regional Industrial Development Corporation. They say on page 9 of that Report:

"Of Pennsylvania's State tax revenues in 1955, general corporation taxes supplied 25.2 per cent."

They go on to say here: "The more populous States of California and New York," they have only "10.0 and 17.4 per cents, respectively."

They take three corporations of various arrangements—that is whether they have large physical assets or have large inventories—and try to make direct comparisons between communities in various parts of the State. I do not want to burden you with all these details, but the conclusions that they come to are and I will just read a few:

For Corporation "A," they range from a low of—total taxes, State and local—$1,570 in Delaware to a high of $177,287 in Pennsylvania. Maryland and New York are next to Pennsylvania. For Corporation "B," the range is from $1,653 in Delaware to $141,850 in Pennsylvania. For Corporation "C," Delaware is again low with $1,703 and Pennsylvania, $166,185.

Now I submit I am not an economist. Certainly these people cannot all be wrong.

I have one other correction I would like to make. I took a transcript of Senator Dent's remarks yesterday in which he was giving figures on telephones, railroads and public utilities. I am having those figures checked. I have some data here on telephones which I would like to put into the record to correct erroneous figures that were submitted by Senator Dent yesterday.

Apparently the Senator stated that resident telephones in Pennsylvania pay $7.41; in Ohio, $6.03; in New Jersey, $4.63; and in Maryland, $1.94. These figures are completely inaccurate. They are the per cent of residence telephones in these States to the national total residence telephones and have nothing to do with the cost to subscribers.

Now here are the real costs to subscribers for comparison: Pennsylvania, $4.91; New Jersey, $5.15; Ohio, $5.37; and New York, $6.94.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I yielded the floor, as I understood it, to Senator Dent originally, but apparently they got off on another track.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would like to announce to the Members of the Senate that he has been trying to be as fair as he can. The Chair is trying to go from one side to the other.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in order that there be no misunderstanding, for the information of Senator Kessler, the figures I read in my statement yesterday came from the Joint State Government Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, the figures which Senator Dent was quoting were miles of telephone wire; not dollars and cents.

Mr. DENT. I read the miles of wire into the record and the dollars and cents. If you want the record, I will read it back.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Kessler.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Kessler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KESSLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. YOSKO. Senator Kessler, you read from the Governor's Advisory Committee Tax Report and I think you read a paragraph from that where the committee agreed, in principle, with the three per cent sales tax. Is that correct?

Mr. KESSLER. May I read it to you again?

Mr. YOSKO. Yes, sir.

Mr. KESSLER. "The Committee accepts the necessity of continuing the sales tax at a rate of three per cent. It compared the impact of the sales tax very carefully with that of a personal net income tax, since a graduated income tax is not now legally permissible, and found that the sales tax is less burdensome to the great majority of Pennsylvania families."

Mr. YOSKO. Senator Kessler, I do not think the issue here is what you read. There are Senators on this side who said they would vote for a sales tax if the bill was in proper form.

Will you read a paragraph in that report anywhere which says that same committee was for the bill which is now before us in its present form?

Mr. KESSLER. It could not be because the bill was not in existence then.

Mr. YOSKO. Then there is no such paragraph in that letter, is there?

Mr. KESSLER. In which letter?

Mr. YOSKO. I mean in the report.

Mr. KESSLER. It could not be, Senator Yosko, because the report was not in existence.

Mr. YOSKO. All right, what you read in that report has no bearing on the issue today. What the Senators on this side are objecting to is the manner in which this bill is drafted.

Mr. KESSLER. What is wrong with the bill, Senator Yosko?

Mr. YOSKO. We have been debating that for a long time, and I will go into that a little bit later when my time comes. However, I think you mentioned that Joseph McDonough and Harry Boyer were members of that committee, is that correct?

Mr. KESSLER. Would you mind repeating that?

Mr. YOSKO. Is Mr. McDonough a member of that committee?

Mr. KESSLER. Yes, sir.

Mr. YOSKO. Is Harry Boyer a member of that committee?

Mr. KESSLER. Yes, sir.

Mr. YOSKO. Is Mr. Sludden a member of that committee?

Mr. KESSLER. No, sir.

Mr. YOSKO. Based on the statement you read about what the committee said regarding the sales tax, how can you reconcile that with what they said in a letter addressed to me and, I am assuming, to all other Senators? The letter is dated March 18, 1957. Here is what they say:

"The Honorable Joseph J. Yosko
"Senate Chamber
"Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

"Dear Senator Yosko:

"The State government operates for the benefit of all citizens, whether corporate or individual, employer or employee. To maintain its needed services, all should be equitably taxed.

"However, the Sales Tax Amendments, as introduced in the Senate, discriminate heavily in favor of particular segments of our economy,—the manufacturer, the ultility and the shipbuilder.

"Although proclaimed clarifying Amendments, they create a new class of exemptions, none of which reduces the impact of the tax on the wage earner, or his family.

"Even at its best, a sales tax hits heaviest at people in the low or average income bracket. To exempt further those best able to pay taxes, and to give no relief to those persons to whom the accumulation of pennies means the purchase of a necessity, cannot be justifiable legislation. The average individual has no lobbyist to plead his cause. Favored interests should not blind the Legislature to this fact.

"We respectfully urge that the Senate Sales Tax Amendments, allowing further exemptions to industries with well-financed and politically influential advocates, be defeated.

"Joseph A. McDonough, President
"Pennsylvania Federation of Labor
"Harry Boyer, President
"Pennsylvania CIO Council
"Charles J. Sludden, Pennsylvania Legislative Representative
"Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen"

That is their stand, Mr. President. Now what they are saying in that report is for expediency purposes. I think I heard Mr. Boyer say that he reluctantly went along with recommending a continuation of the sale tax. However, today we are debating this bill as drafted and what we are saying is that it is vague and indefinite, it is difficult of interpretation, it favors the wealthy and puts the whole load on the average guy, shall I say. If you were to get those same committee members together today and ask them whether or not they agreed to the provisions of this bill, my guess is that there would not be a unanimous vote.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, if the members who signed the letter which Senator Yosko read are the same members who were on this Tax Advisory Committee, then I can call them only politicians because they change their spots when the signal comes through.

I would like to make some further statements here, if I may. We are not enlarging the exemptions with these amendments. We are simply trying to clarify in and say what we mean. We have not even gone as far as this committee has recommended, in that we have not included the clothing which would impose a heavier burden on everyone, including the people you refer to as the little people.

Let me say, we are all little people. Some of us have a little harder time doing it, but it is our American heritage to have to contribute to the support of the Commonwealth and the Federal Government. All we are trying to do is see to it that we are not depriving all of us of jobs. We are trying to keep industry in Pennsylvania. When we exempt the public utilities, the farming industry, the dairy industry and manufacturing, we are not doing anything more than we did in the prior bill, and it was the prior bill that these men said was satisfactory.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

AMENDMENTS OFFERED

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, all I have been trying to do is ask unanimous consent to offer two harmless, rectifying, tenderizing amendments at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 4, page 21, line 12, by striking out "THREE" and inserting: "four"; amend Sec. 4 (Sec. 203), page 23, by inserting between lines 5 and 6: "(m) The sale at retail or use of courses of study sold by or purchased from any correspondence school, except that portion of the sale price which covers the cost of books and materials."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, one of these amendments was prepared by the Department of Justice, as some others have been. However, I am personally familiar with some of the problems raised in the enforcement of the tax, and, therefore, the other amendment I can claim authorship myself.

One of the amendments would equalize the tax as it applies to correspondence school students and students in private institutions. As I understood it, the student pays no tax on his tuition. However, under the present regulations of the Sales Tax Bureau, I am informed that an effort is being made to collect the sales tax based on the buyer's cost of the correspondence course, which necessarily includes tuition and materials and books and so forth. We think this ruling puts an unfair burden on the type of student who takes the correspondence course, who normally lives at home and works at some job in the daytime and studies at night and so on.

Therefore, this amendment would place the tax only on that portion of the course which is the cost of materials.

The second amendment is addressed to this situation. It is in aid of distributors, jobbers and wholesalers in various dealings particularly with—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Would the Senator yield? We can only consider one set of amendments at a time, Senator.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, in an effort to save time, I thought I would introduce both amendments at the same time.

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I now move the adoption of these amendments seriatim.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, the Senator's remarks just bear out our contention that the Department of Justice over here, through its deputy attorney general, has certainly warped the meaning of the Act which we passed at the last Session. We feel that in some cases they have gone beyond our expectation.

I suggest to the Senator that he go over and tell them over there that we did not intend to tax the correspondence school courses; only the books used in connection therewith. I feel certain that passage of this amendment is not necessary. All that needs to be done is for Senator McMenamin to straighten out his own Department of Justice. I certainly feel he can do that.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would like to suggest to the Majority Leader, or even ask him whether he does not think that the students of the International Correspondence School and other similar schools are entitled to the same sort of action as he is giving, through the amendments to this bill, to the various corporations which he says have been adversely affected. If his arguments in one sense are correct, that we should put this in the bill and make it clear, and if the Senator from Lancaster is correct in that contention, then what is the difference between these interests and the students of the Inernational Correspondence School except size and wealth? Are they interested in protecting the interests of these people by amending the law or are they only interested in doing that for their special clients whom they seem to favor.

I think this is a very good test to the amendment. I think you have made an excellent point, but this is right along the line of contention that you people have been making. I think this is a test of the genuineness of your intentions here. If you intend to really do a job for people and make these corrections as needed, then here is a case which needs to.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am not going to prolong this debate on these amendments. However, but the attitude taken by the gentlemen on the other side reminds me of that old saw which they used to use in vaudeville years and years ago, probably even before my time, "Even if it is good, we do not like it."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Clerk will read the second set of amendments offered by the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator McMenamin.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 30, line 12, by inserting after "the": "vendor shall require and the"; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 30, line 14, by striking out the bracket before "the" where it appears the second time; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 30, line 15, by inserting after "form": "and shall be valid for such period of time"; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 30, line 16, by striking out the bracket after "prescribe"; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 31, line 6, by inserting a bracket after "year"; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 31, line 6, by inserting after "form": "and valid for such period of time"; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 31, line 7, by striking out the bracket after "prescribe"; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 31, line 8, by inserting after "faith": "which on its face discloses a valid basis of exemption"; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 31, line 9, by inserting a bracket before "for" and after "tax" and inserting immediately thereafter: "to collect the tax provided that the vendor in the ordinary course of his business and acting as a reasonably prudent business man believed the contents of the certificate to be true."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, this amendment is in aid of distributors, jobbers and wholesalers who, in various dealings, run up against this problem. When the sales tax auditors come in, they are refusing to honor tax exemption certificates, previously filed by purchasers, with the wholesale house on the theory, as I understand it, that under the present law the wholesaler who accepts the tax exemption certificate has the duty to insure or prove that the material was actually used on an exempt project or for an exempt purpose.

We think that this places a very harsh and unfair burden on the businessman, and the jobber cannot be expected to police every job done by his customers. When a customer comes in and buys material and files a tax exemption certificate with a jobber, which is accepted in good faith, it should be accepted by the State in good faith and no effort should be made to collect the tax months or even years after the sale has been completed.

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I now move that these amendments be adopted.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I have simmered down quite a little since those dynamic speeches were made by Senator Dent and Senator Barr, where they carried us out in left field, took us down to Washington and talked about the budget, contributions, the President of the United States and Mr. Stevenson.

In order to save time in the Senate, I want to make one request. I am not going to answer them with a political speech. However, I had prepared a beaut of a speech which would have lasted ten minutes. I was going to take them back to Pennsylvania, but I am not going to do that at this time.

I think we are doing them a great favor in passing a tax program for them. I can remember just a short time ago when it was not necessary to have a sales tax nor an income tax in order to pick up the check here in Harrisburg. I do not want to get into it because I think I would be out of order and I would expect the Chair to rule me out of order.

I would like to ask you, Mr. President, that in the future you keep Senator Dent and Senator Barr, and some of my good friends, out of left field and keep them to this bill in order for us to settle it for once and all.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would just like to make a few observations. It appears that no one on the other side has any stock in Bill Scranton's correspondence school up in Scranton.

Secondly, the gentleman says he is passing a tax bill for us. I want to ask you whether he took his oath of office the same as we did. We are supposed to pass a tax bill for the people of Pennsylvania. You do not need to worry about us. We are just a little leery of Greeks bearing false gifts.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DERK. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments to House Bill No. 337 from center field, and not from right or left field.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 1 and 2, by striking out "Paragraph (4) of"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 5, line 13, by striking out said line and inserting in lieu thereof: "(1) The total value of anything paid or delivered, or promised to be paid or delivered, whether it be money or otherwise, in complete performance of a sale, lease or purchase at retail of tangible personal property without any deduction on account of the cost or value of the property sold, cost or value of transportation, cost or value of labor or service, interest or discount paid or allowed after the sale is consummated, or any other expense, but excluding the value of [the following (i) returnable containers, (ii)] labor or service cost in [delivering] installing, applying or warranting the property sold if the consideration therefor is stated separately from the consideration paid for the property. "(2) There shall be deducted from the purchase price the value of any personal property actually taken in trade or exchange within this Commonwealth in lieu of the whole or any part of the purchase price. For the purpose of this subsection (f), the amount allowed by reason of personal property actually taken in trade or exchange shall be considered the value of such property. "(3) In any transaction not at arm's length, the purchase price shall not be less than the prevailing market price for similar tangible personal property."; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 7, by inserting between lines 2 and 3: "(5) Where tangible personal property is sold in a returnable container there shall be excluded from the purchase price a separately stated reasonable value designated as a deposit on such returnable container, where it is of a kind which is customarily returned to the vendor by the purchaser of the contents in redemption of the deposit. "(6) There shall be deducted from the purchase price the amount of any tax (other than manufacturer's or importer's excise tax) imposed by the United States upon, or with respect to, retail sales, whether such taxes are imposed upon the retailer or upon the consumer. "(7) With respect to the tax imposed by subsection (b) of section 201 upon any tangible personal property originally purchased by the user of such property one year or longer prior to the first taxable use of such property within the Commonwealth, such user may elect to pay tax on a substituted base determined by considering the purchase price of such property for tax purposes to be equal to the prevailing market price of similar personal property at the time and place of such first use within the Commonwealth. Such election may be made by filing a notice thereof in the form specified by the department and reporting such tax liability and paying the proper tax due plus all accrued penalties and interest if there be any within one year of the due date of such report and payment, as provided for by subsections (a) and (c) of section 520 of this act. "(8) If any person using construction materials, supplies or equipment is the manufacturer of such property he must pay a tax with respect to his use of such property based upon the prevealing price at which such property in similar quantities ready for installation would be sold to a non-manufacturing contractor. "(9) The total value of anything paid or delivered or promised to be paid or delivered, whether it be money or otherwise, in consideration for the rendition of any service subject to tax under the provisions of this act."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. DERK. Mr. President, I move that the amendments just read be adopted.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Bill, page 14, by inserting between lines 19 and 20: "Section 2.1. Section 201 of the act, added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), is amended by adding at the end, a new subsection to read: "Section 201 Imposition of Tax.—* * * "(c) There is hereby imposed upon each separate rendition of the service of collecting, compiling, or analyzing information of any kind or nature and furnishing reports thereof to other persons a tax of three per cent of the purchase price. The services subject to tax under this subsection shall include but not be limited to, the furnishing of printed, written, mimeographed or duplicated matter, including, but not limited to, credit information, statistical information, building and construction information, stock market analysis and advisory service information, advertising surveys, radio and television surveys, sport information, and tax information: Provided, however, That the rendering of the ordinary professional services and the services by attorneys and accountants, or persons acting in a representative or fiduciary capacity in respect to the purchaser shall not be subject to tax under this subsection. Nor shall the furnishing of information, including a written report, which is personal and individual in nature and which is or may not be substantially incorporated in reports furnished to other persons, be subject to tax. The rendering of information services to newspapers shall also not be subject to tax under this subsection. "The tax imposed by this subsection shall be collected by the vendor from the purchaser and shall be paid over to the Commonwealth as herein provided."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, later I will offer other amendments which will be excluding in nature. However, this amendment is including in nature. In other words, today I am with the inclusionists instead of the exclusionists.

In my opinion, Mr. President, this amendment will take care of the new power in the United States which is tremendous, ominous, but escapes sensation. During the recent political campaign, we heard of the Madison Avenue boys who are supposed to be the brains of the United States. Once upon a time, it was Main Street; today it is Madison Avenue.

Therefore, Mr. President, in order to make them pay some part of the millions which they gather from political campaigns, I have offered these amendments.

Mr. President, to allay the fears of the gentlemen of the press, for whom I have great respect and with whom I do not like to entangle, these amendments are not meant for them.

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move that the amendments be adopted.

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, before I ask for unanimous consent to offer these amendments, I would like to know whether it would be in order for us, on both sides of the asile, to make an agreement that I first offer all of the amendments and then vote on them at one time. In offering these amendments, I must make a brief explanation as to just what they are intended to do. If that is agreed upon with the other side, I will proceed along that particular line.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If it is agreeable to the Majority and Minority Leaders, the Chair will rule that that is in order.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, our primary objective in offering these amendments at this particular time is to place into the record what we believe to be a correct analysis of the legislation which is before us. We feel that we will be placed in a very sound position two years hence when the majority party will come forth with the idea and the argument that the Democratic Administration has just brought up another deficit.

We feel that there should be clarifications in this particular piece of legislation, and we have had the advice and counsel of the Justice Department.

Now each and every amendment which I am presenting, on behalf of the Democratic Party, has been written primarily by the Justice Department and approved, of course, by the Legislative Reference Bureau.

Now the first one which I have reference to, the Justice Department says that the present law provides a tax credit where sales tax is previously paid on an item to another state where he brings the property into Pennsylvania.

This proposal will also give such credits in the case of tax payments to local political subdivisions in other States and territories, thus preventing the inequalities of a tax credit where the tax is paid to another State and not where it is paid to another political subdivision.

Mr. President, the second one which I will offer, I think the Majority Leader has looked over. It primarily is clarifying certain exemptions.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. LANE. I will, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. PRESIDENT, we do not object to the offering of all the amendments at one time. However, if there are any that I want to comment on as the Senator reads them or comments on them, I would like to have the privilege of asking him to yield so that I might comment on that particular one.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I would be very happy to.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, the reason that we do not feel that your amendment is necessary, this particular one that you have offered relative to giving credit on items brought into the State of Pennsylvania for the tax paid in other states where there is a reciprocity agreement between the two States, is that the present sales tax has a section in which that is set forth whereby the citizens are entitled to credit for taxes paid in other States where that reciprocity exists.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I wish to thank the gentleman. Of course, that, too, will be in the Legislative Journal and we can look that over two years hence.

The next amendment applies to the clarification of certain exemptions which I believe you, in your Caucus, discussed and rejected. There is no use for me to go into detail on that one.

Mr. President, the next amendment I have before me clarifies the assessment and reassessment provisions and the provisions regarding an effective rate. The Republican proposals knocked out entirely the power of the Department to use effective rates, which is a good tool to make proper audits and of course, provide reasonable enforcement.

These proposals permit the use of effective rates but provide that such rates shall merely be prima facia correct; that is, that the taxpayer may demonstrate that he actually collected less tax than was determined by the effective rate.

This proposal will extend to 120 days the time available to a taxpayer to take an appeal to the Board of Finance and Revenue from an adverse determination of the Department of Revenue, where the Department has failed to properly notify the taxpayer of its determination. The present law provides for 60 days in these cases.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, the McKinsey Report, which the Governor received from his experts, stated, as I remember it, that they did not feel the effective rate provision in the law was worth-while and would not justify the money which would be expended on it. I am just paraphrasing the recommendations of that committee, as I remember them.

Therefore, inasmuch as we spent a great deal of money to receive this report from the experts or consultants, I feel that we should be guided by it. For that reason, I feel that the amendment we have, knocking out the effective rate, is a good one.

Mr. LANE. Thank you, Senator Mahany. I am glad you are putting that in the record. Of course, after we have finished, I reserve the right to answer that.

Mr. President, this particular amendment insures that the Department of Revenue has legal authority to require the payment of a sale or use tax upon the registration of an automobile, where a sales tax was not collected by a Pennsylvania dealer with respect to the sale of such automobile.

A provision similar to this was in the Consumer's Act, but is not in this particular Act that we now have before us.

Mr. President, the next one I have is a proposal which insures that persons selling property in this State from out-of-State points will be required—

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I am unable to follow the Senator's comments because I cannot hear them. I would suggest that you have our guests be seated so that we may conduct this Session with decorum in order that we may hear what the Senator has to say.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The remarks of the gentleman are well taken. Will the Senators please try to remain in their seats, and will the visitors please refrain from conversations? If you must have them, will you please retire to the anterooms to have them?

Senator Lane will proceed.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, this proposal insures that persons selling property in this State, from out-of-State points, will be required to collect taxes where Pennsylvania can constitutionally require such collection.

Mr. President, the next amendment I have will be of particular interest to the Sheriff from Delaware County, our now Senator. These amendments which I have actually reinstate the taxes upon the shipbuilding industry which were in the last bill.

The next one I have before me, Senator Mahany, is that the department takes the position that the Republican proposals for refund provide for refund petitions being made directly to the Board of Finance and Revenue. It is, of course, desirable that refund petitions go first to the Department of Revenue in order that they may be treated in the same manner as a petition for reassessment.

Also, the time after payment at which a refund can be paid is excessively long, as a result of which, a court determination in one year with respect to the taxability of a particular item can result in refunds being made for all payments made in the past three years.

This can result in losing revenue received in a prior biennium, and gives a bonanza to the person who paid what appeared to be a proper tax at that particular time.

It is not too much to ask the person making a tax payment, who wants to test the validity of the payment, to file a protest within 120 days of the date of the payment. This reduces the amount of lost revenue resulting from an unexpected court determination that a particular area is exempt from tax, especially where the Legislature intended such items to be taxable and would, upon return, enact corrective legislation to fill in the loophole.

I think they are afraid you are going to go back three years to collect refunds.

Mr. President, the next amendment which I have is as follows:

The Republican proposals cut out the requirement presently in the Act that the Department may require a person petitioning for a reassessment, following a determination that he owes more taxes, from posting a bond to insure that, during the possible year of which a determination is being made as to whether or not he actually owes the money, there is no loss of revenue as a result of his going out of business, becoming insolvent or liquidating the corporation.

This proposal will permit reassessment bonds in such situations and also permit the department to require a bond in the case in which the taxpayer has repeatedly failed to pay his taxes or failed to file a return on time.

Mr. President, the next amendment from the Department of Justice is that the Republican proposal provides complex, intricate methods of maintaining records in such greater detail than should be found in the Act. In lieu of these, we suggest merely that a vendor be required to adopt a method of bookkeeping that clearly sets forth the segregation of tax receipts from other receipts, all in accord with good accounting and business practices.

Mr. President, this next amendment provides that the tax on April sales will come to the Commonwealth in this biennium.

Mr. President, the next amendment clarifies the license provisions found in the present law. It gives the department the power, which the sales tax departments of most other States have, to suspend licenses of a persistent violator. These proposals give a great many restrictions in such suspensions. For instance, the department must give a hearing, must set forth in the notice of the hearing the basis of the suspension and what steps the licensee must take to have his license reinstated.

A licensee is entitled to a de novo hearing on the action of the department and the grounds of reinstatement as determined by the department in his home court. The court appeal may temporarily reinstate the license pending the hearing. The penalty for operating without a license is reduced from a misdemeanor, carrying a possible sentence to one year, to a summary offense carrying a possible penalty of a $300 fine.

Mr. President, this amendment provides that the department file an assessment to recover an erroneously paid refund. Similar provisions can be found in the laws of most other sales tax States and the Federal Government.

This amendment, Mr. President, was handed to me in which the Justice Department explained that they felt that, under certain circumstances, certain payments on rented property are subject to tax, even when made to a third party.

As a matter of fact, they feel that insurance on rented trucks might be construed to be taxable. This subjects such payments to the tax only when paid to a related party as redefined by their proposed amendment. They were speaking primarily of the delivery of linens. It is my understanding a contractor may make a contract and then, of course, he might subcontract this, and they felt that the subcontractor might be liable for taxes. That is the reason for further clarification.

Mr. President, on the next amendment, the Department of Justice says that the Republican proposals reduce the penalties for understatement of tax to a point to which there is only the penalty in the case of an understatement by reason of negligence or fraud in the case of any taxpayer who files a report. However, a taxpayer who does not file a report has to pay a penalty which may run up to twenty-five per cent. As a result, there is no incentive for the large taxpayer to properly determine his tax liability. This is particularly true of the direct-pay permitees. It is essential that there be an incentive for all taxpayers to file a proper return with respect to their use tax liabilities.

These amendments also clarify the provisions regarding interest. They also permit the department to require bonds of persons who seek to retain records of tax collections out of the State.

Mr. President, the next amendment applies to the position which the Republican Party has taken. They say that the Republican-sponsored amendment of March 11 permitted tax avoidance devices and made the effect thereof retroactive. This would have involved a loss of more than $50,000,000 in revenue, consisting of refunds of more than $17,000,000, and a loss of future revenues conservatively estimated at $33,000,000. I understand that you people took the retroactive amendment out, so we will not offer our amendment.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I am a bit confused. Did Senator Lane say that he was not going to offer that amendment?

Mr. LANE. The last one, Mr. President, I am not going to offer. It is my understanding that you took the retroactive amendment out.

Mr. MAHANY. That is right, Mr. President. I notice your man over there piling those up. I would suggest that you take that one out, then.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am afraid that I am going to have to offer the amendment because Senator Dent says that this is a saving clause which they want to put in. We are going to offer it anyway, and put it into the record.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, by way of explanation, I might say that this is a saving clause to save for the State the moneys that have already been collected. When repealing the retroactive clause in the amendment which was originally put in by the Republican Senators, the amendment itself, repealing the retroactive clause, did not save for the Commonwealth as the Department of Justice feels it should have saved.

This amendment is offered by the Department of Justice in order to save for the Commonwealth the moneys already collected. We offer it for that reason.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, the last amendment which I have to offer puts into the present law the authority for the department to, in some cases, permit pre-collections of the sales tax.

Mr. President, before voting on the amendments, I would like to say to the group here that I realize you have listened to a number of speeches and I am going to be just as brief as possible.

Mr. President, we on this side are very sincere in trying to make this bill a good tax bill. We have received advice from the department that these series of amendments, as offered by the other side, will actually reduce the revenue by at least $140,000,000 to $150,000,000. At least, that is the position they take.

I want this in the record for the particular purpose of showing the people of Pennsylvania the position of the Democratic Party and for the reason that when persons are in a quandary in regard to the proper administration of the Act, they can look into the Journal and see what we have offered in the way of amendments and see what our legislative intent actually is in regard to the sales tax. This should also take away the criticism that the bureaucrats are running the Sales Tax Division and are misinterpreting the legislative intent of the Act.

Mr. President, I now ask unanimous consent to offer these amendments at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Bill, page 32, by inserting between the lines 5 and 6: "Section 4.1. Section 205 of the act, added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), is amended to read: "Section 205. Credit Against Tax.—A credit against the tax imposed by this act upon the use of tangible personal property shall be granted with respect to tangible personal property purchased for use outside the Commonwealth equal to the tax paid to another state, territory or local political subdivision by reason of the imposition by such other state, territory or political subdivision, of a tax similar to the tax imposed by this act: Provided, however, That no such credit shall be granted unless such other state, territory or political subdivision grants substantially similar tax relief by reason of the payment of tax under this act."; amend Sec. 3, page 14, line 20, by striking out "clause (c)" and inserting in lieu thereof: "CLAUSES (c), (d), (e) and (i)"; amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 203), page 21, line 9, by striking out said line and inserting in lieu thereof: "(d) The sale at retail to or use by (1) any charitable organization, volunteer firemen's [organization] company or nonprofit educational institution, or (2) a religious organization for religious purposes of tangible personal property: Provided, however, That the exclusion of subsection (d) shall not apply with respect to any tangible personal property used in any unrelated trade or business carried on by such organization or institution or with respect to any tangible personal property defined in paragraph (3) of section (2) (1) of this act. "Section 542. Reassessment.—Any taxpayer against whom an assessment is made may petition the department for a reassessment. Notice of an intention to file such a petition shall be given to the department prior to the time the assessment becomes due and payable in accordance with section 541. A petition for reassessment shall thereafter be filed within thirty days of the receipt by the department of the notice of intention. Such petition shall set forth explicitly and in detail the grounds upon which the taxpayer claims that the assessment is erroneous or unlawful, in whole or in part, and shall be accompanied by an affidavit affirming that the facts contained therein are true and correct. An extension of time for filing the petition may, in the sole discretion of the department, be allowed for cause but in no case shall such extension exceed one hundred twenty days. The department shall hold such hearings as may be necessary for the purpose, at such times and places as it may determine, and each taxpayer who has duly [notified the department of an intention to file a] filed such petition for reassessment shall be notified by the department of the time when, and the place where such hearing in his case will be held. [A petition for reassessment, if filed, shall set forth explicitly and in detail the grounds upon which the taxpayer claims that the assessment is erroneous or unlawful, in whole or in part, and shall be accompanied by an affidavit under oath or affirmation certifying to the facts stated in the petition.] "It shall be the duty of the department, within six months [after the hearing, or] after receiving a filed petition for reassessment, to dispose of the issue raised [at such hearing or by such filed petition. Notice of the action taken shall be given to the petitioner promptly after the date of reassessment by the department] by such petition, and mail notice of the department's decision to the petitioner: Provided, however, That the taxpayer and the department may, by stipulation, extend such disposal time by not more than six additional months. "Section 543. Review by Board of Finance and Revenue.—Within sixty days after the date of mailing of notice by the department of the [action taken] decision on any petition for reassessment filed with it, [or after the department's failure to act within the time specified] the person against whom such assessment was made may, by petition, request the Board of Finance and Revenue to review such [action] decision The failure of the department to notify the petitioner of a decision within the time provided for by section 542 shall act as a denial of such petition, and a petition for review may be filed with the Board of Finance and Revenue within one hundred twenty days of the date prior to which the the department should have mailed to the petitioner its notice of decision. Every petition for review filed hereunder shall state specifically the reasons on which the petitioner relies, or shall incorporate by reference the petition for reassessment in which the reasons are stated. The petition shall be supported by affidavit that it is not made for the purpose of delay and that the facts set forth therein are true. The Board of Finance and Revenue shall act finally in disposing of petitions filed with it within six months after they have been received. In the event of the failure of the board to dispose of any petition within six months, the action taken by the department, upon the petition for reassessment, shall be sustained. The Board of Finance and Revenue may sustain the action taken by the department on the petition for reasssessment, or it may reassess the tax due on such basis as it deems according to law. The board shall give notice of its action [by mail] to the department and to the petitioner." amend Bill, page 31, by inserting between lines 10 and 11: "Section 6.1. The act is amended by adding after section 546, a new section to read: "Section 546.1. Collection of Tax on Motor Vehicles, Trailers and Semi-Trailers.—Nothwithstanding the provisions of section 546 (b) (1) of this act tax due on the sale at retail of a motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer by persons other than those registered with the department in "Dealer's Class" under the provisions of section 408 of The Vehicle Code of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905), and the tax due upon the use of a motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer shall be collected by the department upon application to the department for an issuance of a certificate of title upon such motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer. The department shall not issue a certificate of title until the tax has been paid, or evidence satisfactory to the department has been given to establish that tax is not due."; amend Sec. 6, page 23, line 9, by striking out "SUBSECtion" and inserting in lieu thereof: "subsections (b) and"; amend Sec. 6 (Sec. 546), page 30, by inserting between lines 9 and 10: "(b) Collection by Persons Maintaining a Place of Business in the Commonwealth. (1) Every person maintaining a place of business in this Commonwealth and selling or leasing tangible personal property, the sale or use of which is subject to tax, shall collect the tax from the purchaser or lessee at the time of making the sale or lease, and shall remit the tax to the department. If the use of tangible personal property is not taxable at the time of the making of the sale or lease and such sale or lease is not subject to tax under the provisions of this act the vendor must collect the tax from the purchaser at the time the use by the purchaser becomes taxable. "(2) Any person required under this act to collect tax from another person, who shall fail to collect the proper amount of such tax or to remit such tax to the department shall be liable for the full amount of the tax which he should have collected and remitted to the department "(3) Every vendor required to collect the tax under the provisions of this act must do so notwithstanding the fact that the purchaser's order or contract of sale is delivered, mailed or otherwise transmitted by the purchaser to the vendor at a point outside of this Commonwealth as a result of solicitation by the vendor through the medium of advertising within the Commonwealth or the purchaser's contract of sale or order is made or closed by acceptance or approval outside of this Commonwealth, or before the tangible personal property enters this Commonwealth, or that the purchaser's order or contract of sale provides that said property shall be or is, in fact, procured or manufactured at a point outside this Commonwealth and shipped directly to the purchaser from the point of origin, or that the tangible personal property is shipped directly to the purchaser from a point without the Commonwealth." amend Sec. 4 (Sec. 203), page 21, line 16, by striking out "(1)"; amend Sec. 4 (Sec. 203), page 21, line 20 and page 22, lines 1 to 8, by striking out all of said lines; amend Sec. 7, page 31, line 11, by striking out "551" and inserting in lieu thereof: "550"; amend Sec. 7, page 31, by inserting between lines 12 and 13: "Section 550. Refund or Credit for Overpayment.—[In] With respect to all taxes paid to a vendor or to the Commonwealth prior to the effective date of this amending act, in the case of any overpayment, the department [within the applicable period of limitations] prior to June 1, 1958 may credit the amount of such overpayment against any liability in respect of the tax imposed by this act on the part of the person who made the overpayment, and shall refund any balance to such person."; amend Sec. 7 (Sec. 551), page 31, lines 13 to 20, page 32, lines 1 to 20 and page 33, lines 1 to 5, by striking out all of said lines; amend Bill, page 33, by inserting between lines 5 and 6: "Section 7.1. The act is amended by adding after section 551, six new sections to read: "Section 552. Tax Payments Refunded.—The department shall pursuant to the provisions of sections 553 and 554, refund all taxes which have been erroneously, unlawfully, or unconstitutionally collected or paid over to the department. Such refunds shall be made to the person who actually paid the tax. "Section 553. Protest.—The refund provided for by section 552 shall be made only where a protest, fully setting out the nature and amount of the illegal payment, and the reason it is contended that such payment was erroneous, unlawful or unconstitutional, is filed with the department within one hundred twenty days of the date on which the tax was erroneously or illegally collected by a vendor or erroneously or illegally paid to the Commonwealth, as the case may be. "Section 554. Refund Petition.—Except as provided for in section 557, the refund or credit of tax, interest or penalty erroneously, unlawfully, or unconstitutionally collected or paid provided for by section 552 shall be made only where the person who has actually paid the tax files a petition for refund with the department within one year of the date of the occurrence of the transaction with respect to which the tax was paid, or within six months of the actual payment of the tax to the Commonwealth, whichever date shall last occur. Such petition for refund must set forth explicitly and in detail the grounds upon which the taxpayer claims that payment or collection was erroneous, unlawful or unconstitutional, in whole or in part, and shall be accompanied by an affidavit affirming that the facts contained therein are true and correct. The department shall hold such hearings as may be necessary for the purpose at such times and places as it may determine, and each person who has duly filed a refund petition shall be notified by the department of the time when, and the place where, such hearing in his case will be held. "It shall be the duty of the department within six months after receiving a petition for refund to dispose of the issue raised by such petition, and mail notice of the department's decision to the petitioner: Provided, however, That the taxpayer and the department may, by stipulation, extend such disposal time by not more than six additional months; "Section 555. Review by Board of Finance and Revenue.—Within sixty days after the date of mailing of notice by the department of the decision upon a petition for refund filed with it pursuant to section 554, the petitioner may further petition the Board of Finance and Revenue to review the decision of the department. The failure of the department to notify the petitioner of its decision within the time provided for by section 554 shall act as a denial of such petition, and a petition for review may be filed with the Board of Finance and Revenue within one hundred twenty days of the date prior to which the department should have mailed to the petitioner its notice of decision. Every petition for review filed with the Board of Finance and Revenue under the provisions of this section shall incorporate by referenece the petition for refund. The petitioner may, in his petition for review, elect to withdraw one or more grounds as set out in the original refund petition. The Board of Finance and Revenue shall act finally in disposing of such petitions filed with it within six months after they have been received. In the event of the failure of the board to dispose of any petition within six months, the action taken by the department upon the petition for refund shall be sustained. The Board of Finance and Revenue may sustain the action taken by the department on a petition for refund, or it may redetermine whether a lesser or greater amount of refund is proper. Under no circumstances may the Board of Finance and Revenue authorize a refund greater than that originally applied for by the petitioner. The board shall give notice of its action to the department and to the petitioner. "Section 556. Appeal to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County.—Any person aggravated by the decision of the Board of Finance and Revenue under section 555, or by the board's failure to act upon a petition for review within six months may within sixty days appeal to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County from the decision of the board or of the department as the case may be, in the manner now or hereafter provided for by law for appeals and in the case of tax settlements. "Section 557. Extended Time for Filing Special Petition for Refund.—Any party to a transaction who has paid tax by reason of a transaction with respect to which the department is assessing tax against another person may, within six months after the filing by the department of the assessment against such other person, file a special petition for refund, notwithstanding his failure to file the protest otherwise required by section 553. The provisions of sections 554, 555 and 556 shall be applicable to such special petition for refund, except that the department need not act on such petition until there is a final determination as to the propriety of the assessment filed against the other party to the transaction Where a petition is filed under this provision in order to take advantage of the extended period of limitations, overpayments by the petitioner shall be refunded but only to the extent of the actual tax (without consideration of interest and penalties) paid by the other party to the transaction. The purpose of this section is to avoid duplicate payment of tax where a determination is made by the department that one party to a transaction is subject to tax, and another party to the transaction has previously paid tax with respect to such transaction and, as such, this section shall be construed as extending rights beyond that provided for by sections 552, 553 and 554 and not to limit such other sections."; Amend Sec. 9, page 33, line 9, by striking out "and 581 subsection (a) of section" and inserting in lieu thereof "581"; amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 585), page 41, line 1, by striking out the bracket before "the"; amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 585), page 41, line 3, by striking out the bracket after "reassessment" and inserting immediately thereafter: "The department may, for a period of three years, require a bond of any person who has on three or more occasions within a twelve month period either filed a return or made payment to the department more than thirty days late."; amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 585), page 41, lines 16 and 17, by inserting a bracket before and after "fifteen" and inserting immediately thereafter: "five"; amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 585), page 41, line 17, inserting a bracket before "taxpayer" and after "given"; amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 585), page 41, line 18, by inserting after "thereof"; "is mailed to the taxpayer"; amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 585), page 41, line 19, by striking out said line and inserting in lieu thereof: "(b) Securities in Lieu of Bond. In lieu of the bond required by this section, securities approved by the department, or cash in such amount as [he] it may prescribe, may be deposited. Such securities or cash shall be kept in the custody of the department who may, at any time without notice to the depositor, apply them to any tax and/or interest or penalties due, and for that purpose the securities may be sold by the department, at public or private sale, upon five days written notice to the depositor. "(c) Failure to File Bond. The department may file a lien pursuant to section 548 against any taxpayer who fails to file a bond when required to do so under this section. All funds received in liquidation of such lien shall be refunded to the taxpayer with three per cent interest upon a final determination that he does not owe any payment to the department."; amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 581), page 38, line 19 and page 39, lines 1 to 12, by striking out "of segregating tax from sales" in line 19, page 38 and all of lines 1 to 12, page 39, and inserting in lieu thereof: "that clearly sets forth the segregation of tax receipts from other receipts, all in accord with good accounting and business practice"; amend Sec. 10, page 43, lines 5 to 8, by striking out all of said lines and inserting in lieu thereof: "shall take effect"; amend bill, page 23, by inserting between lines 5 and 6: "Section 4.1. Subsection (a) of section 301 of the act, is amended to read: "Section 301. [Licenses (a)] Application for License.—Every person maintaining a place of business in this Commonwealth [selling or leasing tangible personal property, the use of which is subject to tax] shall on or before the thirtieth day after the effective date of this act or prior to the beginning of business thereafter, make application to the department, on a form prescribed by the department, for a license [and pay to the department the sum of two dollars ($2) therefor If such person maintains more than one place of business in this Commonwealth the license shall be issued for the principal place of business in this Commonwealth]."Section 4.2. Subsections (b), (c) and (d) of section 301 of the act are repealed. "Section 4.3. Subsection (e) of section 301, of the act added May 24, 1956 P. L. 1707), is repealed. "Section 4.4. The act is amended by adding after section 301, six new sections to read: "Section 302 Department to issue License—The department shall upon receipt of an application issue the license applied for under section 301 of this act. If the applicant maintains more than one place of business in this Commonwealth, the license shall be issued for the principal place of business in this Commonwealth, although the department may issue more than one such license to a licensee if it deems such action to be in the interest of the proper administration of this act. The license shall be nonassignable and of permanent duration. Failure of any person to obtain the license herein provided for shall not relieve him of liability to pay or collect the tax imposed by this act. "Section 303 Temporary Licenses.—The department may by regulations provide for the issuance of a temporary license to any person who intends to maintain a place of business in this Commonwealth for a limited period of time. "Section 304. Suspension of Licenses.—The department may suspend the license of any person who shall wilfully fail to comply with any provision of this act or of any rule or regulation issued pursuant hereto. The department shall issue such suspension only after granting a hearing upon at least five days written notice, which notice shall set forth the basis of the suspension and proposed reinstatement conditions, and direct the licensee to show cause why his license shall not be suspended. All suspensions must set forth the conditions which must be fulfilled by the licensee prior to reinstatement of the license. The department may, at any time, amend a suspension order by modifying the reinstatement conditions. A licensee may, at any time after the issuance of the suspension or an amendment thereto, appeal such suspension to the court of common pleas of the county in which he maintains his principal place of business, which court shall grant a de novo hearing to determine the propriety of both the suspension and the conditions for reinstatement. Where the licensee maintains a place of business in more than one county the court may, on the motion of either party, transfer the proceedings to the county in which any of the alleged violations occurred if trial in such other county will be more convenient. On appeal the court of common pleas may grant a supersedeas only where the licensee posts sufficient bond to indemnify the Commonwealth against possible loss of revenue by reason of the issuance of such supersedeas. A license may not be issued to anyone under the provisions of section 302 whose license is under suspension. "Section 305. Reinstatement of Suspended Licenses.—The department shall, on application of a licensee whose license has been suspended pursuant to the provisions of section 304, reinstate such suspended license upon the establishment by the licensee that he has complied with the conditions for reinstatement stipulated by the department. The department shall, upon reinstating such a license, require the licensee to post the bond provided for by section of this act. A licensee may appeal the failure of the department to reinstate a license on application in accordance with the procedure provided for in appealing a suspension. "Section 306. Enforcement.—The department may petition the court of common pleas to restrain any person from maintaining a place of business without a license issued pursuant to this act. The court shall issue an injunction pursuant to such petition in every case in which it is established that a vendor is maintaining a place of business within this Commonwealth wthout being properly licensed by the department, or during a period in which his license has been suspended. "Section 307. Summary Offense.—Any person who shall maintain a place of business in this Commonwealth without having first been licensed by the department pursuant to the provisions of this act or during a period in which such license has been under suspension shall be guilty of a summary offense, and, upon conviction thereof in a summary proceeding, shall be sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100), nor more than three hundred dollars ($300), and, in default thereof, to undergo imprisonment of not less than five days nor more than thirty days. The penalty imposed by this section shall be in addition to all other penalties provided for by this act."; amend Sec. 6, page 23, line 9, by inserting after "534": "and"; amend Sec. 6, page 23, line 9, by striking out "and subsection (c) of Section 546"; amend Bill, page 30, by inserting between lines 7 and 8: "Section 6.1. The act is amended by adding after section 542, a new section to read: "Section 542.1. Assessment to Recover Erroneous Refunds.—The department may, within two years of the granting of any refund or credit, or within the period in which an assessment could have been filed by the department with respect to the transaction pertaining to which the refund was granted, whichever period shall last occur, file an assessment to recover any refund or part thereof or credit or part thereof which was erroneously made or allowed. If the department assesses a tax according to section 541 (b) or (c), there shall be added to the amount of the deficiency interest at the rate of one-half of one percent per month for each month, or fraction thereof, from the date prescribed by section 531 (a) or (c) of this act for the payment of the tax to the date of notice of the assessment. "(d) Uncollectible Checks. Whenever any check issued in payment of any tax or for any other purpose shall be returned to the department as uncollectible, the secretary shall charge a fee of five dollars ($5) plus all protest fees, to the person presenting such check to him to cover the cost of its collection in addition to the interest and penalties otherwise provided for by this act."; Amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 572), page 35, line 6, by striking out the brackets before "Penalties" and after "(A)"; Amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 572), page 35, line 7, by inserting after "Penalties": "additions, interest"; Amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 572), page 35, line 13, by inserting after "penalties": "additions, interest"; Amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 572), page 35, lines 15 and 19, by striking out the brackets before "(B)" in line 15 and after "this" in line 19; Amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 572), page 36, line 1, by striking out the bracket before "Act"; Amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 572), page 36, line 4, by inserting after "To": "one-half of"; Amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 572), page 36, line 4, by inserting a bracket before "No"; Amend Sec. 9 (Sec. 581), page 38, line 2, by inserting after "Department": "The department may require a taxpayer who desires to retain records or tax collections outside the Commonwealth to file a reasonable bond and assume reasonable out-of-state audit expenses."; amend Sec. 10, page 43, lines 5 to 9, by striking out all of said lines and inserting in lieu thereof: "shall not be construed so as to relieve any person from the filing of any returns or from the payment of any taxes, penalties or interest imposed by the provisions of this act prior to amendment with respect to any transactions occurring prior to the effective date hereof, nor shall the provisions of this amending act affect or terminate any petitions, investigations, prosecutions, legal or otherwise, or other proceedings pending under the provisions of the act, or prevent the commencement or further prosecution of any proceedings by the proper authorities of the Commonwealth for violations of such act, or for the assessment, collection or recovery of any taxes, penalties or interest due or owing to the Commonwealth under this act"; amend Bill, page 31, by inserting between lines 10 and 11: "Section 6.1. The act is amended by adding after section 546, a new section to read: "Section 546.2. Precollection of Tax.—The department may, by regulation, authorize or require particular categories of vendors selling tangible personal property for resale to precollect from the purchaser the tax which such purchaser will collect upon making a sale at retail of such tangible personal property: Provided, however, That the department, pursuant to this section, may not require a vendor to precollect tax from a purchaser who purchases for resale more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) worth of tangible personal property from such vendor per year. In any case in which a vendor has been authorized to prepay the tax to the person from whom he purchased the tangible personal property for resale such vendor so authorized to prepay the tax may, under the regulations of the department, be relieved from his duty to secure a license if such duty shall arise only by reason of his sale of the tangible personal property with respect to which he is, under authorization of the department, prepaying the tax. The vendor, on making a sale at retail of tangible personal property with respect to which he has prepaid the tax, must separately state at the time of resale the proper amount of tax with respect to the transaction, and reimburse himself with respect to the taxes which he has previously prepaid. Should such vendor collect a greater amount of tax in any reporting period than he had previously paid upon purchase of the goods with respect to which he prepaid the tax, he must file a return and remit the balance to the Commonwealth at the time at which a return would otherwise be due with respect to such sales."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I move that the amendments to House Bill No. 337 be adopted.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair wishes to call the attention of the Senate to the fact that you are voting on all of these amendments, presented by Senator Lane, at this time.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I refrained from asking for a roll call, but I want the record to show the vote by roll call in each and every instance, rather than the yeas and nays. If you want to, we will take a roll call. Rather than go to that particular bother this afternoon, I have refrained from asking for a roll call. However, I want each and every vote, on each and every amendment, to appear as each individual has voted, either "yes" or "no."

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I will agree that the record may show that all the Democrats voted for the amendments and all the Republicans voted against them. The vote, if taken, would be 27-22. That is, it would show twenty-two for the amendments and twenty-seven against the amendments.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would like to suggest to the Majority and Minority Leaders that in order for the record to be completely squared away on this particular motion, that the Clerk call the roll. Will somebody request that a roll call be taken?

Mr. LANE. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. LANE and Mr. SEYLER, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Barr,	Hays,	Mullin,	Seyler,
Camiel,	Kalman,	Murray,	Silvert,
Dent,	Lane,	Ruth,	Stiefel,
Derk,	McCreesh,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
DiSilvestro,	McGinnis,	Schmidt,	Yosko,
Donolow,	McMenamin,

NAYS—27

Berger,	Kessler,	Propert,	Walker,
Blass,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Scott,	Watkins,
Chapman,	Kromer,	Stevenson,	Watson,
Ehrgood,	Madigan,	Taylor,	Whalley,
Elliott,	Mahany,	Van Sant,	Wolfe,
Flack,	Mallery,	Wade,	Fleming,
Harney,	Pechan,	Wagner,	Presiding Officer

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I feel this amendment is being offered from third base and, certainly, not from the Department of Justice.

This afternoon, there have been insinuations that if you were once for the sales tax, you should always be for the sales tax or vice versa. It seems to me that it has been brought out here rather fairly that sales taxes differ from year to year. The analogy I might use would be that last year, since I am on third base, I did not think the Philadelphia Phillies would win the pennant. This year, I hope the Philadelphia Phillies are not the same team as they were last year. I hope that they can win this particular year.

First of all, Mr. President, I had hoped, when this Session began, to vote for a sales tax somewhat along the line of the Tax Commission proposal. However, the things that I have seen and heard during the last two days will make it almost impossible for me to vote for such a sales tax. When I see that shipbuilding, ship repairing concerns and foundations for buildings are omitted, then it seems to me we ought to look at the real foundations and the real ships which will make this Nation great.

Therefore, Mr. President, this amendment which I am offering has to do with what I think is the real foundation of America, the young people of Pennsylvania who are now in the schools and the colleges. If we can afford to exempt the foundations of buildings, this amendment proposes that we exempt from the sales tax those textbooks used in approved schools and colleges of this State.

I, too, believe that we should build ships in Pennsylvania to sail the seven seas, but the greatest ships that we can launch are the ships which are carrying the cargo of this great heritage.

I, therefore, ask unanimious consent to offer this amendment which will remove the sales tax from those textbooks that are used in the colleges and approved schools of the Commonwealth.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Sec. 4, page 21, line 12, by striking out "Three" and inserting: "four"; Amend Sec. 4 (Sec. 203), page 23, by inserting between lines 5 and 6: "(m) The sale at retail or use of textbooks to be used in courses in colleges and accredited schools."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENT

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I move that this amendment to House Bill No. 337 be adopted.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, this amendment came as a surprise to me and, therefore, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Senator Mahany, is it your understanding that textbooks now are being taxed, which are sold to students in accredited schools of the Commonwealth, other than public schools?

Mr. MAHANY. My understanding, Senator Dent, is that under the old sales tax they were not. I do not know what the present interpretation is. Evidently they are or Senator Hays would not have offered that amendment.

Mr. DENT. Does this not seem like a matter of simple justice here to pass this amendment, when you realize that we have thousands upon thousands of children in this Commonwealth who attend parochial schools who do not cost the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania one cent in their upkeep or their administration, and that the children who attend these schools are going to be further burdened, and are being burdened, by placing upon them a sales tax upon the books which they must buy to attend these classes?

I think that no matter how severely your organization is determined to not admit any amendments at this time, would it not appear to be simple justice to allow school textbooks that are used in these schools particularly, and in some of the universities and accredited colleges of our State to be exempt from the tax, if we can exempt some of the other items that we have talked about today? It appears to me to be a worth-while amendment.

Mr. MAHANY. Perhaps it is, Senator. However, Senator Kessler has looked these amendments over and perhaps he would care to comment on it. I personally feel that, for the present time anyway, if the textbooks are taxable then they should continue to be taxed for a short time until such time when we can get together on the general sales tax, as I suggested. Perhaps that might be at the next Session of the Legislature. Then we can specifically exclude them.

Remember, Senator Dent, what we learned in our various conferences from the States which have sales taxes. They have told us that the best sales tax is one of a general nature with as few exemptions as possible. I hope some day that this type of tax may be put upon the books of Pennsylvania.

Mr. DENT. Is it not possible for the Sun Ship Building Company and the manufacturers and the rest to wait until you get this bill out, too, the same as the school children attending parochial schools?

Mr. MAHANY. Senator Dent, I do not know about this particular amendment. Perhaps the Chairman of the Finance Committee may care to comment on it. I am not sufficiently acquainted with the present situation relative to the taxability of these books and how much is derived from that source.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are you finished, Senator Dent?

Mr. DENT. I am waiting for an answer, Mr. President. Senator Mahany said he would throw the ball to Senator Kessler and the answer will come from Tinkers, Evers to Chance.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I do very much indeed, want to comment on this.

We have a categorical type of sales tax and in Category No. 10, we have books, stationery, stationery supplies, but not including religious publications and so forth. That would include all books. We did consider Senator McMenamin's amendment; we considered a great many requests from the private institutions, hospitals and churches that they be exempt from building materials. However, we did not want to do anything that would reduce the tax take on this bill, because we are trying to hold the line on additional revenue.

I assure you, Senator Dent, because I am sure if you will go back into that great mind of yours and its remarkable memory, which I have often said I admired, to some of the conversations we had down in Senator Mahany's office and over in the Attorney General's office, you will recall that we intended to tax some of these various groups. We wanted to make this tax productive. We can take those things out but if we do, we are going to have to find some other source of revenue for this biennium.

Mr. President, I do object to the statements which are unfounded, such as that in making the clarification of amendments which we have done for manufacturing, we are destroying great quantities of revenue which are likely to be produced by this tax. Senator Dent makes those statements and there are no ways to prove them. We are simply trying to clarify the intention of the drafters of this legislation in the 1955-1956 Session. We have not tried to go beyond that.

There are many, many people who would like to be exempted, as you know. However, we have turned practically all of them down. Senator Dent says we are enlarging the field on industry, on manufacturing, on shipbuilding. We are simply trying to correct what we believe were improper regulations issued by the Department of Revenue, going beyond what we originally intended.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I think I heard the reading of the category by the gentleman and he read that books, periodicals and so forth were taxed, excluding religious articles. A school textbook in a Catholic school is not a religious article. The algebra book, from which they teach in the Catholic schools, is the same book from which they teach in the public schools, and they are taxed under that category. They are not exempted.

When the gentleman accuses me of not telling the truth when I say that they are exempting some in this bill which will cost revenue, I might say to him that my estimates come from the Department of Revenue and I know nowhere else where I may get these estimates. If it does not reduce the tax to take foundations out of the tax bill when they were taxed before, then I do not understand your arithmetic. If it does not reduce the tax to take from the taxable items all of the items used by a shipbuilding company which are now taxed, then I do not understand your arithmetic. If these matters of school children's books can wait until two years from now, until you feel that you are in a position to do that which would be simple justice at that time and would also be simple justice at this time, but which you want to postpone, then why can we not postpone exempting the foundations, the fabrications and these other items which are being exempted? I am only trying to say to you that you cannot exempt one and not exempt another.

Mr. KESSLER. Senator Dent, you say that we are exempting everything that goes into shipbuilding?

Mr. DENT. That is right.

Mr. KESSLER. That is not true. We are exempting those things which are used directly in any operation from the beginning of the product until its final completion. That does not exempt the administrative facilities. It does not exempt the tools used in maintenance.

You used the illustration of every screwdriver. That is not true. If a screwdriver is needed in the production line, that is exempt. If the screwdriver is needed in the maintenance function or to fix up a typewriter or an office chair, that is taxable. Certainly, it applies just as it does to manufacturing.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am sorry I used the term screwdriver because we might get far afield here. I just want to interrogate the gentleman on one more question. Then I think we can pass this matter over.

Senator Kessler, who will be reasonable for the interpretation of this Act?

Mr. KESSLER. The Department of Revenue with the Attorney General's office, I suppose.

Mr. DENT. Well, if I told you that the Department of Revenue and the Attorney General are responsible for the statement I made on the Sun Ship Building or any other shipbuilding company, would you accept that as being reason enough for me to make it?

Mr. KESSLER. It is difficult for me to do that, Senator Dent, in view of some of the regulations which have already been issued under the old sales tax.

Mr. DENT. I only asked you whether you would say that if I received this information from these two departments, would you then say that I had a right to make that statement?

Mr. KESSLER. Yes, I would.

Mr. DENT. All right, I want you to know that that is where the information came from.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, one of the greatest injustices to the cultural progress of Pennsylvania is the fact that materials used for purposes of construction by institutions of higher learning, or learning in general, are subject to this tax.

The amendment which I am about to offer will exempt materials used in the construction, reconstruction, remodeling, repairing or maintenance of real estate used for educational purposes.

Mr. President, I now ask unanimous consent to offer this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 203, page 21, by inserting between lines 2 and 3: "(c.1) The sale at retail or use of supplies and materials to be used in the fulfillment of contracts for the construction, reconstruction, remodeling, repairing, or maintenance of real estate used for educational purposes."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENT

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move that the amendment to House Bill No. 337 be adopted.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, one of the greatest problems in collecting the tax is the existence of loopholes. I see that my colleagues are a little bit unruly so in order to make it more palatable to them, I am going to tell a little story. Maybe it will be helpful to bolster their spirits.

The story goes back to ancient times when people were blessed with the institution of polygamy. A middle-aged man had two wives; one was very young and one was very old. Now his hair was mixed, gray and black. Whenever he would come to spend the evening with his young wife, she would pluck the gray hair so he would look younger. When he would come to the old wife, she would pluck the black hair so he would look older. So, by both of the wives plucking in different directions, the man became bald-headed.

Now to save the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania from being bald-headed, I offer a series of bulky amendments, the purpose of which is to close the loopholes which are now existing in this sales tax.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer the following amendments and regret that they are so bulky.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 2 and 3 by striking out "Paragraphs (11) and (17) of"; Amend Sec. 1, (Sec. 2), page 12, line 4 by inserting after "property:" "Property coming within any one or more of the following broad categories: "(1) Motor vehicles, trailers, semi-trailers [and] aircraft, bicycles, boats, and other vehicles, and all accessories, supplies, parts, lubricants and equipment attached or attachable thereto or used in the maintenance operation [or] repair [of such motor vehicles, trailers, semi-trailers and aircraft] or otherwise in conjunction therewith: "(2) Formal wearing apparel, materials, supplies, and accessories primarily designed for or normally not used except in conjunction with [Formal] formal day or evening [apparel] wear [and articles] Articles made of fur on the hide or pelt or any material imitative of fur and articles of which such fur real, imitation or synthetic, is the component material of chief value, but only if such value is more than three times the value of the next most valuable component material; "(3) All materials, supplies, tools, machinery and equipment, including parts and accessories, used in the construction, reconstruction, remodeling, altering, servicing improving, repair and maintenance of any real estate; "(4) Furnishings, appliances, supplies, fittings, ornaments, instruments, materials, chemicals, furniture, machinery fixtures, tools, equipment and accessories for home, business, personal, industrial or commercial use, for indoor or outdoor purposes; "(5) Business, industrial, professional and commercial supplies, equipment, and machines of all types, including parts and accessories purchased for or use in connection therewith; "(6) Cosmetics, toilet preparations, toilet articles, drugs [and] medicines, medical supplies [except when sold on prescription] and articles used in conjunction with personal sanitation, grooming, comfort or health; "(7) All smoking accessories and supplies and tobacco products, except cigarettes; "(8) Luggage, handbags, wallets, billfolds, pocketbooks, umbrellas, leather goods and related articles, except leather wearing apparel not elsewhere in this section defined as tangible personal property, but including fittings and accessories; "(9) Jewelry, watches, clocks, silverware, dishes, tableware, pottery linens, glassware and related articles [but not including religious articles]; and parts, supplies, and accessories used in connection therewith; "(10) Books, commercially printed matter, information services, clippings, photographs, pictures, art work, paintings, art supplies, paper, paper products, drawings, models, sculpture, stationery [and] stationery supplies and related articles used in connection with such items, but not including religious publications sold by religious groups, [Bibles] bibles mail order catalogues and direct mail advertising literature; "(11) Toys costumese, games, hobby supplies, photographic and projection equipment, film, parts and supplies, sporting goods and athletic equipment and supplies therefor, [bicycles and parts, accessories and supplies therefor, pleasure boats and equipment parts, accessories and supplies used in connection therewith] regardless of the use made of any such property (except wearing apparel which is not primarily designed for, and normally not used except in conjunction with artistic, athletic or recreational activity; "(12) Flowers, plants, shrubbery, trees, fertilizer, sprays and insecticides, bulbs and seeds [and supplies and equipment] machinery, equipment, materials, accessories, parts, supplies, and all related articles used in connection therewith; "(13) Fuel oil [and] petroleum products, [for heating purposes]; steam [and] natural, manufactured and bottled gas; "(13.1) Wood and wood products used as fuel, and artificial and synthetic products used as fuel; "(14) Hardware, tools paint, [and] painting materials, and equipment, parts, accessories, materials and supplies used in conjunction therewith; "(15) live animals, fish and birds (except when purchased as food for human consumption), and supplies, food and equipment used in connection therewith; "(16) Radios, television, receiving sets and receiving equipment, phonographs, sound recorders, musical instruments or any combination of the foregoing, and parts, components and accessories for the same, and records and sheet music;

"(16.1) All electrical, mechanical and electronic equipment and apparatus designed or used to record, receive, transmit or reproduce sound, signals, data, impulses or images, and parts, components, accessories, equipment, machinery, materials, and supplies used in the maintenance, operation, service or repair of the same or attached thereto;

"(17) Food and beverages when the purchase price of the total transaction is more than fifty cents (50¢) when purchased [for consumption on the premises and when the purchase price of the total transaction is more than fifty cents (50¢)] (i) from persons engaged in the business of catering or (ii) from [(i)] persons engaged in the business of operating restaurants, cafes, lunch counters, private and social clubs, taverns, dining cars, hotels and other eating places, [except when purchased from a school, church or hospital in the ordinary course of the activities of such organization; or (ii) persons engaged in the business of catering.] when in the latter case the purchase is for consumption on the premises of the vendor or when furnished, prepared or served for consumption at tables, chairs or counters, or from trays, glasses, dishes or other tableware provided by the vendor. For the purpose of this [section] clause (17) beverages shall not include malt and brewed beverages and spirituous and vinous liquors."

Amend Sec. 1, (Sec. 2), page 12, lines 5 to 20 both inclusive by striking out all of said lines;

Amend Sec. 1, (Sec. 2), page 13, lines 1 to 20 both inclusive by striking out all of said lines;

Amend Sec. 4 (Sec. 203), page 23, by inserting between lines 5 and 6: "(m) The sale of food and beverages to students on the premises of a nonprofit educational institution.":

"(n) The sale of food and beverages by a church on its own premises.

"(o) The sale of food and beverages on the premises of a hospital to patients or employes thereof.

"(p) The sale of drugs, medicines, and similar medicinal products on prescription or to a practititioner of the healing art, or the use of tangible personal property so purchased on prescription or by a practitioner of the healing art."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move that the amendments to House Bill No. 337 be adopted.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, you know I can foresee that this amendment will also be doomed. Not only will it get a refusal, but when I return home I will be blamed for ulterior motives in offering it. It involves sleight of hand movements with parent construction companies and their subsidiaries.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer these amendments at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 1, by inserting after "(C)": "and"; Amend Sec. 1, page 2 lines 2 and 3, by striking out "Clause (J) and paragraphs (11) and (17) of clause (L)"; Amend bill, page 7, by inserting between lines 3 and 4:

"Section 1.1. Section 2 of the act, added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), is amended by adding, after subsection (h), a new subsection to read:

"Section 2. Definitions. The following words, terms and phrases when used in this act shall have the meaning ascribed to them in this section, except where the context clearly indicates a different meaning:

"(h.1) "Related Persons."

"(1) Persons who bear between themselves the relationship of parent and child, husband and wife, brothers, sisters, brother and sister, grandparent and grandchild.

"(2) Corporations each of which are controlled by the same one or more persons.

"(3) For the purpose of this subsection (h.1), "Control" means the ownership of at least a fifty percent interest of a partnership or the ownership either of stock of a corporation representing at least fifty percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote, or at least fifty percent of the total value of shares of all classes of stock. If a person (or persons) is in control (within the meaning of the preceding sentence) of a corporation which in turn owns at least fifty percent of the total combined voting power of all stock entitled to vote of another corporation, or owns at least fifty percent of the total value of the shares of all classes of stock of another corporation, then such person, (or persons) shall be treated as in control of such other corporation. For the purpose of determining whether one person or a group of persons controls another person or group of persons, an individual shall be considered as owning the stock owned directly or indirectly by or for his spouse (other than a spouse who is legally separated from the individual under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance), and his children, grandchildren, and parents.

"(4) An individual who has control of a corporation within the meaning of clause (3) of this subsection shall be considered to be a person related to such corporation.

"(5) A partnership shall be considered to be related to a corporation or to another partnership where one or more partners who combine in holding fifty percent or more of the interests of the partnership are in control of such other partnership or corporation.

"Section 1.2. Clause (j) and paragraphs (11) and (17) of clause (1) of section 2 of the act, added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), are amended to read:

"Section 2. Definitions.—The following words, terms and phrases when used in this act shall have the meaning ascribed to them in this section, except where the context clearly indicates a different meaning."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move that the amendments to House Bill No. 337 be adopted.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, as I said yesterday, I am here today representing a special interest group in this amendment. It seems, from the arguments that have taken place yesterday and today on this floor, that in order to get any legislation passed you must be represented first by a lobbyist and, secondly, it must be a special interest group. Therefore, my amendment represents a special interest group. I may say that the special interest of this group is only the interest to survive. They have no lobbyists; no one cares about them except around election time, and we would call them not the struggling monopolies of Pennsylvania, but the struggling little people of this State.

Mr. President, they are not represented by the Chamber of Commerce or the Pennsylvania Manufacturers. They have contributed no money, I am sure, to either political party.

Mr. President, my amendment asks that all those persons who, unfortunately, find themselves on public assistance, unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation and social security be relieved from paying the sales tax.

Certainly the Republican Party and the Republican Members of the Senate on the other side, who have so graciously opened their hearts to alleviate big business, big utilities and big shipping companies, can open their hearts just a bit wider and permit these unfortunate people to be exempt from this tax. As we know, the sales tax is not a tax on earning and it is not a tax on saving. It is obvious then that it is a tax on spending and it seems, for some reason, that the little people are the ones with the biggest families and must spend the most money.

Now I do not want to circulate the wrong idea around here. I am not against big business. I fortunately have a few stocks, like John Dent, in some of these companies and I like them to pay dividends. I am certainly not against the shipyards because I have a little boat of my own down there in Margate. Regarding the utilities, I have a couple shares of stock in the utilities. Nevertheless, I do not feel that these groups, although we like them to pay dividends and have earnings, should get out of the responsibility of meeting the burdens of any other individual in this State by being relieved from paying the bill that causes the State Government to operate.

I hope that my friends on the other side will see fit to give a helping hand to those whom I have set forth in this amendment.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend House Bill No. 337—Printer's No. 160 on page 21, Section 203 by inserting after line 14, the following: "All persons exempt from the tax who are on public assistance, unemployment compensation, workmens' compensation and social security".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENT

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I move that the amendment to House Bill No. 337 be adopted.

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Donolow.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Donolow, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DONOLOW. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. PECHAN. Senator Donolow, do you realize that the people who are on relief, the people who are on unemployment compensation or workmen's compensation, practically all of their take now is tax-exempt? People who are on relief are given so much for rent; rents are not taxed. They are given so much for food; food is not taxed. They are given so much for clothing, which is not taxed. They are given I think $2.50 for incidentals, which would make only about $2.50 a month that would be taxable and would bring a return of about seven cents in sales tax to the Commonwealth.

Now do you realize that the person on relief could go out and buy for you or anybody else? I do not know how you are going to police this, but that person would have to have some sort of identification and he could certainly go out for his neighbor and go into the store and show his card and buy for the whole community without paying the sales tax. Now where is it going to help the little fellow that you are worrying about, since the tax will only produce about seven cents a month from the person on relief?

As you know, clothing is exempt, food is exempt, rents are exempt. There are some little incidentals which amount to about $2.50 which a person is allowed, according to our Public Assistance Law.

Mr. DONOLOW. Senator Pechan, I am awfully sorry that you made that statement. I do not know about the little people up in your county who are on relief or who are drawing unemployment compensation or workmen's compensation, but I think they are decent citizens. I do not doubt that in my community they are decent people. I do not think they would try to steal or break the law or go in and try to misrepresent anymore than the big shipping companies would or, as the illustration was given here by Senator Kessler, if the shipping company bought a screwdriver for maintenance it would pay the tax, but if they bought a screwdriver for their direct work, they would not have to pay the tax. I do not think the big shipping companies would anymore lie about that situation when they made the purchase or misrepresent than these little people.

I think, Doctor, maybe you have been with these big companies so often that you have not gotten down to the grass roots often enough to know that these people on public assistance, and these little people, are honest, decent people and are just as interested in upholding the laws of Pennsylvania as the big business people and the big utilities, if given an opportunity. You know they have a standard of living which they try to maintain also. If one gets his funds from, as you say, allocations from public assistance or unemployment compensation, it does not necessarily mean that all his funds will find their way mainly into rent and necessities. He certainly wants to maintain for his family some of the other items which every family wants to maintain today. Whether you believe so or not, you will find that the sales tax hits every family when they go into the drugstore and buy certain items in there; when they buy toothpaste and other items.

There are a hundred and one things that you, in your daily life—you make small ten and fifteen and twenty-five cent purchases, on which you pay the sales tax. Therefore, just because a man is on relief or drawing workmen's compensation or unemployment compensation does not necessarily mean that he dies.

Mr. PECHAN. I did not want a long speech. I wanted you to answer my question about the seven cents of revenue that would be brought in. I want you to know, Senator, that I know; I am little people. I happen to be a dentist. I am making a living off the little people. I do not make it off of, as you insinuate, the Sun Ship Building Company or the United States Steel or the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company. I make my money off the little guy that you are talking about. I have his interest at heart just as much as you do, but I do not use him for political purposes. You say to me that he is honest; he is just as honest as the shipbuilding company. I do not say that he is not, but he is going to be tempted. His neighbor is going to tempt him. His neighbor is going to say, "Why not go down to the store and buy this article for me?"

Let me say this. If everybody were as honest as you are trying to make me think they are, why do we have these thousands of people collecting this sales tax, which the Democratic Party has made such a mess of? I want to say also, while I am thinking about it, that one of the reasons we have these poor collections is because you fellows on that side of the aisle are belittling the sales tax. You cannot blame these collectors for sitting on their fannies back home and not trying to collect it. You can go into my county and find many of them sitting around doing nothing, chewing tobacco, and having a "gab fest" and you cannot find any answers.

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Senator Pechan.

The PRESIDENT OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Pechan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PECHAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DONOLOW. Senator Pechan, because you say you earn your living from the little people,—and I assume some of these people find themselves, unfortunately, on possibly workmens' compensation or unemployment compensation—when they come to your office and you make dentures for them, do you charge them the sales tax?

Mr. PECHAN. No, we have not charged the sales tax. I want to tell you what I do with some of those little people, my friend. A great many of the times, I do not charge them anything. It was the little people who elected Al Pechan, not the Sun Ship Building Company that you are referring to or the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

Mr. DONOLOW. Do I understand, Senator Pechan, that you said you do not collect the sales tax from them?

Mr. PECHAN. No.

Mr. DONOLOW. Then I assume that you pay the sales tax from your own pocket for the dentures which your patients have made at your office?

Mr. PECHAN. Yes, I do .

Mr. DONOLOW. I see, thank you.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I am not going to introduce any amendments. I am, however, going to make a—

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. YOSKO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MAHANY. We are on the amendment which has been presented by Senator Donolow.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler, will state it.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I take cognizance of the validity of the point of order raised by the Majority Leader. However, I did not hear him raise a point of order when the unparliamentary language was recently used by the speaker. I think if we are going to take the attitude of raising a point of order in its proper place, I think we should cover all the incidents.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would say that we have tried to give great latitude to both sides and have not ruled in many cases.

The Chair feels that the only thing Senator Mahany was attempting to draw to Senator Yosko's attention was the fact that the Chair was attempting to draw to his attention that Senator Donolow's motion had not yet been disposed of.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, do I understand from Senator Pechan's remarks that it will be all right for us to go over and see whether he has filed his sales tax return for these dentures on which he paid the sales tax?

Mr. PECHAN. Senator Barr, for your information, when I buy some materials at the dental supply house, they add to my bill the three per cent sales tax. We ,in Ford City, have not raised our fees. In fact, do you know that we, as dentists, are not allowed to absorb the sales tax in the consummation of any product? We do not feel that we vend anything; we give a service.

The Department of Justice, last October, ruled that dental laboratories would have to charge the dentists a three per cent sales tax on a finished denture. We have always paid for the forceps we buy; we have always paid for the plaster, for the teeth, for the gold and for the silver that we use. However, it was not the intent of this Legislature to tax false teeth any more than it was to place a sales tax on a glass eye or a wooden leg or a prosthetic arm or a prosthetic nose or anything else. The other categories were not taxed. However, all of a sudden the department ruled that the laboratories would have to charge the dentists a three per cent sales tax on finished dentures. That is the reason you will find that exemption in House Bill No. 337 today. That language is the same as was incorporated in the tax bill which was passed in 1953, under Governor Fine, when dentures were not taxed. We want to pay and will continue to pay the three per cent sales tax on the materials that we use in our dental office. However, we do not feel that a denture is a product that you can place on your shelf and sell to somebody. We do not make dentures only for esthetic value; they also have a functional value.

When you have to lose all your teeth, you come to Ford City and if you can plead that you are on relief, I will make them for your free.

Mr. BARR. I thank the gentleman. I may take him up on that offer.

I am just going to correct what he did say, however, He said that he had been paying the sales tax on dentures. Now he is saying that he is not paying the sales tax. Therefore, he is saving me a trip because I will not have to go over and check on it.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I have paid the sales tax on many items, but I do not have any returns over here in the Department of Revenue. I pay them and whomever I pay them to files the return. I do not file a return.

For the record, the Senator said he pays the sales tax on these items. The fellow to whom he paid the sales tax would file a return and not Senator Pechan.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, having listened very carefully to Senator Pechan and to some of the problems he is having, I would like to, on his behalf, ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 4 (Sec. 203), page 22, lines 14 and 15, by striking out "Medicine on Prescription"; Amend Sec. 4 (Sec. 203), page 22, lines 19 and 20, by striking out "False Teeth and Materials Used by a Dentist in Dental Treatment".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the amendments to House Bill No. 337 be adopted.

Mr. KALMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, this bill is by name a selective sales and use tax act. This implies that the bill is selective in that each item specified by the bill is subject to tax regardless of who purchases it. If this were true, we would have a tax similar to the Federal Excise Taxes with the ease of administration and the clarity of interpretation inherent in across the board taxing of the sale, rental or use of specific categories of property.

Instead, we have a law which not only characterizes the property subject to tax, but then exempts particular property according to the nature of the person buying such property or the use to which such persons subject the property.

These are not only very difficult things to establish on routine audit but they tend to complicate to an irrational extent the interpretation of the Act. Insidious distinctions must of necessity be made.

The result of such complexities is an open invitation to lobbyists and special interest groups to attempt to secure the exemption from tax of those persons whom they seek to favor and to do it in such a complex manner that the public—and I might interject at least half of the Senators on this floor—does not understand the intricacies or full extent of what is being done.

This bill, by its very nature, makes it easy to exempt the big boy and to tax the little fellow. Its enforcement provisions are so loose that it makes it possible for large interests to interpret the Act in a grossly unrealistic manner to their own best advantage, with assurance that even if they are caught, the most they will have to pay is a few pennies interest.

The little fellow who must pay tax every time he makes a purchase, to just the opposite extent, cannot protect himself when he knows he is paying a tax he should not pay, because he is in a defenseless position to pay the tax if he wants to make the purchase.

The entire structure of the tax is intentionally focused at taxing the small individual and exempting big industry, utilities, shipbuilding interests and other favored groups.

Mr. President, I was going to introduce amendments to repeal the sales tax act. However, since I introduced a bill to that effect and it was not favorably acted upon, I changed my mind and decided not to introduce that type of amendment at this time. However, I am going to make a motion after I make my remarks. My motion will be to recommit this sales tax bill for further study.

I will tell you why, Mr. President. A few months ago, the Director of the Sales Tax Bureau asked me whether I could find a competent person to take charge of the Allentown District Sales Tax Office. I thought I would be doing a service for the Commonwealth if I tried to get the right kind of a person to fill the position.

I went to a fellow in Bethlehem who conducted an accounting office. He is a good accountant and had a good business. He agreed to take the job and close his office. He worked at the job in Allentown for about two months and came to me and he said, "I have had enough; I am going to resign." I said, "Why are you going to resign?" He said, "Well, if I do not resign, I will be taking a walk up that big boardwalk." That is the common expression back home when people talk about going to the Allentown State Hospital.

I asked him why again and he said, "The sales tax law, as it is now written, is impossible of interpretation." He said, "I get so many telephone calls during the day and during the night from merchants and from taxpayers that the job is driving me crazy." He said, "There are all sorts of returns coming into the office and they are incorrectly filled out. There are so many directives issued by the Department of Revenue because of the hodgepodge manner in which the bill was drafted that you just cannot do a good job in collecting the tax and administering the law, even if you want to." He said, "I have had enough and I am going to quit." He did quit.

Then they put another gentleman in his place and he is a competent person, too. I was told last week that he quit for practically the same reasons. He told me, Mr. President, that merchants, because they do not understand the law, are making not only the normal profit which they should make on the goods they sell, but they are also making a three per cent addititonal profit on the taxes they are collecting from the poor people who are paying it, which never reaches the State Treasury.

I say to you, Mr. President, that people do not mind paying a tax to finance the obligations of the Commonwealth. However, when they pay a tax, they want to make sure that that tax reaches the State Treasury. From the information that I get from those who are administering this sales tax law, because, as I said before, of the hodgepodge manner in which it is drafted, there are millions and millions of dollars that are being collected today which are not reaching the State Treasury. The merchants automatically are becoming chiselers. I am sure that if any Member of this Senate makes inquiry of any merchant, they will tell you of their dissatisfaction with the present law as it has been drafted.

A short time ago, because this money is not reaching the State Treasury, the gentlemen on the other side complained. When the law was passed, they estimated that it was going to raise, I think, $322,000,000. We suddenly find that we are going to be about $100,000,000 short. It is not because the people are not paying the money but, I repeat, it is because it is not reaching the State Treasury.

Then there was a resolution passed, calling on the Governor to advise the Leigslature why the tax was not being collected. The Governor, in accordance with the mandate of the Legislature, hired McKinsey and Company, a nationally known firm of consultants, to make a survey of the sales tax department. I do not know how many people read the report made by McKinsey and Company. My guess would be that probably two or three people in this Senate read that report; first of all because it has not been made available to everybody. I went down to the News Room today to get a copy of it, and I was told that I could not take it out because it was the only copy they had. I finally wound up over in the Governors' office and got from the Goevrnor's office the only copy they had. However, I did read the newspaper accounts about that report and they did not sound very good. If you take a look at that report, you will find that the guts of it, the most important provision in that report, the most important finding in that report, has to do with the law itself as it now exists and as it has been drafted. One of the first recommendations they make in that report is to correct the shortcomings in the law. We are not doing that with the bill which is now before us.

Mr. President, I heard Senator Mahany, during the debate here this afternoon, talk about the sales tax laws in other States. This is what the McKinsey Report says about the sales tax law in Pennsylvania as compared with the sales tax law in other States. It says, and I quote:

"The selective and exemptive features of the Act, almost unique among the provisions of state sales tax laws, make difficult the informing of taxpayers as to their liabilities, the establishment of a firm master list of required registrants, and require the preparation and issuance of numerous and troublesome definitions and rulings."

One of the first recommendations they make is to redraft the law so that it will be understandable by all of the people concerned. Therefore, Mr. President, every one of the other recommendations that are made in that Report, if you will read them, flow from that one deficiency, the shortcoming in the law.

I say to you now that unless it is corrected, unless it is corrected, you are going to have the same situation in the future that you have right now. There are going to be millions of dollars paid by little people and big people that will never reach the State Treasury. I say to you, as reasonable men, who I am sure want to see every penny of tax that is paid reach the State Treasury, that the only practical thing to do is to recommit this bill and draft a bill that the Department of Revenue will be able to administer without difficulty and without two volumes of directives and interpretations of the various sections of the law. Give the merchants a law which they can understand, in order that they will know what to tax and what not to tax. Give the merchants a law which they will understand. If you will do that, you will be doing a great service for those merchants. Give the people a law which they will understand, in order for them to know when they go in to make a purchase whether the article they purchase is taxable or not.

I am informed, Mr. President and Members of this Senate, that people are paying the tax on a good many items that are not taxable under the law today. However, they do not know any better because, as I said before, of the hodgepodge manner in which the law is drafted.

The bill in its present form, Mr. President, is nothing more than a Mickey Finn, a Mickey Finn that is being slipped to the people by the special interests and by us who carelessly draft a bill which no one understands.

I was certainly glad to see labor take a stand against it over the week end. They did in that report, at least the few labor leaders who were on the Governor's Committee to recommend a tax program. In principle, they said they were for a sales tax. They said it reluctantly, but they came out with a statement in so far as this bill is concerned, over the week end, and they told you what was wrong with it. The big people are being taken out of it and the little people continue to be taxed. It is not understandable.

Therefore, the only reasonable and practical thing to do is to send it back to committee and call in this McKinsey and Company which made a thorough study of the entire sales tax setup for the entire sales tax law. Call this company before the committee and have them explain their findings. Get their recommendations. Draft a bill that will be understandable, draft a bill that will be effective, draft a bill that will collect the money which is needed and draft a bill that will collect not only the money, but see that it gets to the State Treasury.

Send this bill back to committee and call over the executives of the Department of Revenue who are responsible for administering this law after we pass it. Get their views on it. Maybe we can simplify it and give them something that they can understand without issuing two or three volumes of directives. Get the merchants in, if necessary, and get their views. If you do that, you will be doing a service for the Commonwealth and a service for the people.

However, Mr. President, just to sit here and pass a bill, when you know that it is not the kind of a bill that is understandable, you are doing a disservice to yourselves as well as to the people. I say to you that, under the circumstances, anybody who votes for this bill as it is drafted and the hodgepodge form in which it appears, when not even both sides can agree on many of its provisions, ought to be ostracized by the voters at the next election. If the Governor signs it, the voters should ostracieze him, too, because I do not think he should sign a bill that is not going to accomplish the end for which it is passed, and that is to raise revenue to help finance the obligations of the Commonwealth.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am appealing to you, as reasonable men, to do the reasonable and the right thing by sending it back to committee and drafting a bill that everybody will understand.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

Mr. YOSKO. Accordingly, Mr. President, I move that House Bill No. 337, on third reading, be recommitted to the Committee on Finance for the purpose of further study and for redrafting.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, Senator Yosko knows that I was one of the ones, about two or three weeks ago, who suggestd that we have a general sales tax and it was termed in the papers as a "trial balloon."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Would the Senator yield, please? I think the Senator knows a motion to recommit is not debatable.

Mr. MAHANY. Well, Mr. President, certainly Senator Yosko debated it and, as I understand it, the Chair has no right to call a point of order unless it is raised by one of the Senators. Now if Senator Fleming is raising a point of order on me, O.K. The point is well taken and I will not discuss it any further.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would ask for unanimous consent to suspend the rule so that the Senator is able to debate the bill. I would ask unanimous consent to suspend the rule.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman, but the hour is growing late and I think we are all acquainted with it. Therefore, I will not prolong the discussion any more and ask that the motion be put.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, just before you call the roll, I desire to make a very short statement. Today I have asked all the Members on my side to vote "no" because, number one, this is strictly a lobbyist bill; number two, it is a haven for the lawyers, and I think they are all doing pretty well as it is; number three, it will not give the money that is needed; and number four, it is not enforceable.

I hope that the House will have more wisdom than the twenty-seven men on the other side and will turn down this monstrosity that is going to them and that they will put this bill into a Committee of Conference and straighten it out so that at least, what is left of the bill can be enforced by the Department of Revenue with the advice of the Department of Justice.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I realize it is late, but I have been paiently waiting for these remarks to be in order under discussion of the bill, and this is the first opportunity I have had to make them .

Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Kessler.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Kessler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KESSLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I have been impressed by the fact that while there is much difference of opinion about the equitability, let us say, of this bill, there seems to be a wide disparity of opinion as to the result of this bill upon the revenue return. Certainly one of the tests of a bill is, and I think the Senator will agree, does it meet the fiscal necessities; does it return enough money to meet the need.

Now I would like to first ask the Senator whether I I heard him correctly when I think I heard him say that as a result of the amendments placed in this bill by the Senate, there will be no loss of revenue, as compared with the collections before those amendments were inserted.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, assuming we will get the same effective collection that we are getting today, which should improve as we go along, there should be no loss in revenue.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thought that is what I heard the gentleman say. Now the gentleman is aware, I am sure, that an estimate of upwards of $100,000,000 loss of revenue, as a result of these amendments, has been made by the Revenue Department of the Commonwealth. This is the department, Mr. President, which, I am sure the Senator will agree, has had experience in administering the law to date. It is the department which, I am sure, has carefully analyzed the purpose and the wording of the amendments sponsored by the Senator from Lancaster and their effect upon collections. It is the department that has come up with the answer that upwards of $100,000,000 will be lost as a result of these amendments.

I would like to ask the Senator, since it is obvious that there is a wide discrepancy, what is the authority for the Senators' statement? I take it he does not just offer it on the basis of his own rationalizing about the bill. On what authority does he offer this statement which is so much in conflict?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, there have been, so far as I know, very few assessments. Many industries, businesses and merchants are not paying tax on questionable items on which they have been advised by their legal counsel not to pay tax. Consequently, much revenue is in the balance and we do not know whether it is coming in. My estimates of revenue are based on the actual collections which have been made so far and they do not reflect these indeterminable areas.

When the Secretary of Revenue, for whom I have a high regard, makes a guess, which I assume that is what it is and what must be, in view of the report put out by McKinsey and Company that they are using their Univac system to break down the various classifications, I can only come to the conclusion that that is a very rough guess and on what the Secretary of Revenue bases it, I have no idea.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman

Mr. President, two things seem apparent to me in this answer. One is that the gentleman is saying that there will not be a loss in the collection of revenue because, at the present time, people are not just paying it and if these amendments are passed, they will pay it. That is the only answer I can take from the gentleman's answer.

The second comment I would like to make is that there is a failing known as megalomania which, I believe, means that a person sets up his own opinion in contrast to the weight of the opinion on the other side. It seems to me, on all the evidence the gentleman has offered, that here is a case where Senator Kessler is putting up his own ability to rationalize about the bill against the experience and the total resources of the Department of Revenue in estimating what the affect of these amendments will be in practice. It is an answer, Mr. President, which may satisfy some of the Senators' colleagues, but it does not satisfy me.

I think it is a serious matter to contemplate that we will lose $100,000,000 of revenue because of this set of amendments, and I am not at all satisfied. The Senator has not even cited any other Senators as having particiated with him in this research which he apparently has made. I cannot, myself, accept, as a serious answer meant to be taken by reasonable men, the answer that the gentleman has given to this question. Unless some other authority is cited, some procedure by which the gentleman can justify his figures, I am forced to conclude that it is an unsatisfactory answer as far as I am concerned.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I am sorry if I created the impression that I was so impressed with my own importance that I would rate my estimates over those of many others. I have estimates here prepared by the Economy League, The Tax Policy Advisory Committee, the State Chamber of Commerce, the Governor's Budget Secretary. I have a special study on the sales tax by the Joint State Government Commission.

I still stand by my figures that if we have been able to collect at the rate of $20,000,000 in November and December, with twenty-five months of collection possible in the next biennium, there is no reason, if this Act is administered effectively, why we should not collect $500,000,000.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, since the gentleman has offered these sources, I, of course, withdraw the remark I made, which was only caused by the answer he gave me previously.

Mr. President, I would ask the gentleman whether he is telling me that the agencies he named, including the Chamber of Commerce, have made estimates specifically of the amount. He mentioned that they made studies of this bill. I am asking him if they made specific studies of the amount which would be lost in revenue as a result of the amendments placed in this bill by the Senate Committee?

Mr. KESSLER. They have not, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Have you used any other resource, research, technique or agency other than your own opinion, Senator, to estimate that no loss of revenue will result in face of the prediction of the Revenue Department?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I have checked with a number of other people, but I have not asked for specific estimates. Those whom I checked with agreed with me that there should be no loss in revenue.

Mr. SEYLER. Then, as I understand it, the Senator is back to his position that it is his own opinion against the opinion of the Revenue Department. I, therefore, feel that the validity of my first remark stands.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I heard Senator Kessler say the other day that on the basis of not the study that was made, but on the basis of collections made during two separate months, the anticipated revenues from this bill would be one-half million dollars. I checked with the Sales Tax Bureau this afternoon, and I am a little bit surprised that Senator Kessler would use as a barometer, the highest collections made in any one month since the sales tax has been in effect as a basis for the over-all collection for a twenty-four month period.

From the figures I was given, there was $20,000,000 collected in only one month since the sales tax has been in effect. Here are the figures they gave me on collections:

March 1956, $28,000; in April, $1,186,000; in May, $8,087,000; June, $11,851,000; July, $18,862,000; August, $14,311,000; September, $14,597,000; October, $18,923,000; November, $14,671,000; December, $14,613,000; January of this year, $20,061,000; February, $13,853,000.

Now the intelligent method of computing what the sales tax would bring in for a twenty-four month period would be to strike an average for perhaps the last six months, when the sales tax collection bureau was better organized, and from that average, multiply by twenty-four, instead of taking one month, just one month out of the total number of months, when they collected $20,000,000 and which was during the Christmas season when shopping was at a peak. To say that you are going to collect $20,000,000 a month, on an average, for twenty-four months based on one month's collections is, in my opinion, an insult to the intelligence of the people of this Commonwealth.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I am sorry that the Senator from Northampton did not have an opportunity to read the McKinsey and Company Report in full, because there are many revealing features there. I cannot find in this report, as I recall reading it and I have not had a chance to check it since he made the statement, where this group of consultants recommends that we change the law. They are reporting on the law as it exists and they point out certain difficulties that are within the law.

To come back to the estimates, I would like to read from Page 1-5 of this Report:

"'Irregular' tax returns (e.g., returns marked by some discrepancy, with differences between the attached check and the return, with correspondence attached, or returns made up on the taxpayers' worksheets rather than the prescribed return form)"—or such irregular tax returns—"are diverted from the routine flow of work and remain unprocessed. As of January 10, roughly 40,000 returns (over 20 percent of a month's returns) were being sidetracked each month. There being insufficient employees to handle this accumulated workload in the Internal Audit Division, backlogs mounted to significant proportions by this date. This meant that a substantial amount of revenue in the checks attached to these returns was not made available to the state, that the central machine accounting operations could not complete their processes, and the correction of the discrepancy by communication with the taxpayers was, in many instances, delayed."

Now all I submit, Mr. President, is that if we have twenty per cent of the returns with checks attached, which are not being turned over effectively to the State, they cannot be reflected in the tax collections and certainly, the tax collections ought to be higher than reported by the Department of Revenue.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not want the impression to get out that there is too much of a difference between Senator Kessler's estimates and my own. I think Senator Kessler will admit that he and I have talked the matter over in so far as returns are concerned. I have stated upon this floor, and I believe Senator Kessler has just corroborated what I said before when he stated that many persons and groups have not paid the tax. I am sure that when we go back to collect that tax, we will receive a great amount of money that belongs to the Commonwealth.

In order to clarify the situation, I might say this. My quarrel is not too much with the estimate. I am not so sure but what the tax can bring in anywhere from $18,500,000 to $22,000,000 per month. That is not the important feature that I have been battling here on the floor. The question that concerns me is, of course, the yield which is important to everybody. However, the lack of collection because of the amendments which have been made, and the question of leaving out of the tax bill those who are able to pay and placing a greater burden upon those who are not able to pay, concerns me. If this tax bill can bring in $20,000,000 now, if you would have left the taxpayers in it who were paying the tax before and properly collected that tax, then the yield would be $22,000,000 a month, because that is the estimated loss we will have.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, although I voted for several amendments to this law today, even had those amendments passed I would have voted against this bill. We committed ourselves against a sales tax in 1954. I voted against the sales tax last year.

We have had amendments introduced here which would amend the State Constitution to allow a graduated income tax. In my opinion, this is the only fair way of levying a tax in Pennsylvania. Should we have a tax such as that, then, of course, we would not have this hodgepodge tax bill every two years.

I know that in this particular bill, those who are able will adjust it in their cost of living increases and in their agreements. I know that there are many inexpressive businessmen who will bear it and a lot of inexpressive individuals who are going to suffer by the increase in their cost of living.

For that reason, Mr. President, I will vote against the tax bill this time.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, Senator Kessler said that the McKinsey Report, if I understand him correctly, did not make any recommendations relative to clarifying the sales tax act which is now being administered. I must disagree with him. I do not want to take up the time of the Senate, but if you read on page 1, you will find that it says under the heading of "What We Found" as follows:

"As early as January 10 we identified six major problems that underlie deficiencies that had been noted in the operations of the Bureau of Sales and Use Tax. All six problems are interrelated and have contributed cumulatively to the failure of the Bureau to reach all taxpayers and efficiently to seek out all revenue due."

The first recommendation reads as follows:

"These six key problems are:

"1. The distinctive characteristics of the law itself that make difficult general understanding by taxpayers and the establishment of efficient administration."

That, Mr. President, was one of the reasons why I said that the guts of this report, if you read further, is in the simplification of the law itself. It is for that reason that I made the motion that we recommit the bill and draft a bill which would be understandable by the taxpayers, in order that efficient administration could be established.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 479, Printer's No. 92, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 107, TAKEN FROM THE TABLE

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I call from the table Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 107.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO PROVIDE ADEQUATE SAFEGUARDS IN TARIFF AND TRADE LEGISLATION

In the Senate, February 11, 1957.

The increased importation of numerous products that come into competition with the output of factories, farms and mines of Pennsylvania, replacing the products of Pennsylvania's industries, is a constant menace to the State's continuing economic stability.

The lower wages paid abroad make it impossible for many of our smaller and medium-sized producers to compete with imports without resorting to ruinous price cutting, which in turn would result either in financial losses or heavy pressure for wage reductions and outright unemployment.

Our National obligations have reached such extreme proportions that the National income must be maintained at its present unprecedented high level, or close thereto, lest we become insolvent.

Unemployment caused by the imports of residual oil, which represented 3.43 times the average of 45 million barrels imported in 1946, to approximately 154 million barrels in 1956, or the yearly equivalent of 36,640,000 tons of coal; and unemployment caused by imports of crude oil; various types of glass, steel, aluminum, brass and zinc products; pottery and chinaware; granite, tiles, cement, hardboard, plywood, hardware, plumbing, flat glass and other building supplies, lace, carpets and all kinds of woolen, cotton and synthetic fibre manufactured goods; leather and fabric gloves; bicycles; hydraulic turbines; machine tools and other machinery; heavy electrical equipment and other electrical industry products and electronics; watches, clocks and parts; optical industry products; cutlery; scientific apparatus; pencils and pens; pins, clips and fasteners; soft fibre; insulation board and manufactured cork products; chemicals; toys; mushrooms; farm, dairy and dried milk products, wallpaper, hats and millinery, printing industry products; ladies hand bags and leather goods; nails, wire, screws, bolts and nuts and many other commodities; will render the upholding of the economy at its high levels most uncertain and difficult unless all import trade is placed on a fair competitive basis and the potential injury therefrom thus eliminated.

Agricultural products such as wheat, wheat flour, cotton, butter, cheese and peanuts enjoy the protection of import quotas.

A maximum of satisfactory trade results from a prosperous domestic economy freed from the threat of a breakdown resulting from unfair import competition; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to provide adequate safeguards in tariff and trade legislation, including import quotas and an effective prohibition against dumping of imports in the United States; against the destruction or lowering of our American standard of living, the labor standard of our workmen, and the stability of our economy by unfair import competition and that the existing trade agreements legislation be amended accordingly; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 107, ADOPTED

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the resolution just read by the Clerk.

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, as one who is always opposed to high tariffs, I, at this time, wish to state on this floor that I will vote "no" on this resolution.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I desire also appear on the record as having voted "no."

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded ast voting "no."

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

Mr. DONOLOW: Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as voting "no."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The roll was called and was as follows:

YEAS—33

Berger,	Kessler,	Propert,	Wagner,
Blass,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Ruth,	Walker,
Chapman,	Kromer,	Scott,	Watkins,
Dent,	Lane,	Stevenson,	Watson,
Derk,	Madigan,	Stiefel,	Weiner,
Ehrgood,	Mahany,	Taylor,	Whalley,
Elliott,	Mallery,	Van Sant,	Wolfe,
Flack,	Pechan,	Wade,	Fleming,
Harney,			Presiding Officer

NAYS—14

Barr,	Kalman,	Mullin,	Schmidt,
Camiel,	McGinnis,	Murray,	Seyler,
Donolow,	McMenamin,	Sarraf,	Silvert,
Hays,			Yosko,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR askd and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I am not trying to explain my vote. I just want to say that I think the Members of Congress are so much better informed than we are in regard to the tariffs.

We all know that years ago there was a fight between the two major parties on a high tariff and a low tariff. That is not the case now. The Tariff Act is rewritten each year and I just do not think it is fair for us, as Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, who do not have the knowledge on some of the things such as imports and exports, to just carte blanche pass a resolution such as this.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McGINNIS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I am surprised that the Republicans are bringing up the tariff again. In the last three Presidential campaigns, the tariff was never mentioned. For fifty years that I know of, the Republican Party won every National election on the tariff. Garey Frick and Carnegie would go to Washington and beg for a tariff to keep up American wages. They would come back home then and they drove union labor out of every mill they owned. Then they sent their agents all over Europe; they scoured Europe for the cheapest labor they could hire. They brought them to this Country by the shiploads and filled their mills. However, the Republican Party finally found out in the last three Presidential elections that the American people are getting wise to a tariff. Tariffs stop the movement of goods. It gives privileges to a certain few to raise their prices and bleed the people.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think anything like this should be left to the Congress of the United States. I am unhappy to think that the Republican Party is now trying to raise the tariff question again.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WAGNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, it is entirely too late to debate a resolution that has already passed. However, as one of the sponsors of the resolution who is sincerely concerned about certain conditions, national and international, I think it might be well to just say in passing that what the gentlemen have said have great elements of truth in them, but that does not necessarily mean that there is no wisdom in the resolution.

For many years now, I do not know exactly what year it started, there has been a continuing increase in the import of residual oil, for instance, from Venezuela. It has played terrific hob with the coal industry, which I am particularly interested in as the coal region's Senator. Things have come from Japan and from certain other nations in recent years that are a matter of great concern. I would say it is a matter of great concern to the manufacturers, to the labor unions and to the men and women who work in certain industries in Pennsylvania. When such a situation exists, whether the President be Republican or Democrat, or whether the House and Senate be under the leadership of Republicans or Democrats, I think it is appropriate that we, who are close to what goes on in manufacturing and labor circles of Pennsylvania, call their attention respectfully, if you please, to the situation and alert them to be on guard so that our employment and our industries may be protected. Hence, the reason for the resolution and, I take it, for the significant vote of 33-14 in its passage.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am going to make an observation. Most of the good things in the Senate of Pennsylvania happen during twilight when everybody is in a hurry to go home.

This resolution, Whether it is good or bad, already produced something good. I do think that Senator McGinnis is depriving this assemblage of masterful speeches and if this resolution was sufficient to goad him into action, I am pleased.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I, too, would like to make a few observations in regard to this particular resolution. I voted for the resolution because I come from a bituminous coal mining area. We, too, are particularly concerned about the importation of residual oil. We also have pottery and glass factories in our area.

My objective here is to work for the best interest of my people. If this resolution will keep our men working in our glass factories and in our pottery factories, in our mines and mills, then I am for it. I think we should have some sort of tariff to protect American labor and to keep our standards as high as they should be.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McGINNIS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I heard Senator Wagner who is worried about some little industries that are having a hard time in getting along. It is my theory that if there is an industry in this Country or any country which cannot compete with the world, they should go out of business and get into a business in which they can compete. I have heard about these cheap goods coming from Europe. Could they send us too much cheap goods? Supposing they gave them to us, would that hurt us?

The forty-eight States have never had a tariff between any State and that is one thing that has made America what it is today. Goods can move across every State line in the United States as free as the birds of the air. That is what has made America. I am sure that any measure that stops the movement of goods, even from Europe to here or from one State to another, is at fault.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Charles E. Ritter, Jr., Pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, White Haven, Pa., guest Chaplain and guest of the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Post, offered the following prayer:

Show me Thy ways, O Lord, teach me Thy paths. Lead me in Thy Truth, and teach me; for Thou art the God of my salvation, on Thee do I wait all the day.

Almighty and everlasting God, Who art always more ready to hear than we to pray, and art wont to give more than either we desire or deserve! Pour down upon us the abundance of Thy mercy, forgiving us those things whereof our consciences are afraid, and giving us those good things which we are not worthy to ask, but through the merits and meditation of Thy Dear Son, our Lord.

Teach us and keep us ever to do Thy will on earth, as it is done in Heaven and make us to be loyal defenders of Thy Truth which sets men free, that none of Thy children anywhere may suffer from fear, oppression, or want. Let Thy fatherly goodness be upon all that Thou hast made. Remember in pity all such as are this day destitute, homeless, or forgotten of their fellowmen. Forgive us wherein we have failed to care for the sick, the helpless, and the needy, and stir us up to love and to do good works.

Give, we humbly beseech Thee, to all nations peace and concord, preserve our country from discord and contention and give to our nation perpetual victory over all its enemies, direct and defend our President, our Governor, and all in authority; and bless and keep our magistrates, and all our people, and save us by and for Thy mercy's sake, through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. LOPRESTI. RESOLUTION No. 60.

In the House of Representatives, March 18, 1957.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may be justly proud of its fine network of highways.

The Department of Highways is expanding vast sums of money in widening existing highways and building new highways in order to facilitate the smooth and even flow of the millions of vehicles that make use of our highways.

In spite of these facts, one cannot help but feel, in traveling over our highways, that one of the greatest bottlenecks and safety hazards to the public is the one-lane bridge that are not uncommon.

The elimination of one-lane bridges in our highway system is mandatory if we want to speed up the normal flow of vehicular traffic and remove safety hazards; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of Highways be directed to study the problem of one-lane bridges and plan for their complete elimination as soon as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. BELL, STRAUSSER and BREISCH. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 61.

In the House of Representatives, March 18, 1957.

On March 15, 1956 a press conference report was issued from the office of George M. Leader, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in which is found the statement from His Excellency, George M. Leader, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

"I want to make it very clear at this point that I intend to devote a great deal of the next three years trying to unburden the people of the Commonwealth of a sales tax, stamp plan or no stamp plan."

On March 13, 1957 a blistering report on the shortcomings of the State Sales Tax Bureau was filed with the Senate of Pennsylvania.

The report, prepared by the Washington Management Consultant firm of McKinzie & Company and two sales tax experts from the Institute of Public Administration, pictured the sales tax operation as bogged down, demoralized, and inefficient.

Among reasons given for the disappointing returns from the 3% sales tax levy are:

(1) A backlog of forty thousand returns representing twenty percent (20%) of the total in the main office at Harrisburg with attached checks uncashed because of insufficient employes and improper filing methods.

(2) A staff of 400 field investigators being paid more than $200,000.00 per month in collecting less than their salaries on a two months' period checked.

(3) A high percentage of the field staff were found inexperienced, insufficiently trained to have even confidence and much less competence and to some extent unable to carry out their assignments because of extraneous interests and responsibilities.

(4) Two hundred so-called auditors on the Bureau's payroll who, during the last five months of 1955, had turned out the work which normally could be done by twenty-eight men.

(5) A lack of discipline among poltically appointed employes, particularly in the field offices.

These charges cast reflections upon the integrity of all public offices and must create serious doubts and grave apprehensions among the citizens of the Commonwealth concerning whether or not the sales tax is being collected.

An impartial investigation of these charges is necessary in order to remedy this condition, if true, and to insure the prompt and proper collection of the sales tax; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint three members of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint three members of the House who, together shall constitute a joint commission to make an immediate investigation of the administration of the collection of the sales and use tax as enacted by the 1955-56 Legislature, to cover all phases of the collection and administration of the said sales and use tax, to determine whether the said sales and use tax is being collected from all taxpayers within the Commonwealth, and to investigate the efficiency of the collection agents and all officers and employes of the Commonwealth charged with the collection and supervision of the collection of the said sales and use tax. The scope of the investigation shall be such as will enable the said committee to report back to the Legislature on all phases of the actual collection and the administration of the collection of the said sales and use tax. Such committee is charged with ascertaining as to whether or not politics and political appointments have affected the collection of the sales and use tax.

The committee shall have the power to issue subopenas under its hand and seal requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before it and answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into and to produce such books, papers, records, and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas shall be served upon any person and shall have force and effect the subopenas issued out of courts of this Commonwealth. The committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before it. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records, or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such case; and be it further

Resolved, That said joint committee shall make its report to the respective branches of the General Assembly within a period not to exceed sixty days.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. GOODLING and BRETH. RESOLUTION No. 62.

In the House of Representatives, March 18, 1957.

Dr. Logan J. Bennett, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Game Commission and nationally known sportsman, biologist, wildlife administrator and field trial judge, has been chosen by the nation's leading outdoor writers to receive the third annual Winchester Outdoorsman of the Year award for 1956. Dr. Bennett was selected for this coveted award in a nation-wide ballot by more than one thousand two hundred fifty outdoor columnists and freelance writers from every state.

Presented each year by the Winchester-Western Division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, the award is made to help stimulate more interest in the outdoors—in hunting, fishing, conservation and outdoor recreation. Dr. Bennett was selected over many other notable nominees, including Ernest Hemingway, Ted Williams, Governor Joe Foss of South Dakota, General Curtis LeMay, and wildlife photographer Grancel Fitz.

Born in 1907 in Festus, Missouri, in the foothills of the Ozarks, Dr. Bennett spent much of his early life hunting for sport and for food. In fact, it was through the sale of pelts of opossum and coons that he bought his first gun, a seven dollar double barrel shotgun.

He went to Central College at Fayette, Missouri. He received his Bachelor's degree there, and it was at college that he decided to make a career of wildlife work. He traveled to Ames, Iowa to work for his Master's at Iowa State College, and arrived there with his worldly possessions: a pair of blue jeans, an old motorcycle and sidecar, the seven dollar shotgun and a pointer dog.

Dr. Bennett helped work his way through school by collecting various species of birds and mammals. These are now owned by Iowa and are used to train students of biology. Dr. Bennett eventually gained his Ph.D. at Ames, where he prepared a dissertation on the "Life History and Ecology of the Blue-Wing Teal." This work is still considered an outstanding reference on this species.

From 1937 to 1947 he was leader of the Pennsylvania Wildlife Cooperative Research Unit at Pennsylvania State University. While in this capacity he wrote many technical and popular articles on game management, and directed the scholastic and field training of many young men following careers in wildlife conservation. During this period, he also served in the U. S. Navy (from 1943 to 1945) as officer in charge of a malaria control unit in the Southwest Pacific.

In 1947 he was transferred to the Washington office of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service as Section Chief of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Program, and a year later became Chief of the Wildlife Research branch. In 1953, he accepted his present position with the Pennsylvania Game Commission, and now lives with his family in Bowmansdale, Pennsylvania.

A member of many scientific societies and past president of the Wildlife Society Dr. Bennett has written several books, the most recent being "Training Grouse and Woodcock Dogs," and numerous articles on wildlife management, hunting and dogs.

The selection of Dr. Bennett marks the third presentation of the award. Last year's Outdoorsman was Walter Alston, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers. When initiated in 1954, the award went to screen star Robert Taylor.

We are indeed honored to have a Pennsylvanian receive this national award and further honored because Dr. Bennett holds an integral position in our State Government; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extend its congratulations to Dr. Logan J. Bennett on his winning of the Winchester Outdoorsman of the Year award, and express its sincere thanks to him for his outstanding contributions in the fields of sports and wildlife; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Dr. Logan J. Bennett.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

ST. THOMAS CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the Hall of the House a delegation of students from the St. Thomas Catholic High School of Allegheny County under the supervision of their teachers Sister Rosare and Sister Unice. They are the guests of the gentlemen from Allegheny, Messrs. Jenkins, Stevens, Johnston and Spray, and the lady from Philadelphia, Mrs. Varallo.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate Bill No. 124, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 13, 1953 (P. L. 431) entitled "An act relating to support of dependents providing a procedure for enforcement thereof including attachment of property and earnings conferring powers and imposing duties upon courts district attorneys and probation officers" further providing a procedure for enforcement of the act.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Miss DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, this bill as you know has to do with the attachment of the wages of the defendant husband or father who has refused to voluntarily support his family.

I explained last week I am opposed to this proposed legislation because it would force a destitute family to wait 30 days before setting into motion the wheels of attachment or before attaching the wages of the husband and father.

I asked what was the destitute family to do during this 30-day period? What were they to do for food? What were they to do for funds? I explained if the family were already on DPA, they could continue on DPA, which simply meant the Commonwealth and the taxpayers were assuming the burden that was rightfully that of the defendant.

If the family is not on DPA, I explained that it has been my experience it takes about three weeks to secure emergency aid from the Department of Public Assistance because they of course must make an investigation, and they cannot pay money to anybody who asks for it. So what is this family to do?

If there is a Salvation Army in the town, they can get food from the Salvation Army. If there is no Salvation Army in the town what is the family to do? Must the family be reduced to begging or starvation?

I ask those who support the bill why they have put in this 30-day waiting period, and they say we want to give the poor guy a chance. A chance to do what? A chance to starve his family to death?

The tender concern of the Senate supporters of this bill, for the irresponsible husband and father is indeed most touching, but I suggest that their concern is entirely misdirected.

At least if the family survives under this provision of the bill after 30 days they can have an attachment. However, the next provision of the bill is even worse. This provides that no attachment can be had on any of his future payments unless he is in every payment more than 29 days late.

Under the present law, if you can show that the defendant is one week late in his first payment, the next payment two weeks late, the third payment three weeks late, the fourth payment four weeks late, you can walk into court and say, "Your Honor, this man is chronically and constantly late. He is leaving the family under a severe hardship. They never know when they are getting money." You can get an attachment of his wages.

However, this proposed legislation would provide that the defendant can be up to 29 days late with every single payment. No attachment could be had unless he was 30 days late. This simply means the family is under constant threat of eviction from the landlord, that for long periods of time there was no money, that the woman cannot purchase food from the super market. She must purchase food from the more expensive corner grocer because she does not have ready cash and she must use credit. After about ten days or two weeks the corner grocer says, "Look, I am not in business for my health. I cannot give you any more credit." What is she to do for the next two weeks for food?

Last week after I went home I contacted some of the judges of our Municipal Court, and they all concurred in my opinion that this was a bad bill. With the permission of the House I will read some of these letters into the record in order that the Members of the House may know that the persons most experienced with this oppose this legislation.

By the way, these letters are from judges, some of whom are Republicans and some of whom are Democrats.

The first letter I received was from Judge Felix Piekavski. I requested him to write to the head of the Judiciary Committee, Mr. Tompkins, with a copy to me. It is addressed:

> Dear Mr. Tompkins: I have just learned that Senate Bill No. 124 will be before the House next week. This bill as I have been told provides that no wage attachment shall issue on an order of support unless thirty days (30) shall have elapsed.
> Having presided in the Domestic Relations Division in thousands of cases, I would suggest to you that a deferment in the issuance of a wage attachment may provoke unnecessary deprivation to the beneficiary of such an order. I found that frequently defendants in these proceedings are even willing that wage attachments issue on the very dates of the orders. Wage attachments are a salutory means of enforcing orders. Restricting the issuance of such wage attachments for thirty days would be a deprivation of funds to children and to mothers entitled to support directly from wages.
> May I suggest, therefore, that this bill would not be an aid to those who are in immediate need of support.

Judge Piekavski is a Democratic Judge. The next letter is from Judge Keller Gilbert, a Republican Judge.

> Dear Mr. Tompkins: I am informed by a Member of the House of Representatives that the above bill requires wives, in whose favor support orders have been entered, to wait thirty days after default in payment before an attachment on her husband's wages may issue, and providing further that the amount which employers would be entitled to deduct for their services in implementing this attachment is increased from two percent to five percent."

Well, that has been changed. The next paragraph:

> I understand this bill has now passed the Senate and has been or will be sent to the House for passage.
> I do not believe this is a good Bill. Not only is thirty days too long a period during which children may be without food, if this Bill becomes law, but it means also that a husband may forever evade the obligation of such a law by the simple device of seeing to it that he is never more than twenty-nine days in default.
> My experience in Domestic Relations Court during the past four years has revealed no complaints which would justify the above changes in the law.

I have also a letter from Judge Adrian Bonnelly which states approximately the same thing, his opposition to this bill. I also have a letter from Juanita Kidd Stout, Assistant District Attorney in charge of the Domestic Relation Division of the Municipal Court in Philadelphia. She states she is also opposed to the bill.

Members of the House, there is only one issue before the House, and that is this: Are you going to vote to protect the women and the children of our Commonwealth or are you going to aid and abet an irresponsible husband in avoiding his duties and obligations. If there is anyone here who is willing to take the bread out of the mouths of our children, I would like to know who you are? The women and the children of Pennsylvania would like to know who you are?

I therefore request a roll call vote.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to briefly interrogate the lady from Philadelphia, Miss Duffy.

The SPEAKER. Will the lady from Philadelphia, Miss Duffy, allow herself to be interrogated?

Miss DUFFY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, the lady qualified her opening remarks by referring to defendant fathers or husbands. Will the lady advise the House if under this bill a defendant could not also be a woman or a mother?

Miss DUFFY. That is correct, Mr. Speaker, she could.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise not so much in connection with the argument on the bill, but perhaps to clarify some issues.

The lady from Philadelphia has read some letters into the record which were addressed to myself as Chairman of the Judiciary Committee. I want this House to know that those letters arrived and I received them the week after the Judiciary Committee reported this bill to the floor of the House.

Therefore, I want no notions in anybody's mind that we refused to consider this correspondence at the time this bill was considered in Committee.

Nevertheless, while I am on my feet I want to say that I supported the bill in Committee and I support the bill on the floor of the House.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not think we should go on considering bills in this House when they are not in the file on the Members' desks. Senate Bill 124, Printer's No. 74, is not in the file on my desk, and I checked with my neighbor who sits next to me and he informed me it is not in the file on his desk.

Last evening there was a bill, Senate Bill 161, Printer's No. 75—

The SPEAKER. The only matter before the House is Senate Bill 124, Printer's No. 74.

Will the Members inform the Chair whether they have copies of the bill on their desks? A copy will be supplied to the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley.

Mr. TOLL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say a word or two in support of the position taken by the fair lady from Philadelphia, and that is, Mr. Speaker, in a city the size of Philadelphia, it takes a little while before a petition for support can reach the court for determination.

It may be that in some of the surrounding communities you can have a support petition presented and heard within a week or two, but in Philadelphia it takes us six weeks before a support case can get before the judge for determination. Add to that four more weeks under this bill before an attachment can be issued and you have a man who can refuse to support his wife and his children for practically 10 weeks. Put that in your bonnet.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a brief remark with respect to this bill. I want to be as objective as possible and I want to say I have never been behind in my support payments since I have been married, so I can speak quite objectively.

I do not want to take bread from anyone's mouth, but the one objection I do have to the bill I think is serious.

Mr. Speaker, I enjoyed very much the letters which were read into the record by the lady from Philadelphia, Miss Duffy, stating that the judges were against this bill. As Mr. Toll pointed out, it takes, he said, four weeks, but I want to tell you the situation as it presently exists in Philadelphia with respect to support orders and the enforcement thereof.

When a mother goes into court and obtains a support order against the husband, at that time there is no question of garnisheeing any wages. That does not even come up except in very rare instances. It has never been my experience wherein the court agreed to attach the wages before there has been any failure to pay the support order. After the court enters the order, the husband, if he is in default, has to be in default for at least four weeks before the matter is considered and at the end of the four weeks the woman has to come back to court and notify the court the husband has not paid. From that time it takes at least ten weeks before the matter again comes up in court, and at that time the husband defendant comes into court. If he has not made any payments at that time, the court then will consider garnisheeing his wages. So this 30 day business just does not make sense to me, because Philadelphia is many days behind the 30 day period.

But the most important objection, Mr. Speaker, I have is that—and I am thinking solely of the woman—where an employer is involved in making payments to court and being responsible and subject to the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court, there is a certain percentage of employers who are going to say, "We are not going to do it, we would rather fire this man. We have a bookkeeping system, and the added details that are required, whether it only means an additional entry in the book, we are not going to do this added feature. We would rather fire the man because there is a surplus of labor anyhow."

That might be so in only relatively few cases, but, nevertheless, it should be sufficient to warrant our seriously considering the bad features of this bill. If there is a person fired as a result of it, we are going to have that many more people on public assistance in Pennsylvania.

Miss DUFFY. If the gentleman from Philadelphia is only concerned about the woman in this case, I do not think it very much matters whether he is fired or not in view of the fact that he is not supporting her anyway.

I would suggest he is more concerned with the man and, as I explained to him yesterday in Caucus, the procedure for putting money into an envelope and dropping it into a mail box is not so complicated and involved as to require 30 days for its performance.

Therefore, he has a simple way of avoiding his employer's ire, just pay the support order.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I do not like to be in the position of having to defend employers of husbands as against women and children, but I do think certain things should be said in the course of this debate to clarify some matters which have been raised by the lady from Philadelphia. She has put this before the House on an emotional basis and it should not be here on that basis.

Until 1953 there was no right to attach anybody's wages for support. The big thing which has been overlooked so far in this debate is that the courts have always had the power to attach the person of one who owes the duty of support and is failing to support his family. That has been the big weapon to make men support their families over the years.

In 1953 we passed this Pennsylvania Civil Procedural Support Law and we added for the first time the right to attach wages in the hands of the employer. We thought it was a good thing to do, and I still think it is a good law.

Apparently since that time there has grown up in certain areas a practice of obtaining a writ of attachment immediately upon obtaining a support order. In other words, it is assuming the husband who is ordered by the court to support would not do so, thereby compelling the employer to deduct it and remit the money to the support office.

The fact is that the courts have a right at any time after a man defaults in his payments to issue a capias or court order to a court officer to go out and pick up this person and bring him in and then tell him he is going to jail or pay. If it were not for that power and that right, I would certainly agree with the lady from Philadelphia.

What we are doing here is in a measure relieving the duties which have been imposed upon employers of people. When you are weighing the equities between a family which needs money and the employer of a man, you are not dealing between the erring husband, or the delinquent husband, and his family. I am afraid the lady has put this matter in such a light that you are being asked to vote as between the employer and the wife on the basis that his employe is not doing what he should do. I say that is an improper light in which to throw this whole thing.

We have a very definite and emphatic way of making husbands support their families. There have been many husbands who have gone to jail for short periods of time because they willfully would not pay a support order. In 98 percent of the cases the husbands are only too happy to obey the support orders after they are out of jail, because most people do not like to sit there.

There have been men in the past who are so willful that they will not pay even though they must sit in jail. I say to you this attachment procedure does not mean a thing in those cases, because the moment his wages are attached he simply quits his job and there is no money to be paid by the employer for any family.

The lady from Philadelphia has made the argument that persons under a duty to support could evade this by simply delaying their payments 29 days and then making a payment. I say that is not so. Once one of these attachments has been ordered and the wages have been attached, the court only modifies the order, if it sees fit to do so, by letting the employe pay his money directly to the probation office, but that does not mean another 30-day wait. If those payments are not made, the modified order provides that the man be picked up immediately and brought before the court or put in jail.

I say this should not be an emotional matter, it is pretty much a strict business matter. Some people have the idea that a woman who gets a support order must wait 30 days before she can go into court and have any real enforcement of the order made. That is not so. She can come before the court the next day or the next week and ask for an order of the court to pick up her husband and put him in jail, if that is what the court thinks ought to be done to make him pay.

I think we ought to vote on this thing in a sensible business like manner and not be swayed by any emotional issues.

Miss DUFFY. I am not putting this on an emotional basis whatsoever. First of all, the destitute family does not wish to put the husband in jail. If he is in jail, she is not getting any support. What she wants is the money, she does not want to put him in jail. He is putting it on an emotional basis.

Secondly, if he goes to jail, then he is sure to lose his job. I have represented a lot of women in these cases and I have never yet had the experience of an employer firing a man simply because his wages were attached.

His statement that a man could be 29 days in default and still she would be able to attach is utterly untrue. I suggest to the gentleman from Berks County that he has not read the bill. I refer him to page 2 of the bill where under Section 9(c) the part that has been inserted says:

> "The wages salary or commission of any person owing a duty of support upon failure to make the first payment within thirty days after an order of support has been served upon him or upon failure to make any subsequent payment within thirty days after the same was due may be attached in the following manner."

Therefore, he must be in default more than 29 days before an attachment can issue and it is true that the husband can constantly avoid payment, force his family to depend on his whim and be constantly up to 29 days late and no attachment can issue.

Therefore, I again request you to vote against this bill.

Mr. CARSON. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the young lady from Philadelphia?

The SPEAKER. Will the young lady from Philadelphia, Miss Duffy, permit herself to be interrogated?

Miss DUFFY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. CARSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the young lady a question:

Has she ever represented a husband in Domestic Relations Court?

Miss DUFFY. No, I have not.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 87 entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Permanent Registration Act for Cities of the Second Class Cities of the Second Class A A cities of the Third Class Boroughs Towns and Townships" approved April 29, 1937 (P. L. 487) requiring the commission to prepare for each election district a list of the names and addresses of registered electors arranged by streets and house numbers or alphabetically.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate one of the sponsors of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Brown, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BROWN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether there has not been a provision in the Permanent Registration Act since 1937 requiring municipalities to prepare street lists according to the arrangement of the United States Post Office by streets and house numbers or by rural free delivery numbers?

Mr. BROWN. I would assume that is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Then I desire to ask the gentleman why this bill is necessary.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, several counties in the state seem to be doing an illegal job at the present time. According to the information I have, there is a plague on both parties in this situation. Since my county is one of the counties that seems to be illegal at the present time, it would cost us about $30,000 to change the system over to comply with the law.

Therefore, this bill will let us gradually, over a period of three years, proceed in a legal manner with the rest of the state. Also some of the, shall I say, good Democratic counties will be able to do the same thing.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I am not opposing this bill, but I did think the record should show that some communities have not seen fit to comply with the law since 1937. Whether three years is working a hardship on them, since this bill gives them three years to do it, I do not know.

I do not think we ought to be voting for too many of these bills to erase the past sins of municipalities. It should not be necessary to pass bills of this kind. I think these municipalities should get to work and get their street lists in compliance with the law and that we should not have to give them any moratorium. I suppose if they have violated the law since 1937, nobody would get too cross if they did not ultimately comply with the law for the next two years, but here we are giving them a definite period of three years. I am wondering whether they will comply during that time. I hope they will.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 269, entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Second Class Township Code" approved May 1, 1933 (P. L. 103) further providing for the employment of a certified public accountant the duties of the township auditors and further regulating appropriations.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I thought amendments would be introduced to correct the defects in this bill. I call to the attention of the membership that the duties of auditors are conferred upon certified public accountants. If an auditor fails to perform his duty in a legal manner, there are certain obligations against him provided for by statute.

However, under this particular bill the duties are passed on to the certified public accountants. They could commit a fraudulent act, and insofar as I can see, there would be no obligation, criminal or otherwise.

We think this is unsound. We think it opens the door to fraud, and therefore we feel the bill should be defeated unless it were amended to provide for obligations on the part of the certified public accountants.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe this bill in the light of what Mr. Goldstein has said, requires further study and I would like to move to place it on the final passage postponed calendar.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 300 entitled as follows:

An Act regulating rights and duties of teachers in schools from the teaching and training of the mentally retarded functioning within the Department of Welfare and in schools for the teaching and training of the physically handicapped functioning within the Department of Health.

An Act authorizing and directing the Department of Highways with the approval of the Governor to construct a highway and to erect and maintain a bridge over the Chester River in Delaware County between Twenty-second Street and Upland Avenue in the Borough of Upland * * * and making an appropriation therefor.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a brief statement in support of this bill.

This bill is a bridge bill. It concerns a bridge on U. S. Highway 13 bypass.

Today in our mail boxes we received a brochure from the Greater Philadelphia Movement. On page 4 thereof it draws attention to the terrifically congested traffic condition between Philadelphia and Wilmington, Balitmore and Washington to the south.

The situation that this bridge seeks to correct is one of the greatest causes of traffic congestion between Philadelphia and the cities to the south.

On the road on which this bridge is to relieve congestion there is sometimes a traffic flow of 2,400 automobiles an hour. Sometimes the traffic is backed up from a half mile to a mile. This is a key road between the industries of lower Delaware County and the residential districts of upper Delaware County. It also provides a means of access for those workers who live in the City of Philadelphia, south Philadelphia and west Philadelphia, going to and fro to their jobs in lower Delaware County.

This bridge is essential. It is an endeavor to alleviate a very serious traffic situation. May I repeat, the correction of this possibly would be part of the interstate highway system. Again, the proof is contained in the brochure.

I would like everyone in the House to vote for this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

REASON FOR VOTE

Mrs. SARAH A. ANDERSON filed the following reasons for her vote on House Bill No. 384.

Many of my neighbors and constitutents are employed in South Eastern Delaware County and many others have had occasion to travel between Philadelphia and Wilmington. All have complained of the Chester traffic bottleneck on U. S. Highway 13 By Pass.

I therefore, vote in favor of House Bill 384 as necessary for the benefit of the travelling public in general and the citizens of Philadelphia.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 411 entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Third Class City Code" approved June 23, 1931 (P. L. 932) fixing the minimum requirements necessary to entitle contributors to the police pension fund to retire further regulating appropriations to the fund and the payment of increments upon retirement.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 579, Printer's No. 158, and

House Bill No. 582, Printer's No. 123

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 734, entitled as follows:

A Supplement of the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) known as "The Administrative Code of 1929" regulating expenditures and commitments by administrative bodies boards and commissions during a portion of each biennium.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, yields to the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, this is a poor substitute, but I will accept it.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, it reminds me of the story that he who puts his feet in another man's shoes gets athlete's foot.

I do not think that will happen this time however.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from McKean whether it is the purpose of this bill to limit all departmental expenditures during the last three months of the biennium to one-eighth of the total amount of money appropriated to that department for the biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the bill limits the expenditures to one-eighth for the purchare of equipment, materials, supplies and the payment of salaries and other compensation and fees for services made by any administrative body, board and commission.

It does not include subsidies, or mandated items, or construction costs, or anything like that. It merely covers the ordinary and necessary common expenditures of a department during the biennium.

Mr. READINGER. Does it mean if the Department of Public Assistance program has been enlarged during a biennium so that additional personnel is required, and so forth, that during the last three months of a biennium they can spend only one-eighth of the total amount appropriated for the biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say that would be correct. We feel that good planning would not make it necessary for any unusual, unprecedented expenditures during the last three months.

Mr. READINGER. Does this bill mean that if the Department of Welfare program is delayed in getting under way for the first six months of the biennium for the reason that the budget is not approved for the first six months of its operations, thereafter with an expanded program it is to be limited during the last three months of the biennium to one-eighth of the total amount appropriated?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is true, Mr. Speaker. For the enumerated items in this bill they would be limited to that expenditure.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether he or any other person on his side has contacted any of the present state departments to ascertain what effect this might have upon their operations during the last three months of the biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. We have talked to the Secretary of the Department of Revenue and he has indicated that he can get by by limiting his expenditures to one-eighth.

I believe the Department of Public Assistance, since you have referred to that department, contemplate purchasing 300 recording devices of some kind, which would be prohibited under this bill.

Mr. READINGER. Has the gentleman contacted the Department of Welfare to ascertain what effect this bill would have on it and its functions?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe an effort to contact them was of no avail because the Secretary is in the hospital and I believe the hearing has been delayed for that reason.

Mr. READINGER. I could not hear the last part of the gentleman's answer.

Mr. JOHNSON. The Secretary is not available for questioning or for a hearing on the matter. So we have not received word from him, since, I understand he is in the hospital.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask whether the gentleman has contacted the Budget Secretary, or anybody under him, to ascertain what effect this might have on the orderly functions of any department of the state, or any administrative body or commission?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, we have not.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, this bill may have some merit in stopping things which probably have gone on in this Commonwealth for many years, and that would be the purchase of certain equipment, supplies, and so forth, during the last period of a biennium. But it seems to me the way this bill is set up it is nothing but another political bill to embarrass this administration.

Apparently no actual attempt has been made to ascertain what legitimate functions of the departments might be adversely affected if this bill were put on the law books.

If the gentleman has any information concerning unwarranted spending of money by departments during the last three months of a biennium, I think he should produce it. I have heard many stories about departments during the latter part of a biennium spending money in a way which might seem to be reckless and unwarranted. That is not only true of this administration, it is true of every administration in the past to some extent.

For us to pass a bill which will blindly handcuff departments which are charged by us with carrying out certain functions does not make any sense to me except on a political basis.

I think this administration can carry out the duties which it has undertaken, many of which have been prescribed by us and many of which have been subscribed to by us as being worthy and proper programs. If this House is willing to pass a bill of this kind in its present state of blindness, then I underestimate the intelligence of the membership.

There probably is a way in which departments can be deterred or stopped from purchasing things which are not necessary at the time simply because they have an unexpended appropriation available.

Ladies and Gentlemen, it seems to me that this is not the way to do it. I am not going to let this bill pass without my vehement protest being voiced today. There certainly is a better way to do what you are intending to do without burning down the barn to get rid of a few mice that might be in the barn.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the substitute?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman in the case of public assistance if we had an emergency in the last four months where they had to put on additional help in order to take care of the cases on public assistance, whether or not this bill would affect that particular subject?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman explain what he means by an emergency that would occur momentarily in the Department of Public Assistance which would require large scale employment of personnel?

Mr. LOVETT. We may have many strikes during that period of time when people are out of work, and they would have to be put on public assistance. Would it be proper not to have sufficient help to do the job?

Mr. JOHNSON. In answer to the gentleman, I do not beleive the civil service setup of the Department of Public Assistance would have available personnel with which they could skyrocket their payroll overnight. I think if you would have to take civil service examination and through all of the various processes involved, I do not beleive an emergency like that could be met by a rapid hiring of workers.

Mr. LOVETT. Are all of the employes of the Department of Public Assistance now under civil service?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say, yes, I do not believe there is one employe of that Department who is not under civil service.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman if all of those employes have been trained by the Department of Public Assistance and have passed the civil service examinations?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say every employe of the Department of Public Assistance has qualified under the laws pertaining to civil service. Since there is Federal money involved, I believe they are all under the merit system. They either have been blanketed in by law or they have taken an examination.

Mr. LOVETT. Would the gentleman state in the event an emergency arose and our hands would be tied due to civil service, we could not take care of our people in Pennsylvania who were in need?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, my answer to that question is this. I cannot conceive of a wholesale emergency arising in a very quick period of time but what the present employes—who I am sure are not overworked—could take care of. It would just be a matter of drawing checks. You can draw and sign checks very easily and quickly. This only affects a three-months period.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, if I understand the Public Assistance Law, even though a man is unemployed, there would have to be some investigation there as to whether or not he was entitled to public assistance. It would not be just a matter of drawing checks.

Mr. JOHNSON. If a man is unemployed, Mr. Speaker, the answer is he will get $35 a week under our present Unemployment Compensation Law after, I believe a one-week waiting period.

Mr. LOVETT. Providing the gentleman has worked long enough to have that quarterly period in which he receives that payment.

Mr. JOHNSON. That is right.

Mr. LOVETT. But, Mr. Speaker, there might be many cases wherein he would not have?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say the instances of that nature are now rare.

Mr. LOVETT. And the gentleman feels there could be no emergency in any of these departments whereby you could handcuff the departments to the extent that they could not function and perform their duties that we have laid down to them by law?

Mr. JOHNSON. I cannot conceive of it. If money is needed, I believe that our Constitution provides that we can borrow $10 million very rapidly for such a purpose under the articles of our State Constitution.

Mr. LOVETT. I do not think the fact that we can borrow money would enter into that particular stage of the different departments borrowing money under the Constitution. I just do not quite follow the gentleman.

Mr. JOHNSON. To be more straightforward, I would say I cannot conceive of an emergency being created within this limited period that would call for any unprecedented and unusual expenditures for equipment or these other enumerated items as set out in the bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

I wish I could feel as the gentleman does, that these emergencies could not arise but I am very fearful they will arise, and I do not think that we should pass legislation of this kind. I feel that it is unnecessary.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from McKean permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman tell us if this particular bill would also deal with Labor and Industry in the last one-eighth of its budget?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say with respect to departmental expenditures for equipment, and so forth, it would apply. That is right.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from McKean tell us then if there was a major steel strike, which has occurred many times in the past, and all of the "captive" coal mines shut down laying off all the men in which event the UC Section of Labor and Industry has to put on quite a number of additional people to handle the claims, if this fell in the last one-eighth of a biennium, could they or could they not, if this were law, pay those people if it required more money?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry I am not too familiar with the administration of the Unemployment Compensation Fund and the payment of the workers handling that fund. That fund is also part Federal money, and the employes of that particular department are also entirely on civil service. The same limitations with respect to hirings as provided under the Civil Service Law with respect to that department would pertain to the Department of Public Assistance.

Mr. McCANN. Would the gentleman concur that in the Civil Service Law there are provisions dealing with provisional employment which is temporary employment to take care of such situations?

Mr. JOHNSON. Your question is, is it possible to have temporary employment to take care of such situations in the Civil Service Act?

Mr. McCANN. That is right.

Mr. JOHNSON. I regret I cannot answer that question.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will answer that question. There is.

The next question, since we have a case history to show, we will say there was a major steel strike, Mr. Speaker, which occurred in the last eighth of this program, and the UC Section had to put on approximately 50 to 75 additional personnel to handle the claims, and it fell in the last eighth of the biennium, could they or could they not be paid if it is granted they have a right to place them on the employment?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we are talking now about the Unemployment Compensation Fund?

Mr. McCANN. And the workers who are employed by that fund.

Mr. JOHNSON. As I recall, having attended budget hearings, I do not believe we budget that fund or the expenditures from that fund. I believe the personnel, the hiring of personnel, and the number of personnel and all are entirely within the confines of that fund. We do not budget it, and I do not believe this bill would apply to that.

As I understand it, this bill applies to the department itself for the ordinary departmental functions.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if we have cleared that point, and the strike continued in the same manner as it did not too many years ago, and the people were placed on the DPA rolls, in addition to receiving money from their UC payments since they have large families, and the UC rolls and the DPA rolls up within the one-eighth of this biennium budget, could they in turn pay those personnel since they have the same right to put on provisional personnel from the lists they have established by previous examinations? Could they pay these people in this last eighth of the biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. My answer is, Mr. Speaker, I am not sure whether the same thing obtains with respect to the disbursement of the Department of Public Assistance. What we do with that fund, as I recall, is to give them $150 million, or something like that, and they budget their salaries themselves. If such an emergency like that would occur or if the necessity would occur during the last three months of the biennium—and we are always in session during that time—it would only take three or four days to get legislation through this House and Senate and signed by the Governor to correct and take care of any emergency.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, is there any place in this bill wherein the items the gentleman just mentioned are specific?

Mr. JOHNSON. The fact that we could—

Mr. McCANN. No, no. If an emergency arose, is there anything in this bill dealing with any type of emergency in any department or any agency in the Commonwealth?

Mr. JOHNSON. There is not.

Mr. McCANN. There is not, sir?

Mr. JOHNSON. If we would be in session and an emergency occurred, we could correct it like we did the flood disaster in August of 1955.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I thank the gentleman very kindly?

Just to be very brief, I do believe the gentleman is driving at a rather good point in trying to control the situation, but I sincerely believe he has missed quite a few points in the operation of state government, to some of which I know the gentleman knows the answers. I hope it will never occur in this Commonwealth again, but past experience has shown it can happen and has happened. On those grounds I think we should be lenient enough and sincere enough to trust the heads of the department, that they would have a right to operate to take care of the needs of the people of this Commonwealth if the occasion should arise. I believe those gentlemen would be the first to stand up to defend those rights.

I think until such time as those questions are clearly answered and that a policy is established regarding such subjects as have been discussed here today, we at least should take a position of opposing such legislation until we are absolutely clear that we are not doing an injustice to our own people whom we represent.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, there have been intimations, have there not, that the Highway Department is employing too many engineering firms to do it's planning?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe that is true, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, there have been intimations, have there not, that the Highway Department is sadly deficient in personnel, that it needs designing draftsmen, that it needs engineers, that it is undermanned?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe that is right.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, it is also true, is it not, that we are in the process of passing legislation vastly increasing the scope of operations of the Highway Department, surveys here, surveys there, resolutions expanding the operations.

Mr. JOHNSON. That is right.

Mr. ANDREWS. Then I would like to ask the Majority Leader, if we are going to dispense with the services of some of the engineering concerns that are supposed to draft designs for highway projects, if we are to recruit the necessary personnel for the Highway Department, if we are to comply with one-half of the resolutions and bills that pass this House requiring services by the Department, how are we going to do it unless they can expand their appropriations for personnel and expand them drastically?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, as I understand this bill, we are limiting the departments to expenditures in the last three months which would be equivalent to one-eighth of their total appropriation. I cannot see but what any department on this Hill with proper planning, proper management, would be able to so gauge their expenditures so they could in that last three months live comfortably within the amount of money which has been allotted to them for the purpose intended.

If you are talking about the Highway Department—and I grant you the question of the application of this bill to the Highway Department is more or less a matter of conjecture by reason of the fact that we do not budget the funds of the Highway Department—and what would be a budgetary figure for them for the last three months, that would be a matter of conjecture. I understand that so far as the Highway Department is concerned, the Governor has a blank check and can allocate money to the Highway Department at any time, any place and in any amount.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the performance system is a new budget idea. We control salaries, do we not, total appropriations, in the Highway Department, the amount which can be paid, should be paid, limitations and no limitations upon salaries?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, to answer the question of the gentleman—

Mr. ANDREWS. I will change my question. I just want to have on the record as a statement by the Majority Leader that if the Highway Department finds it possible to expand its force of engineers, of designing draftsmen and of the other employes it will need, since this bill applies to the final three months of the present biennium, that the operation of this bill will not in any way impede the proper expansion of the Highway Department.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I will first say that we as a Legislature have nothing to do at the present time with the expenditure of Highway Department funds. They have a blank check. The money is earmarked by our Constitution from the gasoline and Motor License Fund to the Highway Department and they can spend it any way they wish, for salaries, or for roads, or for anything else. We do not legislate their budget. I believe they expend it at the whim of the Governor, and I doubt whether this bill would apply to the Highway Department.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the powers in the Highway Department are not constitutional powers, are they? They are not given a free ticket so far as the Constitution is concerned?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is a debatable question. Under the present setup of the Highway Department the Secretary of Highways has a blank check and he can spend all the money on local roads, he can spend it all on Federal roads, or he can spend it all on salaries, if he wants to, as I understand the present situation.

Mr. ANDREWS. The gentleman is not responsive. I asked him whether those privileges were constitutional privileges or privileges that have arisen by reason of the enactment of the Highway Code?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, No. 1, they are not constitutional only insofar as the gasoline tax is earmarked into the Motor License Fund.

I would say in answer to the second part of your question, yes, if the system that obtains today obtains under law, it would be within the Highway Code, or it is due to an application of the rights of this General Assembly, which we certainly ought to take back unto ourselves.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, to further interogate the gentleman, this House at any time has the power to extend its strong arm and control Highway Department expenditures if it would so desire?

Mr. JOHNSON. In answer to the gentleman's question. I sincerely hope that before this General Assembly ends—

Mr. ANDREWS. The gentleman is not responsive.

Mr. JOHNSON. We will have a budget like that in front of us wherein we will do our legislative duty and budget the Highway Department funds, which we do not do at the present time.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not responsive.

Mr. JOHNSON. I do not believe the gentleman asked a question, I believe he made a statement. Would the gentleman put it in the form of a question?

Mr. ANDREWS. I will consider it put in the form of a question. Consider it a question. The question is, cannot this House at any time it is so disposed extend its strong arm and govern the line of expenditures of the Highway Department?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say, yes, that is correct.

Mr. ANDREWS. Then, Mr. Speaker, I desire it stated as a matter of record that this bill is not an extension of the powers of this House, of the powers of the General Assembly, to curb Highway Department expenditures for personnel during the final three months of this biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. In answer to that question, I consider this bill to do exactly that in that it does not curb the Highway Department. That was my interpretation of the bill, that it only applied in my opinion to those departments over which we have exercised budgetary control.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, that was the only point I desired to establish, that this bill, neither by direct statement nor by inference, can in any way curtail the power of the Highway Department to increase its expenditures for personnel during the final three months of this biennium.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to amplify the remarks made by Mr. Andrews.

I am opposed to this bill because I think it is a violation of the spirit of the Constitution of Pennsylvania. We are attempting illogically, without any semblance of rhyme or reason, to curtail the administrative branch. The Constitution says there are three co-equal powers, the executive, the legislative and the judicial. I think this is definitely an encroachment on the power of the executive and I am sorry to see it happen.

It has been demonstrated that the Majority Leader is not interested in learning the legitimate needs of the various departmental heads. It was stated that Secretary of Welfare Shapiro is in the hospital. If they really want to question him, why do they not wait or see his assistant? They have not attempted, I believe they said, to talk with the Budget Secretary. I think if we are going to bring out on the floor legislation like this, we should consider fully the needs and requirements of the administrators.

I am, therefore, very much opposed to the bill on the basis that it is not constitutional.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, one further final word on this bill.

All of us remember the last session which ran for about 16 months, and we are well aware of the fact that many of these departmental programs were not fully nor thoroughly authorized until way past the beginning of the biennium.

Just for the sake of illustration, if a department were given $16 million to carry out its functions for the biennium, and for some reason or other, dispute over taxes, or the amount of the appropriation, or what ever it might be, the program of that department did not get started for five or six months after the biennium began, obviously the rate of spending would have been kept to an absolute minimum during the first four, five or six months. Perhaps the rate of spending would have been $1 million a month. So you got to the last three months and you would find that your $16 million is necessary to be expended because the program was enlarged during the biennium, but you would be handicapped by the fact that you were restricted to one-eighth of whatever amount you were given. I say a bill of this kind, even though we are in session, could do a great deal of damage to any sensible program. I do not think the questions have been gone into thoroughly enough, I do not think your background material which you have been able to give to us is factual and complete enough, and I say we are shooting in the dark. We are doing a dangerous thing here and something that should not be done.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would like one further interrogation of the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the bill refers to any administrative body, board or commission. Will the Majority Leader tell us whether he regards the Highway Department as an administrative body? If it is an administrative body, then does not this bill apply to the Highway Department?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would say it is an administrative body, it is a department of our state government. But inasmuch as we do not by legislation allocate any funds to them or appropriate any money to them as such, I did not feel this bill applied.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, would the Majority Leader defer action long enough to enable him unofficially to consult the Attorney General, or other legal advisors, to determine whether his interpretation of the act is, in fact, in line with the wording of the measure?

Mr. Speaker, further, at this time we are dealing with too serious a matter to have simply opinions taken off one's cuff. This is a very serious matter and we should fortify ourselves with competent legal advice. Because if it does, by chance, apply to the Highway Department, the enactment of this bill will be defeating the very purposes for which the minority and the majority have spoken insofar as the Highway Department is concerned. What is the objection to bringing in legal opinion which we can present to the Members of this House?

I have no desire, Mr. Chairman, to defeat this measure. I think there are many, many expenditures made during the final three months by the various departments which should be curbed, but I fear this measure will be used to handicap the very department which is being criticized because it has not acted. Then when it desires to act, there will be a law on the statute books preventing it from acting.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, with respect to the Highway Department, let us say the bill does apply to the Highway Department. Let us say that the Motor License Fund money which would be available to them in this current biennium would be $650 million, which includes Federal money plus state money. If you divide that by eight, I would say that would give the Highway Department ample funds to hire design engineers and personnel and pay the costs of running their department during a three months period.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman read the bill? It says, "or appropriated to it for such purposes." What are "such purposes"? Such purposes are the materials, the supplies, the salaries and the compensation. So under the wording of this bill the department would be limited insofar as its specific expenditures for salaries were concerned to one-eighth of what it can spend during the biennium.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I agree with the gentleman as far as the Highway Department is concerned by reason of the fact that there is no budget as such for the Highway Department with respect to salaries, operating expenses, and so forth. Therefore, the application of this bill to the Highway Department is in doubt. I grant you that. I do not believe it applies to that particular Department.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman object to delaying action for at least a day while the Majority Leader fortifies himself with such legal opinion as he may himself desire to consult?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman has a parliamentary motion which he can make to delay. If he will make the motion, we will see how the membership on this side feels about it.

Personally I would like to see a vote on the bill today. I think the principles are very clear in the bill. I do not see how any further debate will point out anything further with respect to the bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would be very loath to make a motion for delay, knowing in what complete command the Majority Leader is of the hosts which he can summon when he is so disposed. It would simply be a matter of record in so far as the Majority Leader is concerned that he has informed this House that this bill does not apply to the Highway Department. I have no doubt he has convinced his membership to that effect, and we are willing to go forward on the supposition that this bill does not apply in any way to the Highway Department.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I briefly interrogate the Majority Leader?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would preface my questions, and they will be brief, with the observation that I am honestly soliciting information. I am not asking this question by way of criticism, although I am firmly opposed to this bill because of the many reasons that have heretofore been stated.

As this bill is presently worded, does not the restriction on the total amount of expenditures in the last one-eighth of the biennium include a restriction on all disbursements that exceed one-eighth of the total appropriation for the biennium, whether or not that disbursement is in payment of an expense that was previously accrued or whether the disbursement was actually in payment of an expense incurred during the last three months of the biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say that it would cover payments on accounts payable as well as current purchases that are bought for cash.

Mr. FINEMAN. So that as a matter of fact, the bill in its present form is not only a restriction for the last three months of the biennium but could very well and conceivably be a restriction on disbursements covering payments of expenses incurred, let us say, five or six months prior to the end of the biennium.

Mr. JOHNSON. The Chairman of the Appropriations Committee says the answer to that question is, no.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, that answer would be inconsistent with the answer you gave me to my previous question. Let me rephrase that previous question.

I asked you whether or not this restriction on disbursements covers disbursements made on payment of expenses previously accrued prior to the last three months?

Mr. JOHNSON. The accounting system of the Commonwealth has taken a material change in the last year, as I understand it. I understand under our present budgetary way of handling things, when an expense is incurred in the form of a liability or accounts payable, it is automatically deducted from a budget expenditure and is no longer considered an expenditure on an accrual basis. Mr. Wood, who has been working on that basis, says therefore that would not be deducted from the budget during the last three months.

Mr. FINEMAN. Let me present this hypothetical situation. Suppose the Commonwealth made a purchase for equipment in the twenty-first month of the biennium and the supplier did not furnish a bill for that item of equipment until the twenty-second month, will the payment of that bill in the twenty-second month be included in this restriction in this bill?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, it would not, because our present method of expenditure by the Commonwealth is to charge from the appropriation the amount owing when the contract is signed or the liability incurred.

Mr. FINEMAN. Is there anything in this bill the gentleman can point to which clearly states these expenditures do not include disbursements made for accrued expenses but on the contrary are limited to expenses incurred in the last three months of the biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say under the new accrual system of accounting when the liability is incurred, the deduction is made from the appropriation. The payment of the bill is merely a bookkeeping transaction from cash on hand.

Mr. FINEMAN. So that in substance the restriction on disbursements would not include payments made for purchases previously incurred prior to the last three months of the biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. As I understand it, that is correct.

Mr. FINEMAN. Thank you.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I just want to ask one question of the Majority Leader in connection with that last statement.

Mr. Speaker, do I understand if a department wanted to go hog-wild on spending, and so forth, they could do it the fourth, fifth or sixth month previous to the end of the biennium and incur the obligation which would have to be paid during the last three months? Is that the meaning of this bill?

Mr. JOHNSON. To understand the way our budget office works, before you can make an expenditure for a particular item you must obtain an appropriation symbol from the Budget Department, as I understand it. Whether you are given an appropriation budget symbol for a particular item or how they do it under this new accrual method on that particular basis that you are mentioning, I cannot say, but I do know that under the accrual basis the appropriation is charged the day they make the purchase and incur the liability.

Mr. READINGER. Then I will repeat my question. Under the system that you have outlined, can a department which has $10 million left during the last six months of a biennium spend $9 million of that by incurring obligations which would not be paid until the last three months of a biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct. As I understand our budget system they could create the liability for their entire budget the very first month of operation if they have received an appropriation symbol.

Mr. READINGER. Then this bill would serve no purpose whatsoever if a department was minded to dispose of its appropriation to the extent of more than one-eighth of it prior to the last three months, is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say under our system, Mr. Speaker, that would be true. If the budget office previous to the last three-months period has given appropriation symbols which will permit the department head to spend all of his money, he could have it spent. That is correct. This bill is designed to curb the department head, who has not received the necessary authority but who has the appropriation symbol provided, from making unusual and unnecessary expenditures during the last three months so as to give the taxpayers a break and to provide a basis for figuring lapsed appropriations before the end of the biennium.

Mr. READINGER. One further question. Will the gentleman not agree this bill goes much further than his expressed intention concerning it?

Mr. JOHNSON. No. The purpose of this bill, first, is to curtail unnecessary and unusual and lavish expenditures during the last three months. I believe we received some information there was one department that had only spent $12,000 of a $300,000 appropriation, and they wanted the $300,000 this next biennium again. In order to get rid of this $300,000 they were going around asking various departments if they needed moving picture machines and projectors and various things like that. This bill would curtail and stop that type of spending during the last three months of a biennium.

Mr. READINGER. Would it not be easier to pass a bill through this House, if the gentleman has such specific information, revoking that appropriation so that they could not take the balance of the $300,000 and look for something to spend it on?

Mr. JOHNSON. For the information of the gentleman we have a bill prepared which will be introduced today lapsing that very appropriation, among others.

Mr. READINGER. Then this bill would not be necessary if you did that with all of them, would it?

Mr. JOHNSON. Yes, this bill was necessary in order for us to pass a lapsing appropriation statute between now and the end of a biennium. We must stop them from lavishly spending this money before we have a chance to put through a lapsing appropriation.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. JOHNSON. This bill affects future bienniums also.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I just ask the Majority Leader one more question?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman believe in bargains?

Mr. JOHNSON. Bargains?

Mr. LOVETT. Yes.

Mr. JOHNSON. Yes, I made a bargain at the expense of the Parliamentarian just this week.

Mr. LOVETT. Does the gentleamn feel if some department head in his last three months had a sufficient amount of money left from his appropriation and he saw the opportunity of saving quite a bit of money for the state of Pennsylvania he should not be able to take advantage of that bargain?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would say I do not know what kind of bargain the gentleman means. I am afraid it would be a rarity in a case like that.

Mr. LOVETT. May I say to the gentleman that we are dealing with supplies of all kinds and equipment of all kinds, and there are times the gentleman well knows when there are bargains and when it is to the advantage of the individual or to the state to take advantage of that bargain, would not this bill prohibit that?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question, under the present rules of the Department of Property and Supplies with respect to purchasing things in large quantities at bargains, I believe there is an element of advertising that must be had, and it goes to the lowest bidder as I understand it.

Mr. LOVETT. Does that period of advertising exceed three or four months?

Mr. JOHNSON. It runs in my mind the advertisement runs 30 days. I could be wrong.

Mr. LOVETT. Then they could very easily accomplish their purpose within that time under the advertisement.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, at the outset I would like to say I disagree entirely with the gentleman from McKean County on the impact of the measure before us.

I firmly agree with my colleagues on this side of the House when they say this will affect the administrative bodies that they spoke of, the Highway Department, the Game Commission, the Fish Commission, and other groups.

In my 17 years of service in this House I believe this proposal before us is the most ill-conceived and asinine proposal we have ever had before this body. I honestly believe the final enactment of such a proposal would bring about a complete breakdown of businesslike administration in our state government.

You have heard the debate here and the pros and cons of the legislation we have before us. Beyond that, am I to assume that the Majority Leader does not know how state government is operated? Or must I assume that the Majority Leader and the Republican party, in the event this bill is finally passed, want to take the responsibility of the adverse impact this would have on our state government?

Does the gentleman know we are today reaching out for highly skilled technical men for the good operation of our various state departments, men we cannot get, men who are not subject to the political grabbag such as they have been in the past? Does the gentleman know that in National Engineering Magazines we are advertising for highly qualified engineers to be brought into the system in Pensylvania? Does the gentleman know we have had in the short time this program has been in effect 30 replies which sound as if these men would be willing to come into our state government? Will we be able to provide the salaries for these people once they have accepted a position?

I am not going to elaborate at length and take the time of the House on this, but were I the chief executive of this state—and I will say that for the 50 Senators and the 210 House Members who sit here—I would veto this measure if passed by the Assembly and issue a blistering attack and condemnation of the people who fostered the idea. You have got it coming to you. Pass it, take the responsibility and live with what you receive.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, sometime during this debate someone made the remark that we could not intelligently vote for this piece of legislation. I for one, and the others who plan to vote for this bill, resent that remark and I desire that it be stricken from the record.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I think during my first six terms in this House at the beginning of each session I received a beautiful block of glass known as a paperweight. I do not know who bought those paperweights, but whenever they were bought they must have bought them by the millions. Probably that was one of those departments years ago which was trying to spend some money during the last part of a biennium, so they bought paperweights.

Of course, when I got here in 1936 paperweights were pretty much out of fashion. I do not know what the other Members used them for, but I never could find any real use for them, not that kind of use anyway.

So there probably is some merit to what is being attempted here, but this is not the time to be doing anything. If the Majority Leader had the information which I requested earlier in this debate concerning the effect on various departments now operating during the rest of this biennium, perhaps we would be satisfied to go along with this. I do not have that information.

This bill was only reported from Committee last Tuesday. It was on first reading last Wednesday, and Wednesday we adjourned for the week. I have had no opportunity to obtain any information up to this time and I do not think you did either. Obviously, your Majority Leader has not been able to obtain the basic information on which we can honestly and intelligently decide this issue.

MOTION TO LAY ON TABLE

Mr. READINGER. In view of that fact and the fact that I would like to obtain the information which possibly I can get by next Monday, I now move that this bill be laid upon the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. READINGER and PETROSKY and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to congratulate the opposition on its political solidarity. We are now about to vote on a bill which in my opinion contains many blank spots. You do not know the answers and I do not know the answers, but I assure you I intend to follow through as Minority Floor Leader and obtain from the various departments the information which we do not have today. If this bill should pass with your votes today, I hope for your sake that we are not confronted by real evidence from the departments indicating that their operations for the balance of this biennium will be seriously handicapped. You will not like the situation you will be in if you pass this bill without that information and then we find out that it looks real bad.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 54

Mr. ERB. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 5 of today's calendar, House Resolution No. 54.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

One-tenth of a mile west of the Borough of Duncansville Pennsylvania in the Township of Allegheny County of Blair there exists a highway intersection said intersection consisting of highways known and numbered as State Highway Routes 22 220 and 764.

Said intersection is located and serves a geographical area of some two hundred thousand residents of which the City of Altoona Pennsylvania is the principal area said city being in the proximity of six miles from said intersection.

Said intersection is located on the principal route from East to West (Routes 22 and 220) across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (excepting only the Pennsylvania Turnpike) and on a principal route.

The cictizens are deeply shocked and appalled by the accidents at said intersection and the failure of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to adopt remedial measures in the interest of public welfare therefore be it.

Resolved, That in the interest of the public welfare and in the interest of the good name and reputation of the citizens of this area in particular and in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania generally for the regard of human life and property that the Governor be requested to order and direct the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to study and observe the said dangerous intersection and to eliminate the hazards to life and property there existing either by reconstruction or by the installation of adequate safety devices.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 56

Mr. POST. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 6 of today's calendar, House Resolution No. 56.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1957.

Legislative route 40033 in Luzerne County a highway starting at Dewey Park in Nanticoke City and terminating at Franklin Brewery Hill in Hanover Township was built five years ago During those five years it has been the scene of forty automobile accidents seven of them involving fatalities

It is obvious that the safety conditions of this highway require study and improvement therefore be it

Resolved That the Secretary of Highways is hereby requested to investigate into the safety conditions and traffic hazards of Legislative route 40033 and take such actions as the investigation indicates are needed and in addition to any other action the Secretary of Highways is specifically requested to remove the mushroom type medial dividers on the highway and replace them with a solid medial divider and to erect additional guard rails along the route and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Secretary of Highways

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. McINROY asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Railroads and Railways to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BREON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, on the front page of today's issue of a Harrisburg newspaper there appears a story concerned with a portrait recently completed by Mr. Franklin C. Watkins of Senator Joseph Clark. This story reports there is some furor surrounding the portrayal of the distinguished Senator from Pennsylvania. One gentleman says it, "Makes Joe look like Hamlet." Another gentleman says "Do we want Joe or Sir Laurence Olivier?"

The artist answered the furor in this manner and I quote:

> I expected some shrieks. My purpose was to portray a little more thoughful type of person than a politician. I painted Senator Clark as I thought he ought to be painted. I didn't think he fitted into the usual pattern of a mayor or politician.

Mr. Speaker, I submit as a matter of public record that I find it necessary to disagree with Mr. Watkins' personal interpretation of the word "politician" and further state that politics in my opinion is indeed an honorable profession comprised, perhaps not in its entirety but certainly in its majority, of serious, thoughtful men and women.

I resent the inference that politicians, who are men and women actively engaged in the science of government, should not be at least considered thoughtful.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Reservations for the newspaper correspondents' gridiron dinner, April twenty-third at the Penn-Harris, are now being taken in the news room.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Wednesday, March 20, 1957 at 10:00 a. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 4:17 p. m.) the House adjourned.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1957. 142nd of the General Assembly.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG PA., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1957. No. 27.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 20, 1957.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Robert D. Fleming) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At the request of the President pro tempore of the Senate, the Honorable M. Harvey Taylor, the Chair is presiding at today's Session.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend Doctor FERDINAND DERK, Pastor of the First Methodist Church, Shickshinny, offered the following prayer:

May we bow our heads in prayer?

Almighty and eternal God, Who fillest all space and Who nevertheless no space can contain, from Thee, as the source of all things, we have our being. To Thee, as the end of all things, we draw near.

May Thy blessing be upon Thy servants who apply themselves to their work. Inspire us in our enterprises, help us in our endeavors, prompt our designs and purify our minds that yearn to know themselves and Thee.

O Father of light, give us discernment to know the truth. O Father of spirits, give us courage to uphold what we know to be true. To the glory of Thy Name, the good of Thy church, the increase of piety and the salvation of our souls, through Jesus Christ, our Lord, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. PECHAN and Mr. MAHANY, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, it is my understanding that the Bureau of Licensure for Professional Nurses has in mind for this summer to call in all of the graduate nurses to Harrisburg in order that they take the State Board Examinations. They use the excuse that the reason they are sending for them to come to Harrisburg is that there is no room large enough in Pittsburgh or any other area in which the examination could be conducted.

This is a tremendous injustice to these girls. Some of them, for instance, might have to travel 300 miles to get to Harrisburg and for them to pay their expenses for three or four days, it might take $100 to $200. There are not very many nurses who have that kind of money, and for many it was even a hardship to go to school.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am introducing this legislation which would not permit the Licensure Board to have all of the girls come to Harrisburg. We have fourteen State Teachers' Colleges and four State-aided schools which, I am sure, are close enough to their areas. I have checked and these schools have the facilities and the personnel who are already working for the State.

Mr. President, I am also introducing a bill whereby the nurses would be allowed to take the examination at one of the fourteen State Teachers' Colleges or at the University of Pittsburgh, University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, Temple or the University of Pennsylvania, whichever is nearest their homes.

Mr. President, another bill I am going to introduce falls in line with the highway raucous being made in Freeport. We have a bridge that has a limit of seven tons. In order for the children to get to school in Freeport from Senator Dent's area in Westmoreland County, the bus has to unload these children and they walk across this bridge. When they do get out of the bus, the bus closely follows these children across the bridge and it slows the traffic. The fact that they are walking across this bridge causes traffic to slow up and, consequently, the bridge is filled with traffic going both ways and it carries a much heavier load than it should and it is very, very unsafe. When you walk across that bridge while vehicles are moving, the bridge shakes. The bridge was moved off its piers in 1920 when they had an ice gorge there. The bridge, in its present condition, is very unsafe and dangerous.

I prevail on the Highways Committee to act on this bill at the earliest possible time.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am presenting to the Chair, these three bills.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. PECHAN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 398, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 22, 1951 (P. L. 317) entitled "The Professional Nursing Law," providing for examination for licensure to be given at State Teachers' Colleges and State-aided universities.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 399, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Highways with the approval of the Governor to erect and maintain a high level bridge over the Allegheny River in Freeport, Armstrong County and to provide the necessary approaches and connections with State highways empowering counties to pay certain damages.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 400, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 2, 1956 (P. L. 1211) entitled "Practical Nurse Law," providing for examinations for licensure to be given at State teachers colleges and State-aided universities.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, one of the leading stars in the firmament of American States was Charles Evans Hughes, first Governor of the State of New York, then a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, Secretary of State and, finally, Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. He was the man who had the firmness and bravery to hail, before the bar of public opinion, the various insurance companies which, at that time, milked the people of many funds and ran roughshod over the citizenry of the United States.

As a result of the investigation conducted by Charles Evans Hughes, some sedentary measures were undertaken which more or less harnessed the insurance companies.

Now in recent years, there is a new octupus coming into the field which, under the pretext of rendering a quasi-public service, is escaping the light of scrutinizing investigation. I am referring, Mr. President, to the Blue Cross. The Blue Cross runs terrific advertisements. When you come to Philadelphia, on each conspicuous place you see an advertisement, stating that two out of three people have Blue Cross. However, the tragedy of the situation is that the holders of those Blue Cross certificates do not realize that they are getting only a certain number of days. Upon expiration of that period, they are done. I learned this from a tragic experience in my own family. Therefore, when disaster strikes, the Blue Cross may sometimes not help you.

All I want, according to this bill, is for them to state, in bold letters on their fine advertisements and on all their appeals to the public to join the Blue Cross, that the help is only limited; it is not total coverage.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 401, entitled:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO IMMEDIATELY ENACT LEGISLATION WHICH WILL SEEK A MODIFICATION OF ALL AGREEMENTS GIVING FOREIGN NATIONS CRIMINAL JURISDICTION OVER UNITED STATES SERVICE PERSONNEL

Messrs. PECHAN and WOLF offered the following resolution which was twice read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, March 20, 1957.

The members of our armed forces serving abroad, their civilian component and the dependents of each, are now subject to the criminal jurisdiction of more than fifty countries in which they may be on duty by reason of the N A T O Status of Forces Treaty, the Administrative Agreement with Japan, and Executive Agreements with other nations. These agreements penalize our servicemen who are serving abroad by depriving them of many of the rights granted by our Constitution, which they have sworn to defend.

The Senate deplores the arrangements now existing which make service in our armed forces abroad a hazard by depriving our servicemen, their civilian component and dependents of the rights and guarantees of our Constitution.

The General Assembly therefore expresses its belief that all United States service personnel stationed abroad should be tried by United States military tribunals under the Uniform Code of Military Justice for offenses committed on foreign soil, therefore be it

Resolved, (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Congress of the United States be memorialized to immediately enact legislation which will seek a modification of all agreements giving foreign nations criminal jurisdiction over United States service personnel stationed there in order that the United States may regain exclusive jurisdiction over members of its armed forces or if necessary the Congress should terminate or denounce these agreements, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the President and Vice President of the United States; to all Senators and members of the House of Representatives of the United States, and that copies be filed with the Clerk of the House of Representatives and the Clerk of the Senate of the United States.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, the subject I am about to speak upon pertains primarily to my county of Washington. I imagine that most of you from western Pennsylvania read in the metropolitan newspapers last week where one Dennis Harshall, of Frances Mine, near Burgettstown, was arrested by the county detectives of Allegheny County, accompanied by a member of the Pennsylvania State Police. In the course of the process of the arrest of Mr. Harshall who, incidentally, is sixty-five years of age and has suffered four heart attacks, while taking him to Pittsburgh, Mr. Harshall allegedly died while going through the tubes.

It so happens that a former distinguished Member of the House of Representatives from our county, a medical doctor who attended Mr. Harshall, stated that Dennis Harshall actually died due to the fact that the State Police and the county detectives of Allegheny County accosted this man who was in a very weakened condition. They did not permit him to go before a magistrate and put up bail for his appearance in Allegheny County.

To give you the gist of what actually happened, Dennis Harshall was formerly a district organizer for the United Mine Workers of America and back about two years ago, he started suffering from heart attacks. Of course, he had the privilege of being attended by some prominent physicians in our county. The other night, just before he died, Dennis Harshall felt that he would like to see his grandchildren in Morgantown. His wife told me that he had a premonition that he might pass away. Therefore, he took his car and drove one of his daughters to the courthouse in Washington, Pennsylvania, who, incidentally, works for our Clerk of the Courts. He drove home to Morgantown and he became ill over there. His daughter, Mrs. Felton, who resides in Morgantown, drove this old man back home. He was home only a short time when he tried to get his doctor on the telephone. He could not reach his doctor by telephone and so he drove his car down around the corner to see the doctor. When he found that the doctor was not in, he drove back and the State Police and county detectives followed him back home. Here is the story that they told me.

Mr. Harshall was stopped in the yard of his home by the State Police, county detectives and one other man. He wore a light sweater. They held him outside in the chill air. He only weighed about 130 pounds and had only been out of the hospital about three weeks. They interrogated him there and then he walked in the house where his wife and another daughter were. They talked in the kitchen and the State Policeman said, "You are under arrest and we are taking you to Allegheny County because there is something about drugs that you are involved in." Mrs. Harshall told the officers, "If you take my husband out of here and take him to Pittsburgh in his present condition, he will never come back alive." The officers did not pay any attention to her. They took the old man out of the house and, I understand, shoved him down the steps. They put him in the car even without a coat. His daughter ran out and pleaded and cried to the police and said, "Please, let my father take his coat and let me go with him. Let me go with him because he might die." However, they would not let her go. They took this poor old man into Pittsburgh.

In the examination, I am advised by the daughters of Dennis Harshall, they went through his clothing and found that the medicine he had on his person was medicine which was prescribed by doctors and that he was not involved in any unlawful acts as far as we know.

Of course, the doctors had prescribed morphine, I believe, to the old man due to his coronary condition because he had such severe pain. He had two or three tablets in his pocket. The doctor, Doctor O. A. Hindman, by the way, who served in the House, told me that this old man could have anything he wanted in order to alleviate this pain. He did not have to participate in any unlawful acts. Doctor Hindman told me that the man could have this dope and they prescribed it. A doctor in Washington also prescribed it in order to alleviate the pain, because the man had four coronary attacks and they did not expect him to live. Naturally, he could not live. That is the reason they gave him the prescription, in order for him to survive.

According to the newspapers, they claim there was some lady who involved this old man in swiping prescriptions. I believe her name was Webster, from McDonald. However, the family knows nothing about this and it could not be true because Dennis Harshall did not need to forge any prescriptions for any sort of dope at all. He had all he could use since the doctors gave him the right by giving him prescriptions.

The point I want to make here today is this, Mr. President. I know there is always a hue and a cry when somebody is arrested. However, the point I want to make is that Dennis Harshall was a law-abiding citizen of Washington County. He had lived there all of his life. He had never been arrested. He had four heart attacks. He was just out of the hospital for three weeks when these people grabbed him and took him into Pittsburgh and, naturally, Doctor Hindman said that the excitement was bound to kill this old man.

Why could they not have taken this old man to a squire and let him put up bond? He could have gotten bond anywhere in Washington County. He might be living today. If that is the way they train the State Police in Pennsylvania, and the county detectives in Allegheny County, I want you to know that we in Washington County know it, and we do not like it.

I think the Department of Justice should look into this. I have requested our District Attorney in Washington County to find out all the legal details in regard to what happened. If it were not for the dilatoriness and the arbitrariness and the lack of common decency on the part of these officers, in all probability old man Harshall, who was a fine old gentleman, would probably be living today.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, March 25, 1957, at 3:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 9:57 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Monday, March 25, 1957, at 3:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, March 20, 1957.

The House met at 10:00 a. m.
The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Charles E. Ritter, Jr., Pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, White Haven, Pa., guest Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

What man is he that feareth the Lord: him shall He teach in the way that He shall choose. His soul shall dwell at ease: and his seed shall inherit the earth. (Psalms 25:12, 13).

Almighty and Everlasting God, Who art always more ready to hear than we to pray, and art wont to give more than either we desire or deserve; pour down upon us the abundance of Thy mercy, forgiving us those things whereof our conscience is afraid, and giving us those good things which we are not worthy to ask, but through Thy loving kindness and Thy tender mercies, have been ever of old. Give, we humbly beseech Thee, to all nations peace and concord, preserve our country from discord and contention, direct and defend our President, the Governor of this Commonwealth, and all in authority; and bless and keep our magistrates, and all our people, that we may lead a peaceable and prosperous life in Thy fear and protection, and serve Thee with everlasting innocence, righteousness, and blessedness, through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. Are there any corrections to the Journal of Monday, March 11, 1957? If not, and without objection, the Journal is approved.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Tuesday, March 19, 1957 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. AGNEW, ADAMS and SELTZER. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 63.

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1957.

Labor organizations under the protection of law have developed and prospered and are a beneficial and integral part of the society and economy not only of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania but also of the United States of America.

Labor organizations under the protection of the law of the nation and of the several states now exercise powers almost unlimited over the membership of these organizations, and officers of labor organizations are without the compulsion of law in the receiving, expending, and disbursing of funds derived from the membership.

The activities of labor organizations have an impact on the national economy and society as great as that of business corporations and other groups now the subject of extensive regulatory legislation.

Labor organizations perform and have performed a notable and worthwhile service to their members and the general public in the seeking and obtaining of higher wages, incidental benefits and improved conditions of employment. The majority of all labor organizations are led and have been led by honest, competent and dedicated officers. The affairs of a majority of labor organizations are conducted and have been conducted in a democratic and fair manner.

Some labor organizations are not officered by honest, competent and dedicated members, and the affairs of some labor organizations are operated in a manner not democratic and seemingly for the personal and financial aggrandizement of the officers of these organizations.

When union membership is incidental to the gainful employment by which a citizen of these United States supports himself and his family, whether such membership is voluntary or involuntary, certain basic rights of membership ought by reason of the natural law to exist, and these rights ought to be defined and protected by law.

The matters referred to in this resolution exist outside the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as well as within the Commonwealth, and partly because of the judicial interpretation of the interstate commerce clause of the federal constitution, are federal in scope.

Legislation to remedy these conditions in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been introduced in the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Session of 1957, House Bills numbered 769, 770, 771 and 772; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly does by this resolution memorialize the Congress of the United States of America to enact legislation defining and protecting the right of members of labor organizations, regulating labor organizations in the manner similar to that prescribed in the House Bills above mentioned, and by such legislation to strengthen the democratic processes of such labor organizations, in the interests of the membership of these organizations and for the general welfare of the people of the United States of America; and be it further

Resolved, That the federal legislation above requested shall not be designed to affect, nor interfere with in any manner, the existing collective bargaining processes and the legitimate activities of such labor organizations; nor shall such legislation be intended in any manner to weaken the economic position of such labor organizations, but rather by the elimination of existing abuses, to strengthen the union movement; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of House Bills numbered 769, 770, 771 and 772, together with copies of this resolution, be sent to each of Pennsylvania's thirty Congressman, Senator Edward Martin, Senator Joseph S. Clark and James R. Mitchell, the Secretary of Labor.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. G. E. JONES and HOLT.

RESOLUTION No. 64.

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1957.

The Pennsylvania Fair Employment Practice Act was enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth on October 27, 1955. A declaration of public policy was therein embodied which stated the policy of all the Commonwealth to be that of fostering the employment of all individuals in accordance with their fullest capacities, regardless of their race, color, religious creed, ancestry, age or national origin, and to safeguard their right to obtain and hold employment without discrimination.

There was created the Pennsylvania Fair Employment Practice Commisison which had as its duties and powers the implementation of what was declared to be the public policy of the Commonwealth in employment matters. The Commisison was, among other things, to make recommendations to agencies and officers of the Commonwealth or political subdivisions of government or board, department, commission or school district thereof to effectuate such policies. Therefore, in order to assist the Commission in its assigned task, be it

Resolved, That the Auditor General be urged to submit a quarterly report to the Pennsylvania Fair Employment Practice Commission stating the name, race and religion of all employes upon the Commonwealth's pay roll.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. YATRON, ROVANSEK and RENWICK.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 65.

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1957.

Citizens of our Commonwealth who are of advanced age want and should be allowed the opportunity to live pleasant and useful lives even after the age of retirement. Many times for lack of the proper understanding from society these men and women are not enjoying what could be the happiest and most fruitful years of their lives.

Far too many employers refuse to hire men over forty years of age in spite of our F.E.P.C. legislation.

It also seems that our educational, recreational and other welfare programs are centered on our youth, with little regard for persons of advanced years.

The rapid rise in the proportion of older citizens in our Commonwealth presents numerous and increasingly serious social and human problems; therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate concurring) That the Joint State Government Commission is hereby directed to make a comprehensive and intensive study of the problems and needs of the aging and the aged throughout the Commonwealth, and to develop in cooperation with other governmental and voluntary groups methods of assisting the Commonwealth in meeting these needs and problems. The study shall include but not be limited to the following:

1. Employment opportunities for older persons,
2. Recreational facilities for older persons.
3. Housing facilities for older persons.
4. Counseling and personal services for older persons, including employment guidance and placement, medical care, institutional service and educational and related services; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission shall report to the next session of the General Assembly the results of its studies and investigations and recommendations.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the lady from Lehigh, Mrs. Markley.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 391, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 11, 1917 (P. L. 802) entitled "An act authorizing county commissioners to repay moneys collected on forfeited recognizances in certain cases" providing for the return of forfeited recognizances upon application therefor.

The first section was read.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the section?
Mr. EILBERG offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 2, line 8, by inserting after "court" and has paid the costs in connection therewith.
Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 2, line 9, by striking out "four" and inserting in lieu thereof "two."

They were agreed to.
The section was agreed to as amended.
The second section and title were separately read and agreed to.
And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.
Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 362, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) authorizing conveyance by school districts of the second, third or fourth class of unused and unnecessary lands and buildings to the city, borough, town or township coterminous with or within the district.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?
Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 582, Printer's No. 123

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence, bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 281.

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (Appropriation Acts page 120 Act No. 150-A) entitled "The General Appropriation Act of 1955" decreasing appropriations to the Department of Revenue.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, a few days ago my office inadvertently placed an unsponsored communication in the post office boxes of the various Members. For doing that I was very properly rebuked by the gentleman from Allegheny and was reminded by the Chair that the practice of placing unsponsored communications in the boxes of the Members was not in accordance with the Rules of the House. I knew that very well, Mr. Speaker, and the error was inadvertent.

I understand there has very recently been placed in the boxes of the Members, at least some of the Members, a special report on road administration for which there is no sponsorship and no way of telling who is responsible for this special report on road administration. I have not read this communication, I am not familiar with its purpose, but I rally to the support of the gentleman from Allegheny who properly rebuked me and to express wonder why his rebuke does not travel across the full surface of possible offenders.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. GOLDSTEIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, when I raised the question as to anonymous communications being placed in the mail boxes, I had no desire to rebuke anybody. I had no knowledge as to who was responsible for same, I merely wished to prevent more anonymous solicitations of votes and anonymous petitions being placed in my box.

Had I received the communication concerning highways to which Mr. Andrews has referred, I would have taken the same position. I have no recollection of having received any such contribution.

A violation of ethics, whether it be on my side or the other side, is subject to the same censure so far as I am concerned.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been informed that it has always been the practice that communications placed in the Members' boxes should first be cleared with the Chief Clerk's office. The Chair would request the Chief Clerk to so inform the Postmaster.

No communications should be placed in the post office boxes without having the approval of his office for so doing, and that will be continued unless the membership of this House orders otherwise.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. WOOD asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Appropriations to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WARGO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in the past few days there has been a good deal of talk about an investigation of the State Highway Department. Reckless charges of poor administration have been made.

I personally feel that any investigation to be made by this body should start at once. Mr. Joseph Lawler, the Secretary of Highways, has publicly stated he welcomes an investigation. I know he is sincere when he says this.

I am sure when the investigation is completed the people of Pennsylvania will be convinced that our Highway Department is in better shape now than it has ever been. They will know that Joe Lawler is an honest, hard-working man whose chief concern has been that for every dollar of the taxpayers' money spent the people will receive a dollar's worth of service in return.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mrs. MUNLEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, a few days ago a Pittsburgh newspaper saw fit to attack the administration of the State Highway Department. For reasons which I do not know, this paper did not bother to check any facts before the article was written. These falsehoods will be exposed completely. Today I just want to point out one or two of them.

The paper stated that the highway program is not being developed as fast as it should be. If the paper had looked in its own back yard, it would find in the Pittsburgh District in 1953-1954 biennium $24 million worth of road building contracts were awarded, but in the 1955-1956 biennium with the Highway Department under the leadership of Joseph Lawler this amount was more than doubled and $54 million worth of contracts were let in the Pittsburgh District alone. In other words, in the area in which this paper is published state road building is now moving twice as fast as it did before Joseph Lawler became Secretary of Highways.

This paper, if it had bothered for one minute to check the facts, would have found that not one engineering employe in the Pittsburgh District office has been fired by this administration. It would find that the District Engineer under Joseph Lawler is the same man who was District Engineer under the previous Republican administration. From the beginning of his tenure it has been Mr. Lawler's policy to retain capable, qualified people who were willing to work, regardless of their political affiliation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in the absence of the Minority Leader I desire to state that there is no disposition on the part of any responsible Democratic party leader to evade or impede any inquiry which this House, or the General Assembly composed of both Houses, may desire to make concerning the activities of the Highway Department concerning its present personnel, as to whether capable technical people have been dispensed with for political reasons.

We welcome an inquiry along all of those lines and we welcome the inquiry because there has been such an outrageous misrepresentation of facts. I will not take the time of the House to refer to more than one of the mistaken statements which have been made

It has been currently stated that 25 county superintendents are Democratic chairmen. There are two county superintendents who are Democrats and county chairmen.

I could go through the entire list of the accusations made against the Highway Department and the manner and method of its operating and show that 80 percent of all the allegations are as false as the allegation to which I have made reference.

We hope we will have the report from the Majority Leader very shortly concerning the capable, high-minded, efficient Republicans who have been fired from the payroll because of their political affiliation. We await that report with a great deal of interest and expectation, and we think if the Majority Leader had the facts he would have filed the report long ago.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. BOWER from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 860, entitled:

An Act creating a Highway Investigation Commission for the purpose of making a study and investigation of all activities of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways and making an appropriation.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1957. 142nd of the General Assembly.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MARCH 25, 1957. No. 28.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 25, 1957.

The Senate met at 3:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE I. MELHORN, Pastor of the Moxham Lutheran Church, Johnstown, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Father of infinite love and compassion, Who understandests the needs and desires of men, we look to Thee for guidance and direction as this body is opened for official business. We ask that Thou would look with favor upon those who represent the constituents of this State; guide and direct them in their decisions; bless Thou the Commonwealth of which we are all a part. May that which we do, O Father, be done according to Thy good pleasure, that all our decisions may be according to Thy will.

Bless each one of us in Thy service, the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Senators, Members of the official body of the House and all those who would serve Thee.

May we be one in union and spirit, unanimity, that Thy cause may be prospered, Thy love exemplified in the lives of those who know Thee and acknowledge Thee.

We offer our prayer in the name of Christ, our Savior. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. PECHAN and Mr. MADIGAN, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. RUTH asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. MILLER, for the week, due to illness.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 25, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Thomas Jefferson wrote that "some men look at constitutions with sanctimonious reverence and deem them like the ark of the covenant, too sacred to be touched . . ."

But, Jefferson warned, "the laws and institutions must go hand in hand with the progress of the human mind . . ."

In my view, these words of a great American admonished future generations to take care that their constitutions did not become political strait jackets to constrain and hamper government in its adjustment to change.

We are now faced with the imperative need to revise our Constitution. For this fundamental law of the Commonwealth, within whose framework we must meet all of our responsibilities as a sovereign State, has been in effect since January 1, 1874.

No one doubts that it should be brought into keeping with our times; no one argues that many of its provisions have become obsolete as a result of the Commonwealth's continuing growth.

Yet, so far, we have done nothing about it.

In this neglect we are alone among our neighboring states. The New York Constitution was revised in 1938; and a fifteen-man constitution study commission is now doing preliminary work in advance of a referendum on the question of a constitutional convention. And New Jersey effected a forward-looking revision of her Constitution in 1947.

We in Pennsylvania have reached the point where we can no longer disregard the inadequacy of our organic law, written better then fourscore years ago, to cover mid-Twentieth Century needs.

It is time we did something about it.

Accordingly, I lay before you the draft of a bill which would create a temporary State commission for the specific purpose of studying the Commonwealth's Constitution "in the light of contemporary conditions and the anticipated problems and needs of the people of the Commonwealth."

This Commission on Constitutional Revision would consist of fifteen Pennsylvanians, appointed by me with the advice and consent of the Senate.

It would have the duty of determining whether or not changes in our Constitution are advisable; and, if so, how best we might effect them. If the Commission concludes that we should proceed by amendment, it is empowered to recommend such a course, and to include, in its report, drafts of the proposed amendment or amendments.

On the other hand, the Commission may conclude that our Constitution needs general revision. In this case, it would collect, compile, and analyze "such information as it may deem useful to the delegates at a constitutional convention, and shall make any recommendation as to the substance of the revision it may consider appropriate."

The Commission's final report to the Governor and the General Assembly would be submitted not later than one week after the convening of the General Assembly in regular session in 1959.

Members of the Commission will be reimbursed for their expenses, but not otherwise compensated, and $175,000 is appropriated for their use.

In urging your support of this measure, it is pertinent, I think, to tell you that Governor William C. Sproul, in his Inaugural Address in January 1919, expressed serious concern over the need for prompt Constitutional revision. Accordingly, he recommended the creation of a commission on constitutional amendment and revision.

The General Assembly embraced this proposal by the Act of June 4, 1919, and the Commission so established reported to the General Assembly on December 15, 1920.

The able men and women who constituted the Commission came to the conclusion that a considerable number of changes of substance were necessary to update the Constitution, and therefore recommended that it be revised—not simply burdened with a large number of additional amendments.

As part of their report they submitted a proposed revised Constitution, and recommended that the calling of a constitutional convention be put to the voters.

In due course this was done, by the Act of April 27, 1921.

Unfortunately, the proposition was rejected at the polls.

Nearly four decades have passed since Governor Sproul saw the need for "prompt" Constitutional revision.

Those decades have been unprecedented economic development and social change. They have constituted a period which has placed enormous demands upon us for effective self-government, for ordered liberty in a highly interdependent community structure.

But all this while we have gone on amending our Constitution piecemeal—thus aggravating, rather than relieving, the need for thorough revision.

Were our Constitution a relatively simple charter of government like the Constitution of the United States, there would be no need to talk of revision.

The Constitution of Pennsylvania is not, however, a simple instrument confined to the essentials of governmental organization and powers, and of the guaranties of individual liberty.

It is freighted with provisions which treat the legislative branch of the State Government with distrust; with provisions dealing specifically and inflexibly with various matters of public policy; with provisions hampering imaginative and broad-scaled attacks upon the pressing problems of urban and metropolitan living.

All of you are familiar with our Constitution and know, as I do, that the Commonwealth has been forced to evade, by various makeshifts, a number of its strictures.

The Constitution says that a bill must be read three times before it is brought to a vote in either house of the General Assembly. We know, of course, that this is impractical—if not impossible.

And we know that the State's debt limit for capital purposes is fixed by the Constitution at $1 million, thus forcing the Authority device of borrowing money as an expedient and necessary means of evasion.

So we incur huge debts, in the semipublic, semiprivate operations of the Authorities—an expensive and inefficient makeshift at best.

These examples which I have cited are chosen at random to illustrate obsolescences in our Constitution. Many others come to my mind, just as they will to yours.

Together, they comprise a powerful argument in favor of Constitutional study by an expert, nonpartisan group, such as the Commission on Constitutional Revision whose creation this bill would allow.

There is a particularly apt statement on this subject in the report submitted June 20, 1955, to President Eisenhower by the Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. Let me quote part of it to you:

"Early in its study the Commission was confronted with the fact that many state constitutions restrict the scope, the effectiveness, and adaptability of State and local action. These self-imposed constitutional limitations make it difficult for many states to perform all of the services their citizens require, and consequently have frequently been the underlying cause of state and municipal pleas for Federal assistance.

"It is significant that the Constitution prepared by the Founding Fathers, with its broad grants of authority and avoidance of legislative detail, has withstood the test of time far better than the constitutions later adopted by the states. A due regard for the need for stability in government requires adherence to basic constitutional principles until strong and persistent public policy requires a change. A dynamic society requires a constant review of legislative detail to meet changing conditions and circumstances.

"The Commission finds a very real and pressing need for the states to improve their constitutions. A number of states recently have taken energetic action to rewrite outmoded charters. In these states this action has been regarded as a first step in the program to achieve the flexibility required to meet the modern needs of their citizens."

I feel certain that we all want the states—and particularly this Commonwealth—to remain strong and effective, for this is essential to the proper operation of the Federal System. But the strengthening of state government is for the states themselves—not for the National Government.

I urge you, therefore, to support the bill which accompanies this message, and hope you will share my belief that prompt action is called for in this vitally important area of Constitutional reform.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

The PRESIDENT. This communication will be printed in the Legislative Journal.

For the information of the Senators, copies of this communication are now being distributed to each Member's desk.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. FLEMING and DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 409, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 22, 1937 (P. L. 1987), entitled as amended, "Sanitary Water Law," further regulating and defining rights and duties with respect to waters of the Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. FLEMING read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 410, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "The Public School Code of 1949," providing for higher education in technical subjects in the public school system through the establishment and operation of community colleges by school districts or county boards; conferring the powers and imposing duties on school directors, county superintendents, county boards of school directors, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the State Council of Education; and providing for advancements and reimbursements by the Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 411, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," defining rights and status of certain officers and extending services provided through the office of the county superintendent in cases of joint schools or union or merged districts.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 412, entitled:

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 414, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 15, 1933 (Pamphlet Laws 624), entitled as amended "Banking Code," by further regulating the making of installment loans.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have two bills to present to the Chair and I would like to make a brief statement on each of them.

Mr. President, the first bill that I propose to introduce, on behalf of myself and Senator Berger, would create a Pennsylvania Highways Commission and abolish the Department of Highways. In view of the many rumors that are a problem throughout the Commonwealth at the present time, I think legislation of this kind would be entirely in order.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am presenting this bill on behalf of myself and Senator Berger.

Concerning the second bill, Mr. President, the gentlemen of this Senate who were Members during the last Session would well remember that we passed legislation allocating the sum of twenty per cent of four and one-half-cents received from the sale of gasoline in the Commonwealth to the cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships. However, we wrote a floor under this legislation for the years 1955 and 1956 of $30,000,000. In other words, in that law we provided that not less than $30,000,000 from the Motor License Fund would be allocated to the towns, townships, cities, et cetera.

This bill which I am introducing, on behalf of Senator Stevenson, Senator Ehrgood, Senator Elliott, Senator Walker, Senator Kromer, Senator Flack, Senator Whalley and myself, would write a permanent floor for each year of $30,000,000.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. WADE and BERGER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 415, entitled:

An Act creating the Pennsylvania Highways Commission; defining its powers and duties; abolishing the Department of Highways and office of Secretary of Highways, and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Messrs. WADE, STEVENSON, EHRGOOD, ELLIOTT, WALKER, WHALLEY, KROMER and FLACK read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 416, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1944) entitled "An act providing a permanent allocation of a part of the fuels and liquids fuels tax proceeds to cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships, for their road, street and bridge purposes; . . .," continuing a conditional appropriation beyond the calendar year 1957.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Messrs. KESSLER and PROPERT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 417, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 343), entitled "The Fiscal Code," further regulating collections, settlements, resettlements, reassessments and refunds of State taxes and other accounts due the Commonwealth and changing provisions for appeals.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

Messrs. KESSLER and KOPRIVER, JR. read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 418, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 19, 1909 (P. L. 46), entitled "Osteopathic Practice Law," changing provisions relating to qualifications and licensing of osteopathic physicians and surgeons; defining the phrase "osteopathy and surgery"; specifying the power of the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to adopt rules and regulations with respect to interns and hospitals and making editorial changes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. WALKER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 419, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for the maintenance of Lee Hospital, Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 420, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for the maintenance of Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital, Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

He also, on behalf of Messrs. WADE and WATKINS, read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 421, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905), entitled "The Vehicle Code," changing the period for titling new two-axle commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors in certain classes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, we have had much to-do about Morganza Training School and some of our other correctional institutions, and I am firmly convinced that Morganza and like schools should be transferred from the Department of Welfare to the Bureau of Correction in the Department of Justice. They are definitely corrective institutions and I believe that their supervisory functions should come from the Department of Juctice.

Yesterday, I read with a great deal of interest a statement where it costs almost eleven dollars a day to maintain a boy or girl at Morganza as against a figure of some two dollars in some of our other correctional institutions. For that eleven dollars, we could certainly send four or five boys or girls to our State Teachers' Colleges, thereby helping those who wish to improve on their education. I think the cost is exorbitent and I feel that Morganza, with the bad publicity it is receiving, will keep out of the press if it is put under the Department of Justice.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. PECHAN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 422, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," transferring certain departmental administrative boards within the Department of Welfare to the Department of Justice, and conferring upon the Department of Justice supervisory powers over certain supervised institutions.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 423, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1933 (P. L. 216) entitled "The Dental Law," regulating the use of dental technician services by dentists; imposing duties on dentists and dental technicians and prescribing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 424, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 31, 1949 (P. L. 372) entitled "The General State Authority Act of 1949," increasing the power of the Authority to borrow money and issue evidences of indebtedness therefor, and allocating the proceeds of the increased borrowing.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SCHMIDT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I merely wish to advise the Senator from Armstrong that he should be prepared to have some mighty strong arguments in favor of the transfer of the school at Morganza from the Department of Welfare to the Department of Justice.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STEVENSON read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 425, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 25, 1947 (P. L. 1145) entitled as amended "Local Tax Enabling Law," providing for the waiver of notice in certain cases when two political subdivisions impose the same tax on the same person, subject, business, transaction or privilege .

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Mr. HARNEY read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 426, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90) entitled "The Liquor Code," increasing the quota for the issuance of retail licenses.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, throughout the ages, theologians have been trying to figure out, based on the story of Genesis, when God created the angels. You will find that God created everything, but the angels have been omitted. In each creation, there is a certain law of symmetry and if that law is violated the body which is created is of no good.

In our own State Government, Mr. President, there are some departments which lack the finishing touches. By lacking the finishing touches, their impact is totally emasculated. That is the reason why, about two weeks ago, I introduced a bill about the Pardons Board to give it a Bureau of Investigation, an army that could cull information.

The bill which I am about to present now is of a similar nature. However, it deals with the Public Utility Commission. The Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania has to depend, in making its caluculations and computations as to the rate of interest, upon the information offered and gathered by the public utilities. This bill proposes to give the Public Utility Commission the finishing touch to have its own force which could gather the necessary information.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 427, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 31, 1937 (P. L. 160) entitled "An act creating a commission to be known as the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission defining in part the powers and duties of such commission . . .," creating within the Public Utility Commission a bureau of investigation defining its powers and duties and requiring the commission to conduct field investigations through such bureau at the premises of public utilities in certain cases.

Which was committeed to the Committee on State Government.

Messrs. HAYS, DENT and SEYLER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 428, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," abolishing county teacher's meetings or institutes; and providing for in-service training programs.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

They also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 429, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," prescribing a new standard reimbursement fraction for reimbursement on account of certain activities.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

They also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 430, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," providing a basis for limitation of school district indebtedness; and imposing duties on the State Tax Equalization Board.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

They also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 431, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," defining cost of transportation to school districts using their own vehicles in pupil transportation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Messrs. KOPRIVER, JR. and DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 432, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 25, 1931 (P. L. 1371) entitled "A Supplement to the act, approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 555) entitled 'An act providing for the regulation of dams, or other structures or obstructions, as defined herein . . .,' by discontinuing the necessity of securing permits for the erection of certain dams," authoriizng the erection of certain dams without securing permits.

Which was committed to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, one of the bills which I am introducing today is one which has had a great deal of discussion and one which I have noticed in every Session since I have been here. There have been bills and resolutions introduced covering some sort of an amendment or asking for some sort of a revision of our Constitution.

Mr. President, I am introducing a bill today, the purpose of which is to create a commission to study the Constitution of our Commonwealth and to determine whether any changes are either desirable or necessary. It also would require all the departments and different areas of our government to fully cooperate with this commission. The number of members of the commission would be twelve. These would be appointed by the Governor, with the consent of the Senate. These members would not be paid, but there would be a small appropriation to cover a staff who would do the actual groundwork and help prepare the report. I have made a suggestion here as to the amount of the appropriation.

The Members of the Senate who have co-sponsored this legislation all happen to be Members who sit on this side of the aisle. There is no pride of authorship nor is there any desire to keep any of the Members on the other side of the aisle, who might so be interested, from co-sponsoring this legislation. If any of them do want to add their names to this bill, I would be very happy and honored to have them.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. WEINER, DENT, HAYS, SEYLER, YOSKO, KALMAN and MURRAY read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 433, entitled:

An Act creating a temporary state commission to study the Constitution of the Commonwealth, to recommend possible amendment or revision; prescribing the powers and duties of the Commission; and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations.

Messrs. WEINER, HAYS, SEYLER, YOSKO and MURRAY read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 434, entitled:

An Act defining air pollution; giving certain powers to county commissioners, to the county department of health and to the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to regulate and control air pollution; providing that the said county commissioners may pass resolutions and ordinances pertaining to air pollution; providing that the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania exercise certain rights and powers in respect to air pollution; providing for the adoption of rules and regulations; and providing for penalties for the violation of any rule, regulation or order of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Mr. WEINER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 435, entitled:

An Act creating a commission to examine the ward divisions in the City of Philadelphia and requiring it to make a report to the next regular session of the General Assembly and making an appropriation for their expenses.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 436, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code," enlarging the jurisdiction of magistrates in cities of the first class for violation of summary provisions of the act.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McMENAMIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, one of these bills, which is introduced by myself and Senator Dent, would place under a tenure system registered nurses in the State-owned hospitals. The bill, as drawn, is an identical replica of the Teachers Tenure Act.

I believe that this may be a start on the road toward taking certain jobs out of the football field of political patronage. I think all of us, regardless of Party, will agree that there are many jobs which should not become political footballs. I think this is particularly true of technical jobs, such as highly trained registered nurses. There are many people, both in and out of politics, who do not believe that civil service or a merit system is the answer to this problem. Yet, I think most every thinking citizen will agree that a line of demarcation must be drawn in the State hiring setup. I think most of us agree that the sooner this line is drawn, the better off all of us will be.

I think that a middle road is an approach, such as is embodied in these bills, to give certain technical and professional employees tenure, job security and seniority rights, with the right not to be fired until they have had a hearing and only to be fired for certain specified causes, none of which is political activity.

I think all of us will agree that, as a matter of practice, many jobs have never been touched by political parties. As I said, all of us agree that in order to have continuing responsible government in Pennsylvania, we must assure to people in at least some fields that they can have a career regardless of their political status.

Mr. President, I believe that this Nurses Tenure Act may be a start on the road to real political development in Pennsylvania. I, for one, today would amend it to include such other technical jobs in our hospitals as X-ray technicians, medical record librarians and others. I would also like to see it amended to embrace mental hospitals and the many institutions under the jurisdictions of the Department of Welfare for defective and retarded children, and persons afflicted with particular diseases and so on.

I think this is better than civil service or, particularly, temporary civil service, such as embodied in any Governor's edicts on the subject. I think it would make the situation in these hospitals better than they are now without any job security.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. McMENAMIN and DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 437, entitled:

An Act creating a tenure system of employment for registered nurses in State hospitals.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Messrs. McMENAMIN, DENT and HAYS read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 438, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 18, 1917 (P. L. 1043), entitled "Public School Employes Retirement Law," extending the presumption of election of option to certain persons who died subsequent to January 1, 1953.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Messrs. McMENAMIN and DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 439, entitled:

An Act relating to motion-picture films, reels, or stereopticon views or slides; providing a system of listing the first showing of each film reel or view and a system of registration of exhibitors, sellers, lessors and users of films, reels, or views; disapproval of films, reels or views which are obscene or incite to crime and of the banners, posters and other like advertising matter used in connection therewith; imposing powers and duties upon the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors, and providing penalties for the violation of this act.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

Messrs. LANE and WAGNER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 440, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 8, 1941 (P. L. 298), entitled "Fourth Class County Retirement Law," further regulating the reinstatement of county employes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Messrs. DERK, DENT, BERGER and MADIGAN read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 441, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 2, 1935 (P. L. 589), entitled "Milk Sanitation Law," conferring powers and imposing duties on the Secretary of Agriculture; including milk and milk products produced in and outside of the Commonwealth within the requirements of the act; and further regulating municipal and county requirements and regulations concerning milk and milk products.

Which was committed to the Committee on Agriculture.

Messrs. YOSKO and DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 442, entitled:

An Act to create and establish a State agency for surplus property; to prescribe its powers, duties and functions; and to authorize the appropriation of moneys therefor.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO FATHER DADAY, COACH EMIL CARAZO, THE STUDENT BODY OF ALLENTOWN CENTRAL CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL AND TO THE BASKETBALL TEAM UPON WINNING ITS SIXTH STATE P.C.I.A.A. CHAMPIONSHIP

Mr. VAN SANT offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 25, 1957.

On March 22, 1957 the basketball team of Allentown Central Catholic High School brought great honor on itself, its coaching staff, the school and the Commonwealth for it was on this day that Allentown Central Catholic won its sixth State P.C.I.A.A. championship. When they defeated Johnstown Catholic, 60 to 46, the school won its second straight State championship, a feat that no other school has been able to duplicate.

Our congratulations for this inspiring victory and record are certainly in order and we will extend them. To our best wishes for the victory we must add our heartiest congratulations to the student body of Allentown Central Catholic, Coach Emil Carazo, and school principal, Rev. Father Stephen Daday for their inspiring display of good sportsmanship and good citizenship that they have evidenced throughout the entire season.

Father Daday, Coach Carazo and their entire staffs have worked hard to supply our State with good citizens a task they have fully achieved.

The Allentown Central Catholic team set an example of team play and sportsmanship which will always be remembered as one of the finest in scholastic athletic competition; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate extends its warmest congratulations to Father Daday, Coach Emil Carazo, the student body of Allentown Central Catholic High School, and to the basketball team for its stirring victory over a fine Johnstown Catholic team; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this reslution be forwarded to Reverend Father Stephen Daday and to coach Emil Carazo.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. WHALLEY offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 25, 1957.

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, April 1, 1957 at three o'clock, p. m., E.S.T.; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, April 1, 1957 at three o'clock, p. m., E.S.T.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE FAMILY OF WALTER E. GREENWOOD, FORMER SOLICITOR FOR THE CITY OF COATESVILLE

Messrs. HARNEY and STEVENSON offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 25, 1957.

Walter E. Greenwood, solicitor for the City of Coatesville for the past forty years died at his home at the age of seventy-nine on the night of March 15, 1957.

He was born in West Caln Township on July 15, 1877, the son of the late James and Caroline Rice Greenwood.

Mr. Greenwood was educated at the West Chester Normal School in 1896 and later attended and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania School of law in 1899.

A leader in the movement to drop a borough form of government in favor of the commission type, Mr. Greenwood became solicitor for Coatesville in 1916 when a commission type government was formed. With the exception of one year in the early 1920's he served as solicitor continuously from January 1916.

Mr. Greenwood was a member of the Legislative Local Government Commission appointed by the Speaker of the House from November 1939 to June 1943 when he was elected by that Commission as an advisor on Local Government.

Regarded as an authority on Third Class City government and its administration, he was a past president of the Pennsylvania League of Third Class Citities and for many years served as its executive director. When the League was reorganized to admit larger cities, he became executive director emeritus of the Pennsylvania League of Cities.

He displayed considerable interest in the League of Third Class Cities and showed much pride in the issuance of a regular bulletin covering events of interest to the municipalities affiliated with the group. His knowledge of this service was invaluable and he was called upon time and again by the solicitors of other cities to give important decisions. He was looked upon over a long period of years as an important figure in legislative circles in Harrisburg in helping to draft bills which later were enacted into laws. He also was instrumental in discouraging passage of measures which he regarded as not in the best interest of member cities.

In addition to playing an important role in county and city politics and municipal government, Mr. Greenwood also was a past commander of the Centennial Commandery No. 55 and past high priest of the Coatesville Royal Arch Chapter, No. 267.

A member of the original Board of Managers of the Coatesville Hospital, he was honored in 1953 for more than fifty years of service to the hospital.

He also was a past president of the Chester County Bar Association and a past president of the Coatesville Lions Club.

A life member of the B.P.O.E., Mr. Greenwood served the local as a trustee for twenty-five years. He also was a member of the Washington Fire Company and served as trustee for a number of years.

Mr. Greenwood was a member of the Coatesville Presbyterian Church for more than fifty years and a member of the church's Iron Rose Bible Class.

He was also active in alumni affairs of West Chester State Teachers' College and the University of Pennsylvania.

In addition to his widow, Laura Swartz Greenwood, he is survived by a son, W. Edward Greenwood, and a daughter, Mrs. Caroline Greenwood Narvel. Also surviving him are two grandchildren and a great granddaughter and a sister Mrs. Mary G. Cadwallader, who now resides in the Midwest; therefore be it

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to each of the above named members of the family of Walter E. Greenwood, as a token of sympathy extended to them in their hour of grief by this Senate of Pennsylvania.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO MAKE AVAILABLE CERTAIN FUNDS SO THAT THE JUSTIFIED AND AUTHORIZED IMPROVEMENT OF THE DELAWARE RIVER CAN BE CONTINUED

Messrs. HARNEY, WATKINS and WATSON offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, March 25, 1957.

Whereas, The Executive Department of the United States has recommended an appropriation of $9 million to be expended by the Corps of Engineers in the fiscal year 1958 for the purpose of continuing the authorized improvement of the Delaware River Channel, Philadelphia, Pa., to Trenton, N. J.; and

Whereas, The Executive Department of the United States has imposed a maximum depth of 35 feet for the authorized improvement; and

Whereas, the Congressionally-authorized improvement calls for a depth of 40 feet; and

Whereas, the Philadelphia District Engineer of the United States Army, Corps of Engineers, has stated that the sum of $16,500,000 can be economically utilized in Fiscal 1958 on deepening the Delaware River Channel, Philadelphia to, Trenton; now therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the Executive and Legislative branches of the United States Government through this resolution to amend and approve legislation during the present session of the Congress of the United States that will make available in fiscal year 1958 the economic sum of $16,500,000 so that the justified and authorized improvement of the Delaware River can be continued at an effective rate in the interests of our national defense, industry, commerce, and the welfare of all of the people of the Delaware Valley; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the Executive and Legislative branches of the United States Government through this resolution to strike out any reference to a 35-foot restricting depth and be it further

Resolved, that the President pro-tempore of the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania reconstitute three members of the Senate who together with three members of the House of Representatives, upon the concurrence of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, shall serve as a Joint Commitee to be known as the Delaware River Philadelphia-Trenton Deeper Channel Committee; and be it further

Resolved, that said committee shall cooperate with the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in such actions as may be desirable and necessary to achieve the required legislative action from the Congress of the United States to assure not only the construction of the Congressionally-authorized 40-foot channel but to assure also the earliest possible completion of this important project; and be it further

Resolved, that the Secretary of the Senate be directed upon the passage of the instant Resolution to forward copies thereof to His Excellency, the President of the United States, to the Vice President of the United States, in his capacity as Presiding Officer of the Senate of the United States to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; to the two United States Senators from Pennsylvania, the Honorable Edward Martin and Joseph S. Clark, Jr.; to each one of the Members of the Pennsylvania Delegation to the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget; and to the Chief of Engineers, United States Corps of Engineers.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. HARNEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE PENNSYLVANIA INSTITUTE OF CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS UPON THE SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF ITS FOUNDING

Messrs. BARR, MAHANY, DENT, PROPERT and LANE offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 25, 1957.

For the past six decades, the status of members of the certified public accounting profession has grown together with the many valuable services rendered the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and its political subdivisions.

With the increasing industrialization of our economy and the intricacy of our commercial transactions, and laws of taxation, the economy has to a large degree become dependent upon the ability and skills of the certified public accountant.

In the month of March 1957 the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants will observe the 60th anniversary of its founding.

The integrity and independence of this association has served increasingly to inspire all certified public accountants to maintain the high standards that they do and to attain even higher levels of proficiency and service.

On Tuesday March 19, 1957, his Excellency the Governor proclaimed the day to be known as Certified Public Accountants Day in Pennsylvania and urged all his fellow citizens to join him in paying tribute to the achievements of their honored profession, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania join his Excellency the Governor in lauding and congratulating this honored group of professional public servants, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

NOMINATION TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. WATSON. Mr. President, I call from the table the nomination of Robert S. Hamilton as a Member of the Registration Commission in and for the City of Philadelphia.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 124, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 13, 1953 (P. L. 431) entitled "An act relating to support of dependents providing a procedure for enforcement thereof including attachment of property and earnings conferring powers and imposing duties upon courts district attorneys and probation officers" further providing a procedure for enforcement of the act which was returned from the House of Representatives with amendments.

Said amendments having been twice read, and printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

SENATE NON-CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS MADE BY THE HOUSE TO SENATE BILL No. 124

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do non-concur in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 124.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 70, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) entitled "Public School Code of 1949," prohibiting payments for certain types of transportation from school district funds.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I am not sure that the sponsors of this bill are quite aware of the potential effects of this kind of legislation in many of the school districts in the Commonwealth. It is my judgment that if this provision were passed, it would be very difficult for many of the schools, particularly in the smaller school districts of the Commonwealth, to maintain an adequate program in competitive athletics.

The particular part of the bill to which I am referring is the provision found on page 2 thereof. As I understand it, no tax money raised by the local districts or received as a State appropriation could be used to transport any students to extracurricular activities. I am thinking in particular of athletic contests. This would mean, as I see it, that the only funds available to school districts, in the event of the passage of this amendment, would be the funds, the so-called athletic funds of the school districts; said funds being those funds received from admissions to athletic contests.

It may well be, Mr. President, that in large communities and in communities where athletics are supported largely by the citizens of the community, where there are enough citizens to give this kind of support, such funds might conceivably be large enough to carry on an athletic program, including transportation, at least in the major sports for which there is a good gate. I do not know what would happen in such sports as track, tennis, golf and swimming which are all worth-while sports for our young people. However, unfortunately, there is not usually the community enthusiasm that you have for the so-called major sports which are usually football and in some cases basketball.

I believe that in some of the smaller districts there would not be adequate funds to take care of even the major sports. I believe that in many districts it would mean the sacrificing of these minor sports which I mentioned.

Mr. President, I would like to read a letter which I received in the mail only this morning. This is entirely unsolicited and I have not discussed the bill with this gentleman even though he does happen to be an employee of the school district for which I also labor. He writes about Senate Bill No. 70 as follows:

"I should like very much to add my small voice in opposition to House Bill 204 and Senate Bill 70." He is putting the two bills together.

"The intent of the above-mentioned bills is, in my opinion, in complete error for I think it impossible to disassociate extracurricular activities, such as athletics and school bands, from the regular part of the school curriculum. We have for years accepted the tenet that extracurricular activities add much to the total development of the school child."

To separate the two is implausible to me. Senate Bill 70 stipulates that school children may not be transported to and from extracurricular activities in a common carrier paid for by tax moneys. This works a definite hardship on those sports which are not self-supporting, such as swimming, tennis, track, baseball and in many schools football and basketball.

"I, therefore, respectfully request that you lend your opposition and influence to the defeat of House Bill 204 and Senate Bill 70."

Mr. President, I read that not because anyone will consider that one letter is an overwhelming vote against the bill, but because this does represent the opinion of a gentleman who is trained in the field about which he writes. Mr. William E. Graffius, who signed this letter, serves as the Supervisor of the Department of Health, Safety and Physical Education of the School District in the city of York. The point he makes, Mr. President, is an important one, and I wish to stand on the same point that if the athletic program for our young people in our schools is educationally worth-while, then it should be supported and we should not boggle or quibble about using the same funds for that educational activity as we use for any other educational activity. If, on the other hand, the gentlemen who sponsored this bill wish to maintain that the sports program of our schools is not a worth-while educational activity, then I would submit that we should not put in such a provision. We should simply drop it from our educational program.

A very famous General once said that the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eaton. While that statement was applied to the youth and the schools of England, and was said, of course, by Wellington, the General who was victorious over Napeoleon, we could generalize it and say that that statement has a great deal of weight today. We need youth not only trained in the disciplines in the usual academic offerings, but youth who are strong in body, who are imbused with the sportsmanship that comes from competitive athletics.

Mr. President, I would like to rise in defense of athletics. I believe that the effect of this bill would be a crippling blow to the athletic programs of many of the high schools, particularly in the smaller districts of Pennsylvania where, perhaps, such programs are needed most because of the lack of recreational facilities in some of these smaller communities. I would not want to be a part to striking a blow at or crippling the operation of our athletic program in the Commonwealth's public schools. We have been recently made aware by the President of the United States, by his appointment of a commission, that if there is one area in which we, perhaps, need to go in rethinking of our present offering, it is in this area of sports and athletics.

It is my opinion that we need to take a stand right here and say that we will not cripple the activities of the school districts of this Commonwealth in carrying out a good program of sports for our young people.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, it was my intention, when I sponsored this bill, to provide that the transportation of spectators to the football games and the extracurricular activities should not be paid for out of tax moneys. Perhaps we should allow the football team itself to be transported. I am willing to take another look at this bill in the light of what Senator Seyler has said. I feel that we should examine it from that light, because it certainly was not my intention to limit the transportation of the football team or the basketball team.

However, Senator Whalley and I have other bills, which would allow school buses to be used for the transportation of spectators to the contests in which the school to which they belong have participants. If those bills are passed, we felt that that transportation should not be paid for out of tax moneys. I, therefore, instructed the Legislative Reference Bureau to prepare a bill which would not allow tax moneys to be used for that purpose.

So, with that in mind, Senator, I am willing to have the bill go over in order until tomorrow until we can take another look at it.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I prefaced my remarks by saying that I was not sure that the sponsors of this bill understood its implications. I am quite willing to pass it over. I would urge the gentleman, at the same time, to pass over the other members of the package to which he referred, so that we may look at it in its entirety. He is able to read as well as I am, and I think if he reads this carefully, he will find that what I said about it is true.

Therefore, I hope that he will hold over the whole package then, if he is going to hold this bill, so that we can look at the whole package.

Mr. MAHANY. Well, Senator, the other bills I do not believe have any relation to this particular one.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I understood the gentleman to say that this bill was drawn with the purpose of balancing another bill in the package. If he did not say that, then I did not understand him correctly. I thought he said that and I think he is correct. I think this bill is a counterbalance to another bill on the calendar which follows right after it. All I am asking is that if he is going to hold one, I would appreciate it if he would hold them both.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, if you want the other bills held, and will so state when we arrive at those bills on the calendar, I will have no objection. However, I feel that those bills can stand on their own merits. It was only because I sponsored those particular bills that I also introduced this particular one. They do have some relationship. However, it is possible for those bills to pass and this one not to, and still accomplish some of my intentions.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I refer specifically to Senate Bill No. 71. I have no objection to Senate Bill No. 68 and Senate Bill No. 69 moving, which would put them on third reading, the same as this bill, but I would request that Senate Bill No. 71 go over.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to Senate Bill No. 70, Printer's No. 84, on final passage, going over in its order?

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 70

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 70, passed third reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I now ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 70, Printer's No. 84, on third reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 71, entiled:

An Act amending the act of May 28, 1937 (P. L. 1053), entitled "Public Utility Law," excluding buses owned by, or under contract with, school districts, private or parochial schools for the transportation of school children to and from extra-curricular school activities from the definition of "common carrier by motor vehicle" and "contract carrier by motor vehicle."

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe every Member of the Senate was handed today correspondence from the Pennsylvania Bus Association. I have had a chance to roughly review that particular piece of literature and, inasmuch as it is very much concerned with Senate Bill No. 71 and Senate Bill No. 68 and Senate Bill No. 69, I would like to make a suggestion to the Membership of the Senate at this time.

I would like to suggest that Senate Bill No. 71 be put on the postponed Calendar, and that we move Senate Bill No. 68 and Senate Bill No. 69 to third reading and also put them on the Postponed Calendar for the simple reason, Mr President, that eight States and one District, the District of Columbia, have already made a study and recommendations concerning the mass transportation problem. Also, the Governor of the Commonwealth has named a committee of twenty-seven leading citizens of the Commonwealth, dealing in this particular field of endeavor, to study the mass transportation system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

We are very much concerned, it seems, at times about bringing in industry and bringing in business and doing all of these things, and protecting the revenue measures and revenue sources of this Commonwealth. I want to say to all of you right now that if there is a sick industry in this Commonwealth it is the industry known as the mass transportation industry. It is a very sick industry. I have not been in it for a number of years, but years ago I was fortunate enough, or rather I might say unfortunate enough, to be in the mass transportation industry, and I want to tell all of you right now that you should do something along the lines that have been recommended in each of the eight States and the District of Columbia to save the mass transportation industry of their States. We are dealing with States like Iowa, Michigan, Ohio—both large and small States in the Union—the District of Columbia, New York. Each one of those States follows the same pattern in their recommendation; not one of opening up the untaxed competition or the low taxed competition against the mass transportation system, but rather opening up the door of tax relief to that particular industry. I want to say that we are acting very hastily here in passing on Senate Bill No. 71 and Senate Bill No. 68 and Senate Bill No. 69 before the report comes in from this committee named by the Governor. I think that we ought to look at the picture as it deals with the Commonwealth, its peoples and its industries. I do not believe that we ought to act upon this legislation until such a report is before us.

I would further recommend that every Member of this Senate read this release that has been given you here today and also contact the Bus Association, so that you may get for your own information the complete recommendations made in the various States and the District of Columbia which I mentioned before.

Therefore, Mr. President, if the Majority Leader will go along with the suggestion, I would like to move that Senate Bill No. 71 be put on the Postponed Calendar; that we move up the other two bills when we come to them and then put them on the Postponed Calendar and let the committee have a good look at all of these transportation bills in the light of the findings of the committee named by the Governor. I think it is a very serious problem and one that deserves more than just passing attention.

However ,Mr. President, I do not want to make the motion unless the gentleman from Titusville feels that it is a proper motion.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I prefer to have all of these bills on third reading, at which time we can discuss them further in our Republican Caucus. The Democrats will also have an opportunity to discuss them there tomorrow. Then if we decide to put them on the Third Reading Postponed Calendar, we can do so tomorrow.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Thefeore, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 71, Printer's No. 85, on third reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 143, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 2, 1945 (P. L. 382) entitled "Municipality Authorities Act of 1945," requiring "Authorities" to submit annual reports to municipalities creating the "authorities" and to the Department of Internal Affairs.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—49

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which concurrence of the House is requested.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 157, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code" authorizing courts to revoke or suspend operating privileges in certain cases.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in view of the fact that Senator Schmidt is preparing amendments to this bill, I ask unanimous consent that it go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 159, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code" prohibiting the use of electric shavers while operating a motor vehicle.

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, is this the electric shaver bill?

The PRESIDENT. Yes.

Mr. DENT. Are we serious about this bill, Mr. President? I did not know any seriousness was attached to Senate Bill No. 159. I was going to ask that it be referred to the "Committee on Barber Shop Equipment" in order that we could have a sharper look at it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. Preesident, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—33

Barr,	Lane,	Sarraf,	Wade,
Camiel,	Madigan,	Schmidt,	Wagner,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I cast my vote in the affirmative, but I believe for my own self-respect I have to make an explanation.

You know, we handle here matters"from cabbages to kings." In my opinion, this subject matter is even below cabbages. However, I have great respect for Senator Fleming and that is the only reason that induced me to cast my vote in the affirmative.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 162, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 31, 1949 (P. L. 372) entitled "The General State Authority Act of 1949" requiring that contractors' bonds cover equipment rentals.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 249 (Pink), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to authorize military leaves of absence for employees of the Commonwealth or its departments boards bureaus commissions agencies and offices and employees of counties municipalities townships authorities or other political subdivisions of the Commonwealth who are drafted into the military service of the United States at any time or who enlist therein in time of war or armed conflict and providing reemployment seniority and retirement rights.

be placed on the Third Reading Postponed Calendar.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 250, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 2 1925 (P L 448) entitled "The Fish Law of 1925," excluding from the provisions thereof the operation of and fishing from temporary water tanks in connection with indoor sportsmen's show.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, because I understand this bill is opposed by the Fish Commission, and not being an expert at all on the subject, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I might say to the gentlemen that the Sportsmen's Show is on right now at the Farm Show Building and if this bill does not get passed fast enough, you will not have a Sportsmen's Show.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 332, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 14, 1935 (P. L. 341) entitled as amended "Cigarette Tax Act" extending the provisions imposing an additional tax for a further limited period of time.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I am going to request unanimous consent to present amendments, but I want to make a brief statement before presenting them.

Mr. President, I do not believe that any one will ever forget the devastating floods of August 1955. I believe those floods were the worst in the history of the Commonwealth, at least along the Delaware River. I am not going to recount the damage and suffering that resulted from those floods, except to say that the property damage amounted to between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 and more than 100 lives were lost.

What happened in August 1955 could happen again tomorrow, next week, next month or next year and we have got to prepare for it if and when it should come. After those floods, this Legislature took speedy and immediate action to help those who lost their property and those who were affected by the flood in other ways. The Legislature set up a special fund by increasing the gasoline tax by one cent and levying a one cent emergency cigarette tax. The Legislature also adopted a resolution appointing a legislative committee to study the water problem along the Delaware River, and I am glad to report to the Members of the Senate that the Members of that Committee from the Senate, Senator Scott, Senator Watkins and myself, although many of you took vacations during the summer, worked sincerely and conscientiously. We held hearings in Stroudsburg where the people wanted to know what this Legislature was going to do about the damage that was caused in the area. They wanted to know what this Legislature was going to do about flood control projects in the area, so that what happened in August 1955, could be prevented in the future

We held hearings in the city of Easton where we called in residents all along the Delaware River, both on the Pennsylvania and New Jersey side, and we got opinions from those who appeared at the hearings.

We called in people who might use the water from a flood control project which might be erected on the Delaware River, and among those who appeared was the United States Steel Corporation. I do not remember how many billions of gallons of water they said they need in a day, but it was enormous. They told us, too, that there was an expansion program to be effected in the Bucks County area that would require additional water.

We held hearings in Harrisburg with the Corps of United States Engineers in connection with the project. We held hearings in Philadelphia and in the Pocono Mountains, and INCODEL cooperated with us.

It was decided in the first instance that perhaps the most suitable place to build this flood control project would be at Walpack Bend. However, the United States Corps of Engineers told us that if the dam were built at Walpack Bend, there would not be any Federal funds available for the construction of the project because Walpack Bend did not have flood control aspects. They then explored another site near Walpack Bend, at Cox Island.

Just last month, or the month before last, the Corps of Engineers decided that the Cox Island site would be feasible and would serve for both flood control and water supply purposes. They are now in the process of making plans for a final study. This project will cost about $100,000,000. Under legislation we have already passed, New Jersey would assume thirty per cent of the financing responsibility as well as get thirty per cent of the benefit. Just how much the Federal Government would contribute to the project is not known at this time. However, Mr. President, at least Senator Watkins, and I joined with him, and some of the other Committee Members felt that if this project were to be financed, we were opposed to the authority method of doing the financing. Since that is true, and I hope that it is, because I called a brokerage house in New York and I was told that on a $100,000,000 bond issue for a thirty year period, the interest charges alone would be about $48,000,000. I do not believe this Legislature wants to borrow money and pay that kind of interest to finance the project. The only other thing that we could do, and I think the economical thing to do, would be to set up a specially earmarked fund. I am proposing now, since this one cent cigarette tax was originally set up for flood control purposes, that it be continued for that purpose and my amendment proposes to do just that.

I call your attention to the fact that this Legislature has already appropriated $500,000 to the Department of Property and Supplies for the purchase of land in the area, and I understand the purchase of that land is now underway.

This money that would be set up and earmarked for flood control and water supply projects, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, would not be used solely for projects along the Delaware River. I consulted with Doctor Goddard, of the Department of Forests and Waters, and they have planned projects now for flood control purposes in various parts of the State that will cost about $43,000,000. One of them, in particular, is along the Juniata River and it calls for the construction of nine dams that would cost $33,000,000. They are at Shaver Creek, Spruce Creek, Standing Stone Creek, Honey Creek, Trough Creek, Raystown Branch, Aughwick Creek and Blacklog Creek.

There is also a series of projects that he gave me that need immediate attention and will require considerable money. These projects and the amounts required are as follows:

Coraopolis, $42,000; Palmerton, $150,000; Philipsburg, $500,000; Milesburg, $40,000; Meadville, $1,000,000; Wyoming, $176,000; Wilkes-Barre, $125,000; Whitemarsh, $30,000; Norristown, $200,000; Danville, $1,200,000; Myersdale, $1,000,000; Garrett, $1,000,000; Rockwood, $210,000; Blagh, $150,000; Tioga, $100,000; Scottdale, $500,000; Ligonier, $350,000; Monacqua, $100,000; Lewisburg, $250,000; New Kensington, $100,000; Roulette, in Allegheny, $100,000; and Bull Run, at Jeanette, $600,000. This money will be used for all of these projects along all of the portions of the State.

I, therefore, trust that the Members of the Senate will go along with this amendment to set up and earmark this fund so that when the projects are ready for construction, the money will be available and it will not be necessary for us to go to the Wall Street bankers to borrow the money.

Accordingly, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Title, page 2, last line of Title, by inserting after "time": "for the construction of flood control and water supply projects; and creating a special Flood Control and Water Supply Fund"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4) page 3, lines 7 and 8 by striking out "fifty-nine" and inserting in lieu thereof: "sixty-three"; Amend Sec. 2, page 4, line 9 by striking out "the General Fund" and inserting in lieu thereof: "a Special Flood Control and Water Supply Fund hereby created, the moneys in which may be appropriated from time to time for the construction of flood control and water supply projects. Until so appropriated, all moneys in the fund shall be invested by the State Treasurer in income producing securities lawful for the investment of State funds. All income from investments shall be paid into the Special Flood Control and Water Supply Fund and shall be available for the same purposes as other moneys in the fund."

On the question, Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the amendments just read by the Clerk.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I noticed that when Senator Yosko was speaking on his amendments, he mentioned the Meadville Dam, on French Creek, as being one of the dams in which he was interested. I want to assure the gentleman that I am also interested in that particular dam. I have done some work to get a dam on French Creek in the vicinity of Meadville. That dam would act as a flood control dam and would help hold back flood waters in times of spring floods in order that Pittsburgh might not be jeopardized again as it was back in 1936.

However, Mr. President, I am opposed to earmarking funds from the cigarette tax for this particular purpose. I feel, perhaps, it is wrong to earmark funds from particular taxes for special purposes such as this. I also feel, Mr. President, that if these dams are to be built, they should be built by the Federal Government. I think the Federal Government certainly has a stake in this particular problem and we in Pennsylvania and other northern States certainly contribute to the Federal Government a great deal of the cost of erecting and constructing these dams in the southern States. I think it is wrong for us to have to bear a share of that cost for dams in the southern States and also have to build our own dams in Pennsylvania out of our own moneys. If it is going to be a Federal project, I think it should be a Federal project, not only in the southern States but also in Pennsylvania. I would suggest to the Federal Government, through the corps of engineers which they have and who have made surveys of these various waters, that they construct these dams which Senator Yosko has referred to. If they are worthy of being constructed and the problem is there and needs to be alleviated, then the Federal Government should take care of that particular problem.

Mr. President, we do need all of the money to be derived from this cigarette tax, which I understand brings in $11,000,000, to take care of the needs of the General Fund. We have figured out that the General Fund needs at least $1,500,000 to take care of the many things which the Governor wants. No doubt we will have to cut down considerably the amount of the Governor's budget in order to arrive at $1,500,000,000. Therefore, all these taxes are necessary in order to make up that $1,500,000,000. If we take out this $11,000,000 for some other purpose, then we will either have to raise new taxes by taxing some other subjects or else we will have to cut down another $11,000,000 from the budget so as to make it $1,489,000,000. That is going to be pretty difficult to do, as you no doubt will find when we bring in the general appropriation bill, and you fellows over there on that side of the aisle will immediately put amendments in to raise every appropriation which we have cut down.

Therefore, I oppose the amendments and ask my colleagues to vote "no."

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, if it was the policy of the Federal Government to finance these projects, the suggestion I made in the introduction of the amendments, of course, would not be necessary. However, it just so happens that it is not the policy of the Federal Government to finance these projects. Until such time as the Federal Government changes its policy, we must cope with the situation. If we are to take the position that we are going to wait until the Federal Government does change its policy, we are in effect saying, "The public be damned." The public is entitled to the protection which these dams will give to them.

In so far as the General Fund is concerned, Mr. President, there are a number of corporation tax bills that have not as yet been introduced. I would like to go back to the sales tax, in which the corporations were given a break. Let us raise some funds for the General Fund with the bills that have not been introduced and by amending the sales tax to have the corporations foot a part of the load.

I say to you, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, that when a flood comes, it has no favorites. It affects industry and everybody the same. The flood along the Delaware River wiped out everything in its path, whether it was an industry or whatever it was. However, by erecting these dams, we are going to encourage industry to come into the State, especially along the Delaware River because they will act for two purposes; one, as flood control and, secondly, for water supply which industry needs. I continue to contend that until such time as the Federal Government changes its policy, we should take steps to set up a fund to finance these projects now.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in view of what the Majority Leader stated in regard to his reluctance to take $11,000,000 out of our General Fund, I am wondering whether he would consider, when the general appropriation bill comes over, increasing the budget of the Department of Forests and Waters in order to do a portion of this job. In that way, we might be able to build a dam up in his territory to help out.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I did not give the full details relative to the French Creek Dam. However, I want to tell the Senator that the government engineers did make a survey of French Creek and that particular area, and refused to approve this particular dam. I think they should certainly be given the first opportunity of going over these rivers and these dams, and these sites and so forth. If they approve them, then let them set up some type of legislation to which we may contribute.

I do not think it is possible for us to build these dams throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at the present time. I hope that the Federal Government will take some cognizance of our problem and will help us out. If you want, I will be happy to co-sponsor a resolution to Congress, memorializing them to do something with Federal legislation to aid us in the construction of these dams.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I will be glad to co-sponsor a resolution with Senator Mahany, memorializing Congress to do something about these dams. However, I might say to Senator Mahany—and I am speaking from experience—that about the only way you can get the Federal Government to come in and do a job on flood control, or building dams, is to show your sincerity by starting to spend some of the States' money or the county's money. Then, generally speaking, the Federal Government will come in and do a fairly decent job. That has been my experience.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. YOSKO. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. CAMIEL. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. YOSKO and Mr. LANE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—21

Barr,	Kalman,	Mullin,	Seyler,
Camiel,	Lane,	Murray,	Silvert,
Dent,	McCreesh,	Ruth,	Stiefel,
Derk,	McGinnis,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Donolow,	McMenamin,	Schmidt,	Yosko,
Hays,

NAYS—27

Berger,	Harney,	Pechan,	Wagner,

Elliott,	Madigan,	Taylor,	Whalley,
Flack,	Mahany,	Van Sant,	Wolfe,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Wade,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—49

Barr,	Harney,	McMenamin,	Stiefel,
Berger,	Hays,	Mullin,	Taylor,
Blass,	Kalman,	Murray,	Van Sant,

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has pasesd the same without amendments.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 333, entitled:

An Act reenacting and amending the act of August 24, 1951 (P. L. 1417) entitled as amended "Corporation Income Tax Law" imposing the tax permanently and amending the definition of net income.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDMENTS OFFERED

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 335, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1931 (P. L. 149) entitled as amended "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act" extending the provisions of one additional tax for a limited time

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President—I yield to Senator Wade.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, it is my understanding that there are amendments to be offered from the other side of the Senate and, if so, my discussion would pertain to those amendments as well as other provisions of the bill. However, if there are no amendments to be offered—

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I have amendments. I have read Senator Wade's speech and I want him to make it.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, if there are no amendments to be offered to this bill, I presume that the Members on the Democratic side of the Senate are agreeing to the bill as it is now drawn and before us. If there are amendments, however, I will gladly wait until those amendments are offered.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments to House Bill No. 335 and, at the same time, I am going to offer amendments to House Bill No. 336, because these two bills are companion bills and must be debated together.

Mr. President, I have read the remarks which the Members of the Senate are going to hear in a few moments. In fact, I read them twice. I read them personally in the newspaper last week and today I read them from a printed copy. I think, perhaps, the first thing I should do is to give the Republicans a little lesson on what is going on in the Republican Party in New York State in regard to the gasoline tax. I would appreciate it very much if this were taken over to Senator Wade so that he can read it.

This is an editorial which appeared in the Republican gospel newspaper, namely, the New York Herald Tribune, on Wednesday, March 13, 1957. The heading of the article is:

"No Use Stalling on Gasoline Tax!"

"About the matter of increasing New York State's tax on gasoline and diesel fuel the only question is when. Of course any tax boost is politically unpalatable, but everybody in Albany knows very well that the thing is inevitable." We in Harrisburg know the same thing. "The Republican leaders in the Legislature, Speaker Heck and Senator Mahoney, both of whom are ambitious for the Governorship next year, would prefer to leave the subject for 1959." This is the same as the hopeful over there. Senator Wade is the hopeful one for the Governorship. "But here the party's state chairman, L. Judson Morhouse,"—and he is the Republican Party's State Chairman—"has upset the applecart by insisting that 'the time to face this issue is now.'

"Mr. Morhouse's argument is that there is no use stalling. He says that proper planning and scheduling of the Federal-state $4.5-billion highway program, with maximum result obtained from every dollar, calls for complete financial assurance beforehand. This is what the Diefendorf Highway Financing Planning Commission has already said in advocating pay-as-you-go at once and holding off as much as possible on the $500 million bond issue voted last year. The whole point is one of genuine economy—"and if you defeat these amendments today, I hope that you will remember this in 1959, even if you are not a candidate for Governor—"to get started at once on the vitally needed roads and not have to operate in a costly vacuum until such time as the Legislature finally sees the light.

"Certainly the Messrs. Heck and Mahoney are aware of the situation. A first-class highway system must be built and they and the voters might as well face up to the fact that increased taxes—about $5 a year for the average motorist—are essential to get the quickest and most economical results. Governor Harriman understands the problem equally well; he is ready to sign on the dotted line if the Republicans legislate. There is no validity in arguing that the state ought to borrow first and then tax. The taxes cannot be escaped; the sound policy is to accept the unavoidable at once and get more for our money. Mr. Morhouse has spoken forthrightly. We hope he can persuade the Republican Legislature."

I understand that, since that time, the State Chairman ruled and they are going to give the additional cent the same as we are going to request here this afternoon. We are not asking for an additional cent. We are just asking to keep the tax as it is and, therefore, as also contained in my amendments, to return more money, $20,000,000 to be more exact, in the next biennium to the local communities, which takes in cities, boroughs and townships of all classes.

Mr. President, I offer the following amendments and call attention to a new section I am adding, Section 4.1, which is as follows:

"In addition to the permanent allocation or appropriation provided by the act of June 1, 1956, Pamphlet Laws 1944, there is hereby appropriated to municipalities the sum of $20,000,000 from the Motor License Fund for the calendar years of 1958 and 1959 at the rate of $10,000,000 per year. This additional allocation or appropriation shall be made in accordance with the formula, the qualifying provisions and the other provisions set forth in the act of June 1, 1956."

Now, Mr. President, I heard a bill being introduced today, sponsored by quite a number of Members on the other side. If they were sincere in the bill that they put their names on, they certainly are going to have to vote for this bill or should have to answer to their constituents.

I would like to head this up by titling this little dissertation the "Need for Continuation of 1c Diane Liquid Fuel Tax," because as this Legislative Sessoin progresses, it becomes more obvious each day that the Administration's sincere efforts to meet the Commonwealth's obligations to our people will continue to run the gauntlet of partisan opposition.

The most recent example of this policy is the reaction of certain Republican spokesmen to the Administration's reasonable and constructive effort to improve and modernize the State's highway system.

Before the Administration has had an opportunity to discuss calmly and intelligently the need for the continuation of the present tax rate on liquid fuels to finance the expanded highway program, the public has witnessed a vicious attack on a program which will be of distinct benefit to every person in the Commonwealth.

Governor Leader's highway budget message spelled out the need for continuing the present gasoline tax rate. The Governor's message was sincere, honorable and forthright! In it was reflected the hopes and aspirations of the motoring public, who are the people who pay the bills, that Pennsylvania needs better highways and is willing to pay for them.

Admitting that the one-cent additional gasoline tax, which the Governor now wants extended was an emergency tax, adopted by the Legislature at the request of the Governor, to bring order out of the chaos left in the wake of Hurricane Diane, there was no question then that the additional one-cent was needed. The emergency was recognized.

The additional cent was accepted by the motorists as a necessity, because the need was dramatized. They gladly paid and have continued to pay without grumbling.

But now we have another emergency, perhaps not as tragic as that caused by the hurricane, but nonetheless an emergency.

Bluntly, the action on the Governor's request for an extension of the one-cent may spell the difference between adequate highways for Pennsylvania within the next decade by complete participation in the Federal program, or have Pennsylvania stand still while other States enjoy the benefits provided by the legislation.

Since the Governor's presentation of the highway budget, certain spokesmen, aided and abetted by special interest groups—the rumor groups that you spoke about today—have protested loud and long against extension of the one-cent tax.

Warming to the attack, their voices become more strident, their statistics more confused. As I read Senator Wade's speech, his statistics are completely confused, and I want the right to refute him after he speaks.

It would appear then that the time is opportune for a calm discussion of just where we stand on the matter of highway funds.

In the Motor License Fund as of March 1, 1957, the balance available on March 1 was $98,545,000.

The State has flood disaster obligations of $14,900,000.

Township Funds in this balance under Act 340, $1,600,000; under Act 655, $15,000,000; total obligations to townships, $16,600.000.

Balance of allocation due the Pennsylvania State Police, $3,045,000; total funds reserved, $34,545,000.

Balance to meet construction contract payments and other department obligations, $64,000,000.

It is to be especially noted that a balance of $64,000,000 is indicated as available to the Highways Department on March 1, 1957 for construction contract payments and other department obligations. However, against this $64,000,000 there already are, as will be shown later, the following debits:

Costs already levied by the Public Utilities, $7,700,000; Commission to be paid by the Highways Department right-of-way claims, some as many as five years old, $50,000,000; total, $57,700,000.

These are legitimate claims against the Highways Department, and if the Highways Department had had to pay all of them before March 1, 1957, the balance in the Motor License Fund at that time would have been not $64,000,000, but less than $7,000,000.

Now the total Motor License Fund as of June 1, 1957. As nearly as can be determined at this time, the condition of the Motor License Fund on June 1, 1957 will be as follows:

The estimated balance available June 1, 1957 will be $116,100,000.

The State will have flood disaster obligations of $13,750,000.

Then Township Funds in this balance under Act 340, $100,000; under Act 655, $2,000,000; total obligations to townships, $2,100,000.

Then total funds reserved are $15,850,000.

Balance to meet construction contract payments and other department obligations, $100,250,000.

The balance on hand as of June 1, 1957 as revised, $100,250,000.

Motor License Fund State Money Receipts:

Liquid Fuel Tax, five and one-half cents, which refers to page 2 of your Highways Budget, $312,000,000; Motor License Fees, shown on page 3, $171,300,000; political subdivision contributions, $12,000,000; miscellaneous revenue, $6,500,000; Fuel Use Tax, $4,700,000; and all others, $800,000; giving a total balance of $607,550,000.

With the State Highway and Bridge Authority borrowing Authorization, which is $40,000,000, the total State money available is $647,550,000, if we have our five and one-half cents. Of course, it is a six cent tax, as we all know, but one-half cent has to go back to the counties.

Now here is a synopsis of the requirements of the Motor License Fund for the 1957-1959 biennium.

Required to pay costs of the Public Utility Commission action:

Levied prior to June 1, 1957, $7,800,000; levied June 1, 1957-May 31, 1959, $7,500,000.

Required to pay right-of-way damages, with some as old as five years, $55,000,000.

Contract obligations expected to be paid prior to June 1, 1957 but which will be paid subsequent thereto:

Execution of work retarded, $31,000,000; plans delayed, $10,800,000; total, $41,800,000.

Required by the Highways Department as planned for 1957-59 in Budget:

Maintenance, administration and design, which you will find on pages 5, 6 and 7 of the Budget, $196,400,000; construction, matching and 100% State, $199,800,000.

Required June 1, 1959 to enter 1959-1961 biennium, $58,600,000.

Payments to the departments:

Appropriations, $6,700,000; executive authorizations, $43,700,000; cities, boroughs and townships, $63,300,000; or total State money required in the amount of $680,600,000.

Now these page references are all to the Special Funds Budget, copies of which you all received when the Governor delivered his Message in March. I know this is pretty dry but it is very necessary.

From the above, it is noted that even with the five and one-half cent Liquid Fuels Tax and the State Highway and Bridge Authority $40,000,000, the Highways Department still lacks $33,000,000 to pursue the program presented in the Budget, and take care of listed legitimate obligations. It is not the maximum program, because above and beyond the $205,000,000 Federal-Aid Construction Funds which the Department has included in its Budget, there still remain available more that $100,000,000 Federal-Aid Construction Funds, a goodly portion of which the State Highways Department could secure if it had the State matching funds. It would seem that the Legislature will be derelict in its duty and responsibility to the motoring public and the people of Pennsylvania, if it does not take full advantage of the Federal-Aid Funds available.

It is desired also at this time to point out that under Act 655, June 1, 1956, local road maintenance and construction payments to cities, boroughs, towns and townships is "20% of 4½¢ of all taxes, permanent and additional, collected on each gallon of liquid fuel." Without the additional one-cent flood emergency tax levied under P. L. 560, the cities, boroughs, towns and townships would get $52,000,000. Continuation of the one-cent emergency tax, however, would raise this to $63,300,000 which the municipalities need and deserve in the next biennium. The additional $11,300,000 to the political subdivisions of the State will aid them immeasurably in meeting their road maintenance and construction obligations.

As you will note in the amendments that I have offered, we are taking $10,000,000 of this one cent each year which will then guarantee to the local political subdivisions throughout the State the return of $72,000,000 in each biennium.

Now I would be remiss in a full explanation of the facts if attention were not called to the $41,800,000 obligation anticipated being paid prior to June 1, 1957, but not expected to be paid by that time. This has been due to taking longer than anticipated to develop plans, time required to solve technical problems and delays in construction.

I think we are all aware that, for instance, concerning Route 11, which is one of the ones that will be in the Federal Program, and which runs from the Maryland line I think up to some place around Lackawanna Couty, even though the State has O.K.'d it, we have as yet, not unless they have heard something today, to get the final O.K. from the Federal Government.

However, Federal-aid funds have been set aside to prosecute the work; and the work will be done, but not as quickly as previously anticipated. Funds for the payment of these projects are in addition to those budgeted for in the 1957-1959 biennium.

Like any other sound business, the Department of Highways must meet its bills. Revenues are accumulated and expended as bills come due and the contractors and vendors present their bills. The picture reflects the careful handling of public moneys.

Briefly, I have given here the true financial picture of the Department, not in an effort to increase partisan strife but simply to set the record straight.

Pennsylvania has too long been content to sit back and permit its highway plans to deteriorate. Lack of adequate planning prevalent in past years can no longer be permitted to hamper and cripple this entire important program.

The current attack on the highway budget is unfair largely partisan and unreasonable.

The highway program, as presented by the Governor, has been prejudged and condemned before it has had its day in court.

Responsible officials of the Department of Highways are prepared to appear before this body to present in minute detail every item which the Governor so ably outlined here on March 5.

I might add they have not had that opportunity as yet. The highway program has not been before the Highways Committee, I think, any time this year.

We believe the motorists are entitled to the facts which will unmistakably and undeniably justify each and every item which appeared in the Governors' Message.

I repeat that I believe the man who pays the bill is willing to continue to pay the one-cent emergency tax to get better roads.

Pennsylvania's gas tax is less than eleven of the major States and the tax proposed in the current budget is on a par or less than 33 other States in the Union. One-half cent of ours, as you know, goes directly to the counties. That is the law. Every penny of the remaining five and one-half cents goes into the Motor License Fund. While other States are being pressed to raise additional taxes so they can avail themselves of the Federal highway funds, some here in Pennsylvania debate about one cent which is essential if the State is to share fully in Federal benefits.

I contend that this program transcends party considerations. I believe the public is of the same opinion. I believe also that the people who pay the taxes and who want better highways share my opinion. As members of the Legislature we have an oligation to these people and we should meet our oligation.

I might say if you people turn down this $20,000,000 I have in this amendment today, which will increase the amount returned to the local communities it will mean $36,000,000 a year or $72,000,000 a biennium. You are the ones who will have to answer to your township supervisors, your borough councilmen, burgesses and so on.

I do think that the bill we passed here in the past Session, which we fought so strongly for to get more money back to the local municipalities, has paid off as you can see if you drive through these boroughs and townships throughout Pennsylvania. This is the thing that they want, the township supervisors and all these men, the representatives of the boroughs and the League of Cities and so forth.

Now I am anxiously awaiting that big address of the Republican candidate for Governor, the Honorable George Wade, and I will take it up and answer him then.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the offering of amendments to House Bill No. 335? The Chair hears none.

The Chair would suggest that after the amendments to House Bill No. 335 have been either adopted or rejected, the Senator may offer amendments to House Bill No. 336.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title, page 2, lines 5 and 6 of the title, by striking out "the provisions of one ad-" in line 5 and all of line 6 and inserting: "the additional taxes on liquid fuels consolidating such additional taxes with the permanent tax thereon and making an appropriation"; Amend Section 1 (Section 4), page 2, lines 4 and 5, by inserting a bracket before "perma-" in line 4 and after "nent' 'in line 5; Amend Section 1 (Section 4), page 2, line 5, by inserting brackets before and after "three" and inserting: "six"; Amend Section 1 (Section4), page 3, line 4, by inserting a bracket before "in"; Amend Section 1 (Section 4), page 3, line 16, by inserting brackets before and after "permanent"; Amend the bill, page 4, by inserting between lines 13 and 14: "Section 2. Said act is amended by adding after section 4 a new section to read: "Section 4.1 In addition to the permanent allocation or appropriation provided by the act of June 1, 1956 (P .L. 1944), there is hereby appropriated to municipalities the sum of twenty million dollars ($20,000,000) from the Motor License Fund for the calendar years 1958 and 1959 at the rate of ten million dollars ($10,000,000) per year. This additional allocation or appropriation shall be made in accordance with the formula the qualifying provisions and the other provisions set forth in the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1944). "Section 3. The first paragraph of subsection (a) of section 10 and subsection (d) of section 10 of the act, amended May 28, 1956 (P. L. 1776), are amended to read: "Section 10. Disposition and Use of Tax (a) One-half cent per gallon of the [permanent] tax of [three] six cents a gallon collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund of the State Treasury and such moneys paid into said fund are hereby specifically appropriated for the purposes hereinafter set forth "(d) The remaining [two] five and one-half cents per gallon of the [permanent] tax of [three] six cents a gallon [all additional taxes collected under the provisions of this act] the [permanent] tax of one and one-half cents a gallon imposed and assessed on liquid fuels used or sold and delivered for use as a fuel in propeller-driven aircraft or aircraft engines and one and one-half cents a gallon on liquid fuels used or sold and delivered for use as a fuel in jet or turbo-jet propelled aircraft or aircraft engines in lieu of other taxes all penalties and interests and all interest earned on deposits of the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund shall be paid into the Motor License Fund and are hereby specifically appropriated for the same purposes for which moneys in the Motor License Fund are appropriated by law"; Amend Section 2, page 4, line 14, by striking out "2" and inserting: "4."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the amendments just read by the Clerk.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, if I may, for just a moment, say a word in support of these amendments, I would like to read just one telegram. I think all of us have had many. However, I think one speaks for all of them, for the little boroughs and the townships and the cities around Pennsylvania. This is addressed to me and reads as follows:

"The Archbald Borough Council requests that the State gas tax be kept at its present figure. Reduction of this tax would mean a substantial loss of revenue to the borough."

This telegram is signed by "John E. McHale, President."

Mr. President, I believe that the burgesses and the mayors in all of our cities, and our borough and our township commissioners are very fearful that they will lose the added revenue they received last Session by reason of the change in the law at that time. I think every single municipality in Pennsylvania needs the revenue that they can derive from the gas tax.

In my opinion, in the city of Scranton and in every borough in our county, unless this tax is maintained at its present level and the State grants to the towns are maintained at their present level there will have to be an increase in the real estate tax locally. I am sure all of us know that the property owners are burdened now. The way to keep the burden on the real estate owners in Pennsylvania from becoming greater than it is, is to vote for these amendments.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, he stated that I had sent over to he and to Senator Dent a copy of the statement I propose to make. That is correct. I wanted to do that as a courtesy to them so they would have an opporunity to study the figures. He further stated that his statement was somewhat dry and I assure him that mine will be equally dry, because we are dealing with a lot of figures.

The Senator stated that a reflection had been made on the Department of Highways. I agree with him there and I hesitate very much to say anything about that today because I am afraid if the allegations that have been made are true, then every Member of this Senate, both Republican and Democrat, would hesitate to vote for House Bill No. 335 and House Bill No. 336, giving any more money to the Department of Highways. Certainly if those allegations and accusations are correct, there is not a Member of this Senate who would vote for this additional tax, even though it has been on the books for quite some time. Until they are proven I think we should go ahead with this additional tax on gasoline. I am sure, too, that there is no member of this Senate who wants to retard in any way whatever the great road building program which was initiated by the Eisenhower Administration in Washington. It promises to alleviate many of the congested conditions that exist throughout eastern United States, if not the entire United States.

Then, too, Mr. President, Senator McMenamin mentioned the allocation to the local subdivisions. In the last Session, as you will well remember, a permanent allocation was made of twenty per cent of four and one-half cents, and that will stand on our books until it is repealed. There was a floor, of course, written for the years 1955 and 1956, and the bill, which was introduced by a number of Senators today, proposes to continue that floor.

Again I say, if the allegations that have been made against the Department of Highways are correct, certainly they prove one thing, and that is that the money is in much better hands in the local subdivisions than it is in the Department of Highways. In making those statements, I do not want to prejudge the Department of Highways.Certainly, the statements are bold enough and direct enough that they justify the action taken by the House of Representatives, which action, if approved there, will come here and a thorough and full investigation will be made.

The gentleman then also used an editorial from the New York Herald Tribune, and I appreciate his sending me a copy. It discusses the highway situation in New York State. I would like to advise the gentleman that their current gasoline tax is only four cents; ours is five cents. They are talking about bringing their tax up even with our tax if we pass House Bill No. 335 and House Bill No. 336, without the additional cent that we talked about which was originally put on for "Diane." New York State diverts about $75,000,000 from those funds for other purposes, because they have no constitutional provision against using all of the funds received from taxes and levies against the automobile users for road purposes. They do not have that privilege. They do not have that restriction which is contained in our Constitution and very well contained in our Constitution.

Now to return to House Bill No. 335 and House Bill No. 336 and the amendments offered, in this legislation we are dealing with a Special Fund Budget, totaled, in accordance with the Governor's proposed budget, at $720,000,000 plus for the next biennium. During my first Session in the Pennsylvania Legislature, the total budget for the General Fund, Motor License, and all other funds was a mere $428,000,000, or about sixty per cent of our Motor License Fund budget alone. This amounts to less than twenty per cent of our total submitted budgets.

Examination of Governor Leader's highway budget indicates that he cannot honestly justify the continuance of the one cent tax enacted for emergency flood relief by offering only a mere demand of spending X millions of dollars for road construction, and stating that it is absolutely essential so that Pennsylvania can take full advantage of the highway program. Good reasons for opposing the continuance of this one cent tax can be found in the State's present use of its highway funds and the following observations gleaned from his budget.

The constant large balances registered in the Motor License Fund during the present fiscal year, as evidenced in the table entitled "Balances in Motor License Fund Since May 31, 1956"—and I will read just a few of those balances.

On May 31, 1956, there was in cash, according to the record, $24,988,579; in investments, there was $92,427,288; or a total on May 31, 1956 of $117,415,867.

I have here the balances for June 30, July 31, August 31, September 30, October 31, November 30 and December 31 of each month. I shall not burden you by reading them except to say that the largest is $122,624,769.

During 1957 only two are available. On January 31, there was a total of $92,760,739. I believe that these figures will coincide with the figures given us by Senator Barr. On February 28, there was a total of $98,544,927.

Let me just mention here that the Governor, in his Seventeenth Biennial Budget, estimated that the cash balances for June 1, 1955 would be $31,227,156. However, the actual balance was $63,071,382. He merely underestimated the budget by 100%. This tabulation discredits the Governor's statement about cash balances or cash reserves when he mentioned in his Message that these are—and I quote from the Governor's Message, page 8 of the multigraphed copy—"a seasonal accumulation of funds, piled up in the early months before construction gets into full swing, and noted because of our fiscal year date of May 31st. It rapidly vanishes and becomes a thin margin of working capital in October and November."

Cash balances of over $100,000,000 during those specified months, as well as most of the year, could not be acclaimed "a thin margin of working capital." As a matter of fact, it could be debated that this Administration lost sight of the fact that highway user taxes were intended to build roads and not to lie dormant in the Pennsylvania State Treasury.

It is also felt that the Governor underestimated the cash balance for May 31, 1957. It will be noted that the Governor underestimated this same item by 100% in his last budget, and a more realistic estimate this time would be between $90,000,000 and $100,000,00 instead of the $65.9 million figured by the Governor. General Richards, I am told, stated in Atlantic City at the Convention of Associated Contractors over last week end that a revised estimated balance as of May 31, 1957 would be nearer $100,000,000.

It may be habitual to underestimate anticipated revenues for budgetary reasons, and this budget is truly no exception. Projecting the several sources of revenues for the remaining months of the 1955-1957 biennium, it is fair to estimate that motor fuel taxes, and motor licenses and fees alone will produce at least $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 more than the Governor estimated in his budget. Recently, Secretary of Revenue, Honorable Gerald A. Gleeson, announced that 200,000 additional applications have been mailed to passenger car and motorcycle owners this year. Moneys received from this increase, as well as any pending increase for commercial vehicle registrations, will be deposited in the Motor License Fund this biennium.

Motor fuel taxes also have not remained static over the years, as shown in a tabulation entitled "State Motor Fuels Consumption." With this, Mr. President, I offer the following figures:

In 1950 on gasoline alone, the total consumption was 2,210,464,969 gallons. That advanced constantly at these rates of per cent of increase each year: 8.20, 6.73, 4.57, 4.74, 2.56 and 6.95. In 1956, over 1955, the rate was 4.87, or approximately five per cent.

In diesel fuel, in 1950 the gallonage was 11,578,381; in 1951 there was an increase of 37.28 per cent. In 1952, there was an increase of 34.02; in 1953, there was an increase of 20.17. Last year, the consumption was 49,986,-617 or an increase, if you will, over the previous year of 39.65, practically a forty per cent increase in 1956 over 1955. I am offering this table for the record. It is not too optimistic to presume that the upward trend will continue and, in turn, produce additional revenues from this source.

It is obvious that the Governor's Budget, in listing the 1957-1959 Federal Highway program, deliberately overlooked reporting the proportionate Federal and State costs toward the $327.4 million total. This appears misleading and it seems more proper to report how much such a program would cost the State. A breakdown of the proportionate costs has been applied to the $327.4 million program where Federal funds are involved and is shown in a table which indicates that in the total program, the State would have for primary roads $30.6 million; secondary, $18.7 million; urban, $35.7 million; or a total of $84.9 million: Interstate, because it is on a small percentage from the State basis, would require $15.8 million, a total of 100 per cent. Here it can be seen that the State's obligation toward the 1957-1959 Federal program is only $100.7 million or a little over $50,00,000 a year. This is only several million dollars more than Pennsylvania's share last biennium.

The Governor's Budget also estimated income from Federal aid at $205.8 million, appearing an page 3 of his budget. If the Governor insists that he is going to utilize or expend $327.4 million available to Pennsylvania, then he should have increased the Federal aid payments to $226.7 million as shown in the table.

Federal aid payments during 1955-1957 were reported to be $75,000,000. In that period, Pennsylvania had available and allocated from this source $141.7 million. However, as the budget shows, a little more than half was collected. The Highways Department's own programing was responsible for this differential. On the basis that the department cannot fully utilize the full amount of Federal aid during the 1957-1959 biennium, it would be more appropriate for the Governor to rescind the emergency flood relief tax instead of taking advantage of the motorists just for the sake of having a lot of their money lying around in the State Treasury.

In addition to the immediate huge cash balance mentioned earlier, the Governor also has available an untouched fiscal resource of $40,000,000 granted to the Highways Department by the last Session of the Legislature. This authorization of State Highway and Bridge Authority funds has been waiting to be used by the Highways Department since May 31, 1956, for the specific purpose of matching Federal grants. The potential of the $40,000,000 is tremendous. If this money were to be applied solely for the costliest road projects which are part of the interstate system, Pennsylvania would receive nine dollars in Federal contributions for every dollar supplied by the State. This means that the $40,000,000 would blossom into a $400,000,00 road program since the Federal Government would furnish $360,000,000.

The Governor should also be queried about several points in his highway program that a true performance budget should contain; the number of miles of highway that will be constructed by the $327.4 million budgeted for the Federal highway program. It is understood that only twenty miles of roads were actually built with the $81,000,000 spent in 1955-1957 for the construction and reconstruction of Federal-aid urban extensions. The question should also be raised whether or not the amount budgeted for the construction and reconstruction of of Federal primary roads will be affected by a recent announcement of Secretary Lawler that he has decided to defer action on the $29,000,000 improvement program for U. S. Route 6 until the Keystone Shortway has been accepted by the Bureau of Public Roads as part of the Interstate System.

These questions and many others should be answered before the people of Pennsylvania, through their elected representatives, are asked to hand over, without further consideration, such huge sums of mony to an administrative department without knowing in detail just where and how the money is to be spent. The Highways Department has submitted no details to the public on its total program for the next two years and evidently does not plan to inform them.

It is sincerely believed that whatever highway program the Administration completes during the 1957-1959 biennium can be adequately finances by the five-cent gasoline tax and the present registration fees. The facts herein speak for themselves.

Before I conclude, Mr. President, I might just add a word and, if I may, make reference, although I know it is dangerous to make reference to the current newspaper stories that have been afloat in the Commonwealth, but I fear if each and every Member of the Senate were to read them, they would hesitate very much in voting for even what we commonly know as our current gasoline tax program.

I am going to read from the Sun-Telegraph only because Senator Barr was kind enough to bring that up. This issue is dated March 17, on good old St Patrick's Day, Senator Barr. The headline reads as follows:

"Chaos Rides the Road! System Smashed, Blame Politicians."

The article further states as follows:

"The Pennsylvania Department of Highways has collapsed and the entire state roadbuilding program is in jeopardy.

"Only radical and immediate reformation from top to bottom will save the state from highway chaos.

"The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has made a lengthy and intensive study of the department's operations. The following statements were found to be true:

"Trained highway engineers were fired because of political patronage.

"Non-qualified persons were hired to fill their places because of politics rather than highway know-how."

Mr. BARR. Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I am noticing what time it is and it appears what he is getting into, I want to get into with both of my feet. I would suggest that maybe the gentleman would stop reading that until tomorrow and then, brother, we will really have a good Donegal.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I appreciate the courtesy of Senator Barr. I would like, however, to finish this because I certainly do not want to leave it hanging in mid-air.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, the gentleman is not speaking directly on the bill or the amendments, and if he insists on going on with his allegations over there, I insist that we stay in Session because I, too, want to answer him.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senators just yield for a moment? A point of order has been raised by the Senator from Washington, Mr. Lane.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT. For what purpose does the gentleman rise? There is a point of order pending before the Senate.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I yield at this time.

The PRESIDENT. The subject matter before the Senate is the amendments offered by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr.

The Chair feels that the gentleman from Cumberland has strayed from the question before the Senate a little bit and would ask him to confine his remarks entirely to the amendments at the present time. Further discussion of the bill will be permitted as we proceed.

Mr. WADE. Thank you very much, Mr. President. I certainly would not take issue with any ruling of the Chair.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, the Senator from Cumberland having injected this extraneous material, whether or not he finishes it today or whether or not he is out of order, I would like to know whether or not I may have five minutes to answer him today.

I do not mind agreeing to these gentlemen's agreements that we will not go past a certain time, but I do think that no one should be shut off if a valid subject of debate is opened up.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator will be given an opportunity to ask the consent of the Senate to reply.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I would like to correct the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator McMenamin, and say to him that I did not inject this matter into the debate today. It was brought in by the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, who first mentioned that certain allegations and accusations had been made against the Department and I was merely carrying out the invitation that he had made.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, my wife has some things she uses on our children's ears. I think we will get some for him. As I said, when he introduced that bill today he called these things rumors. Now I never mentioned it other than speaking of the bill when he calls them rumors. Now you are up making allegations that tomorrow you are going to have to get up over there and answer.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, last Monday, Senator Dent had the opportunity of closing shop here and he spoke until ten after six on the sales tax bill and we did not have an opportunity to answer him if we were to close at the hour that we had previously agreed upon. So, perhaps, one Monday it works one way and the next Monday it works another. I do feel that we should try to close at this particular hour as we previously agreed upon.

For that reason, I suggest to the gentlemen on the other side that they hold their fire until tomorrow and we will try to meet at 2:00 o'clock and then everybody can get into the act.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I have no objection to that, but I might say to the gentleman from Cumberland that the next time he sends me a copy of his remarks, he put all the remarks in the copy.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I repeat my request for a limited time and I will reduce it to three minutes. However, I do not want to see the sun go down tonight without geting a chance to say something about those irresponsible charges made in a certain newspaper in Pittsburgh against Joe Lawler.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, may I briefly say to my distinguished colleague, Senator Dent, that these statements were not in the statement that I sent to him. Certainly I apologize for that, but I thought that he was a subscriber to this paper and that he read the paper regularly.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am a subscriber to that paper and I want him to know I am a subscriber to it. Perhaps if he would be a subscriber to some of the other papers in the county, he would find that the two other large metropolitan papers have never heard of the scandal he is talking about.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, ordinarily I would like to go along with Senator McMENAMIN on any request that he has, but I hope that he will defer his remarks until tomorrow. I am sure that he will be able to present a good case for his fellow countian, the Secretary of Highways, Mr. Lawler. After he does that, then there might be some others on this side who would want to have some rebuttal to that.

Now we are not going to accomplish anything tonight by going back and forth here. Even though he might only take three minutes, somebody else might want to take five and we are going to be here for another half-hour or so. As Senator Holland said one time when he was a Member of this Senate, "This could very well result in ulcers, heart attacks and everything else to the poor old Senators," and, for that reason, I hope that we may abide by our agreement to adjourn at this particular hour, although we are a half an hour late now.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, my good friend, the Majority Leader, having taken up my three minutes, I now reduce my request to one minute.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McMENAMIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I am surprised at my distinguished colleague and friend, the Senator from Cumberland, Senator Wade, who in the middle of his speech makes a complete mental flip flop. He criticizes Joe Lawler and the Highways Department generally in connection with this tax bill for not having told the people and allowed them to ask questions first why the tax should be retained at its present level. Yet, without asking questions first, he reads into the record charges which have not yet been substantiated.

Now we have heard a great deal about investigations of the Highways Department in the past week or so. I, for one, and I believe the Secretary of Highways would agree with me, believe that the people should have all the facts and the people should be told the truth. Nevertheless, I do believe before the Members of this Senate, particularly the Republican Members, spend $100,000 of the taxpayers money on what could be nothing more than a political adventure, they should at least have a hearing from the people who have made whatever charges have been made.

I have just received a copy of this Pittsburgh paper. I think that the Senate Highways Committee or some other body of this Senate should first make them prove their charges before we spend this money on an investigation.

My minute is up.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would suggest bringing the fellow down who wrote the article, because I do not think he would know an engineer if he saw one.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, not at this time but I would like, under the FCC laws, equal time to answer.

If there is an investigation, I would like to call in the former Chief Engineer for the Department of Highways, Mr. Wiesenberger, from my county of Lehigh.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, in connection with his prior remarks, requested that a table be printed in the Journal. Without objection, it is so ordered.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, so that we may adjourn, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 335, Printer's No. 66, on third reading, go over in its order.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, March 25, 1957.

The House met at 3:00 p.m.
The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend John F. Moore, Pastor of the Furnace Run Union Chapel, Kittanning, Armstrong County, guest Chaplain and guest of the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Guthrie, offered the following prayer:

Oh Lord, our God, Thou has been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever Thou hadst formed the earth, and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting Thou art God. Thou Jehovah changeth not.

We praise Thee for the land of our birth where we are a people with privileges above other lands. Our opportunities, our liberties, our blesisngs are without number. A land where we can worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience, and none dare molest or make us afraid.

We can say with the Psalmist: "Our lines have fallen in pleasant places." We have a goodly heritage.

In the material and Spiritual things of life of which Thou hast made us stewards, may we be mindful of those less fortunate than ourselves. From our lives here in the great state of Pennsylvania may there be an expression of giving and sharing that folks of this land and other lands will know that the God of our country is the Lord, and we shall hear from Heaven "Inasmuch as ye have done unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto Me."

We pray that wisdom may be given these men and women here assembled today. These who have been chosen by the citizens of this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to make our laws. In particular bless and guide the presiding officer and all those in places of responsibility here and in other legislative sessions in this capital city of Pennsylvania. We pray for not only those who create the laws, but those administer them as well, that altogether we may be a happier people. In that name that is above every name, may the love of God, the Father, Son and Holy Spirit abide with us now and evermore. Amen.

JOURNALS APPROVED

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. BROWN, ASHTON and UJOBAI.

RESOLUTION No. 66.

In the House of Representatives, March 20, 1957.

Walter E. Greenwood, solicitor for the City of Coatesville for the past forty years died at his home at the age of seventy-nine on the night of March 15, 1957.

He was born in West Caln Township on July 15, 1877, the son of the late James and Caroline Rice Greenwood.

Mr. Greenwood was educated at the West Chester Normal School in 1896 and later attended and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania School of Law in 1899.

A leader in the movement to drop a borough form of government in favor of the commission type, Mr. Greenwood became solicitor for Coatesville in 1916 when a commission type government was formed. With the exception of one year in the early 1920's he served as solicitor continuously from January 1916.

Mr. Greenwood was a member of the Legislative Local Government Commission appointed by the Speaker of the House from November 1939 to June 1943 when he was elected by that Commission as an advisor on Local Government.

Regarded as an authority on Third Class City government and its administration, he was a past president of the Pennsylvania League of Third Class Cities and for many years served as its executive director. When the League was reorganized to admit larger cities, he became executive director emeritus of the Pennsylvania League of Cities.

He displayed considerable interest in the League of Third Class Cities and showed much pride in the issuance of a regular bulletin covering events of interest to the municipalities affiliated with the group. His knowledge of this service was invaluable and he was called upon time and again by the solicitors of other cities to give important decisions. He was looked upon over a long period of years as an important figure in legislative circles in Harrisburg in helping to draft bills which later were enacted into laws. He also was instrumental in discouraging passage of measures which he regarded as not in the best interest of member cities.

In addition to playing an important role in county and city politics and municipal government, Mr. Greenwood also was a past commander of the Centennial Commandery No. 55, and past high priest of the Coatesville Royal Arch Chapter, No. 267.

A member of the original Board of Managers of the Coatesville Hospital, he was honored in 1953 for more than fifty years of service to the hospital.

He also was a past president of the Chester County Bar Association and a past president of the Coatesville Lions Club.

A life member of the B. P. O. E., Mr. Greenwood served the local as a trustee for twenty-five years. He also was a member of the Washington Fire Company and served as trustee for a number of years.

Mr. Greenwood was a member of the Coatesville Presbyterian Church for more than fifty years and a member of the church's Iron Rose Bible Class.

He was also active in alumni affairs of West Chester State Teachers' College and the University of Pennsylvania.

In addition to his widow, Laura Swartz Greenwood, he is survived by a son, W. Edward Greenwood, and a daughter, Mrs. Caroline Greenwood Marvel. Also surviving him are two grandchildren and a great granddaughter, and a sister Mrs. Mary C. Cadwallader, who now resides in the Mid-west; therefore be it

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to each of the above named members of the family of Walter E. Greenwood, as a token of sympathy extended to them in their hour of grief by the House of Representatives.

Referred to the Committees on Rules.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg. March 25, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Thomas Jefferson wrote that "some men look at constitutions with sanctimonious reverence and deem them like the ark of the covenant, too sacred to be touched . . ."

But, Jefferson warned, "the laws and institutions must go hand in hand with the progress of the human mind . . ."

In my view, these words of a great American admonished future generations to take care that their constitutions did not become political strait jackets to constrain and hamper government in its adjustment to change.

We are now faced with the imperative need to revise our Constitution. For this fundamental law of the Commonwealth, within whose framework we mnst meet all of our responsibilities as a sovereign State, has been in effect since January 1, 1874.

No one doubts that it should be brought into keeping with our times; no one argues that many of its provisions have become obsolete as a result of the Commonwealth's continuing growth.

Yet, so far, we have done nothing about it.

In this neglect we are alone among our neighboring states. The New York Constitution was revised in 1938; and a fifteen-man constitution study commission is now doing preliminary work in advance of a referendum on the question of a constitutional convention. And New Jersey effected a forward-looking revision of her Constitution in 1947.

We in Pennsylvania have reached the point where we can no longer disregard the inadequacy of our organic law, written better then fourscore years ago, to cover mid-Twentieth Century needs.

It is time we did something about it.

Accordingly, I lay before you the draft of a bill which would create a temporary State commission for the specific purpose of studying the Commonwealth's Constitution "in the light of contemporary conditions and the anticipated problems and needs of the people of the Commonwealth."

This Commission on Constitutional Revision would consist of fifteen Pennsylvanians, appointed by me with the advice and consent of the Senate.

It would have the duty of determining whether or not changes in our Constitution are advisable; and, if so, how best we might effect them. If the Commission concludes that we should proceed by amendment, it is empowered to recommend such a course, and to include, in its report, drafts of the proposed amendment or amendments.

On the other hand, the Commission may conclude that our Constitution needs general revision. In this case, it would collect, compile, and analyze "such information as it may deem useful to the delegates at a constitutional convention, and shall make any recommendation as to the substance of the revision it may consider appropriate."

The Commission's final report to the Governor and the General Assembly would be submitted not later than one week after the convening of the General Assembly in regular session in 1959.

Members of the Commission will be reimbursed for their expenses, but not otherwise compensated, and $175,000 is appropriated for their use.

In urging your support of this measure, it is pertinent, I think, to tell you that Governor William C. Sproul, in his Inaugural Address in January 1919, expressed serious concern over the need for prompt Constitutional revision. Accordingly, he recommended the creation of a commission on constitutional amendment and revision.

The General Assembly embraced this proposal by the Act of June 4, 1919, and the Commission so established reported to the General Assembly on December 15, 1920.

The able men and women who constituted the Commission came to the conclusion that a considerable number of changes of substance were necessary to update the Constitution, and therefore recommended that it be revised —not simply burdned with a large number of additional amendments.

As part of their report they submitted a proposed revised Constitution, and recommended that the calling of a constitutional convention be put to the voters.

In due course this was done, by the Act of April 27, 1921.

Unfortunately, the proposition was rejected at the polls.

Nearly four decades have passed since Governor Sproul saw the need for "prompt" Constitutional revision.

Those decades have seen unprecedented economic development and social change. They have constituted a priod which has placed enormous demands upon us for effective self-government, for ordered liberty in a highly interdependent community structure.

But all this while we have gone on amending our Consituation piecemeal—thus aggravating, rather than relieving, the need for thorough revision.

Were our Constitution a relatively simple charter of government like the Constitution of the United States, there would be no need to talk of revision.

The Constitution of Pennsylvania is not, however, a simple instrument confined to the essentials of governmental organization and powers, and of the guaranties of individual liberty.

It is freighted with provisions which treat the legislative branch of the State Government with distrust; with provisions dealing specifically and inflexibility with various matters of public policy; with provisions hampering imaginative and broad-scaled attacks upon the pressing problems of urban and metropolitan living.

All of you are familiar with our Constitution and know, as I do, that the Commonwealth has been forced to evade, by various makeshifts, a number of its strictures.

The Constitution says that a bill must be read three times before it is brought to a vote in either house of the General Assembly. We know, of course, that this is impractical—if not impossible.

And we know that the State's debt limit for capital purposes is fixed by the Constitution at $1 million, thus forcing the Authority device of borrowing money as an expedient and necessary means of evasion.

So we incur huge debts, in the semipublic, semiprivate operations of the Authorities—an expensive and inefficient makeshift at best.

These examples which I have cited are chosen at random to illustrate obsolescences in our Constitution. Many others come to my mind, just as they will to yours.

Together, they comprise a powerful argument in favor of Constitutional study by an expert, nonpartisan group, such as the Commission on Constitutional Revision whose creation this bill would allow.

There is a particularly apt statement on this subject in the report submitted June 20, 1955, to President Eisenhower by the Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. Let me quote part of it to you:

"Early in its study the Commission was confronted with the fact that many state constitutions restrict the scope, the effectiveness, and adaptability of State and local action. These self-imposed constitutional limitations make it difficult for many states to perform all of the services their citizens require, and consequently have frequently been the underlying cause of state and municipal pleas for Federal assistance.

"It is significant that the Constitution prepared by the Founding Fathers, with its broad grants of authority and avoidance of legislative detail, has withstood the trust of time far better than the constitutions later adopted by the states. A due regard for the need for stability in government requires adherence to basic constitutional principals until strong and persistent public policy requires a change. A dynamic society requires a constant review of legislative detail to meet changing conditions and circumstances.

"The Commission finds a very real and pressing need for the states to improve their constitutions. A number of states recently have taken energetic action to rewrite outmoded charters. In these states this action has been regarded as a first step in the program to achieve the flexibility required to meet the modern needs of their citizens."

I feel certain that we all want the states—and particularly this Commonwealth—to remain strong and effective, for this is essential to the proper operation of the Federal System. But the strengthening of state government is for the states themselves—not for the National Government.

I urge you, therefore, to support the bill which accompanies this message, and hope you will share my belief that that prompt action is called for in this vitally important area of Constitutional reform.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

Amend bill page 43, line 4, by striking out after "Section" the figure "2" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "10"; line 4, by striking out after the word "act" the words "shall become effective immediately" and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

In so far as they apply to sections 520 and 531 of the act of March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228) shall become effective July 1, 1957 all the other provisions of this amending act shall become effective immediately

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we have before us today for concurrence, amendments inserted by the Senate in House Bill 337, Printer's No. 160. As we all know, it is the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act which was passed at the last session of the Legislature.

In order for me to explain to you the amendments which have been inserted in the bill, I am first going to give you a sort of bird's-eye view or a general summary of the Sales Tax Act as it is presently on our books and as I understand it.

I will then go into another phase and explain to you how the Sales Tax Act has been administered by the Department and the Department of Justice from what we have been able to gather.

Then I will point out the amendments which have been made to the bill to clarify the administrative rulings and to do away with what we think are unfair administrative rulings.

In the fourth phase of what I am going to say I will point out to you various minor changes in the bill having to do with some of the categories and with administration of the Sales Tax Act.

Under the heading of telling you about the bill, our present Sales Tax Law as we all know, is unusual in this state. It is a sales tax which taxes categories rather than a general sales tax with specific exemptions.

After we have defined these categories and have set out what is taxable, we have set out three major exemptions in three major groups which under certain circumstances would not have to pay the sales tax.

The first group we have exempted, of course, is a vast group and refers to items purchased for manufacturing.

The next group that has been exempted are the farmers, horticulture, and so forth, referring to items purchased for farming.

The next group we have exempted are those engaged in the producing, delivering or rendering of a public utility service.

In exempting these three groups, we have defined each group. We have defined manufacturing. We have said that manufacturing covers, first, those engaged purely in manufacturing.

Secondly, we have said that the publishing industry, although it is not strictly manufacturing, we would for purposes of this bill consider as a manufacturing enterprise.

Next, we have said that extracting and refining natural resources and minerals is manufacturing.

While the business of building ships is not strictly manufacturing within the definition of "manufacturing," we have in the bill said that those who are engaged in building ships in which the tonnage is over 50 tons, or engaged in repairing, adding to or making replacements in or on ships of that tonnage, are engaged in manufacturing.

In the next category we have said, you are engaged in manufacturing if you are engaged in research to find a new product, not if you are engaged in research to to make your administration facilities better. New product research is considered manufacturing.

In the bill after we have defined manufacturing, we have then given a definition of pure manufacturing in which we say in the present law that manufacturing is manufacturing, fabricating, compounding, processing, or other operatings, all of which place personal property in a form, composition or character different from that in which it was acquired. I am giving you this definition because one of the amendments changes that definition, as I will explain later.

In giving this broad exemption to manufacturing we have said that not everything a manufacturer buys is tax exempt. For instance we have said, if you, Mr. Manufacturer, built a new plant, the cost of constructing that new plant is taxable, that is not manufacturing. We have said, If you repair that building, that is taxable, that is not manufacturing. Or, If you maintain that building, that is also taxable.

We have given an exemption to public utilities because of their large maintenance problem.

Maintenance is not taxed as far as public utilities are concerned. Maintenance of the manufacturing establishment is taxed under our present law, as well as the ad-administration facilities of a manufacturing plant.

You say, You are setting out what is taxable to the manufacturer. What is tax exempt as far as the manufacturer is concerned? It is in very simple language. We have said that it is the raw material, machinery, equipment, parts and supplies used and consumed directly in and necessary to the production process and the rendering of a public utility service. Those are the items which are exempt as far as the manufacturer is concerned.

Then under another section of our Sales Tax Act we have a series of specific exclusions which are really not important, but we exempt isolated sales pre-March 1956 contracts, and so forth. We specifically exempt the wrapping of a finished product but we say that wrapping, if it is charged for separately, is subject to the sales tax.

In our Sales Tax Act as to ships, we have dealt with that subject separately. I will explain to you just how that exemption applies to ships under the present law. Ships and boat construction are taxed, as I said, as non-manufacturing unless they are in excess of 50 tons. All supplies sold as ships's stores at the present time are subject to the sales tax. Pleasure boats are taxed when they are sold under our specific categories.

Commercial vessels under 50 tons are taxed to the person building them as the ultimate consumer and are tax free when sold. They are not in any of the enumerated categories of taxation.

I think that is enough for our purposes to tell you about the present Sales Tax Law. I have said that it covers numerous categories, but we have the main exemptions to manufacturing, to farming and to public utility service. I have told you we have added to the category of manufacturers those in pure manufacturing such as the publishing business, those making ships over 50 tons, and so forth.

As I told you, raw materials, machinery, equipment, parts and supplies are tax exempt if they go directly into manufacturing. That is the theory of the bill.

Now I will tell you how the Act has been administered, as we get it.

As to the manufacturing process, how has that been taxed? I was on the Conference Committee on House Bill 2101 last session, which is the real sales tax bill which we have today. In that Conference Committee we understood the manufacturing process was that process which started with the first operation and continued until the final product was finished. As I understand, the regulation which has been issued as to what is the manufacturing process, it cut the manufacturing process in two in many instances. For instance, Regulation No. 225 limits the manufacturing process to the phase of production immediately and continuously carried on in the same production area. I am thinking now of a plant which covers several miles or more. Let us take the steel industry. They do a particular job at one portion of their plant, but in order to do the second phase of the operation they load it on a car and haul it to a plant five miles away, where the additional manufacturing process begins. Under Regulation 225 the fact that this operation is not in the immediate and continuous production area, the second phase of the manufacturing process would be taxed.

Let us take as an example toothpaste. The Department says when toothpaste, the paste itself, is being manufactured, that would be the manufacturing process. Placing it in the container, however, would not be manufacturing. So the machine to hold the container for the purpose of filling the tube would be subject to tax.

As I told you, machinery, parts and equipment going directly into manufacturing are tax exempt when they buy it, but any machine which is non-manufacturing is subject to the sales tax when purchased. As I say, the container under rulings of this Department would be subject to tax.

Now let us take the printing industry. Under the definition of what is manufacturing we say those engaged in pure manufacturing, of course, are in manufacturing, but then we have set out various categories which are semi-manufacturing and which we have said are manufacturing. One of them is the publishing of books, newspapers, magazines and other periodicals. Under the first set of Regulations of the Department they said the printing industry is included in that exemption as a manufacturer and therefore will not be taxed. We intended publishers to include printing under the 1956 Act, but administrative rulings placed printers outside of the exemption granted to manufacturers, which was never intended. That is a new ruling of the Department on August 11, 1956, which completely changes a previous ruling which said that publishing was printing and the machinery going into the printing establishment would be exempt the same as other manufacturers.

As to ships, we said building a ship over 50 tons is manufacturing. We also said building, repairing, making additions to and replacements in or on would be manufacturing of a ship, but we did not use the magic word "rebuilding" of a ship. Under the present rulings of the Department, as I understand them, the rebuilding of a ship would not be manufacturing and, therefore, would be subject to tax, the facilities going into rebuilding a ship, the parts, etc., would be taxable.

In giving you the exclusions from the tax on manufacturers I said raw materials were not taxed, machinery, equipment, parts and supplies were not subject to the tax. We never intended that the foundation on which a large machine would be placed would be subject to the tax. We intended that the foundation, plus the machine, would be tax free. The Department has made a ruling that foundations under machinery shall be taxed. That was never intended. We do intend that in manufacturing the plant, the building, for this foundation shall be taxed, but any special foundation built to hold a special type of machine would be considered part of the machine itself and not part of the building. In granting manufacturers the exemption of raw materials, machinery, equipment, parts and supplies we said in the law they had to be used directly in manufacturing. As you know, in the Conference Committee reports last session we were stalled for two or three days over whether the word "directly" should be included or whether it should be omitted. We finally agreed that "directly" would go into the bill and that raw materials and exempted items had to be used directly in manufacturing to be exempt.

We were told that a reasonable set of regulations would be promulgated patterned more or less after the Ohio law, Ohio administrative rulings and court decisions, which would give industry a break with respect as to what was or was not directly used in manufacturing. In the administration of the tax the Department of Justice has come up with a theory which we will call the "contamination theory." They have issued a ruling that any item used in manufacturing in this category would be exempt, unless it was used for a non-manufacturing purpose, you could use it in a small non-repetitive way and it would not be subject to the tax. The Department has issued a ruling which now states that a non-taxed item can be used in manufacturing to the point where it would almost always be subject to the tax. In other words, they have the "contamination theory" that if any item is used in a non-manufacturing way it becomes contaminated with that non-manufacturing use and therefore would be subject to the tax and would not get the benefit of the exemption as manufacturing machinery.

With respect to public utility property, they are classed as manufacturers. Their buildings would be taxed, their administration facilities would be taxed, but not the physical plant which went to their transmission lines. Then railroads, ties, ballast, etc., would not be taxed. However, under rulings of the Department, public utility property which becomes real estate under local law is subject to the sales tax and is not classed as manufacturing, which was never intended under the Sales Tax Act.

I have finished the second phase of my narration wherein I have told you instances in which the Sales Tax Act has not been administered in accordance with the desires of the Conference Committee or the framers of the Sales Tax Act, nor in conformance with agreements made when the bill was passed.

I will now tell you what these amendments do to remedy the various matters to which I have referred you in the second part of my explanation of these sales tax amendments.

As to the manufacturing process, I told you that by regulation the decision of the Department is that if the manufacturing process comes to a halt and the property is transferred to another location and the manufacturing process continues, because the process was not continued in the immediate area the item is taxed in the new location. We have redefined manufacturing to say, "Every operation commencing with the first production stage and ending with the completion of personal property having the physical qualities . . . which it has when transferred by the manufacturer to another." That is the amendment on page 3, line 18, of the bill. This will permit the manufacturing process to continnue in another location other than in the immediate and continuous manufacturing area, as presently set out in the sales tax regulations.

As to the process of packaging a product after it has been manufactured, in order to get away from the ruling that packaging is not manufacturing, we have inserted on page 4, line 1, that the manufacturing operation shall include "packaging if any passing to the ultimate consumer," meaning that putting it into the package with the package going to the ultimate consumer would still be part of the manufacturing process.

I might say that the wrapping of the product for sale is presently exempt under exclusions unless a separate charge is made for wrapping or packaging, then it would be subject to the sales tax.

What have we done with respect to printing to clarify the confusion in the printing industry? On page 4, line 5, of the bill we have specifically included printing as a manufacturing operation. We have added after periodicals in that section the word "printing." So despite three confusing rulings on the matter, printing definitely will be, as intended, a manufacturing operation.

I might say parenthetically that the product produced as a result of the printing when sold to the ultimate consumer is, of course, subject to the sales tax.

How have we corrected the question of whether rebuilding a ship is tax free, as well as building, repairing, making additions to or replacements in or upon? On page 4, line 11, we have added specifically the word "rebuilding" after "building."

How have we corrected an interpretation of the Act that the foundation for machinery is presently taxed? How have we taken care of that? We have specifically exempted the foundation under the machinery on page 8, line 2, of the bill, which is putting into effect the original intention of the Act.

As to that word "directly" which we had so much trouble with last session, probably it never should have been in the bill. As I told you the "contamination theory" is something that is used directly in manufacturing, which if it has a small extemporaneous non-manufacturing use is contaminated with that use and the whole thing becomes taxable.

We have said on page 11, line 9, the predominant purpose shall determine whether such purpose constitutes a sale at retail. In other words, if that item is purchased for the predominant use in manufacturing, it shall be tax free.

I understand we have a problem as far as the mine cars going up and down in the mines. Because the workers ride on the cars in the morning and back again at night, that is a non-manufacturing use and that contamination of that exempt article would subject the whole article to tax. Under the quarrying and mining amendment the fact that the predominant use of those cars is for the purpose of mining coal, those cars would not be taxed uder this amendment.

As to the public utility amendment, to get away from the intrepretation of the Department that anything a public utility installs is taxable which is classed as real estate under local law, we have corrected that and spelled it out in the amendment on page 9, line 4, which says definitely that it is not to be classed as real estate, but that the building will still be classed as real estate the same as any other manufacturer within the meaning of the Sales Tax Act.

That closes an explanation of the major amendments to this sales tax bill. They all have to do with clarifying the Sales Tax Act, rectifying abuses in the administration of the Act and making the language clearer so that those who are intrepreting the Act will be able to give those who are paying the tax a square deal.

There are other changes in the law, some of which exclude certain items from the tax, some of which make certain small items taxable.

Probably the major item, which is not as large an item, I understand, as presumed, is the exemption applying to ships stores.

We have a situation in this state where up and down the Delaware River we have numerous stores which sell supplies to incoming ships, which then go on their way to other points.

These ships right now are purchasing only a bare minimum of supplies in our ships' stores along the Delaware River. Why? Because they can go across the river to a ships store in New Jersey, or go down the river into Maryland, where ships' stores are exempt and make their purchases. So these ships stores outfits will not be forced out of business because of the unreasonable competition just across the river and down the river a few miles to Maryland, we are giving ships' stores the exemption, which applies, to purchases by ships which leave the state of Pennsylvania. It is a fair and reasonable amendment to save these stores from being forced out of business by tax free compeition just across the river.

I might say something about our ship building industry in Pennsylvania. Maybe some of you three weeks ago read about this wealthy oil man from New York—I think he runs the Arabian Oil Company—and his philosophy on the purchase of ships. He would not buy a ship in the United States. He at the present time is having seven or eight ships constructed in ports in Japan, France, and elsewhere throughout the world. In order for us in this nation of ours to build up and protect our ship building industry from world-wide competition, we must foster this industry. We have about 3,500 people working in shipyards in and around the Philadelphia area. That original exemption of ship over 50 tons, classing them as manufacturing, was absolutely necessary in order to carry on a ship building industry within the confines of the state of Pennsylvania.

We must preserve that industry. It is what you call an ambulatory industry. It is very easy to just go across the river to a neighboring state which will give you a glad and helping hand. So we have had to give them that exemption which applies also to the question of ships' stores.

We have also granted exemptions on false teeth, crutches and so forth. I am sorry I do not have the exact language of that amendment. It was erroneously left out of the sales tax bill last time and it should have been in it.

We have also exempted, in effect, tennis shoes or Keds. We have a situation in the state where sporting goods are taxed. We have places where there is a sporting goods store and a shoe store alongside of each other. You can go into the shoe store and buy Keds or tennis shoes tax free. When you walk into the sporting goods store, these tennis shoes are taxed. The language of the amendment is to free that particular type of item from the tax on sporting goods because it is essentially a street-wear item rather than a sporting goods item.

In order to clarify food sold in churches, schools or hospitals, we have spelled out that that is tax free if sold in the ordinary course of their business activities.

There have been some minor additions to the taxable categories, in order to straighten out one or two of the categories to make them more practical and more operable. We eliminated for some reason food sold in dining cars. There was some question whether food sold by drive-ins and barbecue stands would be subject to the tax. We have indicated that any food which is served by a vending restaurant and taken out in containers furnished by the restaurant will be subject to the tax.

In order to clarify confusion as to what is or is not a periodical, we have defined it as one which appears at least once every three months, which would be in the nature of an exemption.

There are various administrative changes in the bill. One of the changes is that we have provided for the filing of quarterly returns as now, but specify that payment shall be made monthly. The Department would like that amendment in order to stop the fly-by-night firm from being able to hold on to money for three months before they pay the tax and maybe leave the Commonwealth and stick us for the tax.

We have also done away with the power of the Department to impose an effective rate upon a retailer or an industry. The effect of the amendments in the bill would be that effective rates are legal and permissible, but they would be arrived at as a result of negotiation between the industry and the Department.

The question of exemption certificates has caused a great deal of confusion in the Commonwealth. The Department has said the exemption certificates must be on a form furnished by the Department, and they must be renewed yearly.

The effect of the amendments is that exemption certificates can be in a reasonable form other than that furnished by the Department, and no yearly renewal is required.

Another change is in the petition to refund section. If you desire a refund you go through the reassessment board. The amendment, as I understand it, permits a petition for refund to be filed directly with the Board of Finance and Revenue.

Another minor change in the bill, at the present time we have a minimum fine of $10. There have been instances where a small amount of tax was due, say $1 or $2, and the taxpayer did not bother to send it in because of the small amount and he would be fined $10. We have reduced that fine to a minimum of $2 to make it more realistic.

Then there are other changes in what is and is not a wilful attempt to evade the law, and those are reasonable administrative amendments.

I realize, Mr. Speaker, in explaining to you what the amendments do to this, you might say it is a complicated sales tax bill. What I have said is probably confusing and maybe I have not put my point across. I want to say I am no expert on this sales tax bill. I have read it and re-read it, like many of you have, and I have given you my honest interpretation of the bill and of the amendments as I know them and as I have read them. Suffice it is to say this. Last week there were four men sent from the Department of Commerce into one of our local banks in Smethport. They are going around, as you know, helping industrial re-development corporations to get in new industry. Part of their pitch is the great things that we are doing, the Leader administration, is doing for industry here in Pennsylvania.

I say let us be realistic about it. Let us give industry a square deal in Pennsylvania. That is all these amendments are asking for.

I say to you people here unless we put through these amendments and give some stability, fairness and equity to our sales tax law, the exodus of business away from Pennsylvania and the reluctance of new business to come into Pennsylvania will continue. We must go through with these amendments here today and give a fairness and a soundness to our tax structure.

I realize that there are many, many other instances of unfairness in the sales tax law that we perhaps should write into the law. What we have done here is just pick out the major abuses and tried to correct them. It was never the intention to tax as is being done under the sales tax bill. I know you are going to say that it is going to take $5 million or $10 million or $20 million out of the Sales Tax Act. I say it will not take any money out of the Sales Tax Act. It is bringing in over $20 million a month right now without these rulings having been put into effect.

I understand those who have been affected by these rulings have been holding off and have not been going along with them as being unreasonable regulations and not in the contemplation of the Legislature when the law was passed. There is a principle in taxation that if, after a tax is passed, there is an intervening time between the passing of the law and a new session of the General Assembly; and during that interim, unless that next session of the General Assembly does something to correct them, and you go before the courts and say the regulations are unreasonable and arbitrary the courts turn you down. The courts will say you have just had a session of the General Assembly and they did not do anything about it. We are attempting to write fairness into this sales tax bill, and I ask each and every Member in this House to vote "aye" on the amendments.

Mr. ANDREWS. I have been very much interested in the Majority Leader's dissertation telling us how it came about that a six-page bill passed in the House becomes a forty-page bill when we consider it today.

Many years ago it was my blessed good fortune to be sitting where the newspaper men are now sitting, and at that time I remember a statesman from Philadelphia, I believe, spoke at some length concerning a technical matter. It was concluded with the words, I hope I have sufficiently confused you so that you have no intelligent questions to ask."

I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. In his opinion, how much money in the biennium would House Bill 337 have raised as it left the House?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would say it would raise the same amount it will raise now. I estimate it at $480 million, $20 million a month for 24 months.

Mr. ANDREWS. $480 million?

Mr. JOHNSON. $20 million a month for 24 months.

Mr. ANDREWS. I believe it was once the gentleman's opinion—and this is in the form of a question—that the mal-administration on the part of the Department of Revenue has reduced the revenues collected to the tune of $100 million. Is that right? Has not that opinion been expressed on that side of the House?

Mr. JOHNSON. The figure of $100 million is from the administration itself. It has been said, not only on the part of this House but in the McKinsey report, that mal-administration is the cause of the drop in revenue.

Mr. ANDREWS. That would make the possibilities of the present Act $580 million?

Mr. JOHNSON. I said the present Act, according to our estimates, would be 24 months at $20 million a month, or $480 million during the biennium.

Mr. ANDREWS. If we add a $100 million that will be received by efficient collection, it would make it $580 million?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is right. If the administration reaches back and makes assessments and audits and gets in that money, if what the gentleman says is true from his own figures, it would be $100 million.

I understand when Mr. Gleeson was before the Appropriation Committee he stated if you give him $2.5 million for auditors, he will bring in $37.5 million in tax deficiencies.

Mr. ANDREWS. What amount will House Bill 337, as amended, bring in during the biennium?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I say this present bill will bring in $480 million. That is the same amount I estimated when it was before the House. I say the amendments will not reduce the take.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I will ask the Majority Leader who says $480 million other than himself? To continue the question: Can the gentleman cite any technical authority or any analysis made by any group competent to render a decision that this House should entertain and reach a finding in accordance with the figures the gentleman has presented?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the figure of $480 million is a composite figure arrived at by taking the opinion of numerous people who are supposed to know something about it. We started with the Governor's own budget of $473 million. We have taken the figures furnished by Mr. Gleeson. We have taken the figures furnished by the former administration, by the Economy League and figures based on appraisals by Senator Dent of the Senate, which I think he says will be $25 million a month. We then have arrived at a composite figure of $480 million.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, might I inquire who "we" is?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say it is the great Republican majority we have on this side of the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, might I inquire how many of the magnificent majority the gentleman commands have studied the figures as to categories and are in a position to reach a considered and scientific opinion as to the returns?

If there were time, Mr. Speaker, I would like to have each member of this magnificent and intelligent and tax-wise majority rise in his place and certify that he has read the amended bill. Would the gentleman say his Members have read this bill?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say a good many of them have read the bill and are at this point quite conversant with it, yes.

Mr. ANDREWS. And by the way, able to advise the Majority Leader, perhaps?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say there are quite a number on this side of House that could give me some very able advice on the bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, is it understood the gentleman has given serious consideration to the figures compiled by the Revenue Department, the figures given currently by the Governor's Office and the figures given currently by Senator Dent, and that the gentleman has used them in his synthesis to arrive at this figure?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say in arriving at the composite figure of $480 million we have taken into consideration all this information from the various groups.

Mr. ANDREWS. That is all for the present. I will have some other inquiries in a minute or two.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the point I wanted to make was, there should have been written into the records of this House for the purpose of the record, a detailed statement by categories as to what the bill would raise. That statement should not only have been written in the records of this House but should have been supported by the authority, or an authority cited.

I do not consider the gentleman has named a single tax authority. There have been guessers like the Majority Leader who say we estimated and we took all of the guesses, and yet they come before this House to say they should take an educated guess.

I wish to further interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. The title of the bill, Mr. Majority Leader, speaks of further exemptions. Can there be an exemption without a reduction in the total return?

Mr. JOHNSON. What further exemptions, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. ANDREWS. As spoken of in the title and referred to by the Majority Leader, the title of this bill considers what as further exemptions?

Mr. JOHNSON. As I understand the exemptions in this bill, the only real, outright exemption is ships' stores. At the present time we are not collecting that tax and we are getting small, if any, revenue from it.

I understand the department has by letter written to the Philadelphia Port Authority and has advised them down there not to collect the tax and that on examination of their returns, and so forth, exemptions would be given. As I understand the present situation with respect to ships' stores, there is no money, if any, being collected from that source at the present time. What we are doing is spelling out the ships' stores and giving them that exemption. We are putting into effect a practice that is in vogue right now.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman for the record, state whether the exemptions written into this bill by the other chamber have not materially reduced the tax take?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct, Mr. Speaker. The exemptions which have been written into the bill merely clarify and carry out the intent of the Act, and the tax, as I understand it, is not being paid at the present time.

They are collecting around, I believe, $20 million a month from the taxes.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, one further question: Will the gentleman give us an educated guess as to what the present tax bill on a two percent basis would raise if efficiently administered?

Mr. JOHNSON. Well Mr. Speaker, of course, the question of what a two percent bill would raise is not before us at the present time. We are dealing with a three percent tax, and we are contemplating a three percent tax. I do not know the area in which the gentleman wants the question answered.

Mr. ANDREWS. This is the reason, Mr. Speaker. We have a tax bill in full force and effect. If House Bill 337 does not pass, we will still have a tax bill in full force and effect. It has not been proven, and it has not even been claimed, that the bill now contemplated will raise very much more money than the bill we will have if House Bill 337 does not pass. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. JOHNSON. May I answer your question?

Mr. ANDREWS. I would like to have the answer.

Mr. JOHNSON. We all know that our sales tax at the present time is a permanent taxing Act. On June 1 it drops to two percent. According to our calculations, a three percent will bring in $480 million. If it drops to two percent and it is properly administered, it will bring in $320 million. It is as simple as that.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, it is not as simple as that because the bill as written and the Act we have are not the same Acts. The reason I have risen to present to the House this question is that we should have an authoritative answer, an answer that can only be worked out in a conference committee. There is nothing on the record, not a single statement by any tax authority, that would justify this House in reaching the conclusion that House Bill 337 as amended, will raise very much more money than the bill we already have if it goes into full force and effect without the exemptions. Neither this House nor the Senate has had any authoritative research to determine the effect of these exemptions.

I am wondering, Mr. Speaker, since I have been inquiring what this House proposed to do for business, whether by the back door through a subterfuge of amending a sales tax bill they are giving a tribute to business, giving business its reduction, instead of doing it in clear-cut fashion. That is the reason Mr. Speaker, this bill should be referred to a conference committee.

There is admittedly a difference of opinion as to the amount raised and that will be raised. There is admittedly a difference of opinion as to the effect of the exemptions. Those matters cannot be determined by guess and not by synthesizing the opinions of persons who simply have opinions. A conference committee which would call before it tax authorities could settle this matter. That is where this matter should be settled.

I want to call the attention of the House to the fact that we should not accept this bill unless the majority is prepared to prove, not assert, but to prove it will raise more money, a considerable amount more money, than the Act we have. That is one of the things that should be done.

This administration is not naked as far as income from a sales tax bill is concerned. It will have a bill, and you say the reason we should have House Bill 337 is that it will raise more money. It will raise more money than this amended bill that is before us now, but that fact has not been proven. It should be proven, and the only way it can be proven is to send it to a conference committee.

Mr. Speaker, like the gentleman from McKean, I am not a technical tax expert. I have no doubt that some of the subsequent speakers will be competent to deal in greater detail with the technical features of this bill. I simply wanted to present the point of view that this House is not playing fair with itself if it does not write into the record the figures and the authorities that justify its action in framing a bill and then having that bill amended with nothing in the record, not a single tax authority in the record, justifying the figures.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, May I interrogate the Majority Leader?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogted?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, the Majority Leader mentioned in his brief explanation that these amendments in part were designed to overcome the oppressive and the capricious regulations issued by the Department of Revenue. Specifically what were these capricious and oppressive regulations of the Department in the administering of the present tax act?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe I pointed out a good share of them in my talk. I think if the gentleman were listening, he would have heard me refer to them.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman did not say which were the capricious and arbitrary ones. Are you saying they all were?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say they all are.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, the amendment with respect to the tennis shoes, that certainly is going to affect the take under this bill, is it not?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, it will not, for the simple reason that we have a report from the industry that people are not buying their tennis shoes from the sporting goods stores. They are being unreasonably discriminated against. They are buying them from their regular shoe store.

Mr. McCORMACK. Do you have a report, Mr. Speaker, from the industry that the tax is not being paid?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I said the people are not buying tennis shoes from the sporting goods stores. They are buying them from the regular shoe stores where they are tax free.

Mr. McCORMACK. I see. I want to ask a couple other questions, if I may, Mr. Speaker.

The present bill on the calendar exempts periodicals, and magazines, is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is right. They must be published at least once every three months.

Mr. McCORMACK. I see. Under these proposed amendments is there anything that would exempt the purchase of drugs, patent medicines, not on prescription?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would have to read that particular amendment. I believe I stated in my remarks you would have to refer to the amendment exempting those particular items. I do not believe medicine on prescription is taxed at the present time.

Mr. McCORMACK. It is not taxable at the present time?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I do not believe it is in any of the categories.

Mr. McCORMACK. It was my understanding that it was taxable. I see.

Mr. JOHNSON. Prescription durgs, I understand are not taxed.

Mr. McCORMACK. How about drugs not on prescription?

Mr. JOHNSON. They are taxed.

Mr. McCORMACK. They are taxed as patent madicine, yes.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to ask the gentleman whether or not under the present law gas heat used in home comsumption is taxable?

Mr. JOHNSON. Yes, it is. I come from a gas area and I know we pay the sales tax on it.

Mr. McCORMACK. Is coal used for heating purposes taxed?

Mr. JOHNSON. No. Coal is tax free.

Mr. McCORMACK. How about oil heat?

Mr. JOHNSON. Oil heat is taxable.

Mr. McCORMACK. One further question, Mr. Speaker. Is there any thing in the present amendments that would exempt the purchase of supplies by religious or charitable organizations other than food?

Mr. JOHNSON. I understand religious articles are exempt. They are not in any of the categories.

Mr. McCORMACK. Under what section is that, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. JOHNSON. Under the original Act. There has been no change in that regard.

Mr. McCORMACK. The reason I asked that, is because there was another bill—

Mr. JOHNSON. May I answer your question? Under category 9, of our present Sales Tax Law, it ends by saying that jewelry, and so forth, are taxed but not including religious articles.

Mr. McCORMACK. I am specifically referring to a situation. Let me quote a case where a religious or charitable organiaztion intends to build an edifice. Is the purchase of equipment and are the materials to be used in that building taxable?

Mr. JOHNSON. Yes, they are taxable to the contractor doing the installing. He is the ultimate consumer under this bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I just wanted to point out the many inconsistencies and the many unjust provisions of both the present tax bill and the proposed amendments. I think they are unfair, and they certainly work a hardship on a lot of the people.

It might be true that these amendments are designed to protect certain branches and phases of industry, but they are certainly not designated to protect the individual consumer. Certainly one of the most outstanding defiiciencies is the taxation of oil and the failure to tax coal for heating purposes. I think that is certainly something that should be corrected.

I have a situation in my own neighborhood where one neighbor uses coal heat and the purchase of coal is not taxed, and the other neighbor uses oil heat and it is taxable. I think if we are going to do something for the people, we ought to do it right here.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the the Majority Leader?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, when House Bill 337, was before us I interrogated the gentleman and he told me if there were any amendments made in the Senate they would be very minor amendments, is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe the overall gist of the interrogation was that there were going to be interpretive amendments made in the Senate, but I believe the question was, will the Senate add clothing or drinks over the bar, or trade-ins or anything like that as recommended by the Governor's tax study report. I believe I said there was nothing major in mind. That is correct.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if it took the difference between six pages and 44 pages in a bill to make those minor amendments?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the answer is that the minor amendments to the tax law which might affect the revenue one way or another are minor amendments, that is true. The other amendments as I have said are amendments which correct unfair rulings of the Department and do not affect the tax in any way.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if the unfair rulings of the Department were taxing people they should not have been taxing?

Mr. JOHNSON. As I understand it, these rulings have been made by regulation, but the various industries involved have not been paying the tax. They feel that the amendments were arbitrary and unreasonable and would be stricken down by the courts. Had there been a session of the General Assembly in process, a fair-minded General Assembly, they would make the correction without forcing them to resort to law.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman say the same thing might not apply under the amendments if they saw fit to rule that it was unreasonable and unjust and they refused to pay the tax?

Mr. JOHNSON. There is a difference between an Act of Assembly and regulations issued by a Department. In any taxing bill it always ends by saying and the Department of Revenue shall make reasonable rules and regulations to carry out the intention of this law, with emphasis on the word "reasonable." What industry would have to do would be to go to court and show that the regulations were unreasonable regulations and not contemplated by the General Assembly when they passed the bill.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman if this particular bill will not have the same clause at the end of it, that rules and regulations shall be made by the Department?

Mr. JOHNSON. Yes. When this bill passes there will be new rules and regulations issued, but there will be a statutory area in which a fair-minded department will be able to lay down reasonable rules and regulations.

Mr. LOVETT. If you had an unfair-minded department, could they not make unfair rules and regulations?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct. In a democracy we are always at the mercy of the sovereign and it takes a General Assembly to bring it into existence.

Mr. LOVETT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I suppose it was about a week ago that we passed House Bill 337 and sent it to the Senate of Pennsylvania. At that time I was ruled out of order many times for referring to the Senate of Pennsylvania. I ask the Speaker today, is it permissible to refer to the Senate of Pennsylvania which has amended this bill?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to read for the information of the gentleman and the Members of the House a ruling which was made by a very eminent Speaker of this House as late as May, 1939, the Honorable Ellwood J. Turner, as follows:

> It is a breach of order in debate to notice what has been said on the same subject in the other House, the particular votes or majorities on it there; because the opinion of each House should be left to its own independencey, not to be influenced by the proceedings of the other; and the quoting of them might beget reflections leading to a misunderstanding between the two Houses.

That is the parliamentary law.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if at any time during my debate two weeks ago I referred to any vote taken by the Senate of Pennsylvania? I do not think I did.

The SPEAKER. Perhaps the gentleman did not refer to a particular vote, but the Chair is sure the gentleman referred to action taken by the Senate. For that reason the Chair ruled the gentleman was out of order.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, am I in order today to debate action taken by the Senate of Pennsylvania on these amendments?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is permitted to refer to action which might have been taken by the Senate, but not to the votes or the conversation that took place concerning the bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I might say that at no time did I refer to the conversation.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, the Senate amended this bill which we sent over, as you gentlemen well know, and they made a lot of amendments. Now this great, honorable body of Senators, who are a fine group of men, very learned, very fine men, many times correct some of the mistakes we make in the House. Nevertheless, that same group of men is subject to error the same as we are. They make mistakes the same as we do. I refer to the action taken in this House two years ago in trying to solve a tax problem in Pennsylvania whereby we would not put the burden of taxes upon one particular group of people, whereby this House itself sat down and agreed to split the tax program and put one-half of it on one group and one-half on the other. This great honorable body in the Senate, who are fine men, what did they do? They sent us back a sales tax, the sales tax which we have today. We sent them a bill and they amended the life out of it and sent it back to us.

There is something fishy in Denmark somewhere. If the Department was not collecting the tax it should have collected under the sales tax, then these amendments we have today should have forced the Departmnt to collect the tax. Now, we either do one thing or the other. We either excuse certain people from this tax and we make other people pay a tax that they were not paying, or else the revenue is not going to be the same derived from this tax program.

You can talk about all your short, businesslike sessions you want to, but I say honestly that you men over there and we men over here do not know what is in this tax bill which we have before us today.

Our Whip over here has pointed out that there has been no expert who has told you what revenue is going to be raised. Nobody has told us. I tried to read this tax bill. After I read it so long I got disgusted, and you would get disgusted too.

You say utilities are exempt because they give public service. Does a dry cleaner give public service? Is that his duty as a dry cleaner, to give public service? If he buys a machine to press your clothes to give you public service, does he pay a tax on it? I do not know whether he does or not, but I do know if he pays a tax on it then the manufacturer who buys a machine to do the same thing should pay the tax.

We talk about a base the machine sits on. You tax the individual in his home for everything that he buys, it is not tax free. Suppose I bought a washing machine and I set it down in the cellar and I wanted to put it on a wooden platform. I would have to pay the tax on it, would I not? But you can set a machine in industry and they do not pay any tax on it.

It just does not make sense to me. I think you gentlemen ought to hesitate a little bit, not get so excited about this short, businesslike session. We are all being paid for doing a job, so let us stay and do it right.

Mr. O'BRIEN. This is not a short speech, Mr. Speaker, this is just the House bills and the Journals.

Mr. Speaker, in relation to this particular bill, Article III, Section 1, "No bill shall be amended to change its original purpose." Now it may be constitutionally debated by the members of the bar of this Legislature that the original purpose of this bill has not been changed. But it seems to me, as a naive layman, when you go from six pages to 44 pages, certainly the original purpose of this bill has been materially changed.

I want to quote House Rule No. 76:

> When a House bill has been amended by the Senate and returned for concurrence, it shall not be considered until placed on the calendar and copies thereof are on the desks of the Members to study.

This particular bill was passed by the Senate last Tuesday. We received the copies of the bill today to study.

I am gratified that the destiny of this Commonwealth is placed in the hands of a majority of the Republican Members who were able to study this bill, beginning today at two o'clock, or three o'clock or one o'clock, and being able to ascertain that this is, after deep consideration and study, a good bill for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Let me say further, when this bill was up for final passage in the House and was only a six-page bill, the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Lopresti, attempted to amend this bill on third reading with the idea of helping some poor minks from his section of the Commonwealth, and the eminent floor leader on the Republican side objected to these amendements with these words:

> Mr. Speaker, I just want to add to this. If this is a tremendously important amendment, it seems that it should be made the subject of a bill amending the common Sales Tax Act and referred to the Ways and Means Committee. Then an estimate > could be prepared and given to the Ways and Means Committee as to the loss of revenue in the bill so that—and I underline this—an intelligent study could be made of this far-reaching amendment.

Is that what the gentleman says it is? I leave that thought with you, Mr. Speaker.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know whether there is any way under the Rules of this House that we can vote singly on the question of concurring in the various amendments to this bill?

The SPEAKER. It is the opinion of the Chair that there is no way, under the Rules of this House, that we can vote on these amendments singly. Rule No. 76 reads:

> When acting on bills or joint resolutions amended by the Senate, the amendments shall be read and the question put on the concurrence in the amendments.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I knew what the ruling of the Chair would be, and I believe it is correct, but I meremly wanted to have it read so that I could make my argument on an authoritative basis.

On February 26, 1957, when the tax bill was before the House, I made the following statement:

> I am quite certain that the sales tax as it appears on our desk today is in need of amendment and I am confident that the leadership on both sides of the aisle will agree that there are questions which should be brought before this House and voted upon.

Then I went on, Mr. Speaker, to point out that when we adopted the procedure, such as we were in at that time, this House was losing its right to vote on particular amendments on particular subjects. I find today we are in exactly the same position I indicated at that time, that we would be passing on the question of concurring and never passing on whether or not we agreed with a particular change.

I am therefore opposing today the motion to concur on the ground that the only way left for individual Members of this House to express their opinions either for or against a particular amendment would be through the means of a conference committee. We have but one avenue left. If a conference committee is appointed, then we as Members can approach the various members of the conference committee and let our wishes be known.

I want to point out, too, another thing. In that debate that day the majority floor leader made this remark.

> I have especially requested during this Session that if there is anything to be added to any tax bills that it be started in the House where we by the Constitution are required to initiate revenue-raising bills, refer them to the Ways and Means Committee and have them out on the floor of the House first before we send them over to the Senate.

I believe in his opening statement today the Majority Leader has admitted that changes have been made to this bill and certain new items have been included in the tax. Either his request was ignored or he did not have the proper understanding of the leaders of the Senate.

Mr. Speaker, I want to object again. I want to object to this House by this procedure allowing itself to be put in a position where we have no vote on things added or deleted from a tax measure. I think it is a disgraceful exhibition of politics, and the sooner they get back to considering tax measures on their merits on an individual basis, I think the better off they are going to be, and the better off the people of this Commonwealth will be.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman intend to proceed with the passage of this bill on concurrence in the Senate amendments today?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, there is a motion before the House that we concur in amendments inserted by the Senate.

Mr. FILO. I thank the gentleman.

I would like to remind the gentleman of the words of his predecessor, the then Minority Leader, Mr. Smith, who on the floor of the House during the last session had gotten up to his microphone and stated these words, "What is your hurry? What are you up to? What are you hiding? What are you doing with this bill? The people haven't had a chance to study it." That is true, those were the words of your then Minority Leader, Mr. Smith.

The Majority Leader made the statement that under this piece of legislation the manufacturers will be exempt, farmers will be exempt, public utilities producing or rendering services, publishers, natural resources developers, people building ships, repairing ships, adding to or I guess subtracting from ships, will all come under this new piece of legislation and will be exempt under this bill. I ask the gentleman who will be left to be taxed in the state of Pennsylvania?

Mr. Speaker, today I was slightly alarmed when I came into the House and learned that many of the Members were forced from the House of Representatives. It had been stated there had been a bomb planted in the House of Representatives and a thorough search was made of this House but they were unable to find this bomb. Well, I want to bring to the attention of the House that this bomb has been found. If every Member will look on his desk and turn to page 6 of the calendar, House Bill 337, Printer's No. 160, is a bomb that is going to be tossed into the laps of the Pennsylvania voters, and you will be sorry.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I have no desire to prolong this debate, but certain things must be stated in connection with the question before us, whether we should concur in these Senate amendments.

There is so much to be said about it that I hardly know where to begin, but I would like to start with the period in 1956 when the sales tax bill was in a Conference Committee of the House and Senate.

At that time there had been such a long delay in coming to a decision as to whether there would be a sales tax—and that was the only tax that we are going to get—that when that Conference Committee finally met the Commonwealth was getting almost desperate for a source of revenue.

The conferees met frequently—like Mr. Johnson I was one of them. We were hurried, we could not take our time to sit down and intelligently write a tax bill which meant what everybody in that Conference Committee thought it would mean.

Mr. Johnson has stated there was a clear intention, or at least an intention, that all manufacturing processes would be tax exempt. I take exception to that statement, if I am correct in my recollection of what he said. There was a general understanding that manufacturing processes would be exempt, also that farmers would be exempt in certain instances, and so forth, but what was intended, as I understood it, was that we would exempt those items of personal property which were purchased and used directly in the manufacturing process.

Today we have a bill before us which is attempting to write into the law of Pennsylvania the philosophy that no tangible personal property used in the process of manufacturing in any way, remote or direct, should be taxable.

I say there was reason for haste in drawing the original bill, and probably there were words in there which were misleading, not too clear, and which had to be made the subject of regulations by the Sales Tax Bureau.

Mr. Johnson has complained thoroughly today about what he consideres improper, arbitrary or capricious rulings of the Sales Tax Bureau or the Department of Justice on the Sales Tax Act. I say when a statute is written it must be interpreted as it is written, and I think the Sales Tax Bureau has attempted to do that. Whether that was mainly our fault in the last session, or the desire to obtain more money, more yield, more revenue, from the sales tax I do not know. I rather think it was because we did not write it as clearly as we should have.

So, we come to today. The sales tax bill was passed by this House not very long ago substantially as it was on the books, except for keeping the rate of three percent and eliminating the stamp plan, the idea being that the Senate would insert other amendments, which are now before us.

This bill came over to the House last Wednesday morning, as I recall it. It was the intention of the majority leadership in this House to bring the bill before us last Wednesday for a vote. We protested and threatened to filibuster if that were done, and it was then decided to defer action until today.

I have had a copy of this bill since last Wednesday, but I doubt whether many other Members of this House have had a copy of even saw a copy until today. So I raise the question, why all this haste? What is the need for it? We have a law on the books now and it is three percent. If any person assessed with the tax thinks he is being improperly imposed upon, he has a right under the law to refuse to pay it and to take the matter into court. There is nobody who will be hurt by deferring action on this until we have had a chance to really understand it.

If I wanted to take the time today, I think I could interrogate 30 people, or more, in this House who would not be able to answer one question which I would ask. And I would not blame them. I would not blame them because this bill is so garbled up and so difficult to read in its present state with these amendments that I doubt whether many lawyers, even tax lawyers, fully understand what some of the sections mean.

Let me point out one example. On page 1 of the bill under the section defining tangible personal property—"Sale at Retail," I guess is the heading—we have these words, "Food and Beverages," and these words are added to the law.

"Except when purchased at or from a school church or hospital in the ordinary course of activities of such organizations when the purchase price of the total transaction is more than fifty cents (50c) when purchased (I) from persons engaged in the business of catering or (II) from persons engaged in the business of operating restaurants," and so forth. The present law exempts food sold at these church suppers, hospital affairs, and so forth. That was intended to be done. But sales by caterers over 50 cents were clearly made taxable.

So what do we have in these amendments? With the insertion of the word "at," which is not in the present law, "except when purchased at or from a school church or hospital," connected with sales by caterers, if this thing is interpreted as the ordinary words would indicate, a caterer could arrange to furnish the food at a church supper.

We will say that the church normally has suppers five times a year and the good ladies of the auxiliary have done the cooking, and so forth. That is the kind of sale we intended to exempt. But now, instead of doing that, we bring in a caterer and the caterer says the meals will be a dollar apiece. So the meals are charged to the people at the church supper at a dollar apiece, but there will not be any tax involved. That same caterer can go across the street to a private club or to any other organization and furnish his food and there will be a sales tax.

If I listened to Mr. Johnson's explanation correctly, that was not intended at all. I do not say that is a very important amendment in this bill, but I pointed out a defect in what was intended by the Senate and what is being intended by this House to correct and amend this law.

There are other sections in this bill which I think are certainly entitled to much more serious consideration than they are being given. On page 7, an amendment has been inserted from line 11 to line 17 and it deals with the definition of "Sale at Retail." Over in the Senate these words were inserted: "The term 'Sale at Retail' shall include the producing fabricating processing printing or imprinting of tangible personal property for a consideration for persons who furnish either directly or indirectly the materials used in the producing fabricating processing printing or imprinting." Before it left the Senate the words "producing fabricating and processing" were stricken out and the rest of the words were left in.

I have a comment which I have obtained from the Attorney General's office on this particular section which reads as follows:

> The amendment on page 7, lines 11 to 17, were recommended by the administration to handle the situation where a manufacturer buys material 'for the account of' a consumer and finishes them for the consumer. The transferral of any product is not taxed under the present law. This tax avoidance device has been eliminated in Ohio, New York City, California and elsewhere by adoption of the recommended language.

The striking out of these words, "producing, fabricating, processing" on the Senate floor however, emasculates this loophole-plugging language and will cause untold loss of revenue.

I do not intend to go into every section of this amended bill. It would take much too long and it would not add to the point I am trying to make in insisting that these amendments not be agreed to in order that this bill may be put into a conference committee so that careful study is given to it. However, I would like to point out that one of the other amendments removes what I consider to be a very, very important part of our Sales Tax Act, and that is the power of the department to use the effective rate. As Mr. Johnson mentioned earlier, that has been so amended that it will now become a matter of negotiation between the department—the Commonwealth, in other words—and the various businesses involved.

I do not know how many other sales tax states have the effective rate provision in their laws but I dare say most of them do. It is a very effective way of establishing a rate for certain businesses which is based on the experience of the business, an analysis of it, and designed to have that particular business pay what it should be paying rather than a much lower rate because of the difficulty of administering the Act without an effective rate clause.

I do not know, either, why the change in the law has been made in the Senate amendments to remove some of the penalties for understatement of taxes. It seems to me that we are not only eliminating by exemption a great many of the items that were taxable and intended to be taxable and should be taxable, but we are also pulling so many teeth out of the enforcement provisions of this Act that the thing will probably get back to a voluntary basis. People will pay if they feel like paying and they will not pay if they do not want to pay, and we are not going to get much revenue from that.

I say again, why so much haste in this matter? No one will be hurt if we take another month to consider what should be done by way of changes in this law. There are probably other groups who are entitled to some exemptions.

It is probably a very fine thing that we are doing in one of the amendments here, to exempt dental supplies and dental plates because we exempted other devices, prescription medicine, and so forth. It was simply, I suppose, because the bill was written so hurriedly the last time that the Bureau had to rule that dental plates were includable as a taxable item.

Let me point this out to you. If the main intention of adopting these amendments is to help business do something more for business, manufacturing concerns, utilities, and so forth; and if we are going to grant them further exemptions, it must necessarily take away the revenues that would have been collected from their purchases of certain items, and that money is going to have to come from some other source. In my humble opinion we are not going to raise nearly enough money even under the present law without these amendments, not nearly as much as we are going to need. So perhaps we are taking $20 millions of revenue from the shoulders of business and industry, and what-not, and we are going to have to get that money somewhere else.

Here is something you should bear in mind in making this decision today as to whether this bill should go to a conference committee and receive some further consideration by you and some further study. You will remember we amended a law last session to provide as of January 1, 1958, the five mill capital stock tax should no longer be collected from manufacturing corporations. That alone when it goes into effect is going to cost during the following biennium $43 million. In addition to that, the Governor has already recommended, and bills have been introduced, to repeal various business nuisance taxes totalling about $8 million or $9 million. So we are already faced with a loss of about $50 million of revenue. Here we are considering a sales tax bill which would further amend it and grant a great many new exceptions to items used in business.

I say to you we will be making a most serious error if we go through with what I think your present plans are, to pass on these amendments today and concur in them. We will then, of course, be relegated to the position where separate bills would have to be introduced and put into the Ways and Means Committee to consider other matters. If we wrote the first bill in a great hurry, I think we are writing this one in a greater hurry, and we will probably live to regret it deeply.

How many of us have considered the morality, the rightness, the wrongness of taking some of these taxes away from business and putting them on somebody else's shoulders? All of us know that whatever items business must pay in manufacturing or processing or fabricating, whatever taxes are paid by business are added into the cost of the product. It has got to be added because otherwise there would be no profit in the business and the business would not continue. Somebody is paying these bills, and you and I as purchasers and ultimate consumers and consumers all over the United States are paying these taxes. But what are we doing here? We are not going to help the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by shifting the burden from one group to another. Perhaps we will not even get the revenue. Perhaps it will not be raised unless you adopt a new tax of some kind. Perhaps you will be forcing yourself into enacting a tax on soft drinks or disallowing trade-ins later on.

I think what we should do today and what I am asking you to do is to vote "no" on concurrence, not for the purpose of stopping us from writing a good sales tax act when it is fair and equitable but to write one that will be considered fully, and when it is finally passed will be fair and equitable, and you as well as we will be satisfied that it is. This is not the time to rush a bill like this through the House.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, is the Minority Leader concerned about haste today?

Mr. READINGER. About what?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Haste in the passage of this bill and concurrence in the amendments?

Mr. READINGER. I am concerned about it, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, does the Minority Leader recall the revolutionary manufacturers' excise tax?

Mr. READINGER. I shall never forget it.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Will the Minority Leader refresh the recollection of the new Members as to how many days that was considered by the House of Representatives?

Mr. READINGER. One and a half or two and a half, I guess.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Is it not true that House Bill 337, as amended by the Senate, was on second reading and printed in that form on March 13th? At least, it shows so in the record.

Mr. READINGER. In its present form?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Yes.

Mr. READINGER. I did not see a copy of it until last Wednesday morning, whatever date that was. That was later than the 13th.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Would it not be true—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will inform the gentleman that the bill was in print on March 19th.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Would the Minority Leader not state that the administration is greatly interested in the proceeds from this bill from the 17 categories?

Mr. READINGER. The administration is greatly concerned about them.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Has the administration enlightened the Minority Leader as to the amount to be obtained from each of these 17 categories so that we on this side can get the benefit of that information?

Mr. READINGER. I will answer the gentleman by saying that I have no figures of estimated yield from this bill as now amended.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Does not the Minority Leader think that the administration should give us the full facts, if it has any facts?

Mr. READINGER. I think the administration should always give us facts if it has them, but I doubt at the moment whether it has any facts concerning yields on this bill as amended.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Is the Minority Leader familiar with the interpretation of the word "manufacturing" as it concerns steel companies?

Mr. READINGER. I guess I am about as familiar as the average Member.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Does the gentleman disagree with the Majority Leader to the effect that if a steel billet is made in a plant in the district represented by Representative Filo and then is transferred to another plant of the United States Steel 20 miles away, the resultant product is taxed under regulation today?

Mr. READINGER. I will take the Majority Leader's word that that is the regulation. I am not familiar with it myself.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Thank you, that is all.

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to speak briefly.

The last remark of the Minority Leader is very enlightening. If Mr. Johnson's report that by regulation the processes of manufacturing in the steel industry have been taxed, which is contrary to the sales tax as we passed it, at least that is my interpretation, then today we are having government by bureaucracy. We should have government by legislation. That is the issue today.

Anybody who believes in government by Legislators and not government by bureaucrats should vote "aye" today.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I am afraid I am unimpressed by the ingenious argument of the fine lawyer from Allegheny County, Mr. Goldstein.

I did not at any time say anything, either today or at any other time, indicating I did not think this sales tax bill should be amended. That is the furthest from my thoughts. Frankly, I think it needs amendment. I am objecting to the manner in which this is being done, as well as objecting to some of the proposed amendments written into this bill.

We are again moving with the utmost speed. We are going to write some things into this bill if we do not stop and think and weigh these considerations more thoroughly. There are things in this bill we do not want to see there.

Again I raise the question, who is going to be hurt by giving us adequate time to study and reflect on the amendments to this bill?

The gentleman mentioned the passage of the excise tax bill during the last session. There is one difference. That bill was being passed in the House first, it had not even gone to the Senate, so there was bound to be adequate time to stop and look at it in the Senate, at least. But here we have a bill which we passed in a very minute form and which comes back to us with multiple amendments. Overnight we are supposed to act upon it. If we do act upon it favorably today, this bill will be a finally enacted bill and will go to the Governor's desk.

That is the difference between the passage of the manufacturers' excise tax in such a hurry and the passage of this one.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, there is just one more word I want to say in regard to this bill.

Last Wednesday I sent the page boy down for a copy of this bill and there were no copies of this bill available at that time. I had to take the bill from my book and take it home with me if I wanted to see it. I believe in economy the same as you do, but not to that extent.

Mrs. PASHLEY. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Majority Leader a question?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mrs. PASHLEY. Will the majority agree to a Conference Committee in view of the fact that charitable and religious institutions and private schools are not included in these amendments?

These institutions, hospitals and private schools, save for the Commonwealth millions of dollars. The citizens who support these institutions, I feel, are entitled to some tax relief as well as the manufacturers.

Mr. JOHNSON. The lady's question is, would we agree to send this bill to a conference committee so that amendments can be put in to exempt religious organizations, is that the question?

Mrs. PASHLEY. That is right.

Mr. JOHNSON. Today we have the bill before us with amendments. They are before us for concurrence, and I am asking the House to vote for the bill as is and concur in the amendments.

Mrs. PASHLEY. That would eliminate these institutions completely?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, there is nothing that will stop any Member from putting in an appropriate bill to exempt anybody. As I say, it can be referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

I would recommend to the lady that she introduce a bill embodying the principles she has set forth.

Mrs. PASHLEY. I believe there is a bill in now. I would like some assurance that it would come out.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NOT VOTING—7

Erb,	Jones, G. E.,	Monroe,	Wood,
Fineman,	Mihm,	Mullen,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

The SPEAKER. The Chair at this time would like to thank the membership of the House for the splendid order and the intelligent debate during the consideration of the amendments on the tax bill.

The Chair would like to inform the Members that it is the desire of the Chair to clear the first and second reading calendars and the desk before adjournment for the day. We hope we can have the business of the day completed by six o'clock.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 860, entitled:

An Act creating a Highway Investigation Commission for the purpose of making a study and investigation of all activities of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways and making an appropriation.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 319, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public Utility Law" approved May 28, 1937 (P. L. 1053) providing additional standards for the determination of rates of common carriers of passengers by motor vehicle.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 395, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) providing for approval to erect traffic signs and changing the definition of the term "school zone."

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 400, entitled:

An Act amending the "Uniform Acknowledgement Act" approved July 24, 1941 (P. L. 490) deleting the reference to "Philippine Islands" the reference to "homestead" and the requirement that certain acknowledgements taken without the State be authenticated.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 402, entitled:

An Act amending the act of December 14, 1854 (1855 P. L. 724) entitled "An act relating to the authentication of Letters of Attorney Protests of Notaries Public * * *" authorizing deeds executed and acknowledged out of State to be recorded * * *.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 403, entitled:

An Act to validate certain acknowledgements and to regulate the effect thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 439, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission to acquire by gift on behalf of the Commonwealth the property known as Graeme Park in Horsham Township Montgomery County * * * and making an appropriation.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations for the purpose of further study.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 454, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) further regulating the size of motor buses and motor omnibuses

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 573, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) exempting veterans who served in the armed forces of the United States during any period of war or armed conflict and lost eyesight as a result of such service from fees charged for certificates of title or registration.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations for the purpose of further study.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 590, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor to acquire a certain tract of land adjacent to Shippensburg State Teachers College in Cumberland County and making an appropriation.

The first section was read.

On the question,

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1957. 142nd of the General Assembly.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1957. No. 29.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 26, 1957

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE I. MELHORN, Pastor of the Moxham Lutheran Church, Johnstown, offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, Father of all creation and the great Architect of the Universe, we bow today before Thy sovereign power. We are the creatures of Thy creation, and Thou holdest in Thy hands our lives. We live this day and each day of our lives only by Thy permission.

Too often we forget that Thou are Lord of all. We invoke Thy special favor this day on these the Senators of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Grant that they may be able and willing to forget self and intent and purpose, and think wholly of following Thy divine guidance and direction.

Guide all our lives, we pray Thee, that they may be acceptable in Thy sight; that in all our thoughts, words and deeds, we may be given wholly to serving Thee and that our lives might reflect Thy guidance and direction.

We offer these, our prayers, in the Name of Jesus Christ, Thy Son our Lord, Who liveth and reigneth with the Father and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read and Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. PECHAN and Mr. KALMAN, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

SENIOR CLASS OF MYERSTOWN HIGH SCHOOL PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, I would like to present to the Chair, and to the Members of the Senate, a very fine group of young men and young ladies, comprising the Senior Class of Myerstown High School. They are here with Professor Harvey L. Nitrauer, the Supervising Principal of Myerstown High School; Mr. Dwight C. Fake, teacher; and Mr. Harold G. Yeagley, of the Social Studies Department.

The PRESIDENT. Will the class please stand? The Chair, on behalf of the Members of the Senate, welcomes this group here. I just had word from the press section that they say it is the best looking group that has appeared here in the Senate during this Session. I had the pleasure of meeting them this morning in my office and to talk to them. We are certainly glad that they are here to visit with us, and I hope they can stay for the entire Session.

STUDENTS FROM CHAMBERSBURG PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. ELLIOTT. Mr. President and fellow Senators, I am not quite the vote getter that Senator Ehrgood is but I do have four of my good, young friends from Chambersburg, Franklin County, here today. They represent, by themselves, four different schools.

I would like to call your attention to the fact that they have certainly honored me and I hope you will feel the same way by their attendance here today.

The PRESIDENT. Will these distinguished visitors please stand?

On behalf of the Members of the Senate, we also extend to you our cordial welcome, and we hope you will be able to stay with us for the whole Session.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

JOINT SESSION

March 26, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

If it meets with the approval of the General Assembly, I should like to address the members in Joint Session today, March 26, 1957, at three p. m.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION JOINT SESSION

Mr. WHALLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WHALLEY offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, March 26, 1957.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That the Senate and House of Representatives meet in Joint Session Tuesday, March 26, 1957, at 3:00 p. m., in the Hall of the House of Representatives for the purpose of hearing an address by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION ADOPTED

Mr. WHALLEY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the resolution just read by the Clerk.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I am quite willing to vote "aye" on this resolution, but I hope that the Governor, in being our guest at this Joint Session of the Legislature, will act like a guest.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I am sure the Governor will not only act as a guest, but as a good host.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Senator Mahany, could you tell us just how you would have the Governor act and what his actions should be, after your description of him as a guest?

Mr. MAHANY. I thought you would know how a guest should act when he goes into the house of someone who has invited him there; that is, to be polite, to be courteous and to be respectful of the fellow who invites him.

Mr. LANE. I wanted to know the Republican definition. I thought possibly it might be that you might be sensitive and be afraid of just a little criticism.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would, of course, defend the gentleman's right to make any comment which is critical of the Governor or any other person after the event.

However, the remarks of the gentleman seem to me to be anticipating that the Governor has some intention of acting in an improper manner as the guest of this Legislature.

I would like to ask the gentleman, Mr. President, whether to his knowledge, at any time in the past when the Governor has been a guest of the Legislature, the gentleman can cite any instance in which the Governor has acted in any other manner but a proper one and as a gentleman would act.

Mr. MAHANY. It has usually been the custom for the Governor to send over an advance copy of his speech to me. I usually receive that in the morning in order for me to prepare some answer to it. We had the understanding that would be his policy.

Today, that speech is conspicuous by its absence. I have also been told by certain newspapermen, who evidently have some advance notice of what the Governor is going to say, that he is going to take the means of this Joint Session to give us some kind of a reprimand and dress us down for something which we have done.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, if the Governor, at the Joint Session, gives what, in his opinion, is an honest criticism of the actions of this Legislature, it hardly seems to me that the gentleman on the other side, even though he may disagree with what the Governor says, has any right to imply that this is in any way an improper action or that he is acting in a manner in which one who is a guest should not act. The Governor, obviously, has a reason for calling this Joint Session.

The Governor in the past, I submit, has always acted properly. The gentleman from Crawford has offered us no instance in the past where the Governor has acted in any other manner. My personal opinion is that the gentleman has spoken in taste rather lower than one is accutomed to hearing from this distinguished gentleman in making this inference on the floor today.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, after listening to the Majority Leader's last statement, it is indicative to me that it appears the Majority Leader has more or less a guilty conscience.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, it just shows how these fellows on the other side can twist a man's words around. All I asked the Governor to do is to treat us as any guest would when they enter our house. From that, they jumped to all kinds of conclusions and all that sort of thing. I am willing to let the record stand as it is until after we hear the speech.

The only thing I wanted to point out was that the Governor did not send me over an advance copy of his speech as he has always done before. Therefore, Mr. President, I have a right to anticipate that there is something in his speech about which he might be ashamed. Let us allow him to come before us and if what I anticipate is true, then he will hear further from me after the Joint Session.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I can feel for the gentleman in going to a meeting with some foreboding. I certainly hope his conduct has not been such as to make him feel that there is some reason for him not to go to this meeting or be treated other than the way he has been treated in the past.

I also think that Senator Mahany's anticipatory remarks cannot lead to any kind of feeling on his part, and the gentlemen under his leadership, to listen to anything which the Governor has to say today with an open mind. It might very well be that the Governor is not going to criticize, but rather perhaps make recommendations on what has already been done. Of course, if the gentleman feels that some of his actions in the past are the type which should be criticized or that certain recommendations should be made, I think he is intelligent enough to let the record be made by the Governor before he makes any remarks.

I think it is a little unfair to any person, who is invited as a guest, to make any kind of remarks about them prior to having heard what they have to say and prior to observing their conduct, especially if their conduct in the past has always been above approach and exemplary.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

JOINT SESSION

In the Senate, March 26, 1957.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Senate and House of Representatives meet in joint session Tuesday, March 26, 1957, at 3:00 p.m., in the Hall of the House of Representatives for the purpose of hearing an address by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

COMMITTEE TO ESCORT THE GOVERNOR TO THE HALL OF THE HOUSE

Mr. WHALLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WHALLEY offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 26, 1957.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That a committee of three on the part of the Senate be appointed to act with a similar committee on the part of the House of Representatives (if the House shall appoint such committee), to escort His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, to the Hall of the House of Representatives to address the members of the General Assembly in Joint Session, pursuant to a resolution already adopted by the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

COMMITTEE TO ESCORT THE GOVERNOR TO THE HALL OF THE HOUSE

In the Senate, March 26, 1957.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That a committee of three on the part of the Senate be appointed to act with a similar committee on the part of the House of Representatives (if the House shall appoint such committee), to escort His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, to the Hall of the House of Representatives to address the members of the General Assembly in Joint Session, pursuant to a resolution already adopted by the Senate and the House of Representatives.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO ESCORT THE GOVERNOR TO THE HALL OF THE HOUSE

The PRESIDENT. The Chair announces, on behalf of the President pro tempore, the appointment of the following committee, pursuant to the resolution just adopted by the Senate and the House of Representatives: the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Watson; the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Watkins; and the gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I wish to prevail upon the President pro tempore to appoint Senator Mahany as one of the Members to escort the Governor to the hall of the House.

The PRESIDENT. Does the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane, wish to confer with the President pro tempore?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, the President pro tempore was successful in one appointment for me, and I do not want him to take another risk.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SILVERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I will open my remarks by reading one sentence from an article which appeared in the New York Times, dated March 3, 1957:

"Massachusetts college students will become eligible tomorrow to invest in their own futures on easy terms."

Mr. President, the bill I am about to introduce is patterned after this Massachusetts act. It creates a corporation to be known as the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Authority. This nonprofit corporation would be eligible to receive grants from business firms and philanthropic individuals. The money so received will be used not to give money away, but to lend it to worth-while students who have proven their competence in their first year of college.

A student who is competent would be permitted to borrow from this corporation $500 a year and do so for three years, to the extent of $1,500. He would sign a note, bearing a low rate of interest, on which he would promise to repay this money as soon after he graduates as possible.

Mr. President, the donors to this fund would have tax exemptions on the amount donated. The State would absolutely guarantee nothing; it is the corporation which woud lend the money and guarantee the loans made by banks.

I am presenting this bill, Mr. President, on behalf of my Good Friend, Senator Ehrgood, and myself.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. SILVERT and EHRGOOD read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 467, entitled:

An Act creating the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Authority; defining its powers and duties; conferring powers and imposing duties on the Governor, President pro tempore of the Senate, Speaker of the House of Representatives, Superintendent of Public Instruction, President of Pennsylvania State University, and the Department of Banking.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the Chair declares a fifteen-minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Robert D. Fleming) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

At the request of the President pro tempore, the Honorable M. Harvey Taylor, the Chair is presiding.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHANY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, a short time ago we witnessed a very unusual proceeding. The Governor again addressed a Joint Session of the Legislature. Since I have been here in Harrisburg, since 1943, I think Governor Leader has found occasion to address more Joint Sessions of the Legislature than any other Governor. I am quite sure he probably will be back time and time again to address other Joint Sessions of the Legislature. This is a very unusual proceeding, especially since today's Session was caused by him wanting to come over and talk to us about a tax bill which we have already passed.

Mr. President, I think the next move is up to the Governor. The Governor can either sign the bill, he can veto the bill or he can let the bill become law within ten days without his signature.

It is also unusual that the Governor talked to us today before he found out what he wanted to talk about. He said, in general terms, that there was something wrong with the sales tax bill and that he would give us a bill of particuars later on in the week. I cannot understand why the Governor did not wait until he had his bill of particulars so that he could have been more specific as to what he thought was wrong with the bill before he asked us to recall it. He did become specific in a little artifice here, which somebody in his office cooked up, to spring into the newspaper release a couple of specific items. He thought they would probably stand out and the newspapermen would probably put this in a box on the front page of the newspaper. I think that was probably artfully contrived by somebody over in the Governor's Office. He, therefore, did become specific on a couple of items.

He said that if you want to paint your house, your furniture or barn, you pay the tax. Well, that is true. I would say that you must pay the tax on that paint under the present law. You had to pay the tax under the old Sales Tax Act which we put on the books back in 1956, under which we are still operating. Then the Governor said that if you are a utility and you buy paint for your real estate, you do not pay the tax. This, I say, is untrue. I do not know who informed the Governor about that, but I say that is not true.

If a utility paints it shed or office or something like that, then it must pay the tax. However, if the utility buys paint to paint a tower or something which is used in the transmission of the utility services, then that is part of the rendition of the utility service and I would say, on that occasion, they would not have to pay the tax on that paint. However, suppose we did force the utilities to pay a tax on the paint and the other things which they use in the transmission of utility services—paint is a very small item and does not bring in very much—such as the Governor evidently would like to do. what would the utility do relative to the increased cost? Taxes are part of the cost as computed by the utility in asking for rate increases. Very shortly, they would come in and ask for a rate increase. Your railroad fares would have to go up; your electric light bills would have to go up; your water bills and all the other things which we commonly refer to as utilities; those things we buy from utilities, would have to increase in price. That extra expense would have to be added onto the consumers. Who are the consumers? On the average, they are the so-called little men, as the Governor refers to them. I call them the average citizens. They are people like you and I who have to pay the electric light bill, the telephone bill and the gas bill and all the other bills in connection with utilities. Therefore, our bills would be higher.

In addition to that, Mr. President, we do have industries in the State of Pennsylvania that buy electricity and gas. Their bills would be boosted and they, in turn, would have to raise the price of their products. However, in the meantime, what would happen as a result of this? As a result, the power bills would be increased and, again, industry certainly would not be attracted into Pennsylvania and surely the industry we already have here would not expand.

One of the chief reasons which the Universal Cyclops gave for not expanding in Pennsylvania and going over into Ohio was because of the power rates in Ohio being smaller than the power rates in Pennsylvania. Would Governor Leader have us increase yet more the power rates in Pennsylvania, and make Pennsylvania a less advantageous State, in which to have industry locate?

The next thing the Governor became specific about was if you are a small businesman and you buy a truck to use in your business, you pay the tax. I would say that is correct. I think in my little lumber business up in Titusville, we will no doubt have to pay a tax on the trucks when we buy them. I will say this to Governor Leader. We will get credit for any trade-ins which we have, and that is contrary to the report of the recommendations of his Tax Study Commission which did not want to allow trade-ins. The little fellow, for whom he bleeds every once in awhile, will get the credit for trade-ins on the cars which he turns in when he buys his new cars. The little fellow surely would not have received that had we accepted the recommendations of the Governor's Tax Study Committee. At the present time and as far as I know, as far as this Session is concerned and, perhaps, in the future, the little fellow certainly will not have to pay tax on the clothing which he buys. He will not have to pay tax on the shoes he wears. If Governor Leader and the commission had their way, the average citizen would be paying tax on clothing and on shoes, and my good friend, Johnny Dent, would have been able to come out here with his shoe boxes again and demonstrate now, since the Governor came out for it, how fair it might be for the little fellow to pay taxes on shoes.

Again, Mr. President, the Governor becomes specific and he says, "If you are a big shipbulding company and you buy a truck, you do not pay the tax." Well, I do not know who gave him that interpretation. We did exclude from the provisions of this sales tax the things that go toward making up the building of a ship. I suppose the steel, the wires and all of the other paraphernalia and so forth which goes into a ship are now exempt. However, I do not believe that Governor Leader or anybody else could show where we have exempted the trucks which are used by, we will say, the managers or the trucks which are used in the yard that are not directly used or consumed in a shipbuilding project.

On page 10 of the bill, in the manufacturing process, it provides specifically that:

"The exclusions," under the manufacturing process as set forth in paragraphs 1 and 2 of the Act, "shall not apply to any vehicle required to be registered under the vehicle code or the tractor code or to maintenance facilities."

Under paragraph 3, which is related to utilities, we did exempt from the payment of the sales tax, the vehicles which are used by the utilities in maintaining their services. For instance, the repair trucks or the linemen's trucks which are used when they go out and check the wiring are exempt. However, the car or the truck which is used by the manager, or which is used by the bill collectors or the office staff, all will be subject to the sales tax.

I do not know what other examples the Governor has, but if the other examples which he has relative to this tax are as false and misleading as the ones which he has given us in this separate handout, then I do not believe that he knows, as yet, what the bill provides. I do not believe it is fair or equitable for him to come forward and give us a lot of misleading information and try to mislead the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as to the incidence of the sales tax which we have passed.

Mr. President, it appears to me that in spite of what the Governor has said, he still does not like the sales tax. He would prefer some other tax such as a wage tax. Certainly, he should have been fed up with that one when he tried for seventeen months to force it down our throats at the last Session. Just about everybody in the State of Pennsylvania was opposed to it. To show that we were right and he was wrong at that particular time, his own Tax Study Commission came out with the finding that the sales tax hit the average citizen, the little fellow, a lot less than the income tax which he proposed.

I would say to Governor Leader that he has a job to do, and that is to either sign this bill, veto it or let it lie there on his desk for ten days and let it become law without his signature.

Instead of making these long speeches and findings fault with our bill, I would also suggest to the Governor that if he needs further revenue he put in some bills, through his Minority Leader in the House, Mr. Readinger. I would like to find out what kind of a tax bill the Governor would favor at this time. Evidently, he would not put in another clasified tax as he did before, because that certainly did not meet with very good reception, even among the Democrats.

However, Mr. President, if Governor Leader has some kind of a sales tax which he would like to propose, I would like to have his consultants, and the other people who seem to have control over him, write up a good sales tax and have Mr. Readinger introduce it in the House. Then let us look at the kind of a sales tax the Governor would propose. If he would not like to propose a sales tax, let him propose some other kind of a tax and have it introduced in the House.

I believe my friend, Senator Dent, in a newspaper interview, stated that he thought it was up to the Governor to propose taxes to meet any additional revenue which the Governor would like to have. So far, the Governor has stayed about as far away from sponsoring or advocating tax legislation as anyone could get. I suggest to the Governor and his advisors that evidently is because he has a very good plan to come out for political office next year. I think Governor Leader has his eye fixed on somebody's seat down in the United States Senate. I think that is probably the reason he comes forward with all of these misleading, misguided bits of information. It appears to me that again he is on his white horse, charging around. He is making about as many false statements now as he did when he was a candidate for Governor, and we have found that he made many of them at that particular time. I did not think it was possible for one man to fool the majority of the people of Pennsylvania twice in his lifetime, but evidently Governor Leader is trying to make a second effort.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I would like to start off by saying that a great French philosopher once said something about the right to say what you have to say. He said, "I may disagree with what you say, but I will fight to the death for your right to say it."

It appears that my worthy Republican Floor Leader objects not only to what the Governor said, but questions his right to say it. He is very much upset because the Governor has come before this General Assembly more times than any Governor in his political career. I might ask the gentleman from Crawford whether he can remember, in his political career, when we had the same situation which prevails today at any time; when we had a Governor of one political party and a General Assembly of an antagonistic political party.

Now having that situation and appealing as he has tried to appeal to this majority in the House and Senate for reasonableness in its determinations, and having failed to receive that cooperation through his spokesmen in both the House and the Senate, he is left no other alternative except to appeal directly to the Membership of the General Assembly. I do not believe it is so much the fact that he spoke to us that aggravated my worthy colleague on the other side, but rather the fact that he said something when he did speak.

I do not believe that the gentleman on the other side puts his interpretation of the Act up against the interpretation of the Attorney General, who must, in the final analysis, determine the final regulations that will be put into effect pursuant to this Act of the Legislature.

I am awfully sorry if he has not read the section dealing with shipbuilding. If what he wants to do, or says that he wants to do, regarding shipbuilding is exactly what he would like to have, then he should have left the bill alone. We had already exempted anything used in the repair or the building of a ship. However Senator, if you will read the bill, you will find that there is one feature pertaining to shipbuilding that does not pertain to any other activity in the State of Pennsylvania. You have removed the word "directly" used in shipbuilding and repair and have allowed to be tax-free anything used in shipbuilding and repair regardless of whether it is directly used or not. Therefore, if you use an automobile and your company is building ships or repairing them, you are tax-exempt. Also, if you use paint brushes or anything else or, as I have said before on occasion, screwdrivers, you are exempt if you are a shipbuilder, but if you are a homeowner, you are not exempt. So, the Governor's interpretation was not wrong. It is exactly the Act as it is written.

Now you put out a very telling story about utilities and I know that you meant what you said, but you failed to realize one thing. You ought to read the financial papers a little more, Senator, and you ought to read what is happening in the utility field in Pennsylvania. For instance, one company comes to mind, the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company who just recently announced, in its financial statement, that in 1956 their earnings were $3.38 per share earnings as against $2.96 in the year of 1955. Do you know how many millions of dollars that is in greater earnings to the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company over the year of 1955? Have you seen any proposal to the Public Utilities Commission by the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company to reduce its rates to the consumers of Pennsylvania Power and Light services in the amount they have earned over and above 1955?

You spoke of the Cyclops, and you honestly said that Cyclops' greatest reason for moving, its primary reason not for moving but for extending its facilities into the State of Ohio was because of the power charges, although you failed to tell this Membership of the Senate that the power charges are cheaper in Ohio, but that the power companies pay $150,000,000 more in taxes in Ohio than what they pay in Pennsylvania. Now that, to me, is a peculiar situation, sir, where the taxes are higher and the power rates are lower.

Ever since I have been a Member of this Senate, I have heard the cry that if you tax utilities, if you tax railroads, they will, in turn, put it onto the people. You fail to ever take into consideration the watered stock setup; the situation whereby they can earn a difference, for instance, of forty-two cents per share on a $2.96 stock dividend. Now I want to ask you, as an old stockholder of fine repute, that is a pretty fair increase in income, but have they reduced rates to the peoples and, yet, have they paid their share of taxes?

Now you just cannot keep whittling away and taking all taxes from business and industry, and utilities and shipbuilders, and put the load on the people. I have tried time and time again to demonstrate upon this floor that when I first came here, industry and business paid approximately eighty per cent of the tax load. Today industry and business pay aproximately, under your Act, twenty-seven per cent of the tax load. When that budget was $485,000,000, industry paid eighty per cent; the people paid approximately twenty. Now that the budget is $1,500,000,000, the people pay seventy-three and industry pays twenty-seven. It just is disproportionate.

In the matter of levying taxes, I think it was Chief Justice Marshall who once said, "The power to tax is the power to destroy." Now you cannot keep crying about industry and then put the load upon people just because industry gives jobs.

Let me give you some past history about job-giving. I was born and reared in a small, coal mining town for the junior years of my lifetime. My father had a job; yes, he did. He had a job with a coal company for which he should have been grateful. However, at the end of the month, when they got through charging him for carbide, lamps, augers and bits, and they got through charging us at the company store for the food that we ate, my father had a job but he never had anything else. Thousands upon thousands of other coal miners were in the same position, and in the steel industry it was the same.

Now we have come away from that. We have come away from that because, by this type of action, they forced the advent of labor unions which went out and fought for higher wages and better conditions for their membership. What are we trying to do? Are we trying to go back to that same particular philosophy through the means of taxation? Are we going to give jobs and then take out of the payroll the whole $1,500,000,000 to operate Pennsylvania? Are we going to say, "Yes, we will create jobs." What is industry saying today in some of this competitive market that we are in? They say, "Yes, we will come to your community. Build us a plant, give us a plant, reduce the taxes to a bare minimum, build roads into our plant and remove us from all taxing authority." What have you done? You have taken the machinery in Pennsylvania out of the real estate taxes by an Act passed by a Republican Legislature, signed by a Republican Governor. Now you are going to take the capital stock tax completely off of manufacturing concerns in the Commonwealth. You are going to take $8,000,000 worth of excise and mortgage loan taxes off of industry in the State of Pennsylvania, and you are going to remove them completely from the sales tax, if you can.

What happens, Senator? Do we build the plants to give people work and let them pay for the plants? When do we get to some kind of an understanding of the proportionate rights of those who build the plants and work in them, as against the dividends received by those who put their money into the companies?

If you want me to, I wil be glad to read you the financial statements of Bethlehem Steel, United States Steel, Gulf Oil, Pure Oil, St. Regis Paper and hundreds of other companies that I have made it my business to gather in the last month. If you want to see the difference between the stockholders' equity in 1954, 1955 and 1956, I will be glad to read them to you, but then let us measure on the other side of the fence. Let us go and measure the employees' equity in those three periods working for the same companies. There must be a sense of balance. No person on this side wants to destroy industry or the incentive to create jobs but, by the same token, we do not believe that you have to lay the entire burden of taxation upon the shoulders of the people.

Senator, people are what make industry go. They are what make everything go. The people themselves are the only purpose of government. There is nothing in the Constitution of these United States that sets the rights of property above the rights of the peoples, and are the peoples not the ones for whom we create governments? Why and when do we start to get to the philosophy of taxing only the people and allowing other wealth-producing machines—remember we, the people, are wealth-producing machines. A man out swinging a pick ought to be just as valuable as the pick itself. Certainly if you remove, and you do, mind you, you remove the tax from the pick because in the little dialogue that went on on the floor last week concerning the coal mining industry, it was more or less of a comedy in a way but they were working out a Gallagher and Shean act—they were introducing into comments the intent which they did not have the courage to write into the bill at that time. However, they want it clearly understood, if it is taken to court, that the pick that that man uses must be exempted from tax, but the man himself, who swings the pick, is not exempted from tax.

Senator, you might have all the logic you want in the world and you might think that you have Governor Leader right against the wall where, as you said, he must either sign the bill, veto it or let it become law without signature. That is not much of a choice for the Governor. The Governor has come to this group, in the first instance, with an olive branch in his hand. He named a Tax Study Commission, and the Tax Study Commision recommended certain things. The Governor, against every inclination of his own and against every philosophy that he has ever expounded on the matter of taxation, stood before the General Assembly and said to you, "I will accept whatever tax you send me if it is equitable, if it meets the revenue base, and I suggest to you that the recommendations of this bipartisan Tax Commission show you the way to create the necessary revenues." Nowhere in the Tax Study Commission did they say that you have to keep clipping away and taking away certain tax sources that are now in existence. I cannot stand here, Senator, and I do not think any of my colleagues can sit idly by and watch you remove from the area of taxation a great source of revenue with the ability to pay, and place that burden on a narrow source of taxation, a narrower area of taxation which does not have the ability to pay.

You can say that your position is good. You are going to be adamant. You will not allow us to look at the bill. You would not allow us into your committee meetings. I want to say, here for the record, that the committee system of Pennsylvania's General Assembly is a farce. That is why I refuse to serve on any committee. It is nothing but a plain, everyday farce. It means absolutely nothing. The full Committee on Finance never knew anything about the amendments until the day they were called into the "Love Nest" and handed the amendments and were told, "This is it," by the chairman and that has been it. No one has been allowed to cross a "t" or do an "i".

Nou you say to the Governor, who has asked you to recall the bill—in my lifetime of twenty-two years in this body, this is the first time I have ever witnessed a situation where there has been a blunt refusal to consider the Governor's wishes on the recall of a piece of legislation. He did not ask you to recall it to scrap it. He asked you to recall it and put it in a Conference Committee so that we may work out some solution. Are you to say that there is nothing wrong with this bill; that the Governor has not at least the right to ask you to let his members sit in on the deliberations? We are not so far apart, gentlemen. There are twenty-three of us over here and twenty-seven over there. That is not so far apart.

I have seen so many times in this General Assembly when we have had more consideration for not only each other, but for the Chief Justice of this Commonwealth. I have not always liked your Governors. I have served under four of them, but I have never taken the position that they were so wholly wrong that I would not sit down with them and try to discuss the problems affecting the Commonwealth.

I do not want to get into the position of saying to you that you ought to recall the bill if you have made up your mind that you will not recall it. I do not kown what the Governor is going to do. I have not discussed it with him. I do not know whether he has decided to sign it but if he signs it, as a citizen I will live with it and I know that every other decent citizen will live with the bill. Every other citiezn in this State, and especially those that will be compelled to pay this tax, will not join a collusion to nonpay the tax.

I want to say to the Membership of this Senate right now that if I were the Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania, I would start tomorrow morning and I would assess every corporation, utility and person in this State that has refused to obey the law of the Commonwealth. If necessary, I would prosecute, because the little housewife has paid her tax to the best of her ability and the little worker has paid his tax to the best of his ability, but the big corporations, the utilities and the shipbuilding companies have refused to pay their share of the taxes of this Commonwealth. The $100,000,000 that we are short, we are short just as much because of a refusal to obey the law on the part of these peoples as it is because of the fact that we have been unable, unable and I say it advisedly, to arrive because of the various committees and protests that have been made every time that they issue a regulation—that confusion has existed.

Let me just tell you something. This bill is by name a selective, categorical tax bill and the purpose behind it was twofold; one was so that we could subscribe to the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, because I am of the humble opinion that if a screwdriver is taxed to an individual in this State, it will have to be taxed to whomever buys it and on that premise I say that this bill is unconstitutional. There is nothing in the Constitution that allows any subject to be taxed to one and not taxed to another; that if there are any features of taxation, they must be equal upon all the taxpayers. So, the categorical idea was born; that we could in Pennsylvania, under our Constitution, specify the items to be taxed and then no matter who bought that particular item, it would be taxed. That is the secret of the categorical, selective tax. But what happened? We had a Democratic House and a Republican Senate, and in order to get some kind of legislation through after seventeen months, we had to concede certain points and we allowed you to put into this particular bill exemptions which were wrong, and therein lies the whole trouble with this tax bill, the exemptions, the exemptions in the bill.

I have said on the floor and I will make the offer again. You go along and state publicly that you will endorse the California-type of a general sales tax in Pennsylvania and I will not only vote for it, but I will fight to the last drop of my blood for its passage and in so doing, I will stand on the floor and demand certain removal of industrial taxes because they will be paying their tax through the medium of the sales tax.

I will be more than happy to work with any of you on a general sales tax that will hit everybody equally, regardless of whether they be big corporate interests or the little housewife. I will support that legislation and I will support a reduction in direct taxes to industry. However, Mr. President, I will not support selective reductions; I will not support legislation that removes the capital stock tax from manufacturing industries alone and allows thousands upon thousands of other industries in this State, which are non-manufacturing, to pay the tax because they, too, provide employment. They, too, provide revenue for the Commonwealth and sustain the lifeblood of this State. I will not go along with that kind of selective business.

I say to you that we will fight and stay right with you for a good sales tax bill. You know that deep down, inherently in my system I am against sales taxes, but I have the courage and I had the courage to vote for it two years ago. I will vote for it again if it is right and equitable. Whether the Governor vetoes it or not is a matter of his own conscience. However, after the shabby treatment he is receiving from this group, if he does not veto it, then he is lesser of a fighter than I think he is. It is only because fighters throughout the lifetime of the human race have had the courage to stand up and fight against injustice that justice prevails. If we would allow injustice to prevail because we had not the courage to fight, then injustice would rule the day. Those who have the strength to conquer would be the only ones who would survive. Laws are made for all peoples and taxes must be paid by all peoples. I do not know what the Governor will do. I can only say to the Membership of this Senate that if he asks me my opinion, I will tell him frankly and bluntly that he should veto the bill because he has an organization which will not consider his wishes, who will not sit down and try to compromise, and who will not try to make the kind of a bill out of this that we could all vote for and which presently will not bring in sufficient revenues to meet the State's needs.

The entire program in this General Assembly today is this. Cut away, cut away at the revenues; increase, increase the expenditures. Later on, we will come to a bill whereby we will cut another cent from highway funds. However, at the same time, I might announce to you that I have made a little counting this afternoon. There have been more highway building bills introduced by individual Members of this Senate and passed than ever before in the history of Pennsylvania to build more roads, but yet you take the money from the Highway Fund with which to build them. That is another one of the schemes that we are in.

We are trying to work with you, but you will not let us work with you. You say to us, "You will not vote for this bill and, therefore, put your own bill in." We tried that. We offered our version of an income tax bill and you defeated it and, in fact, you laughed at it. I do not know whether the defeat hurt as much as the laugh, but you did. Then we put in a manufacturer's excise tax bill, which is a sales tax at the source, and the only sound method of taxing any kind of an excise. I want to say to you that when the final day comes, when we have the courage to write the kind of laws which this State demands and needs, you will find the basic tax of this Commonwealth to be an excise sales tax bill at the source, and not at the last retail juncture.

Canada just recently turned down an amendment to its excise tax bill which was the pattern for the one introduced here. They recently turned down, by an overwhelming vote, an amendment which would have shifted the tax base from the manufacturers' platform to the wholesalers' warehouse. Their arguments against that particular amendment were the same arguments that I have given to you on this floor. If you want a sound tax base, go back at the source. How many men in this room know that you pay a Federal excise tax on automobiles? How many of you, when you go to buy a car, have any idea how much that excise tax is? You do not know. However, Mr. President, you do hear the squealing when they say, "Ninety dollars for State sales tax." Yet, that may only be thirty per cent of the excise tax amount which is applied by the Federal Government.

I am not going to argue for a new tax bill tonight, because you will not accept any other kind of a tax. I think Senator Mahany was smugly not being honest this afternoon when he said to us, "Have the Governor put his own bill in." What for, just for the exercise? He does not need any exercise. You know that you will not vote for any bill. We gave you two bills and I have a third one. Do you want it? We will have aonther tax bill. Will you tell me this afternoon that you will support another set of tax laws if I tell you what they are? I will even tell you now. I can find another tax source more equitable than this monstrosity and I will tell you what it would be. It would be a tax equal upon all of us, based upon the net return to the Federal Government. There would be no problem of administration; there would be no question of cheating. You would not need an army of collectors and you would receive the money. However, I bet you would not vote for that, Senator Mahany.

I do not know of any other item and I do not think that you have heard one Member on the Democratic side get up on this floor and advocate a tax on shoes. Why do you insinuate that we are asking for a tax on shoes? As far as the shoe box is concerned, you just put a tax on shoes and I will bring them in here by the carloads.

You also said something about the great tax relief being given to the little fellow because when he buys a car, his trade-in car is not taxed. We did not ask you to tax it. Are you trying to put out your version of our version of a tax bill? All we asked you to do was to increase this tax one per cent, if that is what you wanted to do.

You are in full authority; the Governor said so. If that is what you want, go ahead and do it. However, at the same time, do not try to kid both your colleagues in the Senate and the people of Pennsylvania into believing that you can exempt from the tax bill taxpayers, and still gain a greater amount of revenue. You just cannot work that way. If that were true, we would exempt all the taxpayers and we would have a lot more money than what we need.

INTERROGATION

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I certainly will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Have you been in conference with the Majority Leader in the House of Representatives since you heard the Governor's speech?

Mr. MAHANY. I talked to Mr. Johnson this morning, around twelve o'clock.

Mr. BARR. I asked whether you spoke to him since the Governor's speech.

Mr. MAHANY. Since the Governor's speech, no; I have not, Senator.

Mr. BARR. Thank you very much. That is all.

I just want to say that your thinking and his are going on two different roads. I was going through the House of Representatives with Senator Fleming and since that time I have called over there and received what Mr. Johnson had to say. Mr. Johnson's criticism of the Governor is not that he came over to make a speech. His criticism is that he did not call you fellows in.

Are you willing to be called into the Governor's office? Are you, and your leaders over there, willing to be called into the Governor's office on this bill?

Mr. MAHANY. Senator Barr, I have yet to refuse to go over to the Governor's office when His Excellency has asked me to come over. I always go.

If the Governor will telephone me or, through you, invite me to come over there, I will go any time.

Mr. BARR. Thank you very much.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARR asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, the gentleman was complaining that this legal document would not be here for several days. I suppose he is probably aware of how bills go and that bill has not even yet reached the Governor's office.

I think the gentleman should be told that the Attorney General of this State went home to bed yesterday with a very bad virus at two o'clock. He came back this afternoon, not physically fit, to prepare this bill of particulars and will have it in your hands by noon on Thursday.

I still think it is a waste of time, effort and money because so many fellows on the Republican side told me they have not even read House Bill No. 337. I hope when he gets it over here, you will hold a little school and let those who have not read it read it.

INTERROGATION

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Dent just one question. Would he be in favor of taxing shipbuilding in the State of Pennsylvania when all other states, which have shipbuilding plants, exempt them from the sales tax?

Mr. DENT. The answer to that, Senator, is contained in the record. I voted for the sales tax bill last year and we exempted shipbuilding. Therefore, my answer to you is, "No, I would not be in favor of taxing shipbuilding as such."

Mr. WATKINS. Senator Dent, if you voted that way last year and you feel that way this year, then may I ask you why you have cried and used it for a theme song for the last three or four days in the Senate of Pennsylvania? If you feel that they should not be taxed, then why are you saying they should be taxed now? Why do you want them taxed so much now?

Mr. DENT. Senator, I said that if you will remove the further exemptions which we are giving to shipbuilding and not giving to any other industry in the Commonwealth under this bill, I certainly would have nothing to say. It is the further exemptions which they have been given that I object to.

I do not think that you honestly believe me when I tell you that they have exempted screwdrivers. If your shipbuilding company buys screwdrivers, they have them exempted, but if I buy a screwdriver they have not exempted it.

Mr. WATKINS. May I ask you whether you are sure that screwdrivers are exempt? Is it just your version of it or is it the Attorney General's version that screwdrivers are exempt? I am not too sure they are exempt.

Mr. DENT. There is nothing which I can say to you to change your opinion on that matter. The Attorney General has said that screwdrivers are exempt to shipbuilders.

It might be interesting to know that your Sun Ship Building Company is doing very well at the moment. As I understand it, from their annual report—and I think you have read it because it comes from your District—they are at a record peacetime operation. They recently received an order for ten new tankers and six of them are super tankers. I glory in their prosperity; I am not opposed to that. I think it is wonderful that they are doing so. However, while it is so wonderful for them, I think they should pay the tax for screwdrivers.

Mr. WATKINS. I disagree with you. I do not think screwdrivers are exempt unless you perhaps use them on a plate on a ship or use them to weld some place on a boat. I do not think they are exempt.

You made a statement that fountain pens were exempt. I know you are wrong. If the Attorney General says they are exempt, he is wrong, and I am only a layman.

Mr. DENT. Thank you. You asked me the question and I cannot answer it. You will have to let the Attorney General answer it. If you want to debate with Mr. McBride on the matter of a legal interpretation of the Act, then you will be fulfilling the time-old saying that "fools walk in where angels fear to tread."

Mr. WATKINS. It would not be too hard to debate with the Attorney General.

Mr. DENT. I agree with you.

Mr. WATKINS. I find it tougher to debate with you, Senator Dent. However, I do have your answer; that you are not in favor of putting a sales tax on shipbuilding firms in the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. DENT. That is right. However, I want to correct you on one thing. Do not go around saying that no State which has shipbuilding does not tax shipbuilding, because that is an incorrect statement. There are States which do tax shipbuilding and they compete with Pennsylvania. However, that is their business and not ours.

Mr. WATKINS. I want to thank you, Senator Dent. You have been very kind to me and, as a little boy from Delaware County, I am glad that you do not want to tax our shipbuilding industry. Thank you very much.

INTERROGATION

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Watkins.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Watkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WATKINS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Senator Watkins, since I have been so nice to you and said that I do not want to tax shipbuilding in your District, would you answer me one question? Do you want to tax the coal miners in my District?

Mr. WATKINS. Personally, I do not want to tax anybody. However, I do not think coal is taxed in your District.

Mr. DENT. I did not say coal; I said coal miners.

Mr. WATKINS. I do not think we are taxing miners. I cannot read it, Senator Dent, anywhere in the bill.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not want to get into that Gallagher and Shean act, so I will just thank the gentleman and I will tell the Attorney General that he read into the bill that miners will not have to pay the tax.

Mr. WATKINS. No, I do not think so.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. KESSLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I rise to correct what I believe is an erroneous statement .

The gentleman from Westmoreland, in the early part of his comments, said that we have eliminated the use of the word "directly" in connection with manufacturing and shipbuilding. I would like to call his attention to a number of pages in House Bill No. 337, Printer's No. 160.

On page 4, line 11, shipbuilding is construed to be manufacturing.

On page 8, line 3, we define "sale at retail" and refer to supplies and materials that are used or consumed "directly in any of the operations of the manufacture of personal property" and, therefore, shipbuilding.

On page 16, line 11, in connection with the definition of the word "use," we have again the word "directly"; use of "supplies directly in any of the operations of" manufacturing, and shipbuilding is manufacturing.

Another error which I think needs correction, as the gentleman from Westmoreland intimated, or in fact as I think he said rather bluntly, that the public utilities are attempting to evade the payment of the tax. That I do not believe is true, because the regulations, so far as many of the public utilities are concerned, have not been issued and how can there be evasion when you do not know what is taxed. I think many of the public utilities have failed to pay tax on certain items, certain commodities, until they know definitely whether or not those items are taxed.

Mr. DONOLOW. I yield, Mr. President, to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not think it would do any good for Senator Kessler and myself to enter into debate over the construction of the Act. However, I would suggest that he go to page 21, where it says:

"Exclusions from tax the tax imposed by Section 201"—the section you refer to—"shall not be imposed upon.

"Sale at retail or use of vessels designed for commercial use of registered tonnage of fifty tons or more when produced by the builders thereof."

"Sale at retail of tangible personal property used or consumed in building rebuilding repairing and making additions to or replacements in and upon vessels designed for commercial use of registered tonnage of fifty tons or more upon special order of the purchaser or when rebuilt repaired or enlarged or when replacements are made upon order of or for the account of the owner."

You exclude in that particular section any and all taxable items used in or for shipbuilding. That is the Attorney General's opinion.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. KESSLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, we omitted in the prior sales tax bill the exclusion of the sale of ships at retail with this possibility. We did exclude the manufacture of ships, but since we failed to exclude the sale of those ships, when the ship was transferred to an owner the Commonwealth could have collected the tax from that owner. Our purpose in inserting into these amendments the sale at retail of ships was to avoid the evasion of the tax which would have come about by having the ships delivered over to New Jersey, and then transferred to the owner or delivered down into deep water, tide water, and then turned over to the owners.

They do not extend the exemptions as Senator Dent has indicated. Maybe the Attorney General feels otherwise, but I would be glad to discuss that with him, too.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DONLOW asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DONLOW. Mr. President, I have sat here and listened to the debate on this sales tax for a few days last week and today. I have listened to the Governor's examples, as well as the predictions of the stand taken by the Governor by Senator Mahany.

I am very much concerned at this time that we are passing a bill, the interpretation of which no one seems to be able to agree upon. It seems that Senator Kessler is the only one in this Senate who feels he knows the proper interpretation of this tax bill. As a lawyer, I am concerned that we should pass a piece of legislation where one Member of the Senate, and he only, can stand up here and tell the Attorney General that he is wrong in his interpretation, and who takes the position that the Revenue Department is wrong in their interpretation and that we, in Pennsylvania, must depend on what he feels each construction stands for. If such a bill is passed, if such a bill becomes law on our books, Mr. President, we have not met our obligation as legislators to the people of Pennsylvania.

Lord, behold, if we put a bill on record that even the Attorney General cannot interpret correctly, and must be corrected by a Member of this Body time and time again. I think out of common decency, as Members who are dedicated by law to pass legislation which can be interpreted by all the people in the same way, we should recall this bill and attempt to correct it.

There is no doubt in my mind when men of training start differing on opinion so widely as we have found here, that we are heading for a chaotic situation on this tax bill. I see nothing wrong, Mr. President, if we recall this bill and look it over, attempt to correct it and attempt to come to an opinion where we will all agree as to what is meant by each chapter of this piece of legislation.

RECESS

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 7:30 o'clock, p m. for the purpose of allowing time for the Senators to have their dinner.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 257, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 3, 1909 (P. L. 408) entitled as amended "An act authorizing the merger or consolidation of certain corporations" providing for the merger of a domestic corporation into a foreign corporation and for the merger into a holding company of a subsidiary corporation incorporated under or subject to the Business Corporation Law and eliminating any requirement of stockholder approval and any right of objecting stockholders to payment for their stock if the holding company is the owner of all the outstanding stock of the subsidiary corporation

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. Berger offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 2, line 12, by inserting after "domestic": "or foreign"; amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 7, line 17, by striking out "corporation" and inserting "corporations"; amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 8, line 12, by striking out "corporation" and inserting: "corporations"; amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 9, line 7, by striking out "the" and inserting: "boards of"; amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5), page 9, line 16, by striking out "agreement" and inserting: "agreement".

They were agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The second section and title were read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 258, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 343) entitled "The Fiscal Code" permitting corporate affidavits to be made by persons duly authorized by a board of directors and excluding certain days from the computation of certain tax periods

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 265, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (Appropriation Acts page 110 Act No. 146-A) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Department of Welfare for two years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five and . . .", making certain appropriations for research and training applicable only to State-owned institutions.

The first section was read and agreed to.

The second section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Messrs. YOSKO and BERGER offered the following amendments:

Amend Bill, page 6, by inserting between lines 8 and 9:

"Section 2 (a) The sum of one hundred fifty thousand dollars ($150,000), or as much thereof as is necessary, is appropriated to the Department of Welfare for the fiscal biennium beginning June 1, 1957, for the purpose of establishing a plan of scholarships for the medical education of qualified residents of the Commonwealth for the purpose of assuring the Commonwealth institutions of a more adequate supply of internes and residents.

"(b) The Governor after consultation with the Secretary of Welfare, as to the estimated needs of State institutions of internes or residents, shall declare the number of scholarships to be granted for each medical school academic year which number shall not exceed forty. He shall direct the Secretary of Welfare to conduct competitive examinations of all applicants for scholarships.

"(c) The Secretary of Welfare shall promptly make known to all public and private colleges of the Commonwealth and to such other colleges and by such other means as he deems advisable the fact that scholarships are available to applicants, the time and place fixed for examinations, the qualifications of applicants and the method to be used in registering for examinations.

"(d) Applicants for examination shall be residents of the Commonwealth, graduates of an approved college in a course of study that would qualify the applicant for entrance into a medical school but the standing or rank of the applicant in his class shall not affect the applicants' right to take the examination herein provided for.

"(e) At the time and place fixed by the Secretary of Welfare, he shall conduct examinations of all qualified applicants, which examination shall be prepared by and with the advice of the Department of Public Instruction and an advisory committee of representatives of the State-aided medical schools of the Commonwealth.

"(f) Scholarships shall be awarded to the number of candidates fixed by the Governor from the list of examinees having passed the examination in the order of their rank in grades earned. If two or more examinees eligible for scholarships receive the same grades on examination, selection of the recipient of the scholarship shall be made by lot.

"(g) Each person awarded a scholarship shall before entrance into medical school enter into a written agreement with the Commonwealth whereby in consideration of receipt of the scholarship he shall agree to serve in any State institution designated by the Secretary of Welfare as an interne or resident for a period of no less than four years after his graduation from medical school. The agreement shall contain a clause for a voluntary confession of judgment for the amount of money paid out under the scholarship if the recipient of the scholarship fails to comply with the terms of his contract. On a failure to comply, the Attorney General shall enter judgment in favor of the Commonwealth and proceed to enforce it.

"(h) Scholarships shall entitle the recipient to subsidization of his cost of tuition, board and lodging, cost of textbooks and other necessary equipment and instruments not in excess of the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars ($2500) for any one medical school year. The continued subsidy shall be conditioned upon the person's regular and uninterrupted progress through medical school.

"(i) Payments of tuition and all other charges made by any medical school to a student shall be made directly by the Secretary of Welfare to the medical school. The secretary shall make payment to the recipient of the scholarship in monthly payments on account of his board and lodging and other allowable costs not directly charged to the medical student by the medical school.

"(j) The Secretary of Welfare may prescribe general rules relative to the maximum amounts allowable for board and lodging under the subsidies payable.

"(k) As a condition to the continued receipt of State aid all State-aided medical schools of this Commonwealth shall agree to cooperate in the medical student scholarship plan herein provided for and shall agree to reserve a sufficient number of places in their first year's classes as fixed by the Secretary of Welfare to permit the entrance of scholarship holders into the medical schools. The Secretary of Welfare shall equitably apportion the reservations among the State-aided medical schools as the normal complement of their first year classes bear to the number of scholarships to be awarded in any one year";

Amend Sec. 2, page 6, line 9, by striking out "2" and inserting in lieu thereof: "3".

They were agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Messrs. YOSKO and BERGER offered the following amendment:

Amend Title, page 1, last line of Title, by inserting after "institutions": "and making an additional appropriation to provide State scholarships for medical education to assure State institutions of a more adequate supply of internes and residents."

It was agreed to.

The title was agreed to as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, as amended,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading, as amended?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 265 (Pink), on second reading, go over in its order, as amended.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 319, (Pink), on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate either one of the sponsors of this bill, Senator Kessler or Senator Propert.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Mahany asked that the bill go over in its order. Do you have any objection to the bill going over in its order?

Mr. BARR. I have no objection, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

INTERROGATION

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Kessler.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Kessler, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. KESSLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, in 1949, if I remember correctly, we passed the amendment to the LaRue Act of 1937 which is known as the Pure Streams Act. In my county, it is costing us approximately $100,000,000 and the only way we can finance this is through an authority.

I would like to ask either of the sponsors if the people knew that an Act that we passed up here was going to cost $100,000,000 and we asked them to establish an authority, I am sure they would vote against it. How then could a municipality, if you make them vote on it as this bill does, how could they then, or any municipality, obey the amendments to the LaRue Act of 1949, which was Jim Duff's big bill?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, it seems to me that it a question that cannot be answered because it is an assumption that the general electorate would not go along with it. That is purely an assumption.

Mr. BARR. Well, I think it is a pretty good assumption. I think of you would tell the voters in my county that they are going to have to spend $100,000,000 to comply with this Act, they would vote against establishing an authority and then, under the Act, the officials of the county, since there is a criminal provision in this Act, what would happen to these officials if we passed a bill such as this?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, about the only answer I can give the Senator from Allegheny is that the government is for the people and not the people for the government. It seem to me if the people do not want to do what the State Government says they should do, they have the right to change that.

All we are asking the people to do in this bill is to have the right to vote on whether they want to incur the indebtedness and the taxes that are necessary to repay that indebtedness.

Mr. BARR. Thank you very much. I can tell you that the people of Allegheny, if they had a chance to vote on it, would not vote to incur the indebtedness and if you pass a bill like this, then the officials of Allegheny County would be liable under the criminal section of the Act of 1949.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 327, entitled:

An Act authorizing the board of directors of railroad companies to constitute an executive committee from among their number and conferring such authority upon the committee as the board shall provide.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 479, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Labor and Industry for payments to claimants for certain occupational diseases.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I received a note today from the Department of Labor and Industry asking me to move House Bill No. 479. I understand that Senator Yosko has some amendments which, no doubt, will prove controversial and which will have to be debated. I want to dispose of the gasoline tax bills which are on our Third Reading Calendar tonight and which will take considerable time.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would ask Senator Yosko to hold his amendments until tomorrow when this bill will be on third reading. At that time, I assure Senator Yosko that I will not object to his presenting amendments. I ask that this bill be moved up.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I will go along with Senator Mahany's request.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING POSTPONED CALLED UP

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the Postponed Calendar by Mr. MAHANY,

The twelfth section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. WAGNER offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 12 (Sec. 904), page 21, line 10, by inserting after "settlement": "statement".

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The thirteenth and fourteenth sections and title were read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, as amended,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading, as amended?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 292 (Pink), on second reading, go over in its order, as amended.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 111, TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call from the table Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 111.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

VOICING DISAPPROVAL OF THE DISCRIMINATORY ACTION OF THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT OF THE UNITED STATES IN JEOPARDIZING THE WELFARE AND RETARDING THE FURTHER PROGRESS OF DELAWARE VALLEY U. S. A.

In the Senate, March 11, 1957.

Whereas, The Executive Department of the United States has recommended an appropriation of $9 million to be expended by the Corps of Engineers in the fiscal year 1958 for the purpose of continuing the authorized improvement of the Delaware River Channel, Philadelphia, Pa., to Trenton, N. J.; and

Whereas, The Executive Department of the United States has imposed a maximum depth of 35 feet for the authorized improvement; and

Whereas, the Congressionally-authorized improvement calls for a depth of 40 feet; and

Whereas, the Philadelphia District Engineer of the United States Army, Corps of Engineers, has stated that the sum of $16,500,000 can be economically utilized in Fiscal 1958 on deepening the Delaware River Channel, Philadelphia to Trenton; now therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), that the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, in behalf of the people of Pennsylvania, voice their disapproval of the discriminatory action of the Executive Department of the United States in jeopardizing the welfare and retarding the further progress of our Delaware Valley, U.S.A. three-state area and by refusing to recognize the urgent need for improvement of the Delaware River by providing insufficient funds for the effective, timely continuation of the construction of this vital project, thereby causing an undue delay, measured in years, of the economic usefulness of the project; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, on behalf of the people of Pennsylvania, voice its disapproval of the discriminatory action of The Executive Department of the United States which has altered the Congressionally-authorized 40-foot channel depth to an imposed figure of 35 feet; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the Executive and Legislative branches of the United States Government through this resolution to amend and approve legislation during the present session of the Congress of the United States that will make available in fiscal year 1958 the economic sum of $16,500,000 so that the justified and authorized improvement of the Delaware River can be continued at an effective rate in the interests of our national defense, industry, commerce, and the welfare of all of the people of the Delaware Valley; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the Executive and Legislative branches of the United States Government through this resolution to strike out any reference to a 35-foot restricting depth when that figure is in conflict with the authorized 40-foot depth; and be it further

Resolved, that the President pro-tempore of the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania reconstitute three members of the Senate who together with three members of the House of Representatives, upon the concurrence of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, shall serve as a Joint Committee to be known as the Delaware River Philadelphia-Trenton Deeper Channel Committee; and be it further

Resolved, that said committee shall cooperate with the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in such actions as may be desirable and necessary to achieve the required legislative action from the Congress of the United States to assure not only the construction of the Congressionally-authorized 40-foot channel but to assure also the earliest possible completion of this important project; and be it further

Resolved, that the Secretary of the Senate be directed upon the passage of the instant Resolution to forward copies thereof to His Excellency, the President of the United States; to the Vice President of the United States, in his capacity as Presiding Officer of the Senate of the United States; to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; to the two United States Senators from Pennsylvania, the Honorable Edward Martin and Joseph S. Clark, Jr.; to each one of the Members of the Pennsylvania Delegation to the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget; and to the Chief of Engineers, United States Corps of Engineers.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 111, RECOMMITTED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 111, be recommitted to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE BILL No. 335 CALLED UP

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call up, from Page 1 of today's Third Reading Calendar, House Bill No. 335, Printer's No. 66, which went over in its order temporarily.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

AMENDMENTS PREVIOUSLY OFFERED

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 335, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1931 (P. L. 149) entitled as amended "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act" extending the provisions of one additional tax for a limited time.

The PRESIDENT. The amendments submitted at yesterday's Session by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, are now before the Senate.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion to adopt the amendments?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I yield the floor to the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, in order to let him finish his tirade.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I want to express my sincere thanks to the Senator from the Thirty-first District and request all of my colleagues, both Republicans and Democrats, to vote against the amendments.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, has the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, run out of editions of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph? I can loan him a few.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, if that is an interrogation, tell him that I received two new copies in today's mail.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I wish to inform the gentleman that I received the same copies.

Mr. President, could we be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, since the fight was stopped in the middle of the round and one of the fighters has refused to come out after the bell rang, I thought in order to get together and know just exactly what we are fighting about, since we are for this amendment and the opposition has yet to produce any arguments against the amendment except those which were advanced last night by Senator Wade, I think in order to refresh everybody's mind I would like to have the stenographers read back Senator Wade's speech so that we will know just what he said. This would help us in knowing what to fight about.

You cannot fight a shadow. You have to fight a live opponent, and since Senator Wade has refused to come out of his corner at this time, we would like to have, at least, something to fight upon. We feel that we are right, but how can you fight when you have nothing to fight?

Mr. President, I would like to have the girls read back last night's remarks made by Senator Wade.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, there is nothing quite as old and as useless as yesterday's newspaper. I think we would be just wasting a lot of time by having the stenographers read Senator Wade's remarks. I do not know whether they could do better or worse than Senator Wade on his remarks. Senator Wade delivered his speech very nicely and very well. I still remember that the general tenor of his remarks were that we did not need this one cent extra, that the Highways Department had plenty of money to do all the things which they could do in the next two year period and that there was no chance of losing any Federal money under the Federal Road Program. Senator Wade wound up by casting a few stones over there when he read some excerpts from a Pittsburgh newspaper. At that time, bedlam broke loose and we thought the best thing to do was to adjourn. Now, Senator Dent, you are brought up-to-date.

Mr. DENT. Thank you very kindly.

Mr. President, I will agree with the Senator from Crawford that Senator Wade's remarks were useless, and I am sure that Senator Mahany was very honest when he made that statement. Since they were useless, I think it is important at this point to at least provide the argument in favor of this one cent gasoline tax.

Mr. President, it seems that Senator Wade has a peculiar way of saying things one day and not backing them up the next day. I have a newspaper article in which Senator Wade said that the one cent was necessary after the Governor's speech, in which he gave the highway budget. Now it appears that Senator Wade has changed his mind, which is a prerogative of Senators and women.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask leave of the gentleman who has the floor and request that he read that article from the newspaper as it was printed.

Mr. DENT. You will have to wait until I go down to the Evening News, because the newspaper is upstairs somewhere and my girls have left. I will be sure to read it to you tomorrow. I can assure you, however, that it appeared in the newspaper.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, if Senator Dent will pardon my interruption, let me inform him what the article stated. It stated that we had not as yet made up our minds, that we were studying the figures and we would not say no until the figures were complete and our study was complete. That was the gist of the newspaper article, Mr. President, for the gentleman's information.

I appreciate his permitting me to interrupt him.

Mr. DENT. That is all right, Mr. President. Thank you very kindly. However, the one thing I have never been able to do is to make up our minds. I have difficulty enough making up my own mind.

The question of whether this one cent is needed or not is a very serious question. We are faced with the greatest road building program with which this State or Nation has ever been confronted. Yet, the Republican Membership of the House and Senate have made their minds up, politically, to cut the highway funds to the lowest point that they have been cut to since 1949. At that point we passed the final five cent tax in Pennsylvania. Today we are asking for the continuation of a one cent tax on gasoline.

It is a peculiar thing that by some kind of a maneuver, the Republican Party is always able to put the Democrats in the position of asking for taxes. If the Democratic Party were to act in the same manner in which the Republican Party has acted for sixteen years, we would not need the extra one cent. I am sure that we could find enough money in the five cent tax to biuld roads in Democratic counties. However, we feel that when we are elected to office, it is not a question of Republican or Democrat the day after election, but rather it is the question of all the people. When we design roads, we design them as to need, regardless of the political persuasion of any given community.

Mr. President, I said earlier this afternoon, and I want to repeat, that I do not believe the people will be fooled by the maneuvers which have been going on in this Senate, namely the cutting of revenue in the State and the adherence to the greater demands for services. There have been more Republican-sponsored road bills passed in this Senate during this three month Session than ever before in the history of this State during any Session. They will go back home to their constituents and say, "Look, I put the bill in for Podunk Road to be built. I put the bill in for the road to be built in front of your house. However, the darn Democratic Governor vetoed it." They will not tell their constituents, however, that the reason the Governor vetoed the bill was because there was not sufficient money to build the road.

Mr. President, I would like to read some figures if you do not mind. If you pass this bill in the version in which it is now before us in the Senate, how many of the Members of this Senate know what it really means to their Districts? This morning, I contacted the Department of Highways and I said "I would like to have from you the figures on the amount of moneys that have been paid out and will be paid out during this biennium to the local districts in Pennsylvania, pursuant to the Act of the Legislature which gave a greater amount of return to the local districts." For sixteen years the Republican Party had been in power in Pennsylvania, and during that time the highest amount that was ever given to local districts was $36,000,000 a biennium. The Democratic Party succeeded in winning an election. They had made a promise to the people of this State that if they were elected they would make a greater contribution out of tax moneys, from highway revenues, to the local districts. For the first time in the State's history, we increased the contribution to local districts somewhere near the amount of money required to meet the growing needs of our local communities. Remember that in a local community, the only money which they have for streets, parking facilities, alleys and general transportation thoroughfares is made up by local real estate taxation. The State has gathered unto itself all of the revenues from motor vehicle taxes, from gasoline taxes and, therefore, the local communities must necessarily depend upon real estate taxation to take care of the ever increasing need of transportation facilities. Recognizing this, some of us have for many years tried to fight for the passage of legislation giving each community a greater share out of the Motor Fund.

During the first two years of this Administration we were able to do that. If you will remember, myself and others persuaded the Governor and the Secretary of Highways to double the amount given to local communities, from $36,000,000 to $72,000,000. However, this Republican Senate saw fit to cut it to $60,000,000. Very frankly, being beggars at the door of the charity of the Republican Majority, we were happy to accept at that time the $60,000,000. This meant an increase to local districts of sums unheard of before.

For instance, just to give you an illustration, I will take Blair County, my friend Charley Mallery's county. Prior to the advent of the Democratic Administration, Blair County's municipalities received $185,308. After the passage of that Democratic-sponsored bill, the allocation was $320,402 or an increase of $135,094, just $50,000 less than the entire amount it received before.

I see my good friend, Ed Kessler, over there and I would like to remind him of what happened in Lancaster County. In Lancaster County, their appropriation was $521,767. After the passage of that bill, we gave to Lancaster County, you and I, Ed, and the rest of the Senators, $843,210 or and increase of $228,683. I could go on through the list.

I do think it would be important to remind George Wade, the Chairman of the Highways Committee, of what happened in his county. I think it is important that we study these things and bring them out into the open. In Cumberland County, prior to the passage of that bill, they received $206,556. After the passage of that bill, they received $333,141 or an increase, mind you, of $126,585.

Let us see what the effect of this particular piece of legislation has upon this formula and upon the county districts, the municipalities, the townships, the boroughs and the cities in our respective Districts. This afternoon, during the busy Session, I tried to work out some of the answers and I assure you that they are very difficult to work out. However, I had a great deal of pleasure in reading about a county which I think, for too many years, has been considered a stepchild of the State—maybe it is because the county has been Democratic for so many years—and that is Allegheny County. I want Senator Fleming and Senator Kopriver to hear this particularly.

Allegheny County, prior to the passage of that bill, received $1,402,347. After the passage of that bill, they received $2,606,657 or an increase of $1,204,310. The increase was $1,204,310 as against the total appropriation, prior to the passage of that bill, of $1,402,347. I have to give credit to Senator Fleming and to Senator Kopriver because they both voted for the Act.

Now let us see what happens, Mr. President, if you pass this bill tonight. If you pass this bill to night, you will lose from that appropriation of $2,606,000, $338,000. If you fail to pass the Barr amendments, which are before us tonight, you will lose an additional $520,000 or your county of Allegheny, to its municipalities, will lose a total of $858,000 of much needed money. I will show you how I worked that out in order that there will be no question. There might be a question of my interpretation of the sales tax, because at that time I had to deliver an opinion which was more of a legal opinion than a mathematical opinion. However, when it comes to the mathematics of government, I pride myself on being my own master. I will show you how I worked it out.

The formula upon which the returns to the county districts or municipalities are based is a formula of twenty per cent of a four and one-half cent tax base. Although there is a five cent tax base, one-half cent is earmarked for distribution to county government. Therefore, the Department of Highways has four and one-half cents. We add the formula on the statute books of twenty per cent of the four and one-half cents, based upon a $56,000,000 per penny of taxation which, incidentally, is $2,000,000 more than what has been received in this biennium. However, anticipating the greater number of automobiles and the greater consumption of gasoline, we have anticipated that each penny will bring in $2,000,000 more in the next biennium. Based upon that, twenty per cent of the total will give us $52,000,000. In order to insure the same allocation to the districts as we have given them during this biennium, we will require $60,000,000. If you only have $52,000,000, then there must be somewhere near thirteen per cent of a cut in appropriations to each of the local districts.

I know that Senator Wade put a bill in, co-sponsored by all of the candidates on the other side who have to run next year, putting a floor of $30,000,000 in order that the local districts would not lose any money. However, I can assure Senator Wade that by introducing the bill, it does not assure either its passage or its signature by the Governor. Therefore, we have to deal here with the acts of the Legislature which control the expenditures of moneys as they appear on the statute books.

The law now says that there will be twenty per cent of four and one-half cents of taxation. That formula will be applied, I assure you, if this bill passes. I cannot speak for the Governor but I know that if he were sincere, and I believe he was, when he made his budget speech on highways, he does not have $8,000,000 to give. Unless you accept this amendment for one cent, he faces this situation. He faces a situation whereby he will have the same amount of taxation for highway purposes as they had in 1949. Now you want to take from him an additional $24,000,000 as against what was paid out in 1949 for municipal governments.

On top of that, we have a Federal program which will require some $370,000,000 if we reach the complete picture on the amount that is allowed to Pennsylvania. On top of that, we still must pay our debt services which require almost a cent and three-quarters of our tax moneys. If we add these items up, how can we spend any money on the 20,000 miles of road which are purely State-supported roads? Incidentally, these State-supported roads are the spokes which spread out from the hub of industry. The cities depend more upon the State-owned and State-operated roads than they do on the thoroughfare roads. The limited access roads are used by those who are traveling to and from points which they are interested in reaching. However, the little State-owned roads are the roads which bring the people into our municipalities to do business and to congregate.

It is important that we have money for the State-owned and operated roads. Yes, I know the Federal law says that the Federal Government will pay ninety per-cent if we will pay ten per cent. Last night, Senator Wade, in his statement, said that we have $40,000,000 of unspent moneys that we have allowed to the State Highway and Bridge Authority. However, what Senator Wade did not explain to you was that we are a biennial Session. We meet in biennial Sessions. We do not meet every year. If the Federal Congress, in August or September of this year, or January, or February or on up until December of next year, should open up a greater amount of the Federal Road Program out of the $50,000,000,000 program and they should allocate to Pennsylvania another $250,000,000 or $300,000,000 or $400,000,000 worth of roads, we will have this $40,000,000 of funds available when we borrow it, incidentally, under the State Highway and Bridge Authority, to meet any commitments that we may have to meet under the Federal Road Program. It would be the poorest kind of business and the silliest kind of thinking to use that allocation in reserve at this time while we are in Session. That is why that money is there. It is not costing the taxpayers one cent until we borrow it. We do not need it until we must have it. It is like saying to a person who is working in a factory and while he is working in a factory, he buys himself a radio or a television. He has savings in the bank, savings for an emergency of sickness, an emergency of need for his family, but instead of paying for it out of his earnings, you say, "Go to the bank; take your money out of the bank and pay for your radio and forget it." That is not the way the American people are built. The American people always try to save something for tomorrow.

Therefore, we are saving this $40,000,000 in case the United States Government, the Federal Government, opens up the Federal Road Program for another $3,000,000,000 or $4,000,000,000 worth of construction next year, at which time we will be in a position to accept our responsibility and meet our share of the obligation without calling a special Session and raising taxes. I predict to all of you—and I want this to be especially contained in the record—that when you release this one cent of taxation on gasoline, there will not be a reduction in pump gasoline prices anywhere in Pennsylvania.

If my memory serves me right, I believe it was in 1940 or 1939, somewhere back in those days, when we relieved the one cent tax. The bill passed the House, passed the Senate, I believe, and was vetoed. I am not sure of the action now. Then we had thousands upon thousands of petitions against the tax. The tax failed, the one cent increase, and, lo and behold, within thirty days after the adjournment of the House and Senate, the gasoline companies raised the price of gasoline in Pennsylvania one cent. Therefore, I predict to you that if you take this penny off of gasoline in Pennsylvania, it will not be reduced at the pump sale prices. That is as true as we are standing here. All of us fought against the pop tax. We took the pop tax off. Can anybody here buy a bottle of pop without that pop tax today?

You are dealing with economics and the economics of government demand that you pay as you go if you can. The economics of our individual lives at home demand that we pay as we go if we can, and there is no man in this room who can give me a reasonable argument in the face of the economy of the State for the relinquishment of this one cent gas tax.

Let me just show something to you, something that is important. Of all of the needs in this Commonwealth that are pointed up daily in our lives, the need for more help from this Commonwealth to the municipalities is pointed up in the field of streets, parking and transportation facilities. All of us live in Districts where we have cities, boroughs and townships and if ever any communities needed help in this State, they need help when it comes to taxes. Every community in this State is basing its budget for street work upon the amount that they have received from the State in the previous year.

Take a little community like my own. I believe that the amount they received from the State was something like $14,000, and then all of a sudden they were given an amount reaching somewhere near $28,000 or $29,000. Their budget has been adjusted to that figure. Now you come along and you cut away from that. You cut away from that probably $6,000 to $7,000. How can that community hope to meet its obligations on its commitments, some of them long-term bonds, paying for reconstruction and construction of street facilities that they must pay out of income? If the State does not give it to them, there is only one place that they can go to get that money and that will be from real estate taxation.

I am not trying to belabor you tonight with the idea of hearing myself talk because I am as tired as any of you. However, I want to tell you that of all the things that you have done or will do this Session, the most serious thing you are doing is dropping this one cent from gasoline taxes.

Other speakers will give you details that I am sure will astound you in the matter of work done, in the matter of the needs of communities and of the State itself. I predict to you in the manner of a friendly observation that the worst thing which can happen to the Republican Party in Pennsylvania—and I say this advisedly because if it is bad for the Republican Party, it will probably be bad for the people because it will be disastrous to both—is for you to act on this bill as it is written tonight and then elect a Governor in full control of the Legislature. If and when that happens, I will be standing right at this rostrum and I will fight you until the cock crows in the morning against an increase in State taxes on highway users, because that is what you will be asking for. You will find many excuses and reasons for asking for it, because you are going to need the money.

Let us take Dauphin County, a county right here in which we live. I say we live in it because it has been a second home to me for twenty-three years and I respect this community of Harrisburg and Dauphin County. I think it has many internal problems created by the fact that many of us do make it a second home and do not pay or contribute toward its expenses of operation. Let us look at the problem in Dauphin County alone. Let us see what they have. Dauphin County used to get $282,000. That was the highest amount that Dauphin County ever received in its history. Now they are receiving under the Act that we passed which was based upon this one cent, mind you, Dauphin County now receives $485,000 or an increase of $202,000. Imagine getting an increase of $202,000 against a total appropriation, prior to that time, of $282,000.

I want you to go back home to your communities. I want you to explain to the people in your Districts the reason they are cut in their appropriation. You tell them it is because you saved them one cent in taxation. Before you do that, however, you go to the oil companies and make yourselves assured of the fact that the oil companies will not add the penny, because if the people are still paying the same amount at the gas pumps after you have cut the tax in Pennsylvania and the community is losing that amount of money, you explain it to the people because, frankly, I will not be able to.

Let us go through the rest of the counties. Let us take any of the counties which some of you represent. Let us take Potter County; my good friend, Jimmy Berger's county. That is a little, wee county which is one of the diamonds of this great necklace of counties of ours that shines up there at night. When no one else knows where to go, they can always go to Potter County and find a welcome. I have fished and hunted in that county for years and I had to travel over some pretty darn bad roads, Jimmy. Now you are getting better roads, and I will tell you why you are getting them. You are getting them because, Jim, up until recently you received $121,000; now you are getting $188,000. In your county that is a lot of money. It is not like Allegheny County or Philadelphia County where they talk in millions and billions. You come from a rural county where an increase of $67,000 is a great deal of money. It is better than a fifty per cent increase; in fact, it is better than a seventy per cent increase on the amount. Are you going to sit over there and vote to cut out this one cent just because it is politically expedient to do so?

No man on this floor can tell me honestly that in this day of rising costs, in this day of the largest Federal budget in the history of the United States, it is the proper thing to do. Your own Republican President, speaking of promises—I am not condemning Eisenhower but I think that he found out the facts of life—promised a $60,000,000,000 budget and he asked for $72,000,000,000. Senator Mahany, when you start criticizing George Leader for broken promises, speak in a whisper. Speak real low, because some of us remember Mr. Eisenhower's promises, and $72,000,000,000 is a long, long way from $60,000,000,000. He found out the realities, the facts of life, and so maybe George found out the facts of life. George found out that when you get into government, it is a lot different as Governor than as a candidate. Eisenhower found out the same thing.

Those of us who have gone through many campaigns have listened to many promises. I have heard Republican candidates say that they had $200,000,000 in surplus. In fact, I think I had the unhappy experience in 1946 of being on the State ticket against Duff. Duff said there was a $200,000,000 surplus and I came back to the Senate because I was still a Member of the Senate, although defeated for Lieutenant-Governor, and I found out that the $200,000,000 surplus had suddenly changed into a $65,000,000 deficit.

These things happen in politics. We let them happen. We are not honest with each other. I say to you Members of the Senate on the other side that this is the most foolish of all of the actions you could possibly take, in taking this one cent off of gasoline. I cannot for the life of me find any sound reason for it. The poppycock talk made that the department does not need the money is as ridiculous as "Alice in Wonderland." In these days of increasing costs, with a great Federal program of road building facing us for the first time in our history, and with the greatest amount of contribution to the local districts ever written upon the statute books, to say that we do not need the money is ridiculous.

You have had five cent gasoline taxation since 1949. If I am not mistaken, the first three cents went into effect in 1931, and then there was another cent in 1935. I can remember that one penny tax! oh, how I can remember it. Senator Frank Ruth was my floor leader over in the House. I am looking around to see who else was with me in the House of Representatives at that time. I think George Wade was there. Senator, I think you were in the House with me in 1935. We have certainly grown old together. Senator George Sarraf is beginning to show it. It was 1935 and we proposed a one cent gas tax and they carried the petitions against it into the House of Representatives in bushel baskets. It was said that we were going to close the borders of this great Commonwealth by putting a one cent tax on. We were going to chase all of the business out of the State. Incidently, in 1935 there was not enough business to worry about. You will never, unless you live through it, and I am saying this in front of witnesses, you will never believe as long as you live the propaganda put out against that one cent tax back in 1935.

Then in 1949, if you will remember, we put through another tax of one cent for a fellow by the name of Duff. We had that bill licked until Jim finally decided that the way to handle that was to put the pressure on Pittsburgh. The Republican House Members were not going to go along with that bill at that time, but Jim was going to build Point Park and so my good friend, Joe Barr, started to be a messenger boy and went down the aisle in the House and picked up the votes to give Jim Duff that tax bill back in 1949. I am telling tales out of school, but since there is nobody here but us fellows, I can tell it. In all seriousness, I hope that you will consider what you are doing and reconsider.

I would ask you tonight to do something that probably you will not, but I am hoping you will. I am asking you to act as reasonable men. I am going to ask you to allow this bill to go over and ask that the bill's contents be referred to the Committee on Rules in order that those of us in the leadership of both parties can sit down and try to work out whatever differences there are. I assure you that this will mean a cut of $8,000,000 to the local communities if you do not take the one cent, and if you do take the one cent, it will mean $20,000,000 to the local communities.

For instance, in Montgomery County, which is just a little county over here, a neighboring county of Philadelphia, it will mean to Montgomery County this, and I think I ripped your figures out. Just to help me out of a hole, I worked your figures out. If you pass this bill, Senator Propert, if you pass this bill the way it is written tonight you will lose $114,700. If you accept the Barr amendments, you will add $176,600 to what you now have or a difference between this bill not amended, and a bill amended with the Barr amendments, of $291,300 in your county.

In Chester County, incidently, they will lose $72,000 if you pass this bill as it is now written. You will gain $120,000 if you pass the Barr amendments or a total of $192,000.

In Delaware County, where my good friend, the captain of the fleet, Senator Watkins, lives, they will lose $107,600 if this bill passes as it is written. They will gain $149,800 on top of that or a total of $257,400 if you vote for the Barr amendments to this bill.

Bucks County—and, of course, my friend, Ted Watson, is very interested in Bucks County—will lose $72,600, or an added $113,600 if the Barr amendments pass or a total of $196,200 which is the difference between voting for the one cent increase allocated to the local districts in the proportion that the Barr amendments provide.

There is no use going through the figures. I think that you must realize by now that what you are up against is this. You are either going to vote to cripple the Highways Department in its attempt to do two things; first, to build local roads and State roads; and, second, to participate in the Federal Program.

I ask you at this time to consider very seriously what you are doing. I can assure you that if you are basing your hopes upon the bill that Senator Wade put in last night which places a minimum floor of $30,000,000 under the amount that will be contributed to local communities, you are living in a dream, because the Governor cannot, and I am almost sure he will not, sign that floor bill because he will not have the money to give out.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, I feel quite hurt that Senator Dent has not mentioned Lebanon County on this. After all, I believe that I have not seen anything happen in Lebanon County as to new construction or repair work done.

Mr. President, I now desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Senator Dent, do you know how many miles of new highway construction were constructed by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways in this biennium?

Mr. DENT. No.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Let me ask you this. Do you know how many years are contemplated under the Federal Program for highway construction?

Mr. DENT. It all depends. They have two phases of that program and it all depends on whether they are going to work on the accelerated base, which depends upon whether or not we are in a position to contribute on a State-wide base or whether we will take it under the long term pull.

Mr. EHRGOOD. You do not know how many years is contemplated?

Mr. DENT. No, I do not and neither do you.

Mr. EHRGOOD. It is at least more than two, is that not correct?

Mr. DENT. Oh, definitely.

Mr. EHRGOOD. As a matter of fact, it is about four or five.

Mr. DENT. It will go further than that. The least that they can contemplate is fifteen years.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Fifteen, thank you. That is all .

Now I would like to call to the attention of the Members of this Senate that I do not believe the people of the Commonwealth are fooled by the political oratory of Senator Dent.

We hear a great deal of talk about helping the little fellow. Now I think it is time and here is one chance where the Members of this Senate can help the little person. One cent a gallon, and how many people use one cent a gallon? It adds up to some money over a long period of time, however.

We talk about broken promises of the Democrats. Here is one chance where I would like to see the Republicans at least hold good in their promise. As I recall, as a Member of the House, we passed this tax on an emergency basis. Well, let us hold good to the people of Pennsylvania and let us repeal this one cent or, rather, let us defeat this amendment so that we do hold good our trust to the people of Pennsylvania.

Let me ask you this. How much money is being spent by the Department of Highways in Pennsylvania? What good are they doing? Are they making repairs to the roads? Would you come down to Lebanon County and see what repairs they are making, and how many persons they have on the payroll in Lebanon County? Do they have any engineers in the Department of Highways that are capable of doing a job? Are they capable of spending this extra one cent? That is what I would like to know, Senator.

I hear so much said about this little person. I have heard you crying about the little person. It seems to me that here is one good chance when you and I and everyone else in this Senate can do something on behalf of the little guy, as you call him. I say let us vote these amendments down.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the gentleman from Lebanon reminds me of the story they tell about the fellow who was arrested for selling sausage, mixed sausage. He was arrested because he was advertising rabbit sausage, and the inspectors inspected the sausage and found that it was mixed meat.

In the hearing before the squire, they asked the defendant if this was rabbit sausage. "Well," he said, "it was part rabbit sausage." He said, "It is half and half." He was asked, "What is the other half"? He said, "Horse meat." He was asked, "How do you mix it?" "Well," he said, "fifty-fifty; one rabbit and one horse." That is what the gentleman is talking about. He wants to do a favor for the little people. He wants to cut a penny off of gasoline, but, he forgets to talk about the millions he is taking and saving the big people.

The little people will not save anything, Senator. The gasoline price will remain the same, and you will come back and tell me that. The gas companies will not let go of this penny. They never did, they will not.

You talked about Lebanon County and the ruts in the roads, and you want to know about engineers. Just let me give you one simple fact, sir. There are 2,900 technical engineers and technical employees in the highways Department. Since Secretary Lawler took office as Secretary of Highways, eighteen have been dismissed. If they are not any good, we did not put theme there. They are holdovers from Republican Administrations. Twenty-eight hundred, sir, and eighty-two out of 2,900 are the remaining technical staff employees who are still in the Highways Department. I am getting sick and tired of hearing talk of removing technical people from the payroll in the Highways Department. The facts are irrefutable. They are on the records and the names are available for all of you.

If you do not have good roads in Lebanon County, do not blame the Democrats. We just came into power two years ago. The Republicans were in power for centuries in this State and if they neglected your county, do not blame us. I know, I am up against that in my county. We have roads in Westmoreland County, Mr. President, that have been almost impassable for forty years and all of a sudden, in the two years that we are in power, we are supposed to rebuild every road, remake every place into a broad highway. Give us half a chance.

I will say this to you Senators on the other side, give us sixteen straight years and you can ride a roller coaster to Harrisburg from any point in Pennsylvania.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, all I would like Senator Dent to do is come down to Lebanon and try to sell that business about the Highways employees. You know, Lebanon County was very fortunate in the Highways Department. We had quite a few employees; perhaps even more than our share from Lebanon County. I wonder if Senator Dent would some down there to Lebanon and explain that to all the persons who were fired down there.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the young man from Lebanon, Senator Ehrgood.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Ehrgood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, since this is a night Session, I might as well get my intitation now.

Mr. DENT. That is all right, this is without any rancor or personalities, sir.

How many were fired from your county?

Mr. EHRGOOD. I do not know the exact number. I do not want to make a wild guess. I know that there were quite a few, a definite large number. I cannot give you an exact number. I do not know. I will find out for you.

Mr. DENT. Tell me something, were the Republicans fired?

Mr. EHRGOOD. Oh yes, there were Republicans fired.

Mr. DENT. How many Democrats were on before we took office?

Mr. EHRGOOD. I do not know how many Democrats. Let me say this to you, Senator. I am talking about competency and repairs done whether by Republicans or Democrats, and all I am asking is are the Democrats going to do a sufficient job and a reasonable job down in Lebanon County?

Mr. DENT. Thank you very kindly. I might remind you though, while you are at the microphone, in case you want to answer, that if you think there is any difference between a Democratic snow shoveler and a Republican, you are crazy.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I had no intention of getting into this tonight at all, but Senator Dent particularly called the attention of Senator Kopriver and myself to some figures about what it would cost in the county of Allegheny if the so-called Barr amendments were not accepted and what would happen to our municipalities, and he talked about the refund to the county. I presume you meant the refund to the municipalities in the county, Senator Dent, rather than a refund to the county of Allegheny of one-half a cent. I presume that would be correct, sir.

I would like to deal a little bit with both of them. If the County Commissioners of Allegheny County would give back to the State the 500 and some odd miles of county roads that they still maintain and put them in and make them part of the highway system, then the County Commissioners could take that one-half cent gasoline tax that is given back to them and allocate it to the various municipal subdivisions in Allegheny County, such as is done in some of the other States, on a matching basis, and give them a considerable amount of money.

My main point, Senator Dent, is this. Governor Leader has projected, in his highway budget, appropriations amounting to $720,444,269 and he estimates that he will have a cash balance of $58,596,675. Now I would submit to you, sir, and to the Members of this Senate, that if we do not enact the one cent gasoline tax, assuming that we give Governor Leader everything he wants and every nickel he wants to spend of this seven hundred twenty-plus millions of dollars, we would then end up with a $1,000,000 surplus at the end of this coming biennium. If that be true, then I can certainly see no reason at all for foisting on the motoring public of Pennsylvania this extra one cent.

I would further say to you, Senator, that I think the people generally are pretty tax conscious. I think politically you have said what will happen to the Republican Party. I know we are all grateful to you for your concern over what will happen to us next year in the gubernatorial race, but I assure you that the people of Pennsylvania, as all over the Nation, are pretty tax-fed up, and that Party which attempts to cut the cloth to the money they have and that Party which will attempt to effect some economies in Government, I believe, is the Party that will be successful in next year's election. At least we in the Republican Party feel that that is right. We are going to make every effort to pitch our appeal to electing a Governor of Pennsylvania on that level between now and next year. We are very confident that we are going to be successful, so please, and I know you do it with all the sincerity at your command, do not tell us of the mistakes we are making. We do not think we are. We think we are doing the things that the great majority of the 11,000,000 Pennsylvanians wish their representatives in the General Assembly to do.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Fleming, in a friendly fashion.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Fleming, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FLEMING. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Were you a Member of the Senate during the Session of 1953?

Mr. FLEMING. In 1953, I was; yes sir.

Mr. DENT. Can you tell the Senate what the cash balance, surplus, was in the Highways Department as of June 1, 1953?

Mr. FLEMING. Maybe my friend and adviser, Senator Wade, has that. Do you have that, Senator?

Mr. DENT. Ask Senator Wade; he knows.

Mr. FLEMING. Well, that is what I am trying to get. If this is the balance that you are talking about, it calls for $63,071,000. Is that what you are talikng about?

Mr. DENT. That is right. Did you promote any legislation then to cut the tax one cent? Incidentally, one penny at that time brought in $49,000,000, and you would have ended up with a surplus of $14,000,000. If you were consistent, you should have advocated the cutting of one cent then instead of now. Now you will only end up with a surplus of $1,000,000. Then, if you would have cut it one penny, you would have ended up with $14,000,000.

Mr. FLEMING. That is probably right.

Mr. DENT. That is right.

I might ask this, were you a Member of this General Assembly in 1949?

Mr. FLEMING. Yes.

Mr. DENT. You were a Member of the House, were you not?

Mr. FLEMING. That is right.

Mr. DENT. Do you remember in 1949 when we put one additional penny on?

Mr. FLEMING. I recall that.

Mr. DENT. Do you know what the surplus was in 1949, June 1, 1949?

Mr. FLEMING. I do not have that information.

Mr. DENT. Sixty-nine million dollars and you added one cent. I know that consistency is the hobgoblin of small minds. I do not want you to have a small mind, but broaden it a little bit to say that what you are doing tonight is entirely different than what you have done in the entire history of your Legislative career. There has never been a surplus in the history of Pennsylvania's Highways Department smaller than the anticipated surplus of 1957-1959, including this penny of tax, which is $58,596,000.

I think you need it for a cushion, very frankly. If you did not need it for a cushion, then you Republicans have been terribly wrong over the last sixteen years. We had to learn something from you fellows; this we learned from you.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I felt sure all along that eventually I would get recogniezd.

Mr. President, tonight I have a petition, a remonstrance and a resolution, but I do not think I brought enough material with me. I thought it was going to be "Cumberland County Night."

I would like to tell my new friend, Senator Ehrgood, from Lebanon, that we will get the figures for him on Lebanon County very shortly. If I had been running the Republican Party and Lebanon County stood up as it has over the years, it certainly would have had more than its share of Highway employees. If I were running the Democratic Party, I think I would make sure that they had a little bit less than their share this time.

Mr. President, I was primarily interested awhile ago in hearing my distinguished colleague, the Majority Floor Leader, Senator Mahany, state and admit publicly that Pennsylvania would not lose a single sent of Federal highway money. I do not want to get off, under this order of business, on the same tangent we got off on last night. However, last night reference was made to the articles contained in one of the newspapers in Pittsburgh and some of the charges they had made. It seems to me there were five. I think Senator Mahany just pulled the prop out from one of them by stating that we are not going to lose a single cent of Federal money. I understand this afternoon another of the props went when former Chief Engineer Wiesenberger repudiated a statement attributed to him in a Pittsburgh press,—I mean press generically—or rather the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. I understand you have two responsible newspapers in Pittsburgh. It would seem to me that losing two of the defenses to a libel suit in about six hours is pretty good going for anybody.

Mr. President, last night on the subject of this amendment, the Senate was regaled by the Senator from Cumberland County with a dissertation on the Administration's highway budget. In all charity to everyone here, I deplore Senator Wade's presentation as being biased, misleading and partisan. More to the point, I am amazed that this man, whose previous record in this Chamber has been marked with integrity, has permitted partisanship to becloud an issue of vital interest and importance to every person in the Commonwealth. Had Senator Wade's attack on the highway budget been delivered by a member less familiar with highway matters, it might be excused. However, here we have the Chairman of the Highways Committee in a deliberate attempt to destroy and distort a highway program which was presented to the Legislature in all sincerity by Governor Leader, who is dedicated to the cause of good government and pledged to build safer highways, modern highways, by the highest and most complete utilization of Federal funds which are made available through the passage of the Federal Highway Act of 1956.

I, and other Members on both sides of this Chamber, I believe, were amazed and astonished by Senator Wade's distortion of the facts. He knows, as well as all of us do, that in previous years and in previous Administrations the Governor was permitted to present the essential points in the highway budget. The detailed explanation of the budget was given to the apropriate committees in both branches of the Legislature. That has been the practice within the memory of this Body. Senator Wade well knows that it is the proper way to handle such an important matter. However, Senator Wade chose to scrap Senatorial courtesy and to discard political ethics to join the wolf pack in his desire to harass the Leader Administration and to wreck the carefully prepared construction program of the Department of Highways.

Does the Senator believe that his constituents who drive the narrow, twisting roads in his district, the roads long neglected by previous Administrations, will applaud his effort to hamper the construction of new and safer highways? Will the families whose loved ones were killed at the hazardous York Springs Intersection, on Route 15, applaud and approve Senator Wade's campaign? Will the survivors of a score of unfortunate victims whose lives were sacrificed because of the hazardous conditions at Rose Garden, again on Route 15, appreciate Senator Wade's marked concern for the highway dollars?

Senator Wade knows, or perhaps he is too busy to find out, that this Administration is relocating Route 15 at York Springs. This relocation will completely eliminate the tragic, hazardous condition there. Does Senator Wade not know, or does he not care, that Secretary Lawler, as Secretary of Highways, is ready to begin construction and relocation of the most dangerous spots on the entire highway system at Rosegarden? This callous disregard for public safety, multiplied by sixty-seven times for each county in the State, which was ignored for two score years by Senator Wade's Party's Governors, cannot be permitted to continue. It shall not continue in spite of Senator Wade and others who, like him, are determined to hamstring, hamper and harass Governor Leader and Secretary Lawler in their determination to build highways honestly and intelligently.

Is Senator Wade more concerned with the doubtful political propaganda value he might gain by his presentation in this Chamber or is he genuinely concerned with saving lives by building safer highways? These answers, of course, must be answered by Senator Wade from the innermost recesses of his own conscience.

I have compared the Senator's speech with a document prepared by a paid employee of the Keystone Automobile Club, a misanthropic individual who has set himself as a financial wizard, the alpha and omega of all matters pertaining to and in connection with the Highways Department. As a special pleader, this so-called expert prepared for delivery an analysis of the Governor's Highway Budget, dated March 8. These observations neither received any publicity nor, as I understand it, scant consideration from those persons to whom it was made available. However, this is not true of the Senator from Cumberland. The observations were lifted lock, stock and barrel by our colleague from Cumberland. They were adopted as his own contribution to the campaign to destroy the first real highway program this Commonwealth has seen in many years. Word for word, line for line, and paragraph for paragraph, the expert's so-called observations were grabbed by Senator Wade. The statistical tables drawn up by the Keystone expert became part and parcel of Senator Wade's medicine show.

Such is the way this Republican campaign against good government is shaping up. These seem to be the watchwords of this Session. Not content to wait for orderly analysis of the Highway Budget, the Senator has issued a canned statment and sets himself as the savior of those who would aline themselves with him.

Over the years, Senator Wade, as a member of the Highways Committee and as a Member of this Senate, has been given credit for being a good public servant. His probity as a citizen has not been questioned. As a partisan he was credited with fighting clean. That is why it is doubly hard to understand the performance we saw yesterday.

Will the political ambitions of a Member of this Senate, on either side of the Legislature or in either House, overshadow their responsibility to the public? Will the bitter poison of political ambition besmirch the highway administration's decent efforts to improve the highway system? I doubt it.

Realizing that this attack is but the prelude to similar maneuvers, I want at this time to set the record straight on the financial situation in regard to the Motor License Fund.

Motor fuel taxes have increased over the years and it is expected that some increase will be made during the 1957-1959 biennium. It is not expected to increase at the rate that has been prevalent since 1950. A more conservative rate has been used in the budget presentation. Certainly, with industrial productivity leveling off as it is at the present time, our conservative estimate is being justified. The continuation of the one cent emergency tax was budgeted to provide matching funds to meet the increased amounts of Federal aid available, to permit local road maintenance and construction payments in the municipalities and to provide for adequate 100 per cent State highway construction.

The $327.4 million Federal Aid Program consists of $226.7 million of Federal funds and $100.7 million of State matching funds. Pennsylvania's share of previous Federal allocations averaged approximately $84,000,000 per biennium and required $78,000,000 of State matching money. This biennium witnesses the beginning of a program of increases in Federal-aid allocations. It is obvious that additional State matching funds must be secured if we are to take advantage of these present and future increased Federal allocations.

Federal-aid payments to the State are estimated at $75,000,000 for the 1955-1957 biennium. Our allocation of Federal-aid funds, estimated at $141.7 million for this biennium, could not under any circumstances have been collected during this same period. However, the balance will be used and State funds must be available to match. Projects must first be built, the contractors paid and reimbursement made to the State by the Federal Government. To secure, during the same year, reimbursement by the Federal Government of the Federal-aid participation in that year's projects, would mean that all Federal-aid funds would have to be obligated by contracts immediately after allocations are made in July of each year. This is impossible and impracticable.

As to the expenditure of $81,000,000 in 1955-1957 and only twenty miles of Federal-aid urban extensions built, it must be realized that all work under contract was completed and the twenty miles are only that portion of the obligated money resulting in highway mileage completed. Many more miles will be finished from the rest of the $81,000,000. This remainder was expended on the initial portions of miles of uncompleted construction.

There is no political sleight of hand here. These are the cold facts upon which the Governor's budget were based. They are genuine; they reflect the highway needs of the Commonwealth. A proper hearing before this Legislature being denied, the Administration is willing to rest its case with the public.

I firmly believe that every item set forth in the Governor's Highway Budget and the continuation of the extra cent of gasoline tax are justified.

Mr. President, I want to point out to Senator Wade just a few facts in connection with this Highway Budget and the problems which arise out of his own District and which, I think, he might well have taken a few minutes to check as we did today with the Department of Highways. As I understand it, his home is in Cumberland County which is in a highway district comprising the counties of Cumberland, York, Lancaster, Lebanon, Perry, Dauphin, Franklin and Adams.

Mr. President, during the 1953-1955 biennium, in this highway district, $17,000,000 was spent for new construction, or contracts negotiated and entered into by the State. During this present biennium, under the administration in the Highways Department of Joseph Lawler, to date $26,000,000 has been spent. In other words, already there has been an increase of $9,000,000. By April 1, there will be an additional $19,623,000 worth of contracts advertised and signed. It is interesting to note that in Cumberland County alone, one of the projects about to be contracted and which should be completed by the first of the month, only a week or so away, is a bypass in Duncannon, Pennsylvania, just across the river, which will bypass Duncannon, a project in Cumberland and Perry Counties costing four and one-half million dollars. After the first of April, the highway program in Cumberland and the other counties in that highway district will be more than double what it was during the previous biennium.

Mr. President, I have an analysis of the Motor License Fund as of March 1, 1957, which I will not bother reading at this late hour. It consists of several pages and I ask that it be entered in the record as an exhibit so that all the Senators may avail themselves of it for study if they so wish.

The PRESIDENT. If there are no objections, the analysis submitted by the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator McMenamin, will be printed, together with his remarks, in the Legislative Journal.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT MOTOR LICENSE FUND
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
MOTOR LICENCE FUND MARCH 1, 1957

The balance available on March 1st was			$98,545,000
The State has flood disaster obligations of		$14,900,000
Township Funds in this balance
Under Act 340	$ 1,600,000
Under Act 655	15,000,000
Total obligations to townships		16,600,000
Balance of allocation due the Pennsylvania State Police		3,045,000
Total funds reserved			$34,545,000
Balance to meet construction contract payments and other Department obligations			64,000,000*

*NOTE: It is to be especially noted that a balance of $64,000,000 is indicated as available to the Highway Department on March 1, 1957 for construction contract payments and other Department obligations. However, against this $64,000,000 there already are, as is shown later, the following debits:

Costs already levied by the Public Utilities	$ 7,700,000
Commission to be paid by the Highway Department
Right-of-Way claims, some as many as five years old	50,000,000
Total	$57,700,000

These are ligitimate claims against the Highway Department; and if the Highway Department had had to pay all of them before March 1, 1957, the balance in the Motor License Fund at that time would have been, not $64,000,000 but less than $7,000,000.

MOTOR LICENSE FUND JUNE 1, 1957

As nearly as can be determined at this time, the condition of the Motor License Fund on June 1, 1957 will be as follows:

The estimated balance available June 1, 1957 will be			$116,100,000
The State will have flood disaster obligations of		$13,750,000
Township Funds in this balance
Under Act 340	$ 100,000
Under Act 655	2,000,000
Total obligations to townships		2,100,000
Total Funds Reserved			15,850,000
Balance to meet construction contract payments and other Department obligations			$100,250,000

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I notice that Senator Ehrgood is gone. I just wanted to make a few remarks. I wanted to tell him that I have ridden down through Lebanon lately and I noticed that Route 22 is being repaved right through the main street and widened by two feet. I also noticed there is a new bypass. Therefore, I think the new, young Senator had better open his eyes when he goes down home.

I want to say to Senator Fleming that we will not wait until next year to fight this out. This is the issue for our friend, Stacey, who is running against Senator Kopriver in Duquesne this year and I love it.

Mr .WADE. Mr. President, if I am correct I think you recognized me a moment ago, but the confusion is perfectly understandable because Senator Barr now resides in the Thirty-first District as we all know, so it is easy to make that error.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair could not distinguish between the two Senators from Cumberland.

Mr. WADE. That is most complimentary, Mr. President, I appreciate it.

Mr. President, we have heard a rather extended discussion, particularly by Senator Dent and Senator McMenamin. I want to say at the outset that I very much appreciate the information they have brought, and that the purpose of every Member of this Senate, together with the Members of the House, I firmly blieve, is to take advantage of every opportunity to improve Pennsylvania's highway system .

I noticed the distinguished Senator from Westmoreland pointing out different ones of us and in talking about our Districts he said if we pass this bill, you will lose certain amounts. He referred to Senator Propert, Senator Berger, Senator Taylor, Senator Mahany and others. Senator McMenamin just mentioned a little while ago the newspaper reports that are getting to be pretty general knowledge over the Commonwealth. I agree with Senator Dent and I am almost afraid to say this, because if we pass this bill and give the Highways Department the money that we believe they are entitled to, I am afraid we will lose it all if these reports are correct .

Then again he stated that if we do not give the Highways Department this extra cent of gasoline tax, we will cripple the Highways Department. Again, I refer to these reports. Senator McMenamin referred to them. They are reports that I believe have a place in this debate for the simple reason that this provision, embodied in House Bill No. 335 and House Bill No. 336, is raising money for the Highways Department and if the allegations and accusations are correct—there are ten of them, for the benefit of the Senator from Lackawanna, instead of five. If he would wish me to, I would gladly read them into the record and I shall do so later.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I think we are entitled to hear them. The gentleman mentioned them. I think everyone of them should be read into the record at this time.

Mr. WADE. Under some pressure, Mr. President, I shall be very glad indeed to do so.

These are allegations and accusations made by the Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh newspaper, under date of Sunday, March 17, 1957. Number one—I perhaps should start at the beginning of the article.

"The Pennsylvania department of highways has collapsed and the entire state roadbuilding program is in jeopardy.

"Only radical and immediate reformation from top to bottom will save the state from highway chaos.

"The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has made a lengthy and intensive study of the department's operations. The following statements were found to be true:"

1. "Trained highway engineers were fired because of political patronage."

2. "Non-qualified persons were hired to fill their places because of politics rather than highway know-how."

3. "Most trained highway engineers held over from the previous administration were booted around or placed in positions not justified by their qualifications."

4 "Engineers fired by the highways department have been hired at increased salaries by consulting firms to do the same work on state highway projects."

5. "New consulting engineering firms have sprung up almost overnight to grab off lush highway projects."

6. "Hundreds of unqualified highway inspectors have been hired" . . .

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, may I suggest to the distinguished Senator from Cumberland that he slow up in his reading because I want to keep track with him?

Mr. WADE. I shall be very glad to.

6. "Hundreds of unqualified highway inspectors have been hired through politics to pass on contractors' work."

7. "These inspectors have been kept on the payroll all winter, although the majority of construction jobs have been halted by the weather."

8 "There aren't enough qualified engineers in the highways department to check engineering plans after they have been completed by consulting engineering firms."

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, the gentleman skipped one. Now read it in.

Mr. WADE. I assure you it was not intentional if I did. This is the one I suppose I missed, Mr. President.

9. "The highways department is withholding millions of dollars owed contractors because it doesn't have qualified personnel to close jobs already completed."

10. "There are 25 county Democratic chairmen holding highway superintendent jobs in the state. The other 41 are also political appointments."

Now I understand—and I am no longer quoting—that Secretary Lawler refuted that statement and said there were only two. I want to say to him, if that is true, he has paid a great honor to the District which Senator Barr and I represent because two of the County Chairmen, Mr Shoemaker, from Mifflin, and Mr. Stump, from Carlisle, are both Democratic County Chairmen and they are both County Superintendents of Highways.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I do not want to take issue with the gentleman, but there are four and while the man is acting as chairman, he is wrong again because the chairman he talked about, Mr. Shoemaker, is not the County Superintendent. You should know more about your District.

Mr. WADE. I still maintain, Mr. President, that I am correct. He was appointed County Superintendent of Highways.

Mr. BARR. Senator, you question my word when I say that the man is not the County Superintendent, is that what I am to gather from that?

Mr. WADE. Senator Barr, I have the highest respect for you, sir, but if you say that that is correct, I will find out tonight. I know that he was appointed County Superintendent. He may have been fired, a lot of them have.

Mr. BARR. I will straighten you out. He works for the Highways Department, but he is not County Superintendent.

Mr. MAHANY. I think the Democrats owe our Senator, Senator Wade, the courtesy of hearing him without interruption, and I suggest that they allow Senator Wade to continue as we have allowed Senator Dent to continue, unless they want to raise a point of order.

Mr. DENT. I agree with the Senator, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I apologize.

Mr. WADE. Thank you very much, Mr. President. This is number eleven, and finally:

"Engineering blunders by one highway superintendent have cost the taxpayers approximately $140,000."

The article continues and there are continued articles, as Senator Dent mentioned this evening. Two new issues came through in the mail today. So much for that.

At the outset of Senator Dent's rather lengthy discussion, he said that the Republican Party always seemed to be able to put the Democratic Party in the position of asking for money. I submit to him that during my legislative career, and I refer particularly to the Earle Administration and to this particular Administration, it has been the plan and purpose apparently of the Democratic Administrations to spend more money than was forthcoming from the taxpayers. The same, I think he will agree, was true during the twenty years of Democratic control in Washington. Constantly the budgets were increased. I recall very well in 1931-1932 during the campaign for President when President Hoover's budget was some $4,700,000,000, President Roosevelt campaigned on an economy platform maintaining that he would cut the budget, and before he was finished being President his budget ran in excess of some $80,000,000,000.

Senator Dent also referred to the Highways Budget of 1949. I have some figures and would be glad to give them to the Senator, showing that these budgets were very small indeed compared with the budget we are considering for this biennium.

Then, too, he referred to the allocations to the political subdivisions. If the Senator remembers correctly, it was a Democratic bill, I grant. It came from a Democratic House two years ago and the allocation was for twenty per cent of four and one-half cents on a fifty-fifty basis, which would give the municipalities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh a decided advantage throughout the Commonwealth, over all the other municipalities throughout the Commonwealth.

Those amendments were made here in the Senate. They came from the Highways Committee. We worked with Senator Dent and his colleagues, and the final agreement to give twenty per cent of four and one-half cents as a permanent allocation came after pressure from the Republican side of this Senate and I think that that is a fair and honest statement.

The Senator further mentioned at some length that those allocations would be cut, and I maintain, Mr. President, as long as that law is on our books, it calls for the expenditure of twenty per cent of the four and one-half cents. Now the floor that was written here in the Senate was that the sum would not be less than $30,000,000 for the years of 1957 and 1958. That floor will expire, of course, with 1958, and we have already introduced a bill to maintain that floor as the Senator referred to awhile ago. So much for that.

Senator Dent said we should be honest with each other, and with that I agree. We are not debating as to whether or not we have a highway program or the best highway program in the United States. We all aspire to that. The former Republican Administrations aspired to that. The present Administration, I believe, is working toward that end. However, they seem to be working in a very handicapped manner at the present time if all these rumors and allegations are correct.

Now let us go back a little bit to the history of highways. I know that I am imposing on every Member of the Senate because it is already ten o'clock, but the Senator inferred that our highway programs were very small compared with the present ambitious one. Let me tell him that history says that Governor Bigler was the first Governor to ever advocate a highway plan in Pennsylvania. Prior to that, there was a law, according to history, on our books that required a man who owned land along a route laid out by the State to cut the trees down to the level of the ground in an area at least seven feet wide so that a horse-drawn or ox-drawn vehicle could be pulled over that trail. They were not paid for their rights of way, they were required to do that by the State of Pennsylvania. Then during Governor Pinchot's second term, when Charlie Bidelspacher was Chairman of the Highways Committee in the House, a twenty mile road program was added to the then existing highway plan. Those roads were gradually improved and I daresay to this Body, and I think Senator Dent will agree, that was perhaps the most forward step made under a Republican Administration the most forward step in highway building in Pennsylvania.

No we come up to the present time and our President, President Eisenhower, whose name as mentioned a few moments ago on this floor, has advocated and been able to convince Congress that they should pass the greatest highway program of any Nation on the globe in all history. It will undoubtedly, when completed, provide not only Pennsylvania but every state in the Union with the finest system of highways, both primary and secondary, that any nation has ever had. Those are all accomplishments during Republican Administrations.

Now, for example, let us go over to New York State. Their Legislature is slated to adjourn finally on this coming Saturday. They have a four cents gas tax, one cent less than the tax we propose under House Bill No. 335 and House Bill No. 336. They have been unable to push it any further. It is is a Democratic Administration and they throw up their hands and say that they are unable to get that accomplished. I ask you, is what is happening in New York State any tribute to the Democratic Party?

Senator McMenamin has referred also to some projects in my District. He referred to one on Route 15 at Rosegarden, now being built. I agree with him on that, and I asked the Senator whether that engineering was not planned under the previous Republican Administration.

Another bad spot at York Springs, he referred to. That also was engineered and planned under the previous Administration, if my information is correct.

The Senator also referred to callous disregard. I am in possession of a copy of a letter just written on March 21 to His Excellency, George Leader, Governor of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg.

"Dear Governor Leader:

"We are writing in regard to the conditions of the road between Mahanoy City, and Trenton" in Schuylkill County.

"This road passes through Bowmans, Shoemakers, and Park Place. The road isn't fit for a truck to drive over, much less, a car or a bus filled with children.

"We are two civic-minded teenagers and we would like to see the state do something about this road. Since the state has taken over the road, it has gotten worse.. At least when the Township owned the road, it was temporarily taken care of and the holes were filled from time to time.

"We suggest that you send a representative to look over the road and drive over it. Then he or she can report back to you.

"We would appreciate being notified of what action you see fit to take."

Signed by "Geraldine Wufus" W-u-f-s-u-s—and "Ann Marie Malasavage" M-a-l-a-s-a-v-a-g-e. Copies were sent to Senator Paul Wagner and Representative Ivor D. Fenton.

Senator McMenamin's discourse was really more of a tirade against yours truly, and that is all right. That is perfectly within his privileges and prerogatives. It really does not matter. I simply expressed to the Senate what I believed were the true figures of the Highways Department and the Highways Department's revenues. Senator McMenamin has been courteous enough to send me a copy of his statement, and I should like to inquire why it was necessary to revise the Governor's Budget from March 5 until three weeks later.

Now on March 5, the Governor in this printed Budget stated that the balance on hand as of June 1 was estimated to be $65,921,966. Three weeks later, he revised that to conform with the figures given to the Senate yesterday, stating that the estimated balance as of June 1, 1957 would be around $100,000,000. He uses the figure of $100,250,000. Then further in that Budget, on page 3, he estimates the amount of highway funds at $647,550,000, where he leaves out entirely the estimated amount of Federal-aid of $205,800,000 on page 3, or a total of $853,400,000, which has grown in three weeks from $720,000,000, or a difference of $133,400,000 that the fund has grown in three weeks.

Also I have searched honestly and diligently in the printed Budget submitted by the Governor's Budget Office as the Eighteenth Biennial Budget, and I do not find any figures at all covering items in the statement given me by Senator MeMenamin and they cover these articles:

1. "Required to pay costs of Public Utility Commission action levied prior to June 1, 1957, $7,800,000; levied June 1, 1957 to May 31, 1959, $7,500,000; or a total of $15,300,000.

2. "Required to pay right-of-way damages, some as old as five years, $55,000,000."

Now I again repeat that not a single one of these items is to be found in this Budget. If they are, I am unable to find them in there.

3. "Contract obligations expected to be paid prior to June 1, 1957 but which will be paid subsequent thereto; execution of work retarded, $31,000,000; plans delayed, $10,800,000;" total, $112,100,000.

Estimated expenses, if you will, in this statement handed to me by Senator MeMenamin's messenger, which are not in the Budget, total $112,100,000.

Now I am not alleging that Senator McMenamin has distorted the facts. I firmly believe that he is honest in every figure that he gave me but I believe that he has been entirely misled just as I believe Senator Dent has been misled.

May I ask further why, in less than three weeks, was the estimated cash balance in the Budget revised from $65,000,000 to $100,000,000, which makes the Governor's Budget as of today, three weeks after it was published, obsolete?

Pennsylvania's gas tax is as much or more than our adjoining States. Ohio, for example, has a five cent gas tax such as we will have with the enactment of House Bill No. 335 and House Bill No. 336. New York, to which I referred just a few moments ago, has a current gas tax of four cents. New Jersey has a gas tax of four cents. Now New Jersey happens to be located on traffic routes leading into the largest city in the world. Their highways are subjected to tremendous traffic. They get along on a four cents gas tax and you will agree that their roads are very satisfactory. Delaware has a five cents gas tax, and so I could go on.

Let me say, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, that I firmly believe the Governor could take the $100,000,000 reported unexpended cash balance as of June 1, 1957 and immediately finance Pennsylvania's share of the Federal Highway Program and use the receipts from the four and one-half cent gas tax, less the allocations to the subdivisions, plus the motor license fees and other sources of revenue to carry out the regular highway activities for the next biennium.

Now I repeat, Mr. President, our main purpose and sole intent, and I feel that I am speaking for every Republican in the House or Senate, is to first take advantage of every opportunity to build roads, more roads and better and safer roads in this Commonwealth; secondly, to preserve and carefully use and account for every single cent of tax funds levied by us as the Legislature and help the Highways Department, if we can continue to have confidence in the Administration's Highways Department, toward a better highway system, and to see further, as far as we can, that moneys from the Motor License Fund allocated to the municipalities are just and wisely spent. In this connection, it now appears that moneys allocated to these various municipalities throughout the Commonwealth may be better and more carefully used than those expended by our present Highways Department.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I yield to the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. McMenamin.

Mr. McMenamin. Mr. President, I do not know whether all of the questons directed to me by our distinguished friend, Senator Wade, were rhetorical or whether they were direct questions asking for a direct answer tonight.

In reference to a couple of them, I would say that generally speaking the comparisons are odious and I do not think that Pennsylvania's problems can be compared to either New York's or New Jersey's problems. New Jersey, for one, has undoubtedly a much higher per capita density of population than Pennsylvania has. It is a smaller State with a larger per square mile average population and, therefore, it is able to collect out of the same type of area a greater amount of money percentage-wise than we can in a much larger State in area with a lesser population density. Certainly, their construction costs cannot approach ours. New Jersey, generally speaking, is flat level country and Pennsylvania is mountainous. I would guess, without knowing all of the facts, that the cost of constructing a highway per mile in Pennsylvania is as costly as it is in any State in the Union.

Mr. President, I do not think that Senator Wade, as a Pennsylvanian, should brag about New York State's highways. I am very proud of the fact that we, in Pennsylvania, have, I believe, the finest highways of any State in the Union. I do not know of any other State that can compare with them. Certainly, New York cannot. I do not drive in New York a great deal, but let me point out to the Senator, perhaps he does more than I do. However, a great many Pennsylvanians certainly do drive U. S. Route 11, which goes through Harrisburg and on its northward journey it goes through Watertown, New York, and on up around Massena toward Montreal. Many Pennsylvanians use that highway as far north as Watertown to go fishing in Lake Ontario or in the Thousand Islands area of the St. Lawrence River and further into Canada. Yet, between two major cities, Binghamton and Syracuse, there is a winding, twisting, two-lane beat up highway. Nowhere in Pennsylvania, between two such populous cities on such a heavily traveled route, will we find such an old-fashioned highway. Therefore, as far as I am concerned, as a Pennsylvanian whatever New York has is no criterion. I think we are miles ahead of New York as far as highways are concerned, both in total number of miles and in the quality of the construction.

I am reminded also that New Jersey's highway tax burden is eased by the fact that the New York Port Authority owns and controls most of the roads and the approaches going into the city and the port of New York.

If Senator Wade wants other questions answered, I will do my best to get the answers for them. Any criticism of the fact that there may be a change in some of these figures in three weeks time might be due to the fact that highway planning takes a long time. That is one thing we have been trying to get across to these people. Blueprints, plans, bridge designs and so forth start on the drafting board more than two years, in many instances, from the time that the draftsman first starts to work until the ribbon opening the bridge is cut. If three weeks seems a short time to Senator Wade for a man to change his mind or a figure to change, let him remember that only two weeks ago he changed his mind on this very subject which is being debated tonight.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I yield to the gentleman from Potter, Senator Berger.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, inasmuch as the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, has been kind enough to refer to the diamond clasp and the gem necklace of the northern tier of Pennsylvania and referred to Potter County in its proper position there, I feel that I should hark back a little bit to some history in connection with some of the matters which have been discussed here tonight on both sides.

I might say in passing, however, that I wish Senator Dent would also recall that I represent the two other great counties in northern Pennsylvania, McKean and Tioga.

Under interrogation, Mr. President, Senator Ehrgood said that he could not recall the number of Republicans who had been fired and Senator Dent said that he wondered whether there had been any Democrats employed prior to the present Administration. I do not know; I have no answers as far as figures are concerned from my own county, but I might recite one incident with which I am very familiar and that is that under our Republican Administration of the Highways Department, we had two Democrats that I know of working for us and we never questioned their registration However, as soon as this change over came, those two Democrats who were on the payroll got fired to make a place for two Republicans who changed their registrations.

Mr. President, Senator Dent has said that the county of Potter, which presently receives $188,000 out of the twenty per cent of four and one-half cents of the gasoline tax which is returned to the municipalities, would lose money if this one cent tax were not continued. First of all, I well recall that when this tax was put on, there was complete unanimity among both Parties that this we must do in order to relieve the distress caused by Hurricane Diane. I do not know how much of the proceeds of that one cent have been expended by the Highways Department for that purpose, but I am informed that there is a comfortable balance left from the proceeds of that emergency one cent tax.

I well recall a meeting of the Highways Committee of the Senate when the bill relating to the allocation of funds back to the local municipalities was under discussion. Senator Dent and I were there, although neither of us happened to be members of that committee, Senator Barr was there and he was a member of the committee, of course, among others. We had under discussion this bill which would return twenty per cent of four and one-half cents of the gasoline tax to the local municipalities. However, my interest in being there was to make sure that the formula of sixty per cent on mileage and forty per cent on population was not changed. Although the figures which had been sent out to the various townships and boroughs in my District showed that they would receive more money under this. nevertheless, by changing the formula, they actually would receive less percentage money because of the fact that it would then be weighed heavily in favor of the more populous areas. As you all know, it turned out that the formula remained unchanged. Although, I will say that Senator Barr and Senator Dent argued their case very strongly, it was recalled that this originally was a township road bill to aid township roads. Gradually, the larger municipalities came in and began to participate under various amendments made by this Legislature.

However, Mr. President, this is the point that I want to make tonight. When they said that if this one cent is not continued, the municipalities will get less money than they are receiving under the present floor which we have put at $30,000,000 per year back to the municipalities, Senator Dent and I argued most strongly and, I believe, we agreed on this amendment that this floor of $30,000,000 should be put in there because it might happen that in some future Session, under some future Governor, rather this twenty per cent of four and one-half cents might not equal $30,000,000 or that they would wish to reduce it. Because of that, we wanted to make sure that the municipalities would always receive at least $60,000,000 in the biennium.

I do not understand, Mr. President, how, in the face of that type of assurance, it is possible to come here tonight and say that they are apt to lose as much as $8,000,000 on the biennial appropriation back to the townships. boroughs and third class cities. It seems to me that it is an obligation not only upon the Administration but also upon the Members of the Senate, who advocated this and assisted in having it put into the bill so that this could not happen, to see that that $30,000,000 floor remains in this bill and that the townships, the boroughs and the cities, all of them, receive the amount of return out of this gasoline tax which they have been assured they would get in the past.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I have been listening to this debate here tonight and I paid particular attention to the remarks made by Senator Wade. I might say to the Membership here that he, as usual, very astutely eliminated a number of factors which I think would be of interest to the Members of the Senate. First, when he was talking about the cost of operations in Pennsylvania and he compared New York, New Jersey, Ohio Delaware and several other States, he forgot to mention the total number of miles of highway in Pennsylvania compared with these other States about which he talked. He also talked about the legislation which Senator Berger just finished discussing; that is, the reallocation to the political subdivisions last year.

If I recall correctly, Senator Wade put an article in the Harrisburg Evening News whereby he and Senator Taylor took credit for the passage of this legislation. At that time, I believe I questioned him on that point because, if I recall correctly, he accused me of playing politics and having the bill passed over in order for about a week and a half in order to have a proper amendment prepared whereby we would guarantee the $30,000,000 as a floor. Senator Dent, himself, was the man who offered the amendment which you people accepted.

You infer that we were not here as far as that legislation is concerned, because you say that it was pressure from the Republican side of the Senate which caused us to vote for this legislation. That is not correct either. As a matter of fact, when the bill came over from the House, we on the Democratic side, from the rural areas, did not say that we were in agreement with the subject matter as far as the formula was concerned. We, being concerned with the smaller districts, such as boroughs and townships, voted to accept your amedments. However, those amendments were approved over here by a majority of the Democratic Members. Therefore, Mr. President, just to keep the record straight in order for everyone to know, we on the Democratic side were not pressured by you people on the Republican side, because we have the interest and the welfare and the well-being of the people of the smaller communities at heart, and we are happy that we had the legislation passed.

I believe if you people on the other side are sincere and if you are not shedding crocodile tears on behalf of those people in the smaller districts, you will support Senator Barr's amendments. Otherwise, I think the only conclusion that anyone could arrive at would be that you are playing politics.

Mr. WADE. Very briefly, Mr. President, a few moments ago I think I used the years of 1957 and 1958 in discussing the allocation to the municipalities. The correct years are 1956 and 1957.

I would like to say further to Senator Lane of Washington County that, after the caution of Senator Dent that we be honest with each other, I think if he will look into the record, the amendments giving the present formula and setting the floor of $30,000,000 for those years, were sponsored by Senator Dent and myself.

I would like to remind him further—I dislike very much being accused of playing politics because you would realize that that is the furtherest thing from my mind as well as it is from the mind of Senator Lane—that if Senator Lane will recall, and I am injecting another subject matter in here, it was the pressure of the Republican side of the Senate that returned to the farming population of Pennsylvania the refund of the gasoline tax used in agriculture.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I am happy that the gentleman does not play politics. If he can think of anything else that they want credit for on the other side, we will be glad to give it to them. He reminds me of the Russians. They are always claiming that they invented baseball, they invented the Statue of Liberty, they invented everything worth-while in the whole world. That is what is happening now.

The Republicans gave the farmers their money, but why did they not give it to them when they had a Republican Governor? They give everything good while they have a Democratic Governor. The 100 per cent refund to the farmers came under Governor Leader. Maybe you do not know that, but that is what happened. The allocations to the local communities were raised from $36,000,000 to $60,000,000 under a Democratic Governor. Why did you not do it before?

Very sincerely, I want to say this to Senator Wade and to others on the other side who are always throwing New York, New Jersey and Ohio into our teeth. If I thought as little of Pennsylvania as you fellows profess to, I would move out of the State. I love Pennsylvania and I do not think there is a comparison you can make between this and any State in the Union except an odious comparison on their side.

Everytime we talk, they tell us how good it is in Ohio, how good it is in Michigan, how good it is in New Jersey. Certainly they have some things that we do not have. I live near some people who have much more than I have. However, I do not run my own family down because my family cannot have what my neighbors' families have.

Why do you not bring in your favorite State in comparison, California which has a seven cent gasoline tax? Sure, they have six-lane roads and many thoroughfares out there. However, they do not have them unless they spend money.

Senator Wade knows that he sat in this General Assembly and he voted for the five cent gasoline tax under a Republican Governor, with a Republican House and a Republican Senate, when New York still had a four cent gasoline tax. Why did he do that if it was so bad? If four cents was enough in New York, and he now says it is enough in Pennsylvania, why did he vote for an extra cent? Senator Wade voted for the five cent tax in 1949 when there was no Federal Road Program and he was only giving the local communities $16,000,000. Yet, today, in the face of rising costs, Senator Wade says that we do not need any more money.

Regarding the allegations that Senator Wade read to the Senate, I am sure he will not stand up on the floor and say they are true. He keeps saying in a nice, professional insurance man way, "I am not going to say that they are true, but this is what they say." If you do not believe they are true, then do not repeat them. Only gossip mongers do that.

I will tell you why there is $100,000,000 in that fund, because of this. You received it today; you are bragging about it. Why do you not read it? Why do you not read this paper to the Senate? "Slow pay, the State road builders cry." Some of them have been waiting two years for their money. Yes, with Secretary Lawler and the Secretary of Highways twenty years from now, they will wait twenty years until they live up to their contracts. There is nothing holding up their money. Most of it is now being held up because it is in arbitration. They are discussing the matter of whether they have lived up to their contracts. If you want the Secretary of Highways to pay money out before the contracts have been fulfilled, then you are not living up to your duty as a Senator. Yes, the $100,000,000 might be there instead of $65,000,000, but it is earmarked for expenditure. It is like saying that a man owes ten dollars to his neighbor, but he will go out and spend ten dollars because he does not have to pay his neighbor. That is not the way to do things. These moneys are earmarked.

You made another allegation, Senator Wade, and I do not think you should have made it unless you read the record. You said that we are employing a lot of unqualified firms to do our engineering work. I would like to ask you something.

Here is the list of firms which have the contracts in Pennsylvania. Would you like to examine them, Senator Wade? Would you like to pick out the ones which are unqualified and accuse them of not being qualified? Would you like to pick out your own firm here in Dauphin County? Would you like to pick out, for instance, Robert W. Lowry with $28,000,000 worth of work? Would you say he is unqualified? Would you like to pick out Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter with $67,000,000 worth of work? Would you say they are unqualified? Would you like to pick out Michael Baker, Jr., with $142,000,000 and say they are unqualified? Would you like to pick out Erdman, Smock and Hosley with $3,000,000 and say they are unqualified? Would you like to pick out Edwards, Kelcy and Beck, with $8,000,000, and say they are unqualified? Would you like to pick out Gwin Engineers with $12,000,000 and say they are unqualified? Would you like to pick out Green Engineering Firm, with $10,000,000, and say they are unqualified? Would you like to pick out Harris, Dechant, McCormick, Taylor and Associates, with $33,000,000, and say they are unqualified? Would you like to pick out Damon and Foster, out in your county, with $12,000,000, and say that they are unqualified?

I might say to the Members of this Senate that ninety-five per cent of the firms appearing upon this ledger as having received the engineering contracts in the State of Pennsylvania are Republican firms in this State. If they are unqualified, then it is an indictment of your own particular engineering firms. In this paper you can find every road contract given in the last two years. They are open for inspection. I do not like allegations being put into the Senate record without any qualification whatsoever.

Since when has the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph become an authority on Pennsylvania highways? We have in Pennsylvania many great newspaper institutions and yet, out of all of these, one newspaper suddenly decides that everything is wrong in the State of Pennsylvania. Of course, those of us who live in western Pennsylvania have learned one thing about the Sun-Telegraph and that is, a Republican can do no wrong and a Democrat can do no right. Therefore, we take their stories with a grain of salt.

Senator Wade, I do not think you are hard of hearing. I read to this Senate earlier in the evening the fact that there are 2,900 technical employees in the Department of Highways. Out of the 2,900, eighteen have been dismissed. Yet, in the face of my making that statement on this floor and asking you to check the records if you so desired, you smilingly read into the record an allegation in a newspaper that qualified personnel were being dismissed because of political patronage. That is a peculiar thing.

Twenty years ago under Governor Earle, we heard a great deal about political patronage, about qualified people being taken off of their jobs. I remember one institution in my county, Torrance State Hospital, and if ever there was a mental institution that was in a deplorable condition that one was. We won the election, although you fellows on the other side have never yet learned it. However, we won that election by the grace of God and the voters of the State. We appointed a new Superintendent at Torrence State Hospital and a new Board. It took us two years to name a Board. We had a Republican Senate and it would not confirm. We finally obtained enough votes in the Senate and confirmed a new Board. We cleaned up the institution and the records will show that we cleaned it up. On January 2, Governor James took office and I think that within twenty-four hours he fired the Board and the superintendent. Not one little whisper appeared in the newspapers about firing Democrats. When the Republicans took office, year after year, and a new Republican Governor came in, he fired Republicans, but not one word was printed about the fact that he had fired Republicans because it was a Republican Administration.

I do not make any bones about it. If there is a job in this Capitol that is held by a Republican and a Democrat can fill that job, I am in favor of the Democrat having it, just as you Republicans for sixteen years filled every job on Capitol Hill with Republicans. To stand up now and complain because we are dismissing a handful of Republicans and putting in Democrats—if you want to get rid of the patronage system, why do you not do it when you are in office? Not one civil service bill was ever passed under the Republicans, not one. All of a sudden everybody wants civil service. Who wants it? The people who are out want it.

I will venture to say here that none of you read the New York Times, two weeks ago Sunday, when President Eisenhower was asking for them to eliminate some 63,000 jobs now held by civil service employees in Washington because he said that civil service brings on incompetence. He wants them dismissed. However, none of you complained about that. I will tell you why he wants them dismissed. He wants them dismissed because the State Chairmen of the Republican Party in the various States are screaming because they do not have any patronage. President Eisenhower must get rid of the civil service in Washington to give them patronage.

If it hurts you to see a highway worker dismissed and another worker put in his place simply because he is a Democrat, just think of our feelings for sixteen years when there was not a man qualified in the whole Democratic Party to shovel snow on the highways. I beg the pardon of Senator Berger. Somehow two Democrats sneaked onto the payroll up there. You know, I am beginning to think that when the Democrats fired them, they must have known why they sneaked on.

Senator Wade, as Chairman of the Highways Committee, you stand before this Senate and honestly say that they do not need another penny of taxation in this State, which is not already on the books. Senator Berger, from Potter, said that there will be a residue in the fund from the one cent Diane emergency tax. Do you realize, under this bill that you are passing tonight, that you stop the collection of the present tax three months prior to its expiration? You stop the collection of three months and thirteen days, and it amounts to something near $7,000,000 which you are depriving the State Highway Fund of in moneys from a law on the statute books today. You are stopping the one cent tax on May 31. If you think there is any extra money in there and if you think that floor which was placed in goes beyond May 31, then you do not know the law.

I will guarantee you that I am not fooling when I say that Potter County loses the amount of money that I gave you a minute ago. You know me better than that. I do not fool about figures and I never stand upon this floor and tell you anything unless I believe it. No one wrote this speech for me because I had not quite decided which one I was going to use. However, in all sincerity, I wish you would go along and let this bill go over in order so that we may decide this matter on the basis of need rather than on the basis of political expediency.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, very briefly, I want to say that I believe I found at least a partial solution for some of the problems which have been discussed here tonight.

I happened to read in the newspaper a few weeks ago, and I believe it to be a fact, that the Highways Department has withheld an allocation of some $29,000,000 which had been named for improvement of Route 6 which runs through my District.

Mr. President, we are very intensely interested up there in that area to have this Federal Interstate Highway, from the east to west, run approximately on the route of U.S. 6. I say to you and the Members of the Senate, and to the Highways Department, that they are welcome to keep that $29,000,000 and use $9,000,000 of it to make up the deficit which might occur in the returns to the municipalities if they will forget about building that so-called shortway across the rough terrain of the center of Pennsylvania and put that Federal Interstate Highway on the of U.S. 6 as it presently runs.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I just want to briefly set Senator Wade right on another statement he made here a little while ago.

It so happens that I have a very vivid recollection of what happened during the last Session. In speaking in regard to the tax refunds to the farmer, if I recall correctly and I am quite sure that I am correct, Senator Wade stood over at the microphone and argued that the farmers of Pennsylvania should receive a 100 per cent refund, based primarily upon a bill which George Leader sponsored here when he was a Member of this Senate. Of course, their objective was to put we Democrats on the spot with the residents of the rural communities. However, we decided to take the bill on the basis that that was what Leader wanted and we were also for it.

I want to call to Senator Wade's attention that he has served since 1931, I believe. He served under a number of Republican Administrations. During all that time, the Republican Governors and the Republican Administrations did not see fit to give the farmers a 100 per cent refund. It was only when we had a Democratic Administration that this was brought about.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong this debate and it is not my purpose to either defend or condemn anyone. However, I do think that a few things should be clarified.

Mr. President, I have a copy of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph here from which Senator Wade read a number of so-called charges. The first one reads as follows:

"Trained highway engineers were fired because of political patronage."

I heard that among those who were fired were the top echelon in the Department of Highways. In order that we set the record straight—and I am wrong you may correct me—the top echelon in the Department of Highways, before this Administration took over, were the following:

Mr. Buckius, who was not fired but resigned; Mr. Warrick, the Assistant Chief Engineer in charge of construction, who was not fired but resigned; Mr. Van Riper was the Chief Engineer of Design who was not fired but resigned; Mr. Mason, the Assistant to Mr. Warrick, was not fired but resigned; Mr. Dittmar was the Chief of Right of Way, and he was not fired but resigned; and Mr. Caulkins was the Assistant to Mr. Van Riper, and he was not fired but resigned.

Mr. President, it depends a great deal on how a newspaper wants to present a story. This newspaper, if it were going to favor the Democrats, could have said what I am going to say now. These people resigned either because of planned sabotage or because they were ashamed of themselves for the reason that those who came into power two years ago inherited a mess in the Department of Highways.

When they took over the Department of Highways, they found no long range program for highway construction. There were very few highway design contracts awarded. This is indicated by the fact that during the last two years of the Fine Administration, I understand that just about $3,000,000 or $3,500,000 was spent for highway design. During the last two years, that amount was increased to about ten and one-half million. This indicates a speed-up of the highway construction program.

Here is one more very interesting fact. When the Federal Government decided to inauguarate a Federal Highway Program, the highway officials under the previous Administration, when they were asked to submit their survey on cost needs upon which the Federal allocation was to be based, submitted to the Federal Government a figure of $750,000,000 for the thirteen year period for which highway funds will be allocated. When the new Administration came in, following a resurvey, a figure of $2,000,000,000 was submitted to the Federal Roads Commission, which is going to handle the Federal Highway Program.

From facts and figure that I gave to the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, he will note that the allocations by States are listed. He will find, based on the estimates that this Administration gave to the Federal officials, that we will receive in Pennsylvania for the year 1957 about $101,000,000 and for 1958, we will receive about $138,000,000. Therefore, for a two-year period, 1957-1958, we will receive about $240,000,000 which, of course, must be matched.

I say it would be a mistake if we did not retain this one cent gasoline tax because we are liable to forfeit some of this Federal money over this thirteen year period. The fact that our highway program has been stepped up, as has been indicated through the engineering contracts that were awarded, we are going to need a great deal more money to complete the projects which are now either in preparation or under design than were prepared by previous Administrations.

Mr. President, I also read in one of these statements here a release written by a gentleman by the name of Mr. West. It appeared in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. I want to call your attention to the fact that perhaps he is squawking because he is not getting enough in fees. I do not know what he received from all over the State, but this is what he got down in my highway district. In a nine month period, for engineering fees, he received $220,972.25. I believe that is a great deal more than he received from previous Administrations, which is another indication that there is a stepped-up highway program now in progress.

There are eleven districts in Pennsylvania, as I understand it, and you are talking about firing district engineers. I suppose some of them were replaced, and that you will find under a political system anywhere, unless it is under civil service and very few highway departments are under civil service. However, out of the eleven, four of the districts are still manned by Republicans.

In Lycoming County you have a Republican, the same fellow who was there, by the name of Fries, I think. In Philadelphia you have Weigert, in Erie you have Gahagan. Out in Indiana County you have Lepold, who was just recently transferred here to Harrisburg.

I will say that so far as my district is concerned—and I can only talk about my district because I do not know about the rest of the State, and I think Senator Van Sant and Senator Scott will back me up on this—eighty-five per cent of the trained personnel in our highway district are holdovers and Republicans. The district engineer was not retained because he committed suicide. The person who took his place, unfortunately, died from a heart attack. The district engineer, who is down there now, formerly served over here in Cumberland County. As a matter of fact, we took a good engineer from Northampton County and loaned him to the Department of Highways to get things in shape over here in Cumberland County. Recently he was transferred to Northampton County. I defy anyone to say that he is not a competent engineer. His name is Rothermund. He is doing a grand job for us in the district which I partly represent, just as he did a good job up in the Cumberland District.

Therefore, Mr. President and Members of this Senate, I say to you that if you want to take advantage of the Federal money that we can get and in order that some other State will not get a part of our allocation and so that we can complete a highway system that is better than none, we better make the money available for it. The way to do that is to retain this one cent.

Just one more thing, Mr. President. I read statements in the Sun-Telegraph that were attributed to Mr. Wiesenberger, who formerly served as Chief Engineer of the Highways Department and as Deputy Secretary of Highways. Here is a statement that he released today, and I want to quote it:

"I am compelled by recent publicity to make a clarifying statement regarding my position in the controversy involving the Pennsylvania Department of Highways.

"Like other professional persons who have been in private practice and then assumed a high State position, there were times when I found myself in disagreement over practices and procedures related to departmental operations.

"When I assumed my position with the Highway Department, I recognized that the Secretary was a layman and that there would be differences of opinions on technical problems. These differences became aggravated over the months and finally reached a breaking point.

"Of course, I have, in private conversations, expressed my personal opinions. However, I want it clearly understood that they were strictly personal opinions and not to be construed as an indictment of the Department of Highways.

"The charges against the Highway Department were called to my attention for the first time on March 17th, when I returned from Florida.

"I want to state that I did not, at any time, give the Pittsburgh paper facts which would justify printing of the alleged charges.

"Statements which I have made heretofore indicate that the present Administration inherited an undesirable situation in that there was no long range highway program and the Department had suffered a loss of technical personnel. This condition was aggravated by the announcement of the enormous Federal road building program which opened up many opportunities for employment for engineers and other technical persons who had experience in the highway field. Most of the technical personnel who left the employment of the State of Pennsylvania did so voluntarily. In all probability, more will leave when they become eligible for retirement.

"Based on my contacts with other States, I know that this same situation obtains in every other Highway Department in the 48 states.

"I am a Professional Engineer, and therefore will not allow anyone to use me for political purposes. Undoubtedly, there are matters which need adjustment in the Highway Department today; however, the same criticism can be applied to previous administrations.

"In my opinion, the progress and achievements made in the past two years out-distance any previous record."

Based on this statement, I cannot see how the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph could infer that its accusations contained in these various newspapers should carry any weight, especially, as I said before, since Mr. Weisenberger issued this statement today to clarify his position and the situation.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, as everyone here knows, I come from the city of Philadelphia. In Philadelphia, we are not as familiar with the road needs of the rest of the sixty-six counties. However, I have heard the argument advanced here that the Republican Party stands for a reduction in taxes because that is what the people want.

Now the question is, is this a reduction of taxes? When Senator Dent gives me figures, and, gentlemen, I believe Senator Dent's figures, he tells me that the difference between the present bill and the Barr amendments would mean a loss of revenue of $940,000 to the city of Philadelphia, and proportionate losses to various other cities and municipalities. Now the city of Philadelphia will have to make this money up by taxes, either by raising their wage tax or raising their real estate tax. "Therefore, where is the saving? Is it not merely a transfer of taxation from the State to the local municipality and, at the same time, jeopardizing some $240,000,000 that we may get from the Federal Government?

I cannot see this argument of reduction in taxes when all you are doing is transferring this easily collected tax, a tax that people do not feel badly at all about paying, and transferring that burden simply to your municipalities and jeopardizing a possible contribution of some $240,000,000 from the Federal Government.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I had agreed with my Caucus earlier today that I would not read into the record the statement I am about to read into the record.

Senator Yosko's quote of the former Chief Engineer of the State Highways Department, as of today, prompts me to read into the record a quote from the Morning Call of Allentown, on Monday, March 18, 1957. The headline read:

"Chief Who Quit Agrees Road Program is in Danger; Assails State Patronage"

The story reads:

"Arthur L. Wiesenberger of Allentown, who resigned last fall as deputy secretary and chief engineer of the State Highways Department, agrees with the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that the 'entire state road program is in jeopardy'.

"When Wiesenberger resigned in September he said it was due to differences of opinion with Joseph J. Lawler, state highways secretary."

Sub-heading: " 'Why I Resigned'

"Last night after examining an Associated Press account of the Pittsburgh news story, Wiesenberger said, 'The public is entitled to the real explanation of why I resigned. They've got it now.

" 'The story by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is justified. The situation is definitely true,' Wiesenberger said.

"The Associated Press report, published in the Sunday Call-Chronicle, quoted the Sun-Telegraph as saying, 'only radical and immediate reformation from top to bottom will save the state highway chaos. Non-qualified persons were hired to fill the places of trained engineers who were fired because of political patronage.' "

Another sub-heading is: " 'Dedicated Professionals'

"Wiesenberger, when he resigned last September, indicated that he fought job changes based on patronage. His theory is that engineers are among today's most sought-after professional personnel. Political differences should have nothing to do with whether they occupy a post as long as they are qualified, he feels.

"Last night, Wiesenberger noted that directly after his resignation the state hired a man named Harold F. Jerrold, who had been with the Ohio State Highways Department. Jerrold was made deputy secretary of Pennsylvania highways. He resigned after four weeks.

" 'Secretary Lawler and others in government must learn that dedicated professional people will not stand for political pressure. They accept work with government, at salaries lower than they can get in private industry, because they are dedicated to certain ideals. They won't be pushed around,' Wiesenberger said.

"To support his argument, the Allentown engineer observed that among persons who resigned in recent months from the State Highways Department were H. G. Van Riper, Chief Design Engineer; William Caulkins, Assistant chief of design; William Warrick, chief construction engineer, and his assistant, Fred Mason; and Al Ditmer, chief right-of-way engineer.

"In addition Wiesenberger said about five of the eleven district engineering offices in the department are functioning with 'acting engineers'.

"The Sun-Telegraph said organization within the department has 'collapsed.' It quoted the Associated Pennsylvania Constructors meeting at Atlantic City, as charging that 'the present situation in the Highways Department is deplorable and must be corrected immediately.' "

I have no further comment except to read into the record the quote from the Allentown Morning Call, of Allentown, Monday, March 18, 1957.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, there seems to be a difference of opinion as to the charges that have been made by one of the Pittsburgh papers. I personally think they are irresponsible. I think the people of Pennsylvania are entitled to the full facts and to an immediate answer.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. McMenamin, Mr. President, although it is out of order, I would now move that we suspend the rule and I offer a resolution and ask for its immmediate adoption. I ask unanimous consent to do so.

Mr. President, that resolution is introduced on behalf of myself and the entire Democratic Caucus. I believe all of the Democratic Senators have signed it:

Mr. MAHANY. I would like to see one.

Mr. President, I do not want to clutter up this record any more than it already is. Perhaps this resolution, which Senator McMenamin seeks to offer, is a good one and may be if he comes over here he might find some Republicans that would like to sign with the Democrats on it. I do not think it has any place in this particular matter now before us.

I suggest to the Senator that he wait until we dispose of the matter before the Senate, which is the adoption of Senator Barr's amendments, and then we will be glad to act upon his resolution.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE WITHDRAWN

Mr. McMenamin. Mr. President, that is agreeable to me, and I withdraw my motion to suspend the rule.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, in the last couple of days I have heard a lot of rumors on this floor about hiring and firing. I was hurt yesterday to hear Senator Wade, a man whom I admired very much, get on this floor and pass out rumors. I do not object to rumors at home or over a clothes line, but on the Senate floor I abhor rumors coming from any Senator. We have heard a lot here for a couple of days about hiring and firing.

What I am about to say is not rumor; it is facts. In In all the history of Pennsylvania, there has never been a Secretary of Highways who kept more holdovers on the payroll than Joe Lawler. In all the history of Pennsylvania there has never been a Secretary of Highways who has fired less people from the payroll than Joe Lawler. In all the history of Pennsylvania, there never been a Secretary of Highways who has appointed to the payroll less members of his own Party than Joe Lawler.

Therefore, Mr. President, it would seem to me that in a case like this when a Highways Secretary has done those things and the record shows it, he should not be crucified here by rumors or newspaper articles which do not have any foundation.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I hesitated to get into this when we were up in the big leagues of the Sun-Telegraph, but since Senator Van Sant got down into my league, I want to offer some evidence on this particular question.

In my District we have no big metropolitan newspapers, but we have some small, influential grass root dailies. I am unhappy to report that none of them carry the Democratic label. However, despite this fact, I want to read into the record an editorial of March 23, 1957 which bears on this particular question from the Clearfield Progress, printed in Clearfield and Curwensville, Pennsylvania. The title of the editorial is:

"Highway Probe Unwarranted Here" and I quote from the article as follows:

"Investigations by the political party in control of the State Legislature or Congress of the other party's administration always follow a change of control of power. Probably such investigations are good as a check on the party in power to keep its record clean.

"One of the latest investigations proposed will come before the State House of Representatives Monday for approval and calls for a complete investiagtion of the State Highways Department. A Republican-sponsored bill was reported out of the House Appropriations Committee and will go on the House Calendar for Monday. House passage by Wednesday so that it can be sent to the Senate is possible.

"There may be some justification for such an investigation. We can't speak with knowledge of the statewide situation. We do question the need for such an investigation if District 2, with headquarters in Clearfield, is typical of the statewide highways department administration." I think District 2, parenthetically, includes Potter County. "Here in District 2, we've had more road building, more coming up this year and more planning for the future in the past two years than we had in the previous four years by a big margin.

"The man most responsible for the heavy construction program in Clearfield County—over $5,000,000 worth in 1955-56 and more to come this year—is W. Roy Mosteller, District 2 Engineer. Mr. Mosteller was one of the targets of an article in a Pittsburgh newspaper Thursday reporting demands of the Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers that key positions in the Highways Department be held by registered engineers. Mr. Mosteller, it seems, is not registered as an engineer in Pennsylvania. He is a practical construction man with years of experience in road building behind him.

"If Mr. Mosteller's lack of a college degree seemed to be hampering his direction of District 2, there would be some justification for criticism. That, however, does not appear to be the case by any stretch of the imagination. In his tenure as District Engineer, Mr. Mosteller has built roads and has seen the need for and supervised the planning of additional roads in the future. That's all that can be asked of him and he's demonstrated that he can do the job without a degree or professional registration."

May I say, Mr. President, that I think this clear thinking editor, George Scott of the Clearfield Progress, is simply reflecting what the average man on the street in the city of Clearfield thinks about District 2's engineer, Roy Mosteller. He conducts his own office. He tells the citizens the plans and gives them information on the work now under construction and the work which he has planned. I feel certain that, despite the fact that he is not a registered engineer, the Secretary of Highways has shown a keen analysist to recognize ability and supports to the one hundredth degree, the work and the plans of Roy Mosteller of District 2.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, very briefly I want to say, in answering Senator Dent, that I very much appreciate his ability to debate matters on this floor of the Senate. I have admired him over a long period of time and have enjoyed debating with him. However, in the heat of the battle tonight, he made some rather direct charges which I think he would not have made under more settled conditions.

In the first place, in the opening of his last statement, about an hour and seventy-five minutes ago, he stated that I and my colleagues, as well, did not admire and respect Pennsylvania. I am not certain that those are his identical terms, but they were terms of that kind. I know that Senator Dent would not make statements of that kind because I challenge anyone, on the floor of this Senate or off the floor of this Senate, to say that I do not admire and appreciate the great privilege and honor of being a citizen of Pennsylvania and, more particularly, a Member of this honorable Body, the Senate. I am not going to get excited or heated under this debate.

Senator DENT is very much adept at telling stories.

I will venture to tell him of an experience I had over in Carlisle with a very warm friend of mine, a colored gentleman, who is head waiter at the Molly Pitcher Hotel.

One evening while I was having dinner there, and there were very few in the dining room, this head waiter and I engaged in a conversation. He said to me, "Senator Wade, do you belong to the Elks?" I said, "Yes, I do." He said, "Do you belong to the Odd Fellows?" I said, "Yes, I do." He said, "Do you belong to the Masons?" I said, "Yes, I do." He said, "Do you belong to the Tall Cedars?" I said, "Yes, I do." He said, "Do you belong to the Consistory?" I said, "Yes." He said, "Do you belong to the Shrine?" I said, "Yes." Apparently, he could think of no other organizations and he said, "My, Senator Wade, what a funeral you will have."

Senator Dent, in the heat of battle, said that I voted for a five cent tax; I did He was a little bit confused. I am willing tonight, and hope to have the privilege of voting for a five cent tax as embodied in House Bill No. 335 and House Bill No. 336. We are not debating that. He alleges that we need a six cent tax and not a five cent tax. I hope he will stand corrected on that point.

I want to also tell Senator Dent that I am most proud of the great highway system we have in Pennsylvania. As a matter of fact, one of the early highway commissioners, if not the first highway commissioner, was Mr. Sadler of Carlisle, in my District. I, as well as many of the Members of the Senate and many of the spectators, have watched it grow to a total mileage of 41,065 miles, since 1911. With very little exception, every mile of that, except ninety-six, a total of 40,969 miles have been surfaced and improved. Practically all of it was improved under Republican administrations, at a cost of $2,024,-933,000—and I do not want to inject politics into this—up to the year 1953.

Senator Dent charged me with making direct statements which I read from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. I say to all of my colleagues on both sides of the aisle that if one-third of the charges made by the Sun-Telegraph of Pittsburgh are correct, then $100,000 for an investigation is a small amount. We should stop at no end to find out for certain that every dollar of our taxpayers' money is spent properly and that the Highways Department is conducted properly.

I want to remind Senator Dent, as the leader of the Minority Party, that I have yet to make the direct accusation on this floor of the Senate that I said those were true. I reported them simply as an article in the newspaper. If he wants additional ones, there are plenty more following. We agreed that he received two this evening and I received two similar ones.

Then, too, Senator Dent was a little confused because he read the names of engineering firms from Dauphin County. I want him to know, once and for all, that Dauphin County is not in my District; it is in Senator Taylor's District. These firms which Senator Dent recited were from Harrisburg and do not reside nor conduct their businesses in the District represented by Senator Barr and myself.

Let me conclude, Mr. President, by saying there have been many allegations made about the articles appearing in the newspaper. I repeat, if three out of the ten are in any way correct, then this Senate and the House of Representatives and the Administration should stop at no end to see whether or not they are justified accusations.

May I have the privilege, therefore, of reading a reprint of an article from a newspaper called the Scranton Tribune. It is a newspaper published in Scranton, the home town of my distinguished colleague, Senator McMenamin, and, incidentally, the home town of our Secretary of Highways, Mr. Lawler. I read from the article published on March 21, 1957, as follows:

"The proposed legislative action in Harrisburg to set up a commission to investigate conditions in the state highway department would seem only proper in the light of the rumors, reports, charges and derogatory statements involving the agency.

"Denials have been forthcoming from the administrative officials involved in these rumors and charges.

"Sec. of Highways Joseph J. Lawler, for example, has declared that accusations are politically inspired and he has indicated that he would welcome an inquiry with his full cooperation.

"Gov. Leader is also on record as welcoming an inquiry.

"So, it would seem, there should be no major objection to the proposal.

"If this is a political maneuver, if the charges and reports are false, a bipartisan, probe, as suggested, will vindicate the accused.

"If on the other hand there has been misfeasance or malfeasance in the administration of this very important branch of our state government the sooner it is laid bare the better.

"For with the proposed gigantic federal road program now being launched not only millions but billions of dollars will be involved.

"There can be no question but that complaints have been made about the administration of the highway department.

"And not a few of the complaints have originated with responsible and respected persons and organiaztions, such as non-political motor clubs.

"There has been dissatisfaction with the progress made by the department in repairing and rejuvenating highways and bridges seriously damaged by the flooods of August, 1955.

"There have been charges of undue political patronage in the department to the detriment of its efficiency. There are rumors of favoritism in the award of contracts.

"These and other things would seem to warrant an airing in public to ascertain the facts. A legislative inquiry appears to fit the situation."

With every word of that article I agree, Mr. President. I am sure that our colleagues on the other side of the aisle are just as anxious as we are to clear the record and the name of the Highways Secretary and the Highways Department.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, you know a lie is the hardest thing in the world for a man, particularly a man in public life, to defend. A half-truth is sometimes worse.

Yesterday, I sent over to him a copy of an editorial, which I watched him read, from the New York Herald Tribune. Despite this, he stood here tonight and said that the Administration, in speaking of the highway tax, was run by the Democrats in the State of New York.

As far as his statement about those engineering firms which were named not doing business in his county, I would like to point out that the gentleman does not do business in Cumberland County either. His office is over on Front Street here.

Again he talked about voting for the five cent tax in 1949. Does he realize that things have gone up just a wee bit since 1949? I think even the insurance rates have gone up since 1949, even though the mortality rate has gone down.

I also want to tell the gentleman that the floor bill, which he talked about tonight, was not passed until the latter part of 1956. If he does not know that, I want to acquaint him with it.

Then he talked about most of these highways being built under Republican Administrations. That I agree with, because since the turn of the century there has only been one Democratic Governor who served for four years and then George Leader was elected and he has only served two years of his term. Therefore, if we had to wait until we elected a Democratic Governor, I am afraid we would not have many highways in the State.

Secondly, I want to inform him of something about that editorial he read. Tomorrow, if he wants to take time out, I am going to read an awful lot of editorials contrary to the statements contained in the Scranton Tribune. Does he know that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph called the editor of the Scranton Tribune and said, "You are in this with us. Now you have got to write an editorial because we have to print it in our paper on Sunday of this last week." Those are things you do not know. That is the reason I hope you pass this resolution. We will open your eyes, Senator Wade. We will open them good for you.

Now I am going to make a charge against Joe Lawler. I told him two years ago—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I suggest to Senator Barr that he knows full well that the rules of this Senate do not permit the type of discussion he is now conducting, and certainly at no time should one Senator attack another Senator personally.

MOTION TO EXPUNGE REMARKS

Mr. MAHANY. I move, Mr. President, at this time that the remarks of the Senator be expunged from the record which he just now uttered, and also the previous derogatory remarks.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, before you rule, I will be very happy to have those remarks expunged, but certainly the intent was there. I sent the editorial to the gentleman.

The PRESIDENT. Regarding the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, does the Senator from Crawford still desire the motion?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, if the Senator will permit his remarks to be expunged from the record, I will not press the motion. If he will agree to it that those remarks shall be expunged, that is all right with me.

Mr. BARR. That is O. K. with me, Mr. President. My remarks may be expunged, but my feeling will still be in there and I will repeat it in another way tomorrow.

MOTION TO EXPUNGE REMARKS WITHDRAWN

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I withdraw my motion that the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, be expunged.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany, withdraws his motion and the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Barr, permits his remarks to be expunged from the record.

(Remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. BARR, expunged from the record.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BARR. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BARR and Mr. LANE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Barr,	Hays,	McMenamin,	Schmidt,
Camiel,	Kalman,	Mullin,	Seyler,
Dent,	Lane,	Murray,	Silvert,
Derk,	McCreesh,	Ruth,	Stiefel,
DiSilvestro,	McGinnis,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Donolow,			Yosko,

NAYS—27

Berger,	Harney,	Pechan,	Wagner,
Blass,	Kessler,	Propert,	Walker,
Chapman,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Scott,	Watkins,
Ehrgood,	Kromer,	Stevenson,	Watson,
Elliott,	Madigan,	Taylor,	Whalley,
Flack,	Mahany,	Van Sant,	Wolfe,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Wade,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, on the debate of the bill on final passage, I would like to make this remark in reply to Senator Wade's statement that he had never stated that the charges which he read from the Sun-Telepragh were true. I am wondering if that is not just a weak excuse to spread some propaganda, because I feel quite sure that Senator Wade agrees that all of us here in the Senate can read, and there was no necessity for his reading what the Sun-Telegraph had to say about our Highways Department.

They also said that $100,000 would be well spent. Well, I might say to Senator Wade that we, on the Democratic side, especially myself, feel that $100,000 is an awful lot of money. Senator Wade, you might be a big money man, and, of course, that might be a mere pittance to you, but to me to spend $100,000 on advertising the Republican Party and George Wade for Governor is certainly ridiculous.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, very briefly and I assure you just that, I want to say that during the debate yesterday and today, many references were made as to a proposed candidacy of mine. I want to assure every Member of this Body and yourself, Mr. President, that no statements made by me during such debate were made with the intention of securing the support of Senator Barr or Senator Lane. I want to make it crystal clear that those statements were not made with the intention of securing their support.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would like to know why then he listed all those outfits be belongs to tonight if it was not for advertising them?

Mr. MAHANY. This just goes to prove, Mr. President, that no Senatorial District should have more than one Senator.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27

Berger,	Harney,	Pechan,	Wagner,
Blass,	Kessler,	Propert,	Walker,
Chapman,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Scott,	Watkins,
Ehrgood,	Kromer,	Stevenson,	Watson,
Elliott,	Madigan,	Taylor,	Whalley,
Flack,	Mahany,	Van Sant,	Wolfe,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Wade,

NAYS—22

Barr,	Hays,	McMenamin,	Schmidt,
Camiel,	Kalman,	Mullin,	Seyler,
Dent,	Lane,	Murray,	Silvert,
Derk,	McCreesh,	Ruth,	Stiefel,
DiSilvestro,	McGinnis,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Donolow,			Yosko,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquirp.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, did I hear the roll call being announced as 27 "yeas" and 22 "nays"?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman is correct.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I did not hear any "no" votes and when I was up at the desk, I was talking to the lad about the amendments and did not intend that the recording of the vote on final passage would be on that score.

As much as we oppose dropping the one cent because we think it is direly needed in the Commonwealth, we are still not voting against the tax bill for highway purposes. We are not so callous in a political matter that we would destroy the State of Pennsylvania for political advantage. Unless the roll is corrected, I shall demand a recall of the roll.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I suggest that the Senator move to reconsider the vote.

RECONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL No. 335

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 335, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1931 (P. L. 149) entitled as amended "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act" extending the provisions of one additional tax for a limited time.

passed finally.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—49

Barr,	Harney,	McMenamin,	Stiefel,
Berger,	Hays,	Mullin,	Taylor,
Blass,	Kalman,	Murray,	Van Sant,

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

HOUSE BILL No. 336 CALLED UP

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call up, from Page 2 of today's Third Reading Calendar, House Bill No. 336, Printer's No. 67, which went over in its order temporarily.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 336, entitled:

An Act amending the act of January 14, 1952 (P. L. 1965) entitled as amended "Fuel Use Tax Act" extending the provisions of one additional tax for a limited time.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE CERTAIN CHARGES AGAINST THE DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. McMENAMIN, on behalf of the entire membership of the Democratic Caucus, offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, March 26, 1957.

Whereas, there appears to be a concerted effort on the part of some individuals, organiaztions, commentators and others to discredit, by unsubstantiated charges, the Pennsylvania Highway Department and its personnel; and

Whereas, said charges are of a very serious nature in that specific legislation is pending in the legislative halls may depend upon the reaction to said publicity; and

Whereas, from the statements contained in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph which appears to be spearheading this campaign against the Highway Department, there are four specific individuals and groups who are making the charges, namely:

(1) Disgruntled former employes, hoping to regain favor and prsetige.

(2) Discharged employes seeking to cover up their own shortcomings, by falsely accusing others.

(3) Self-servicing officers and lobbyists of a business group more interested in contracts for highway construction than in an effort to stabilize both expenditures and construction by the Highway Secretary.

(4) Collusion between said parties, organiaztions and the high command of the Republican Party; and

Whereas, said collusion was openly admitted by the spokesman for the Constructors Association from their convention in Atlantic City, when he stated—

"This report was not supposed to have been made public—it was only given to certain members of the Republican high command;" and

Whereas, there is at present an act of the Legislature proposed in the House by the Repblican leadership to expend the sum of $100,000.00 in the period of approximately two years in an investigation of said charges; therefore be it

Resolved, (the House of Representatives concurring), that the Joint State Government Commission be instructed to immediately hold hearings into these charges, calling upon all of the aforementioned persons and groups and specifically those who have appeared in the newspapers as quoted as making specific charges to ascertain whether or not these charges are of sufficient validity to justify the expenditure of such an enormous amount of the taxpayers' money; and be it further

Resolved, that the Joint State Government Commission make a report to this General Assembly in order to guide the Assembly in their decision on the ultimate action to be taken on the Act to create an investigatory committee.

REQUEST THAT RULE 39 BE SUSPENDED

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I object to the immediate consideration of this resolution and ask that it be referred to the proper committee.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection and refers the resolution to the Committee on Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I want to notify the Majority Leader that we on the Democratic side would like to have a bill of particulars in regard to the alleged mismanagement and misfeasances alleged by the Sun-Telegraph and other interested persons.

We feel that it is only just and proper that we have this preliminary information before we are going to agree on the expenditure of $100,000 to advertise the Republican Party and possibly George Wade for Governor.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, March 27, 1957, at 11:00 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. ELLIOTT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11:55 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Wednesday, March 27, 1957, at 11:00 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, March 26, 1957

The House met at 2:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend John F. Moore, Pastor of the Furnace Run Union Chapel, Kittanning, Armstrong County, guest Chaplain and guest of the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Guthrie, offered the following prayer:

Our Father Which art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. May Thy Kingdom come and Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. We pray that these men and women of the House of Representatives assembled here may be guided as to how they may directly and indirectly bring to pass Thy will here upon this part of the earth, the great state of Pennsylvania.

We recognize the life that Thou hast given us as a trust with great responsibilities. Guide we pray this body of men and women in their deliberations this day. May those things which they say and do be such as Thou can smile upon. Our human wisdom and judgment is so immature. We covet Thy Divine guidance for this day, and tomorrow and all the tomorrows that may be ours.

We are not selfish thinking only of our state of Pennsylvania, its Governor, and legislative bodies, but of other states in this land of America. We pray for our nation; for Congress and our chief executive the President of this United States as they too wrestle with great problems.

Oh Lord may we recognize our privilege to claim citizenship in another country; a better land, where none of these problems which beset us here and now shall ever come. Where we shall be residents of a City whose builder and Maker is God.

We ask this in the name of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, March 25, 1957 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. ADAMS and WEIDNER.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 67.

In the House of Representatives, March 25, 1957.

The members of our armed forces serving abroad, their civilian component and the dependents of each, are now subject to the criminal jurisdiction of more than fifty countries in which they may be on duty by reason of the N A T O Status of Forces Treaty, the Administrative Agreement with Japan, and Executive Agreements with other nations. These agreements penalize our servicemen who are serving abroad by depriving them of many of the rights granted by our Constitution, which they have sworn to defend.

The House of Representatives deplores the arrangements now existing which make service in our armed forces abroad a hazard by depriving our servicemen, their civilian component and dependents of the rights and guarantees of our Constitution.

The General Assembly therefore expresses its belief that all United States service personnel stationed abroad shall be tried by United States military tribunals under the Uniform Code of Military Justice for offenses committed on foreign soil, therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate concurring) That the Congress of the United States be memorialized to immediately enact legislation which will seek a modification of all agreements giving foreign nations criminal jurisdiction over United States service personnel stationed there in order that the United States may regain exclusive jurisdiction over members of its armed forces or if necessary the Congress should terminate or denounce these agreements, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the President and Vice President of the United States; to all Senators and members of the House of Representatives and the Clerk of the Senate of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. STIMMEL, DeLONG, MRS. MARKLEY and Mr. STECKEL. RESOLUTION No. 68.

In the House of Representatives, March 25, 1957.

On March 22, 1957 the basketball team of Allentown Central Catholic High School brought great honor in itself, its coaching staff, the school and the Commonwealth for it was on this day that Allentown Central Catholic won its sixth State P.C.I.A.A. championship. When they defeated Johnstown Catholic, 60 to 46, the school won its second straight State championship, a feat that no other school has been able to duplicate.

Our congratulations for this inspiring victory and record are certainly in order and we will extend them. To our best wishes for the victory we must add our heartiest congratulations to the student body of Allentown Central Catholic, Coach Emil Carazo, and school principal Rev. Father Stephen Daday for their inspiring display of good sportsmanship and good citizenship that they have evidenced throughout the entire season.

Father Daday, Coach Carazo and their entire staffs have worked hard to supply our State with good citizens a task they have fully achieved.

The Allentown Central Catholic team set an example of team play and sportsmanship which will always be remembered as one of the finest in scholastic athletic competition; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extends its warmest congratulations to Father Daday, Coach Emil Carazo, the student body of Allentown Central Catholic High School, and to the basketball team for its stirring victory over a fine Johnstown Catholic team; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Reverend Father Stephen Daday and to coach Emil Carazo.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. McCANN. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 69.

In the House of Representatives, March 25, 1957.

It is reported that the cost of recording certain legal papers is so exhorbitant that it tends to impede the smooth flow of legal proceedings. Recording costs imposed by the various court and county offices throughout the Commonwealth vary widely, and in many instances are not commensurate with the importance or value of the documents being recorded or with the costs involved; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring) That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study and investigate the cost of recording legal papers throughout our Commonwealth in the various court and county offices; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations, with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Commitrtee on Rules.

An Act amending "The Fish Law of 1925" approved May 2, 1925 (P. L. 448) excluding from the provisions thereof the operation of and fishing from temporary water tanks in connection with indoor sportsman's shows.

HOUSE BILL No. 332.

An Act amending the "Cigarette Tax Act" approved June 14, 1935 (P. L. 341) extending the provisions imposing an additional tax for a further limited period of time.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER in the presence of the House, signed the same.

COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, your committee appointed to wait upon the Senate and escort that body to the Hall of the House for the Joint Session has performed that duty. The Senate is now present.

The SPEAKER. The Committee is discharged with the thanks of the House.

The SPEAKER. The Lieutenant Governor, the Honorable Roy E. Furman, is invited to preside over the Joint Session of the General Assembly.

The President pro tempore of the Senate, the Honorable M. Harvey Taylor, Secretary of the Senate, the Honorable A. H. Letzler are invited to be seated on the rostrum.

Members of the Senate will please be seated.

JOINT SESSION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR ROY E. FURMAN PRESIDING

The SERGEANT-AT-ARMS OF THE SENATE. Mr. President, the Committee appointed to escort the Governor to the Hall of the House.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. President, I have the honor of presenting His Excellency, George M. Leader, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR. Members of the General Assembly, I have the honor and privilege of presenting His Excellency, George M. Leader, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, who will now address you.

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR GEORGE M. LEADER

GOVERNOR LEADER. Lieutenant-Governor Furman, Mr. Speaker and Members of the General Assembly:

I am grateful to the members of the General Assembly and to its presiding officers for their courtesy in permitting me to interrupt your sessions and to address you today.

I would not do so, of course, except on a matter of grave importance to the Commonwealth.

To get immediately to my purpose, it is to ask you to recall from my desk House Bill No. 337, which is the legal instrument through which the three per cent sales tax is to be re-enacted.

I suggest its recall because I am sure that this General Assembly can write—if it has a mind to—a better bill than the one you have sent to me. House Bill No. 337 is full of loopholes. It is difficult if not impossible to enforce. It is of doubtful constitutionality in certain clauses. It is destructive of the State's revenues. It is conspicuous in its special privileges to certain favored interests.

Surely, it is not the General Assembly's intent to make our State's finances dependent upon a bill so poorly drawn and so unmindful of the Commonwealth's best interests.

I said to you at the opening of this session, and again in my budget message, that as Governor, I had no desire to impose my philosophy of taxation upon you. I said further that I hoped that we could take the issue of State taxes out of the area of partisan debate and rancor. Still further, I appointed a committee of citizens of Pennsylvania to help us accomplish that objective, and, as a result, representatives of labor and of management were able for the first time in our State's recent history to agree upon a tax program.

It is in no way, then, my purpose to challenge at this date the use of the sales tax as a major element in our State's finance.

That battle is over.

I lost it; the Republican leadership in this General Assembly won it.

But I would be failing most abjectly in my duties as Chief Executive of this Commonwealth, if I did not urge you most strongly to make sure that, if we must have a sales tax, it is a good one.

That can only be accomplished in the fundamental legislation which establishes the tax.

House Bill No. 337 fails in that accomplishment.

I will transmit to the General Assembly this week a detailed and lengthy analysis of deficiencies in the bill prepared by the Attorney General. This analysis will make hard reading for those of us who are not tax laywers and tax accountants, but certainly, the question raised by the Department of Justice will furnish sufficient warning that many things in House Bill No. 337 are very wrong.

I will not take the time of the Assembly in reading such a lawyer's brief as to the errors in House Bill No. 337.

We properly can take a few minutes to make the general case against the bill as you have sent it to me.

The sales tax legislation which became law at the last session was not technically a good bill.

The State's tax consultants, McKinsey and Company, listed as the first major problem in the collection of the sales tax what they called politely the "distinctive" characteristics of the law itself. These experts said that the existing sales tax law's provisions "make difficult general understanding by taxpayers and the establishment of efficient administration."

Unfortunately, the labors of this General Assembly to date, as exhibited in House Bill No. 337, have made a bad bill worse.

Amendments to improve the bill, prepared with great care by the Department of Justice on the basis of its experience, were rejected; I am afraid with little consideration.

Amendments prepared by others were accepted, with what must seem again all to little consideration.

Public utilities and shipbuilding are given special tax concessions denied to the public at large, the ordinary consumer, and all other industry. There is so much overeagerness to accommodate such special interests, who are so forcefully represented here at Harrisburg, that the exemptions rendered are much broader than even their strongest champions could have hoped to get.

For instance, in the exemption granted to public utilities, it was possibly intended to clarify the definition as to what is public utility real estate and what is not. Instead, the exemption written into the bill exempts not only all improvements to public utility real estate from the sales tax, but goes further to exempt all equipment used by independent construction contractors who engage in substantial public utility construction work.

I am addressing my next remarks to taxpayers everywhere in this Commonwealth.

If you buy paint to paint your house, your furniture or your barn you pay the tax.

But if you are a utility and you buy paint for your real estate you DON'T pay the tax.

If you're a small business man and you buy a truck to use in your business, you pay the tax.

But if you're a big shipbuilding company and you buy a truck, you don't pay the tax.

Those are only two small obvious examples.

It's the big examples that will cause the real trouble.

No one has more strongly advocated than I have the need for making our tax system in Pennsylvania competitive with that of other states for the attraction and expansion of industry.

In too many of its features, however, House Bill No. 337 goes beyond such a praiseworthy purpose. It begins to smack of greed and tax-dodging. Nothing could be more harmful to the cause of genuine reform and improvement in our tax structure.

In my budget message I said that I will approve any tax program which this General Assembly enacts which "will support the services to which the State is committed, be fair in its application to the people of this State, contain a basic measure of adjustment to the inflationary economy in which we live, and be stimulating to the economic development of Pennsylvania." Clearly House Bill No. 337 fails to meet at least one of these tests. It is not "fair in its application to the people of this State." A selected few enjoy special tax advantage; while millions of our housewives and working men and women feel its full impact.

I recognize that the prerogative of choosing what shall be taxed and what shall be exempt is the Legislature's, so long as it observes the uniformity clause of our Constitution. I may think you are in error, and I may say so, but you have the undoubted right to set the objects of taxation.

But the General Assembly has no right, and I am sure that you cannot truly intend, to enact an unworkable and unenforceable bill.

House Bill No. 337 contains many new restrictive and crippling provisions in its enforecment sections. Many new technical defenses and impediments to enforcement are provided. House Bill No. 337 is a tax attorney's dream. and a tax collector's nightmare.

This failure to provide the proper means of enforcement is exemplified by the provisions in House Bill No. 337 as to the notice of reassessment, the reduction in penalties, and the removal of the requirement of a reassessment bond.

Normal tax practice in other states permits the state to require a taxpayer to post bond before he petitions for a reassessment of his tax. Normally, also, such bond is set at twice the amount of the state's claim. Under the existing sales tax practice, the Department of Revenue has, perhaps too generously, required a bond of only 10 per cent more than the claim. House Bill No. 337 eliminates the bond altogether, leaving the state naked to complete loss should the petitioning taxpayer fail in business during the long period of dispute and litigation.

At best, a sales tax is difficult to assess and to collect.

House Bill No. 337 makes it still more difficult because, contrary to the practice in almost every other state, it removes all penalties for an understatement of the amount due except where the state can show negligence or deliberate disregard.

House Bill No. 337, to give it its due, attempts a useful reform in tax procedures by providing a statutory method for testing the validity of a particular attempt to impose a tax. Unfortunately, the method selected in House Bill No. 337 is completely unworkable, placing an impossible burden on the Board of Finance and Revenue which, under the bill, receives the initial petition for refund.

House Bill No. 337 completely fails to recognize and cure many difficulties now existing in the present sales tax legislation. The Administration is naturally anxious to simplify and make explicit the existing law; sadly enough, House Bill No. 337 injects new confusion and ambiguities almost without limit.

I am quite sure that this was not done with malice.

I am afraid that it was done without sufficient thought and without sufficient tax and legal craftsmanship.

And I am entirely certain that House Bill No. 337 will diminish, not increase, the yield from the sales tax which we are so painfully building up.

It will divert millions of dollars from the State Treasury.

Today, I come to you to appeal to your sober second thought, to your good sense, to your belief in this Commonwealth and your desire to serve it. I ask you to set aside your pride of authorship in this House Bill No. 337, as you have asked me to set aside my fundamental beliefs as to the proper incidence of taxation in Pennsylvania.

I have the same feeling today, in spite of many things that have been said in the Assembly, that I had in January—that we must submerge our party feelings in the interest of the Commonwealth if this session is to serve our people well.

I ask you, therefore, most respectfully to recall House Bill No. 337 from my desk, to consider its shortcomings, amend them, and write an honorable and workable tax bill that will raise its due portion of the revenue that this Legislature will appropriate for the use of our people.

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR. Governor Leader. on behalf of the Members of the General Assembly, I want to thank you for your message this afternoon.

The Committee of the Senate and the House will now escort His Excellency, the Governor, to his chambers.

The business for which the Joint Session was assembled having been transacted, the Joint Session is now declared adjourned.

The Senators will please reassemble immediately in the Senate Chamber.

The Chair now turns over the gavel to the Speaker of the House.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) IN THE CHAIR.

PROCEEDINGS OF JOINT SESSION PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the proceedings of the Joint Session of the Senate and House be printed in full in this day's Legislative Journal.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, today we have witnessed an unusual and precedent-breaking appearance of our Governor before a Joint Session of the General Assembly.

The appearance was made for the sole purpose of hammering us over the head with pending legislation. His performance marks a new low for the dignity of his office.

The Governor asked to come to speak to us and out of courtesy we have consented. Now we know that he came before us only to make a pure political speech.

It is fundamental in our state Constitution that the Governor can only come before us with our permission. Our democratic process contemplates for the Governor to appear with messages on the state of the Commonwealth and to outline a prospective program.

I would say the Governor has been indiscreet in appearing here in an attempt to force his will upon us—the people's elected representatives. That makes a mockery of the House of Representatives.

Behind his fine oratory and professed fears for the plight of what he calls "the little people" is an outline of political fakery.

I might say, departing from my remarks, it is fundamental in our Constitution, it has come down from Colonial times that the Governor shall not appear before us without our consent. As you know in the Colonial Legislatures the early Governors would sit with the Assemblies and would impress their will upon those Assemblies. When the Colonists freed themselves from Mother England and adopted state constitutions, all constitutions up and down the Atlantic Seaboard provided the Governor could not appear before the General Assembly or in the chamber without our consent. I say that a Governor should only come before us to give us a speech on the state of the Commonwealth or to outline a prospective program. I do not believe he should come before us to give us, urge us, and impress his will upon us, with respect to legislation either before him or before us.

Yesterday on the floor of the House I pointed out in a detailed and simple manner what the present sales tax provides. I pointed to the indisputable truth, that it had been administered unfairly and unreasonably. I explained how our amendments inserted into the bill corrected these unfair and capricious rulings.

In yesterday's final discussion of the bill, which is even now lying on the Governor's desk, the Democratic arguments were weak and feeble. Only in rare instances were they directed to any of the amendments.

The weak arguments on this floor came on the heels of an entire morning conference between the Governor and the Democratic leadership in the General Assembly.

If the Governor's political performance today contains any points of merit, then he certainly had them in his possession yesterday and he should have allowed his leadership in the House to point them out in specific detail for the record.

But, no, it was apparently decided in the front office yesterday that the Governor would come parading before us today and, in a great arena for political grandstanding, lay the groundwork for continued political ambitions.

I say the Governor is resorting to pure political fakery in coming before us as he has. I also point out that so far in this session, neither the Senate or House majority leadership has been invited by the Governor for any conference of any kind, except I might say we have met with him once with the combined leadership when we determined a policy with respect to administration bills, those that are controversial and noncontroversial, and so forth, and we have never been invited to discuss anything with Governor Leader this session.

If this House Bill 337 is as bad as the Governor paints it, why did he not call the various leaders in for a meeting and go over the matters?

Instead of this common sense and friendly approach, he has chosen to use the rostrum of the House of Representatives to spread a lot of untruths and innuendos about a fair and reasonable revenue bill.

I say that the sales tax bill as now amended will be a very fair sales tax bill. Maybe the Governor is peeved because we did not accept his recommendation that we tax clothing and other consumer items. The Governor spoke of this bill with a political tongue. He charges that it favors big business. Is it not strange that we did not hear him charge that it benefits the farmer? The same exemptions apply to the farmer that apply to the manufacturing plant which provides our bread earners with jobs. He speaks of little people and common people. He calls them that because he apparently judges them by their pocketbooks.

We dispute that. We believe that there is no "little man" or "common man" in Pennsylvania—or in America. We all stand equal in the dignity of man.

In this tax bill, we Republicans have given the average person the same exemptions on food, on clothing, and on medicine as is presently in the present sales tax law. We have added exemptions for false teeth and other devices.

All that these amendments do in House Bill 337, as I stated yesterday, is to correct unfair regulations of the Department. These amendments make clearer the original fair intents of the sales tax law. These amendments are a great step toward encouraging economic growth in Pennsylvania. Economic growth means just one simple thing to us—better job opportunity for every citizen of this state.

If we are to be judged by public opinion for trying to bring more and better jobs to Pennsylvania, then I am sure we are well prepared to stand before the people who elected us to represent them here. We can leave this House tomorrow and return home with our heads in the air. Our people are behind us.

The Governor's speech is pure political fakery. Additional fakery will be heaped upon us when he gets the biased report from his Attorney General and delivers that to us also.

The Governor has issued a lot of broad statements of a serious nature. I suppose that we are now to remain completely in the dark until we get the details.

The whole thing smacks of politics, and the taxpayers and the people have not been told the truth by our Governor.

I feel that yesterday when the bill was before us, as I said sincerely and as honestly as I could, in as small and less detailed way as possible, to explain to you the amendments to the bill. I certainly cannot go along with the Governor's reiteration here today that House Bill 337 as amended is a bad bill. I say that it gives everybody a break. It gives to the common man the same exemptions we gave him before, the exemption on food, on clothing, on shelter, on his insurance premium, on his dry cleaning, on all of the things he presently enjoys an exemption.

Today it is a rarity where an average man with a large family pays any sales tax under the exemptions in this bill. I say that is true. Food, clothing, shelter, shoes, everything that a man needs, is exempt under the present sales tax law, and that was true in the 1953 Act and is true now in the 1957 Act. The framers of the tax Act have gone overboard to give the man in the street, the average guy, the man with a family, the small wage earner, a good break in that bill. In effect the way the exemptions are, it amounts to a graduated income tax as far as the average man with four or five children is concerned. I say it is a fair tax bill; and as amended on the Governor's desk, industry will now say, "Well, here is a bill that is fair for us and fair for the Commonwealth, one that we can live under." And for the Governor to come here today and tell us what a terrible piece of legislation it is, I say again it is nothing but political fakery.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. READINGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I resent the statement just made by the Majority Floor Leader that the Governor's speech before us today was pure political fakery.

This bill was passed yesterday and is now on the Governor's desk, and he has ten days within which to decide whether to sign it, to veto it, or to let it become law without his signature.

A good Governor should come before this body if he thinks it is making a fundamental mistake and ask that a bill be recalled and given further consideration. That is all the Governor did today.

He must make the decision as to whether it shall become law or shall not, and I, for one, resent the type of remarks made by the Majority Leader in connection with the Governor coming before us today.

We have every right, as the gentleman has said, to allow the Governor to come before us. We need not grant that privilege if we do not wish to do so. We did it in this case and I think rightly so. The gentleman has every right to defend the bill as passed and to reiterate, as he has done today, that he thinks it is a good bill. By the same token, the man who must make the decision as to whether to strike it down has the same right to request us to listen to him.

The Majority Leader has said the Governor obviously had these remarks in mind before the bill finally passed yesterday and that he should have called in the leadership on this side of the House in order to give us those arguments. I say this side did have those arguments. We knew all about them. But as it became obvious yesterday that whatever we said was going to fall on deaf ears, it did not appear to be sensible to go into every detail of the bill and go over it section by section.

You will recall I did point out certain defects in the way the bill was drawn and passed, and mentioned several others in passing. So they were called to your attention. The very things which the Governor referred to in his speech today were mentioned yesterday, not in as great detail, but they were certainly called to your attention.

The Majority Leader complains that the Governor did not call in anybody on the Republican side of the House or the Senate to confer on the matter of the defects he now speaks about in Bill 337.

I ask you, when would he have had a chance to do that? We did not get a copy of these Senate amendments until Wednesday of last week. We hardly had time to study them before you insisted that the bill be voted upon yesterday, and the Governor's office was in the same position. Until those amendments were adopted he could not know what was in them. He had to have time to analyze them, also. So there would not be time for a conference if the Governor had decided to call one.

The gentleman also mentioned in his remarks a minute ago that the Governor is probably peeved because the bill does not recommend the taxing of clothing and items of that kind. That is a deliberate misstatement. The Governor at no time recommended that a tax bill of this kind should include clothing. The Tax Advisory Commission which he appointed did make a report and, among other things, suggested if further revenue was needed clothing might be added and trade-ins might be disallowed, but the gentleman would now have us believe that the Governor made such a recommendation, and nothing is further from the truth.

I say that I think the Governor was right in coming before us today and giving us the benefit of the arguments which he has advanced and politely asking us to recall the bill for further consideration. I say the same thing I said yesterday, it was a bad bill then and it is a bad bill now as it is on his desk.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am sorry for the way in which the Majority Leader bleeds. Time will doubtless heal his wounds. But he is far too amiable a gentleman, too kindly in his disposition really, to emulate the style and method of my very good friend, Charlie Smith. The gentleman from McKean just cannot do it. He cannot rise to the occasion of being spiteful and mean, talking about fakery in the way it has been done in classical fashion on the floor of this House.

There is one way in which the Majority Leader can clarify this situation. This bill we have been talking about and the bill we have outlined by categories. The Majority Leader, doubtless with the aid of the gentlemen who have been so prolific in framing the various sections of the bill we have before us, could give him, or should be able to give him, the return, the yield of the tax bill we have enacted category by category—category by category—and he could tabulate the categories and see what the bill would yield.

Yesterday the gentleman said he had taken guesses and synthesized them and then took an average and a guess of $480 million.

Let the gentleman take the bill now in effect and by categories say what that bill will yield. It is, Mr. Speaker, simply inexplicable, not to be explained, that we should have a tax bill and the Majority Leader should not have stated the returns, the possible yield, of the measure. All the gentleman has to do is frame a report, category by category, which will compare the bill we have with the bill the House has passed. Then we will resolve the matter not upon the basis of opinion, not upon the basis of rancor, not upon the basis of charges of fakery, but we will have acted like responsible Legislators who, with knowledge of the facts and without rancor and with no desire to secure partisan advantage, have enacted a bill and, unless the Majority Leader does that, he confesses he does not know what he has been talking about and has no foundation in fact upon which to base his figures.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, yields to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ANDREWS. I very much regret, Mr. Speaker, that upon our side of the House there should have been an unkindly reception of the remarks made by the Majority Leader. If we are to maintain the integrity and dignity of this body, it is not the place even faintly to 'boo.' I detected on the other side a faint echo of the prejudiced booing that I detected when the Majority Leader was speaking, and I hope, I sincerely hope, the Members of the minority will accord to the majority and the majority will accord to the minority that consideration to which persons in our responsible positions are entitled.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. O'BRIEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the Majority Leader would have you believe the Governor's presence at this Joint Session this afternoon was an insult to our intelligence. I think, Mr. Speaker, the Majority Leader's attack on the Governor was a bigger insult. Good taste would have suggested to him that he possibly wait and give the idea he had sufficient consideration and time before making this vicious attack on the Governor. But here he was with a prepared speech which he even read, very unwisely. To me, that is the greatest insult. This is probably indicative of the great consideration which the majority side gave to this particular bill No. 337. Here he was with a prepared speech which he could not even read very well.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. GOLDSTEIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, consideration of House Bill No. 337 is of great import to every taxpayer and to every citizen in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I may disagree with the gentlemen in the minority, but I respect their opinions, nevertheless.

I am compelled to challenge one statement the Governor of this Commonwealth made to this body, and that statement in part is as follows: "Ship building is given special concession." I was interested in learning the facts, and I was interested in learning the facts because Pennsylvania is a great industrial state concerning which our Governor issues statements from time to time and says we must save industry, and yet when he appears and discusses a bill he is trying to destroy industry.

What concession is given the shipbuilding industry of this state, the greater part of which is in the Delaware Valley and some of which is in Allegheny County? It is given the privilege of building boats and barges for the benefit of people who buy them on contract.

We know we are engaged in a great struggle in every state of the Union to attract industry. Do the gentlemen on the other side deny that a boat can be built in New Jersey without a sales tax? Do they deny it can be built in Delaware without a sales tax? Of course, they cannot deny that, because my study of the Commerce Clearing Houses this morning indicated there is no sales tax in those states.

Let me point out for your serious consideration, if you are interested in the citizens and the working men of Pennsylvania and not interested in driving industry away, what some other maritime states say regarding the taxing of ships and barges.

In the state of Alabama barges of more than 50 tons are exempt under the sales tax.

In the state of Kansas, of course, they have no shipbuilding industry, but that state is very greatly interested in airplanes, the big factories of the United States are located in Kansas, and under its sales tax all aircraft and parts are exempt.

Maine is a great shipbuilding area, it exempts ship's stores.

Michigan exempts vessels of 500 tons or more, if made for somebody especially, practically identical with the state of Pennsylvania.

To show how much interested the legislature of Michigan is in obtaining business, there is a provision in the sales tax of Michigan that if you enter the state of Michigan and buy an automobile and are a non-resident you buy your car tax free.

New Jersey has no sales tax.

Ohio, with which Pennsylvania is in great competition, provides that the sales of ships used principally in interstate commerce are exempt from the sales tax.

You will certainly agree with me that most of the ships made on the Delaware are used in interstate commerce.

South Carolina exempts vessels and barges of more than 50 tons.

In Washington floating equipment, labor and services for construction and repair for use in interstate or foreign commerce or commercial fishing are exempt.

In the State of California, which has one of the most drastic sales taxes according to my analysis, all vessels are exempt.

We are not asking to give the shipbuilding industry special privileges in Pennsylvania, we are asking to give the taxpayers and the citizens who work and accomplish a job a special privilege in Pennsylvania.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SCHWARTZ asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the previous speaker was very interesting. The gentleman took one word out of the Governor's message, "shipbuilding." He neglected, however, to give any statistics on public utilities. It was public utilities, I believe, on which the Governor spent a great deal of time and gave several drastic examples of what these amendments did.

I think it might be enlightening if we hear similarly from the gentlemen on the other side as to what effect these amendments have on public utilities rather than merely on shipbuilding.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. GOLDSTEIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I recognize that the other side has been using the shipbuilding industry as a whipping boy. I anticipated remarks concerning that industry. Accordingly I made a study at the source available and came up with the facts and figures indicated heretofore.

For the benefit of the gentleman from Philadelphia, next week I will have a study concerning public utilities.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SHERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I was pleased to hear that suddenly Pennsylvania became so greatly interest in the great shipbuilding state.

I was also suddenly pleased to hear we become so suddenly and greatly interested in our railroads. What efforts, may I ask the majority party in this House, have they considered in making this bill beneficial not so much to our so-called great shipbuilding industry or to our great railroads, but to those people who are on relief, to those people who are purchasing or will purchase during the entire time this bill is in existence on installments, those people who represent the majority of this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

Where are those Republicans who, during the last session of the General Assembly, spoke so strongly on the matter of those people who live on their savings, on their installments, on their stock dividends and similar income? Has the gentleman provided for them or has he thought only of those people of great wealth, the shipbuilding industry and the railroads?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. PETROSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I was very much interested in the last statement made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Golstein. That was the crux of the argument propounded by this side of the House in our deliberations and discussions of House Bill No. 337: What do you know about the amendments that were inserted by the Senate into House Bill No. 337?

The gentleman was asked a question today as to the impact of this bill on public utilities and the exemptions provided for them, and he stated to you, wait until next week and we will get the data and material on that.

I do not know how you have been herded together and how you were corralled into pushing this legislation through when you did not know the facts and what was contained within the amendments inserted by the Senate.

Certainly we did not vote intelligently in the passage of that tax bill when we did not have the facts before us.

I am trankful to the gentleman from Allegheny when he proves the point of the minority leadership here when they suggested we get all the data that would be available and then discuss intelligently the legislation.

By the same taken I say the Governor has all the right in the world to ask us to recall that bill so that we can remedy the defects which are contained therein.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. POMEROY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House and interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sherman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sherman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. POMEROY. I am delighted to hear of this interest of the three eminent Representatives from Philadelphia who have already spoken on the sales tax bill. It, of course, provides the major bulk of the income for the state or certainly one of the major bulks.

I think secondly we recognize that the entire responsibility of this House is to provide funds for the Commonwealth.

I would simply like to ask this particular gentleman from Philadelphia, or one of the other two who have already spoken, how many Democrats of the 34 Members from Philadelphia accepted their responsibiilty in these tax matters and voted for the bill in the first place?

Mr. SHERMAN. Is that a question or a political speech, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. POMEROY. That is a question.

Mr. SHERMAN. If it is a question, I am afraid you will have to break it up, but I will answer it for you anyhow.

We believe, and still believe, the sales tax program is obnoxious to the people of our city and to the entire districts of the City of Philadelphia, not only in the 34 representative wards or districts but in every other district in the City of Philadelphia.

Mr. POMEROY. The fact is, Mr. Speaker, that all 34 Democratic Representatives from the city of Philadelphia voted against this bill?

Mr. SHERMAN. Positively.

Mr. POMEROY. Thank you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SCHWARTZ asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman asked a very pointed question as to whether or not any of the 34 Members from Philadelphia voted in favor of the bill. He may as well have asked if any Democratic Members of this House voted for the bill because I believe the record is very clear that none of them did.

I do not know whether the gentleman is referring to the vote yesterday or whether he is referring to the original sales tax bill. It was not quite clear, but certainly if he is referring to the vote yesterday, I think those who voted against it were extremely intelligent in what they did.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 269, entitled:

An Act amending "The Second Class Township Code" approved May 1, 1933 (P. L. 103) further providing for the employment of a certified public accountant the duties of the township auditors and further regulating appropriations

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NOT VOTING—7

Dougherty,	Foster,	Monroe,	Wood,
Erb,	Mihm,	Silverman,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 579, entitled:

An Act requiring the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to change the names of certain interchanges on the Pennsylvania Turnpike

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the passage of this bill. It provides for changing the names of, I believe, five or six of the Turnpike interchanges. It should not be passed, in my opinion, for the reason that each one of these changes would require putting up new signs, removing the old ones, and so forth, and would cost approximately $23,500 per interchange.

I have on my desk a letter from Merritt A. Williamson, Vice Chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, and I would like to read to you a part of it in connection with this bill.

> At the time of construction of each of the various Extensions of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, careful planning and consideration was given to the naming of the interchanges. Signing of the Turnpike, including signing of the interchanges, was provided by capital funds from the Bond Issues. The Commission each year includes in its maintenance and operation budget provision for only the maintenance of these signs. Based on present Commission standards and present plans, the cost of replacing those signs made obsolete by the change of an interchange name, is estimated at $23,500 per interchange. The Commsision is presently without capital funds for the purpose of replacing those signs with new ones designating new names for interchanges.
> The Commission has, over the years, used the presently-designated names of the interchanges in all promotional literature which has been distributed through motor clubs and hotels, and carried by patrons, to every State in the Union.
> The Commission has included the names of all interchanges as part of the printing on toll tickets issued to and carried by patrons of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. During 1956 over twenty-one million toll tickets were issued to and used by patrons. The minimum cost to the Commission—being the cost of new electroplates for the printing of new tickets, and the minimum number of tickets which the Commission can have on hand immediately prior to a change of tickets—is estimated at approximately $4,000.
> The Commission believes that changing names of interchanges could lead to much confusion, because of the prominence the existing names have gained over the years of operation of the Turnpike System. The Commission believes that the changing of names of interchanges on the Pennsylvania Turnpike System, by the Legislature, would establish a precedent which could easily lead to such proposed changes at every Session of the Legislature.
> For these reasons, the Commission believes that this legislation is ill-advised. However, if the Legislature is insistent, certainly it ought to appropriate sufficient funds to provide for the new signing, the change of promotional literature and tickets, and all other costs incident thereto, for the Commission is without funds to do these things.

I am asking the membership of the House to vote against this bill even though certain Members from the areas affected might think it is highly desirable that we change these names. This is something we should not start to do. I think these matters should be entrusted to the Turnpike Commission. When it opens a new Interchange and when the decision is finally made as to what to call it, we ought to stand by it.

I have no doubt there are 10 or 12 other interchanges at which a change in name might be desired by various Members, but I say this is something that should not be done because of the cost involved and the confusion which would follow.

Mr. WYATT. Mr. Speaker, although I am not one of the sponsors of this bill, I am very vitally interested in it, having had an amendment added to the bill in Committee. I am interested in the name of an interchange being changed, if this bill passes, from Mahoning Valley Interchange to Lehighton Interchange.

The gentleman from Berks said the cost is prohibitive. However, the interchange referred to is not yet opened, it is scheduled to open April 1st. For the past two and a half years all civic, social, fraternal and service organizations in my area have been contacting the proper officials requesting a change in name, and have met with no success. The only alternative is to bring it before the Legislature in the form of a bill.

I do not know how much it costs to change the name not having gone to the Commission to find out. However, I do know the name of the tunnel about three and a half miles from the Mahoning Valley Interchange was changed about three or four months ago, but nothing was said about economy at that time. It seems strange to me that the Commission can change names and it is economical, but when this Legislature desires to make a change it then becomes uneconomical. I do not see any sense to that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, I have no interest in the change of name of the interchange, no direct interest in our locality, but I think it is rather ridiculous to have an interchange named "Blue Mountain" when we have the Blue Mountain out there about five miles north of Harrisburg and it runs clear up and down across the state, north and south.

You have people traveling the Turnpike coming to an interchange called "Blue Mountain." I do not think they have any knowledge of where they are going when they see that interchange or have any reason to believe they should get off at that interchange designated "Blue Mountain."

The suggestion is made to change that to Chambersburg-Shippensburg Interchange, which would have a meaning. People going to those communities would know that is the interchange at which they should get off.

The statement that the cost of changing these signs would run $23,500 an interchange I think is utterly ridiculous. I am sure if it cost that much to have them changed they still must be hiring the Republican painters whom they had on the payroll before. In the case of the Everett maintenance shed they had five painters doing the work and today they have one employed. So I am quite sure they are counting on changing those signs with that type of labor and painters if it is going to cost that much money.

Another thing, the tickets were mentioned. They have the right to finish using what tickets they have on hand before any other tickets would be required.

Therefore, I say that is a cost or an expense which is also utterly ridiculous to consider in connection with this bill.

Mr. HORST. I would like to interrogate the Minority Leader, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, how many signs are there at each interchange?

Mr. READINGER. I would not be able to advise the gentleman, although I have traveled on the Turnpike occasionally. I was usually going at 65 miles an hour and I did not bother to stop and count them. I wanted to keep on living.

Mr. HORST. For your information and the information of the House, there are six signs at each interchange, three coming in to the interchange and three leaving the interchange.

The next question I would like to ask the gentleman, what is the size of those signs approximately?

Mr. READINGER. I would advise the gentleman that any questions he asks me concerning details of the number, the size, the location, and so on, is futile because I do not know the answers. I was trying to impart to this House information which comes directly from the Vice Chairman of the Commission and I assume he knows what he is talking about.

Mr. HORST. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Last Tuesday I was informed that the Majority Leader had received a letter from the Turnpike Commission and that there was a fantastic figure of a cost of $21,000 to $23,000 to change the signs on the interchanges.

About twelve o'clock on Wednesday, I took it upon myself to call the Turnpike Commission. Dr. Williamson was not there. I spoke to a gentleman by the name of Mr. Gilbert, J. B. Gilbert. He gave me practically the same story as Mr. Readinger gave us.

I said, "Mr. Gilbert, how large are these signs? What kind of signs do you intend to erect?"

"Well," he said, "the signs are from 16 to 24 feet long."

I said, "Sixteen to 24 feet?"

"Yes."

I wrote that down very carefully.

I said, "How wide are they?"

"They are from 10 to 12 to 14 feet high."

"They are not billboards?"

"Yes, that's the size of them."

The next question I asked him was, "What are these signs made of?" He informed me the signs on the old section of the Turnpike were made of porcelain with a bull's-eye on each letter so they would shine at night. But he said "Now we are making new type signs out of plywood."

I said, "What size plywood?"

He said, "Three-quarter inch thick. We paint them green and paint the letters white with bull's-eyes and dots in the letter, or we use iredescent paint."

I said, "What are these signs going to cost?" "$21,000 or $23,000 per interchange."

Then he said, "The next item is the printing. The printing will cost $2,000 to change the plate for the tickets."

I said, "How many plates do you have made?"

"A couple plates."

I said, "You mean the engraving on those plates? The plates for the tickets they give you at the Turnpike interchanges cost $2,000?"

"Yes," he said. "The tickets will cost about $3,000 and the printing of the maps would be an outlay of about $5,000."

After I left here on Wednesday afternoon I drove over to Mechanicsburg and I got my yardstick out of the back of the automobile and I started to do some measuring. I found that the Gettysburg Pike sign is six feet four inches wide, seven feet high and made out of porcelain. I discovered the porcelain is in pretty bad shape. It has been up there for sime 15 or 16 years and it ought to be replaced before too long. Below I find the U. S. Navy-Mechanicsburg sign is two feet six inches by five feet six inches, made out of one-half inch plywood, painted white with sort of an iridescent light paint for the letters.

I journeyed down to the next sign, which said, "Gettysburg Pike." That is a two foot sign with the word "Gettysburg," eight feet long. The sign underneath it said "Exit Pa.-U.S. 15 1 mile." Next Exit Carlisle 11 Miles." That sign is five feet wide and 12 feet long.

The next sign coming in says, "One-half Mile Gettysburg Pike." That sign is four by six feet and two feet by six feet, with the words "Gettysburg Pike" on top of it. I measured the sign at Carlisle and went on through to Blue Mountain. The largest sign in those three interchanges is 12 feet by five feet and 16 inches by eight inches for the word "Carlisle." Blue Mountain is practically the same type of sign.

If it is going to cost $21,000 per interchange, ladies and gentlemen of this House, I am in the wrong business.

Getting off at Blue Mountain, I paid my toll, and I said to the gentleman, "Would you kindly give me a ticket?"

"Yes sir," he said. "I can give you a ticket, Representative." This ticket has 41 lines on it. There it is, Exhibit "A." If that costs $3,000 or $2,000 to have engraved, then I say I am still in the wrong business.

I also secured from the gentleman a map. There are five or six names appearing on this map—five or six names to be changed on this map right here. Over on this page it gives you the numbers. There are no names on the big print of the map. This has to be changed and this up here has to be changed. It may cost $50 to $60 to change. Also, I would estimate it would cost about $100 to $150 to change the plate for this ticket.

Mr. Readinger made the statement that last year there were 21 million—is that right, sir—21 million people who entered the gates of the Turnpike and secured these tickets. If you take 21 million and divide it into $21,000, that is a very small cost per any one person for this change.

I would like to stress upon the members of this House that we owe the people of this Commonwealth as well as the people in this nation who travel our Turnpike names that mean something on the maps. Just as my good friend and colleague, Mr. Garlock, stated, Blue Mountain starts out here on the other side of the river. It runs 45 miles to a gap called Upper Strasburg. If you ask 98 percent of the people in the historical Cumberland Valley from Harrisburg to Winchester where Blue Mountain is, they do not know.

The Turnpike Commission some 18 years ago decided that is what it was. The automobile associations in the Cumberland Valley, the service clubs and everybody else objected very strenuously to that name, but they went ahead and gave it that name. Now it is up to us to try to make it simple for the people who travel our highway.

Mr. Readinger made the statement he traveled 65 miles an hour and did not notice the size of the signs, nor did he notice where the names were. When you travel 60 to 70 miles an hour down a highway and you go past a sign at an interchange, until you get the map out you can be past the interchange. When you get past that interchange the next interchange is about 35 miles to Carlisle, and you find you should have gotten off at Blue Mountain. Then you have to drive south on U.S. 11 approximately 33 to 34 miles before you come to Shippensburg, when Shippensburg is only 11 miles from the Blue Mountain Interchange.

If you want to travel through to Baltimore and Washington, you have to drive 11 miles farther to Chambersburg from Shippensburg, a total of approximately 46 miles from the Carlisle Interchange to Chambersburg, where 11 miles would have brought you into Shippensburg, or 17½ miles would take you from Blue Mountain into Chambersburg and from there to Hagerstown, Baltimore and Washington.

So I would appreciate your support of this bill.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate Mr. Horst.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Horst, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HORST. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman what the name of the first interchange he mentioned was?

Mr. HORST. Blue Mountain.

Mr. GARLOCK. No, the one where the gentleman said he measured the sign.

Mr. HORST. I measured the sign first at Mechanicsburg. It is called Gettysburg Pike.

Mr. GARLOCK. Did I understand the gentleman to say that sign was about 15 years old and in rather bad condition?

Mr. HORST. Yes sir. It was made out of porcelain and it has cut-outs for the letters, and there is a back plate with the letters bolted to the main plate.

Mr. GARLOCK. Porcelain enamel is rather durable, is it not?

Mr. HORST. It is sir, but I have discovered at Blue Mountain there is a bullet hole in that sign approximately three inches in diameter.

Mr. GARLOCK. I am particularly interested in the Gettysburg Pike sign.

Mr. HORST. All right, we will go back to the Gettysburg Pike. You will find there are stoned spots in there that are starting to rust.

Mr. GARLOCK. The sign at Gettysburg Pike, I believe, is only a few years old. I do not believe the Pike has been opened for anywhere near 15 years in that location.

The point I wanted to bring out is the fact that I think probably there was very poor inspection on some of these signs which the Turnpike Commission has received and which I believe is an indication that some of the personnel hired by the Commonwealth in past years has not been quite as efficient as some of the people and some of the newspapers would have us believe they have been. And I think they justly deserve to be fired.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman's statements as to whether the signs are poorly made up, porcelain is a highly glazed material which is sprayed onto metal, and with the least damage or pressure applied, such as stones or BB gun shots, a crack developes in the porcelain. Add to that freezing weather and expension, it is not long until it is opened up.

Mr. Gilbert of the Turnpike Commission told me they discovered over the years that for what it cost to put the porcelain up, it did not stand up as good as the plywood. He went into great detail to tell me that the plywood was oil-dipped.

Ladies and gentlemen, that will cost about 50 to 60 cents a square foot, approximately 75 to 80 cents per square foot installed, where the porcelain would cost approximately three to three and one-half dollars a square foot for the same sign with the same lettering on it.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I want to compliment the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Horst, on the thoroughness of his investigation of this matter. However since there seems to be quite a discrepancy between the Vice Chairman of the Turnpike Commission and the Members of this House on the estimates of the cost, and since we are all interested in economy, I suggest that the gentleman from Franklin now make a motion that we lay this bill on the table and hold it there until we pass a bill on page 5, Senate Bill No. 140, by which we would make an appropriation to a committee which is to investigate the activities of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission. Perhaps they could make this part of their investigation and either reveal to us that we are spending too much money on something, or that this is a very reasonable request. I suggest that the gentleman make such a motion.

Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Minority Leader, Mr. Readinger.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, in order that I may be absolutely clear, I would like to hear what the gentleman said in his opening remarks. Will he tell this House again what it would cost to change these signs.

Mr READINGER. It is not what I say. It is what the Vice Chairman of the Turnpike Commission says, and he says they estimate it would cost $23,500 per interchange to re-sign the interchanges.

Mr. GOODLING. Thank you. I was not sure whether the gentleman said "per interchange" or all the interchanges affected.

If the figures had come from the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, I would take them and believe every word of them. Coming from somebody other than Mr. Readinger, I must say it is ridiculous to assume—and I realize that I am saying this against the Vice Chairman of the Turnpike Commission—as I see it or to think it would cost $23,000 per interchange to change a few little signs.

I agree with the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Horst, that I am in the wrong business, as he is. I should be in the outdoor advertising business rather than trying to raise apples and peaches.

I will tell you my particular interest in this bill as the Director of the three A's in York, Pennsylvania. We have had complaints down there on numerous occasions that the West Shore Interchange means absolutely nothing, and I think you can realize that is true. How many people know what the West Shore Interchange means? I happen to know because I pass it every time I come to Harrisburg. People coming east or west on the Turnpike, wanting to come to York, do not know where to get off because the West Shore Interchange means absolutely nothing. It is not on the map. I do not think you can find it on any map.

For that particular reason I think it is important that all the names be changed so that they will mean something to the general public.

Mr. READINGER. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Goodling.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Goodling, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOODLING. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether most of these names, if not all of them, which are being sought to be changed by this bill were names given to the interchanges at a time when the Republicans were in control of the Turnpike Commission?

Mr. GOODLING. I do not believe that makes any difference, Mr. Readinger.

Mr. READINGER. The question is, were they or were they not in control at that moment?

Mr. GOODLING. The Republicans were in control at that time, yes.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman not agree, then, before we rush in and spend a hundred and some thousand dollars, if that figure is accurate in making these changes that we should at least wait long enough to find out what the actual cost is?

Mr. GOODLING. I am not so sure we will ever get the actual cost. We have to take the word of the man whom you quoted, I think. This bill has been on this calendar for two or three weeks, and I see no reason to prolong it any longer on that calendar.

Mr. READINGER. The gentleman would be willing to spend $125,000 to change the names of these signs which he admits were put there by people at that time in control.

Mr. GOODLING. I think we would not be willing to spend that amount of money, but I still insist it would not cost that amount of money to change the signs in spite of what we have heard from your letter.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman state what he thinks the cost would be per interchange?

Mr. GOODLING. I have absolutely no idea what the cost might be.

Mr. READINGER. Then the cost might be, as stated in this letter, $23,500.

Mr. GOODLING. No, by no stretch of the imagination would I ever agree to thinking it would cost that amount of money.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman admit it might cost $20,000 per interchange?

Mr. GOODLING. No, I do not.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman admit it might cost $15,000?

Mr. GOODLING. No, I would not say it would cost $100.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman admit it might cost $10,000 per interchange?

Mr. GOODLING. If we were to spend a few hundred dollars per interchange—and I sincerely believe it could be done for a few hundred dollars per interchange—I think the money would be well spent.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman wait long enough, or agree with us that we should wait long enough, to offer amendments to this bill to put a limit of $1,000 per interchange to represent the cost of this?

Mr. GOODLING. No. If we were going to do that, I think we should have done that long ago.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate Mr. Readinger.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HORST. When was the Turnpike started? In whose administration?

Mr. READINGER. Approximately 1937, as I recall, the first legislation was created.

Mr. HORST. Governor Earle was Governor?

Mr. READINGER. I think that is correct.

Mr. HORST. The original Turnpike Commission, at that time, if I am not mistaken, was under the Democrats?

Mr. READINGER. The legislation was passed when Governor Earle was still Governor, but as I recall, the original operations of the Turnpike Commission did not start until after Governor Earle had departed from these parts.

Mr. HORST. You asked me to recall this bill. On the contrary I am going to ask the Speaker to have a slow roll call.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I did not realize at the time this bill hit the calendar that we were going to devote so much time to a bill which I thought had so little merit. However, since we have, I want to support the motion to lay it on the table so that I may offer amendments.

I too have a Chamber of Commerce in Johnstown and I believe the gentleman from Blair has a Chamber of Commerce in Altoona. We have two interchanges, one at Somerset and one at Bedford and both of those areas, perhaps, serve the community of Altoona and the community of Johnstown even more effectively than they serve the communities in which they are located. If we are going to make this change, and if we are going to try to show the public how to get to places of importance and places of business, one thing and another, then I think that Johnstown and Altoona should be named on the Turnpike somewhere. I think particularly people going east who live in Altoona, or people who want to go to Altoona, should have some notice that the Bedford Interchange is the proper interchange to get off. If people are coming west, perhaps at Somerset they should be told that is the place to get off if you want to go to Johnstown. If we are going to make these changes, at least let us do it right and give the people all the information they need.

There has been a lot of talk here making light of the cost to change these different outlets. I do not believe the men who have spoken so lightly about the cost realize how much it costs to make a colored plate of a map of Pennsylvania showing the Turnpike and showing the various entrances or outlets of the Turnpike.

Our official Pennsylvania map, printed every couple of years, which all the Members get, show that Turnpike and show entrances and different things. There are many, many documents of this Commonwealth that are made in colors, made of plates, and those things will have to be done over again. In fact, all of the literature dealing with the Turnpike will have to be remade. When you get an artist to have those things drawn in the first place and then have to have plates etched out and made, the cost can conceivably amount to the twenty-some thousand dollar figure mentioned here.

I do not think we ought to make light of these things. Since they have been called to our attention by responsible people, I would state I consider the Vice Chairman of the Turnpike Commission a responsible individual, I presume he has his information from a reliable source, and I certainly would not make light of it on the floor of this House. It behooves us, as Legislators, to give the other fellow credit for some intelligence. I think we are only kidding ourselves when we close our eyes and are unwilling to admit that somebody can be honest outside of ourselves.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I am very much pleased that this House should return to the mature consideration of legislation. There has been more interest, more elocution, about this bill than there was about the matter yesterday involving some $480 million.

I do not know whether the Vice Chairman of the Turnpike Commission is proceeding as recklessly with his facts and figures as the Majority Leader proceeded yesterday. I do not know whether Williamson is playing a Majority Leader role or the Majority Leader was playing a Williamson role.

I do want to point out seriously, we are following a pattern. Every Member who has spoken has, with the exception of the Minority Leader, voiced an opinion, and even the Minority Leader has not checked on his authority. We are proceeding on the basis of opinion. It would be so very, very easy for this House to ascertain exactly how much this would cost, and for what and where the cost items would be.

It could be possible within two days to get all the facts. Why should this House become suddenly so abhorrent to obtaining facts?

It is the figures that should govern, not the opinion of the gentleman from Franklin, not the opinion of the gentleman from York, not even the opinion, on check, of the Vice Chairman of the Turnpike Commission because these things are matters of fact and matters of figures which can be ascertained.

I submit this House at this time should end the era of legisla'ing by unsupported opinion and get down to a basis of facts. The place for this measure is on the table until next Monday, by which time we should be able to know exactly what we are talking about and legislate in the light of exact information.

I would suggest to the gentleman from Franklin or the gentleman from York to place this bill on the table or on the postponed calendar un'il next Monday, and then bring it up for definite consideration with the facts in hand.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, since we have spent so much time on this piece of legislation this afternoon, let's be fair about it.

I have been reminded of a little story I heard one time about a boy who was sitting along the road at a crossroads.

A gentleman drove down and stopped. He said to the boy, "Young man, if I turned right here where will I go?"

The boy said, "I don't know."

He said, "Young man, if I turned left here, where will I go?"

The boy said, "I don't know."

He said, "Young man, if I keep on going straight here, where will I go?"

The boy said, "I don't know."

He said, "Young man, you don't seem to know much."

The young man said, "No, but I am not lost."

Now let's be fair about it. If you get on the Turnpike and you do not know where you are going, we have men there at the gate who will tell you where you are going. They will possibly tell you, you are going crazy. If you do know where you are going and you tell the gentleman at the gate, he will tell you the proper interchange where to get off the Turnpike so that you may get to your destination.

Rather than spend all this time on this bill, we have a very wide-awake Governor in this state and he proved to you today he is very wide awake. I am sure when you send this bill to the Governor of Pennsylvania he will tell you whether or not it should become law in Pennsylvania.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, just one short final word. I have been trying for a couple of years to break the political solidity of the opposition. While I do not often give political tips, I would like to give you this one.

You know elections are oftentimes won on little things instead of the big things. If you are going to vote for an undetermined amount of money to be spent—and it is certainly undetermined at the moment—to correct past Republican mistakes, remember you will be liable to be faced with this by a Democratic opponent at your next election. If it is only peanuts in money, it is going to sound awfully big in the campaign.

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, I think it is entirely within the province of the Turnpike Commission to make these signs and what to put on them, when to change them and when to repair them. I cannot see why that subject should be brought into this General Assembly.

As the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, says, it costs $23,000. Another man on the other side says it is only going to cost a few thousand dollars. Nevertheless I do not see where this falls within the province of this Legislature. It should be entirely the job of the Turnpike Commission.

Mr. STECKEL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has just asked why it was in the province of this body. The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission is a creature of this very legislative body, created originally and theoretically to serve the convenience of the traveling public of this Commonwealth in any way.

In cases such as those cited by the gentleman from Carbon County where the creature of this representative body chooses to ignore his local sentiment and desire, then it become the duty of this representative body to voice what the desire of the local people is. If that is the only way to enforce it, then that is the way it has to be done.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I have only one remark to make on the question of local desires. Had local desires prevailed, there would be no Turnpike in Bedford, or Somerset, or anywhere close along the Lincoln Highway because at the time the Turnpike was authorized, all of those communities were bitterly opposed to it. So local desire sometimes is not very good.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 454, Printer's No. 173,

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. The Chair calls to the attention of the House that the next bill on the Calendar, House Bill No. 582, Printer's No. 123, has been placed on the Third Reading Calendar in error. It should be on the Third Reading Postponed Calendar by action of the House yesterday.

Also on page 5 of today's Calendar the next bill to be considered should be House Bill 391, Printer's No. 187, which should be on the Third Reading Calendar rather than the Third Reading Postponed Calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 391, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of July 11, 1917 (P. L. 802) entitled "An act authorizing county commissioners to repay moneys collected on forfeited recognizances in certain cases" providing for the return of forfeited recognizances upon application therefor.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ISAACS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Would the gentleman briefly explain the purpose of this bill?

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of the bill is fairly clearly stated in the bill. I might say that in my county we have had no trouble in this connection. If the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, has any serious questions about the bill, I shall be glad to yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, who informed me that Philadelphia County was having trouble with these recognizances being forfeited and possibly Mr. Fineman could answer these questions.

However, if he has any particular question, I think I can answer it.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I will put my same question to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, and ask him if he would briefly explain the purpose of this bill?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FINEMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. The question was to explain the purpose of this bill, just what it does, in summary form?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the bill, in the event there has been a forfeiture of a bond, where bond money has been estreated into the county treasurer's office and the defendant is returned to the jurisdiction of the court through the efforts of the bondsman, or through information supplied by the bondsman, the court now has the obligation—this is a "shall" bill—to order the money returned to the bondsman, less the cost to the Commonwealth of bringing the defendant back to the jurisdiction of the court.

As the law presently stands this is purely a matter which rests in the discretion of the court and is not a mandatory situation. So each case is considered on its individual merits and, if the judge should so decide, the application for refund can be rejected or refused.

Under the provisions of this bill and within the provisions of the bill when all of the conditions precedent are complied with, the court has to order the repayment of the bond money, less, as I said, the cost of bringing the defendant back to the jurisdiction of the court.

Mr. McCORMACK. As I understand it, this bill applies to criminal proceedings where a bondsman has posted bond for a defendant in order to obtain his release on bail pending a criminal trial, is that correct?

Mr. FINEMAN. Yes.

Mr. McCORMACK. Now, under the present law, if the defendant fails, after notice, to appear in court on the day set for his trial, the court under the present law can order the recognizance forfeited and the bail sued out, is that correct?

Mr. FINEMAN. Yes. As I understand the situation—and I want to preface my comment with the observation that I do not practice criminal law extensively—if a defendant should leave the jurisdiction at a time when the case is called for trial, within 60 days thereafter the district attorney's office will order a judgment entered of record on the recognizance and the bail bondsman has 60 days after the entry of judgment within which to bring the defendant back to the jurisdiction of the court. If during a four-month period the defendant is not returned to the jurisdiction of the court, then the money is estreated into the county treasurer's office.

Mr. McCORMACK. Does this bill, Mr. Speaker, distinguish between professional bondsmen and individual persons?

Mr. FINEMAN. The bill makes no distinction between professional bondsmen and individuals who might post bond.

Mr. McCORMACK. What is the necessity for this bill? Is there a hardship now on the professional bondsmen?

Mr. FINEMAN. There is unquestionably, as I see the situation, a hardship on a professional bondsman in these particular situations where, for instance, a defendant might be returned to the jurisdiction of the court one week after the expiration of the four-month period which I mentioned previously and where the court has adopted by rule the procedure that it will not refund the bail bond money to the bondsman who put it up.

Mr. McCORMACK. Under the present law can you not always file a petition?

Mr. FINEMAN. You can file a petition, but the courts have refused the petition where the period within which the defendant is returned to the jurisdiction exceeds four months.

Mr. McCORMACK. In other words, after the court's determination that under the facts of the particular case it would not be acting in the interest of the people to refund the money?

Mr. FINEMAN. The court does not make a decision that is based on considerations concerning what is to the welfare or not to the welfare of the people where the period of four months has elapsed. The court has automatically taken the position that since four months have elapsed the money will be estreated and that is the end of it.

Mr. McCORMACK. I do not like to disagree with the gentleman, but I have known instances where even as much as a year afterwards the court has returned the money, after a petition, to the bondsman.

Mr. FINEMAN. As is true with any rule, there are exceptions to it. But in the prevailing situation, at least in Philadelphia County, 99 percent of all applications for refunds where the period exceeds four months have been refused.

Mr. McCORMACK. I see. Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, I do not think I have heard enough at this stage to warrant my voting for this bill. There might be some good features to it, but as of now I have not heard them. I think one bad feature of the bill is that it makes it mandatory that the forfeited recognizance be returned to the bondsman if the defendant is returned to the jurisdiction within two years. I think it is going to affect the calendar of criminal cases, especially in Philadelphia, because the bondsman, knowing that he has two years within which to produce a defendant, might be a little lax in his efforts to produce him on the day set for trial in the original case.

I think for that reason we ought to give some consideration to see whether it would be wise at this time to pass such a bill.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, it seems hardly likely, to me, if the bondsman who puts up his own funds has to forfeit those funds, that he is going to be dilatory in doing whatever he can to ensure the return of those moneys to him as quickly as possible. I am certain no individual bondsman is going to allow a great sum of money to lie out without his making every endeavor to see to its return. Moreover, as I understand the theory of bail bond, it is to ensure the presence of the defendant in court. If that situation is complied with, if a defendant is present in court and if the Commonwealth has been reimbursed for any out-of-pocket expense in returning a defendant to its jurisdiction, I can see no reason for not returning these funds to the bondsman.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

Senate Bill No. 277 Printer's No. 82

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 280, entitled as follows:

An Act transferring money from the Special Disaster Relief Fund to the General Fund.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend the title, page 1, line 2 of the title, by inserting after "Fund" and disposing of certain tax collections

Amend the bill, page 2, by inserting between lines 2 and 3 Section 2. From and after the effective date of this act the proceeds of the additional tax imposed, collected and payable into the Special Diaster Relief Fund by virtue of the act of September 3, 1955 (P. L. 561) shall be paid into the General Fund.

Amend Section 2, page 2, line 3, by striking out "2" and inserting "3."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

Senate Bill No. 281 Printer's No. 87

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

BILLS ON THIRD READING POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. TOMPKINS.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 57, entitled:

An Act ameding "The Penal Code," approved June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872), prohibiting sales by publishers or distributors of magazines, newspapers, periodicals or other publications which require purchase of other such publications.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, in view of the conference which the Atorney General had last Thursday with district attorneys of this Commonwealth, this bill was considered and it was unanimously approved by them with certain amendments.

A committee of five district attorneys was appointed and are preparing those amendments, and it may be a couple of weeks before they will be here.

I am going to ask at this time this bill be re-committed to Judiciary for the purpose of receiving those amendments and to put the bill in final form for further reporting back to the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary for the purpose of amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TOMPKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, We have in the Judiciary Committee bill No. 680, relating to the garnishment of wages for the payment of debts.

We have received a tremendous amount of correspondence on this piece of legislation. For that purpose the Judiciary Committee will hold a public hearing in the new House Caucus Room next Tuesday, April 2, 1957, at 10:00 a. m. for the purpose of hearing the views of the public on this bill.

I make this announcement in order that those who have been contacting me about this bill may inform their people back home in the event they care to appear at this hearing, they are perfectly at liberty to do so.

PERMISSION GRANTED PARDON BOARD INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, at this time I would like to ask unanimous consent of the House to hold a meeting of the Pardon Board Investigating Committee beginning at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow morning in the Senate Caucus Room. There are three Members of this House who are members of that Committee.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. JOHNSON from the Committee on Rules, reported as committed, Senate Resolution Serial No. 107.

SENATE RESOLUTION SERIAL No. 107

Mr. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of Senate Resolution Serial No. 107.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the Senate, February 11, 1957.

The increased importation of numerous products that come into competition with the output of factories, farms and mines of Pennsylvania, replacing the products of Pennsylvania's industries, is a constant menace to the State's continuing economic stability.

The lower wages paid abroad make it impossible for many of our smaller and medium-sized producers to compete with imports without resorting to ruinous price cutting, which in turn would result either in financial losses or heavy pressure for wage reductions and outright unemployment.

Our National obligations have reached such extreme proportions that the National income must be maintained at its present unprecedented high level, or close thereto, lest we become insolvent.

Unemployment caused by the imports of residual oil, which represented 3.43 times the average of 45 million barrels imported in 1946, to approximately 154 million barrels in 1956, or the yearly equivalent of 36,640,000 tons of coal; and unemployment caused by imports of crude oil; various types of glass, steel, aluminum, brass and zinc products; pottery and chinaware; granite, tiles, cement, hardboard, plywood, hardware, plumbing, flat glass and other building supplies, lace, carpets and all kinds of woolen, cotton and synthetic fibre manufactured goods; leather and fabric gloves; bicycles; hydraulic turbines; machine tools and other machinery; heavy electrical equipment and other electrical industry products and electronics; watches, clocks and parts; optical industry products; cutlery; scientific apparatus; pencils and pens; pins, clips and fasteners; soft fibre; insulation board and manufactured cork products; chemicals; toys; mushrooms; farm, dairy and dried milk products, wallpaper, hats and millinery, printing industry products; ladies hand bags and leather goods; nails, wire, screws, bolts and nuts and many other commodities; will render the upholding of the economy at its high levels cost uncertain and difficult unless all import trade is placed on a fair competitive basis and the potential injury therefrom thus eliminated.

Agricultural products such as wheat, wheat flour, cotton, butter, cheese and peanuts enjoy the protection of import quotas.

A maximum of satisfactory trade results from a prosperous domestic economy freed from the threat of a breakdown resulting from unfair import competition: therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to provide adequate safeguards in tariff and trade legislation, including import quotas and an effective prohibition against dumping of imports in the United States; against the destruction or lowering of our American standard of living, the labor standard of our workmen, and the stability of our economy by unfair import competition and that the existing trade agreements legislation be amended accordingly; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

SENATE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 25, 1957.

Resolved, (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, April 1, 1957 at three o'clock p. m., EST.; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, April 1, 1957 at three o'clock p. m. EST.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this Resolution be amended by striking out in the last line the word "three' and inserting in lieu thereof the words "four-thirty."

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has adopted the same with amendment in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. JOHNSON. For the information of the Members on the Republican side, the Caucus will be held at 3:00 p. m. on Monday as heretofore instead of 2:00 p. m. as we set it last week.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the Minority Leader has requested me to say the Democratic Caucus next Monday will be at 3:00 o'clock.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. YATRON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Wednesday, March 27, 1957 at 10:00 a. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 5:25 p. m.) the House adjourned.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1957. 142nd of the General Assembly.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1957. No. 30.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 27, 1957.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain, the following prayer was offered by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. RUTH:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, this morning we come to Thee and pray that Thou wilt help us to understand that in the storm and strees of life we cannot hear Thee, but in the quietness of meditation, we can hear Thy still small voice speaking to us.

We pray that we may hear and in this blessed season of Lent, as we look forward to the week and the day when Thou didst make the great sacrafice for us, that we may lend our ear to Thy voice and be guided by it so that our work here or at home, wherever it may be, shall be to Thy honor and glory in a world without end. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. MAHANY and Mr. WAGNER, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 26, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I am grateful to the members of the General Assembly and to its presiding officers for your courtesy in permitting me to interrupt your sessions and to address you today.

I would not do so, of course, except on a matter of grave importance to the Comonwealth.

To get immediately to my purpose, it is to ask you to recall from my desk House Bill No. 337, which is the legal instrument through which the three per cent sales tax is to be re-enacted.

I suggest its recall because I am sure that this General Assembly can write—if it has a mind to—a better bill than the one you have sent to me. House Bill No. 337 is full of loopholes. It is difficult if not impossible to enforce. It is a doubtful constitutionality in certain clauses. It is destructive of the State's revenues. It is conspicuous in its special privileges to certain favored interests.

Surely, it is not the General Assembly's intent to make our State's finances dependent upon a bill so poorly drawn and so unimindful of the Commonwealth's best interests.

I said to you at the opening of this session, and again in my budget message, that as Governor, I had no desire to impose my philosophy of taxation upon you. I said further that I hoped that we could take the issue of State taxes out of the area of partisan debate and rancor. Still further, I appointed a committee of citizens of Pennsylvania to help us acomplish that objective, and, as a result, representatives of labor and of management were able for the first time in our State's recent history to agree upon a tax program.

It is in no way, then, my purpose to challenge at this date the use of the sales tax as a major element in our State's finance.

That battle is over.

I lost it; the Republican leadership in this General Assembly won it.

But I would be failing most abjectly in my duties as Chief Executive of this Commonwealth, if I did not urge you most strongly to make sure that, if we must have a sales tax, it is a good one.

That can only be accomplished in the fundamental legislation which establishes the tax.

House Bill No. 337 fails in that accomplishment.

I will transmit to the General Assembly this week a detailed and lengthy analysis of deficiencies in the bill prepared by the Attorney General. This analysis will make hard reading for those of us who are not tax lawyers and tax accountants, but certainly, the questions raised by the Department of Justice will furnish sufficient warning that many things in House Bill No. 337 are very wrong.

I will not take the time of the Assembly in reading such a lawyer's brief as to the errors in House Bill No. 337.

We properly can take a few minutes to make the general case against the bill as you have sent it to me.

The sales tax legislation which became law at the last session was not technically a good bill.

The State's tax consultants, McKinsey and Company, listed as the first major problem in the collection of the sales tax what they called politely the "distinctive" characteristics of the law itself. These experts said that the existing sales tax law's provisions "make difficult general understanding by taxpayers and the establishment of officient administration."

Unfortunately, the labors of this General Assembly to date, as exhibited in House Bill No. 337, have made a bad bill worse.

Amendments to improve the bill, prepared with great care by the Department of Justice on the basis of its experience, were rejected; I am afraid with little consideration.

Amendments prepared by others were accepted, with what must seem again all too little consideration.

Public utilities and shipbuilding are given special tax concessions denied to the public at large, the ordinary consumer, and all other industry. There is so much overeagerness to accommodate such special interests, who are so forcefully represented here at Harrisburg, that the exemptions rendered are much broader than even their strongest champions could have hoped to get.

For instance, in the exemption granted to public utitlities, it was possibly intended to clarify the definition as to what is public utility real estate and what is not. Instead, the exemption written into the bill exempts not only all improvements to public utility real estate from the sales tax, but goes further to exempt all equipment used by independent construction contractors who engage in substantial public utility construction work.

I am addressing my next remarks to taxpayers everywhere in this Commonwealth.

If you buy paint to paint your house, your furniture or your barn you pay the tax.

But if you are a utility and you buy paint for your real estate you DON'T pay the tax.

If you're a small business man and you buy a truck to use in your business you pay the tax.

But if you're a big shipbuilding company and you buy a truck, you don't pay the tax.

Those are only two small obvious examples.

It's the big examples that will cause the real trouble.

No one has more strongly advocated than I have the need for making our tax system in Pennsylvania competitive with that of other states for the attraction and expansion of industry.

In too many of its features, however, House Bill No. 337 goes beyond such a praiseworthy purpose. It begins to smack of greed and tax-dodging. Nothing could be more harmful to the cause of genuine reform and improvement in our tax structure.

In my budget message I said that I will approve any tax program which this General Assembly enacts which "will support the services to which the State is committed, be fair in its application to the people of this State, contain a basic measure of adjustment to the inflationary economy in which we live, and be stimulating to the economic development of Pennsylvania." Clearly House Bill No. 337 fails to meet at least one of these tests. It is not "fair in its application to the people of this State." A selected few enjoy special tax advantage; while millions of our housewives and working men and women feel its full impact.

I recognize that the prerogative of choosing what shall be taxed and what shall be exempt is the Legislature's, so long as it observes the uniformity clause of our Constitution. I may think you are in error, and I may say so, but you have the undoubted right to set the objects of taxation.

But the General Assembly has no right, and I am sure that you cannot truly intend, to enact an unworkable and unenforceable bill.

House Bill No. 337 contains many new restrictive and crippling provisions in its enforcement sections. Many new technical defenses and impediments to enforcement are provided. House Bill No. 337 is a tax attorney's dream, and a tax collector's nightmare.

This failure to provide the proper means of enforcement is exemplified by the provisions in House Bill No. 337 as to the notice of reassessment, the reduction in penalties, and the removal of the requirement of a reassessment bond.

Normal tax practice in other states permits the state to require a taxpayer to post bond before he petitions for a reassessment of his tax. Normally, also, such bond is set at twice the amount of the state's claim. Under the existing sales tax practice, the Department of Revenue has, perhaps too generously, required a bond of only 10 per cent more than the claim. House Bill No. 337 eliminates the bond altogether, leaving the state naked to complete loss should the petitioning taxpayer fail in business during the long period of dispute and litigation.

At best, a sales tax is difficult to assess and to collect.

House Bill No. 337 makes it still more difficult because, contrary to the practice in almost every other state, it removes all penalties for an understatement of the amount due except where the state can show negligence or deliberate disregard.

House Bill No. 337, to give it its due, attempts a useful reform in tax procedures by providing a statutory method for testing the validity of a particular attempt to impose a tax. Unfortunately, the method selected in House Bill No. 337 is completely unworkable, placing an impossible burden on the Board of Finance and Revenue which, under the bill, receives the initial petition for refund.

House Bill No. 337 completely fails to recognize and cure many difficulties now existing in the present sales tax legislation. The Administration is naturally anxious to simplify and make explicit the existing law; sadly enough, House Bill No. 337 injects new confusion and ambiguities almost without limit.

I am quite sure that this was not done with malice.

I am afraid that it was done without sufficient thought and without sufficient tax and legal craftsmanship.

And I am entirely certain that House Bill No. 337 will diminish, not increase, the yield from the sales tax which we are so painfully building up.

It will divert millions of dollars from the State Treasury.

Today, I come to you to appeal to your sober second thought, to your good sence, to your belief in this Commonwealth and your desire to serve it. I ask you to set aside your pride of authorship in this House Bill No. 337, as you have asked me to set aside my fundamental beliefs as to the proper incidence of taxation in Pennsylvania.

I have the same feeling today, in spite of many things that have been said in the Assembly, that I had in January—that we must submerge our party feelings in the interest of the Commonwealth if this session is to serve our people well.

I ask you, therefore, most respectfully to recall House Bill No. 337 from my desk, to consider its shortcomings, amend them, and write an honorable and workable tax bill that will raise its due portion of the revenue that this Legislature will appropriate for the use of our people.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. This address of the governor will be printed in the Legislative Journal. Copies of the same are on the Members' desks.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR

He also presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor, which were read as follows:

Schmidt,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE AMENDMENTS OFFERED

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 479, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Labor and Industry for payments to claimants for certain occupational diseases.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, before presenting an amendment to this bill, I desire to make a brief statement in support of it.

Mr. President, if you will take a look at the budget as submitted by the Governor, under the title "Deficiency Appropriations," you will find that $1,600,000 was requested to take care of cases involving occupational diseases.

I understand that subsequently the Committee on Labor and Industry held a hearing, if I am correct, with the officials from the Department of Labor and Industry for the purpose of having the Department justify the request. I am informed by Senator Berger that the officials of the Department said that they could get along with $1,100,000. I am assuming the appropriation, as originally submitted, was amended to decrease the sum from $1,600,000 to $1,100,000. However, after the hearing was conducted by the Committee on Labor and Industry, I attended a budget hearing which was held by the Joint Committee on Appropriations.

The Department of Labor and Industry appeared before that committee. Senator Propert and Senator Stevenson attended that meeting, as I recall, and we went into the matter of this deficiency appropriation at some length. It appeared to me that the officials from the Department were convincing enough to compel me to prepare the amendment that I am going to submit today to put the appropriation back to $1,600,000.

They tell me that the cases that have already been audited and are ready for payment will require the total amount requested. However, they also told us at this committee hearing that there were about 1,600 cases which developed during this biennium that will have to be financed as soon as they are ready for final disposition. That will require an aditional sum of money.

In a talk with Senator Berger the other day on the subject, I told him that I was going to contact the Department of Labor and Industry relative to the discrepancy between what they apparently told his committee and what they said at the Appropriations Committee meeting. While talking to the officials on the telephone, I was again told that the Department would require the full sum of $1,600,000. I then asked them to send me a letter to that effect, which I will be pleased to read.

The letter is dated March 20, 1957, and it is from

William L. Batt, Jr., Secretary of Labor and Industry. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Senator Yosko:

"I earnestly request that H-479, the deficiency appropriation bill for the Occupational Disease Fund, be amended from $1,100,000 to $1,600,000.

"The request of the Department of Labor and Industry for $1,600,000 deficiency appropriation for Occupational Disease claims has the effect of being mandated moneys provided for in the amendments passed by the Occupational Disease Bill in the last session of the Legislature.

"When the budget figures for the current biennium were arrived at, it was almost impossible to determine, in advance, the amount of money which would be needed for these claims, since there was no accurate barometer for determining how many cases there would be. At the present time there are 3,350 active cases on the pay rolls, 703 cases fully processed on which no payments have been made, and 1,600 petitions pending.

"These occupational disease claims are claims of individuals who are totally disabled as a result of silicosis and other occupational diseases. As a result of the passage of the amended legislation in the last session of the Legislature, the Legislature undertook this obligation to these people. The following is the information regarding the present status of the Occupational Disease Fund:

"Appropriation 1955-57, $7,000,000; Deficiency Appropriation 1955-57, $1,600,000; Total Funds to be Available, $8,600,000.

"Expenditures 6/1/55—2/28/57, $6,628,940; Biweekly payments for 3/19/57, $163,717; Biweekly payments for 4/2/57—5/28/57, 5 payments @ $178,017, $893,585; Initial and biweekly payments for 543 cases awarded and 160 cases awarded and in the legal department, 703 cases @ $1,300, $913,900."

That balances out the $8,600,142.

"We hope this appropriation, as passed by the House, will be amended so that the deficiency appropriation will amount to $1,600,000. There is absolutely no possibility, on the basis of the Department of Labor and Industry's estimates that $1,100,000 will be sufficient to complete the biennium on May 31, 1957.

"What we have involved in this deficiency appropriation is the promise of the Legislature that silicosis and other occupational diseases will be taken care of. If this appropriation is cut to $1,100,000, the claimants can conceivably have a long period of waiting for their compensation to be paid, and, because these are 100 per cent disability cases, we may be depriving them of the very basic needs for existence."

That is the end of the letter from the Department of Labor and Industry.

Mr. President, I do not believe that any of us in this Senate or in the House want those who are entitled to be compensated because of occupational diseases to be forced to unduly wait for their money. I think, in accordance with the mandate of the law, we should provide the funds to finance the applications which are on file.

Mr. President, I now ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend House Bill No. 479, Printer's No. 92, Section 1, Line 1 by striking out after the word million the word: "One" and inserting in lieu thereof the word: "Six."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENT

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the amendment just read by the Clerk.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this matter is simply one of degree, I believe.

Senator Yosko misunderstood me when I told him that the meeting at which this subject was under discussion was at the deficiency appropriation hearing of the Department of Labor and Industry. It was not at a meeting of the Committee on Labor and Industry.

Now at that time, the Acting Secretary of Labor and Industry had made application for a $1,600,000 deficiency appropriation for the purpose of paying these occupational disease claims. However, it developed in the discussion at the hearing that the process claims and the number of claims which reasonably might be expected to be processed between now and the end of the biennium would require a deficiency appropriation of $1,100,000.

Mr. President, we do not want to shortchange this fund in any way, but this was at the hearing on the application for the deficiency and that was the figure that was developed. I think it probably is a correct figure. The meeting at which Senator Yosko was present, I believe, was the regular appropriation hearing for the department, at which the entire appropriation was discussed and this matter came up collaterally.

The hearing, where the figure of $1,100,000 was determined, was upon this particular bill in which they requested $1,600,000 but at which hearing it was determined that $1,100,000 would very likely be ample to take care of these claims which are already in process and also those which probably would be processed between now and the end of the biennium.

Therefore, Mr. President, I do not believe that the extra $500,000 called for in this amendment is necessary for this purpose.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I was not mistaken, and I am sorry I did not make myself clear. When I talked about the meeting that Senator Berger had with the Department of Labor and Industry, I was referring to the meeting that was held solely on the deficiency appropriation request. The meeting that I attended was the regular budget hearing held by the Joint Appropriations Committee and, as I said before, Senator Propert was there and Senator Stevenson was there. I am sure they will recall that the representatives of the Department of Labor and Industry said that they would require the full $1,600,000 to be able to take care of the claims that were processed and that would be processed and ready for payment between now and the end of this biennium.

If there was any conflicting testimony—and believe me when I say I do not want to see the Department get any more than they are entitled to or than they can use—on what was said at the meeting with Senator Berger and the Appropriations Committee, I would certainly be willing to have this bill go over until we can review the testimony that was given at the budget hearing or call in the officials of the Department of Labor and Industry once more and get their real views on the situation as it exists today and will exist at the end of this biennium. I suggest that for the same reasons I gave before. There are claims already filed. The people that filed the claims are entitled to the money, if the claims are approved, under laws passed by this Legislature. If the Department does not have the money, it will mean that these poor unfortunates will not be able to be paid on time and, subsequently, will have to suffer by a delay in the payments.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not think this bill ought to go over. I think it ought to be passed. If there are some of these payments that are being held up because of the lack of funds in this particular area and this $1,100,000 will enable payments to be made, then I think they ought to have the money.

If there is any variance in the testimony of the two hearings, we can pick up the $500,000, if needed, by a later deficiency. I understand that it is not needed, however, because the Department, on February 27, had a balance in cash of $371,000, and they show that their needed amounts will be about $1,471,000 and with this deficiency appropriation of $1,100,000, it will enable them to take care of the claims that they have already processed and they ought to be taken care of.

Mr. YOSKO. Do I understand from you, Senator Berger, that we should go ahead and approve this $1,100,000 and if, between now and May 31 or between now and the time this Legislature is ready to adjourn, the Department of Labor and Industry can prove that it needs additional money to pay claims that have been processed and are ready for payment, a supplemental deficiency appropriation bill will be prepared to take care of the difference between the $1,100,000 and whatever the needs are?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, yes, that is exactly my position. I mean it is just a matter of paying these proper claims, and if they need this money now, as I understand they do and are anxious to have this bill passed, and if there is an actual need for additional moneys shown, certainly we will put in another bill for the additional $500,000.

Mr. YOSKO. My only interest, Mr. President, and I am sure the only interest of everybody here, is seeing that there is sufficient money provided to take care of the claims that originated during this biennium and are payable during this biennium. If Senator Berger agrees to that, that is agreeable to me.

AMENDMENT WITHDRAWN

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Would Senator Yosko withdraw his amendment at this time or does he want it voted on?

Mr. YOSKO. Yes, I will withdraw the amendment, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Yosko withdraws his amendment to House Bill No. 479.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make reports from committee at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. KESSLER, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 145, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 19, 1931 (P. L. 589) entitled as amended "Barbers License Law," changing the required number of hours for schools of barbering.

He also, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 164, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections one thousand one hundred sixty-six and one thousand one hundred sixty-nine of the act approved the tenth day of March one thousand nine hundred forty-nine (P. L. 30) entitled "Public School Code of 1949," further providing for sabbatical leaves of absence and harmonizing the language of existing amendments.

He also, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 246, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) entitled "Public School Code of 1949," providing for records, compensation of teachers, penalties for failure to attend and audits and reports where in-service education programs replace teachers' meetings; and imposing the expenses thereof on counties.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 112, REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE AND LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. KESSLER, from the Committee on Education, to which was referred resolution offered by Messrs. Harney and Madigan on March 11, 1957, reported the same without amendment as follows:

JOINT COMMITTEE TO STUDY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS OF STATE TEACHERS COLLEGES AND RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY OUT OF STATE CONSULTANTS

In the Senate, March 11, 1957.

Whereas, the General State Authority has adopted construction projects at several of the State Teachers Colleges of the Commonwealth, and

Whereas, the Department of Public Instruction has employed consultants from outside the Commonwealth to survey said State Teachers Colleges, and

Whereas, recommendations are being made to the Superintendent of Public Instruction which are impractical and impossible of accomplishment, and

Whereas, this has resulted in unnecessary delay in making critically needed repairs and expansions for a long period of time after money has been made available for this purpose, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur) that a committee be appointed, three by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and three by the Speaker of the House, to make a study of this matter and report to the Legislative not later than May 1, 1957, in order that this unfortunate situation may be corrected.

Laid over for one day under the Rules.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. HARNEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HARNEY read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 490, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 22, 1931 (P. L. 594) entitled "Rural State Highway Law," changing a route in Chester County.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

HOUSE MESSAGES

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION RETURNED WITH AMENDMENT

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, returned to the Senate, Senate Concurrent Resolution, with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

The Clerk read the amended resolution as follows:

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

In the Senate, March 25, 1957.

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, April 1, 1957 at three o'clock, p. m., E.S.T., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, April 1, 1957 at four-thirty o'clock, p. m., E.S.T.

SENATE CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS MADE BY THE HOUSE TO SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do concur in the amendments made by the House to the resolution just read by the Clerk.

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 107.

He also informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO PROVIDE ADEQUATE SAFEGUARDS IN TARRIFF AND TRADE LEGISLATION

In the Senate, February 11, 1957.

The increased importation of numerous products that come into competition with the output of factories, farms and mines of Pennsylvania, replacing the products of Pennsylvanias' industries, is a constant menace to the State's continuing economic stability.

The lower wages paid abroad make it impossible for many of our smaller and medium-sized producers to compete with imports without resorting to ruinous price cutting, which in turn would result either in financial losses or heavy pressure for wage reductions and outright unemployment.

Our National obligations have reached such extreme proportions that the National income must be maintained at its present unprecedented high level, or close thereto, lest we become insolvent.

Unemployment caused by the imports of residual oil, which represented 3.43 times the average of 45 million barrels imported in 1946, approximately 154 million barrels in 1956, or the yearly equivalent of 36,640,000 tons of coal; and unemployment caused by imports of crude oil; various types of glass, steel, aluminum, brass and zinc products; pottery and chinaware; granite, tiles, cement, hardboard, plywood, hardware, plumbing, flat glass and other building supplies, lace, carpets and all kinds of woolens, cotton and synthetic fibre manufactured goods; leather and fabric gloves; bicycles; hydraulic turbines; machine tools and other machinery; heavy electrical equipment and other electrical industry products and electronics; watches, clocks and parts; optical industry products; cutlery; scientific apparatus; pencils and pens; pins, clips and fasteners; soft fibre; insulation board and manufactured cork products; chemicals; toys; mushrooms; farm, dairy and dried milk products. wallpaper, hats and millinery, printing industry products; ladies hand bags and leather goods; nails, wire, screws, bolt and nuts and many other commodities; will render the upholding of the economy at its high levels most uncertain and difficult unless all import trade is placed on a fair competitive basis and the potential injury therefrom thus eliminated.

Agricultural products such as wheat, wheat flour, cotton, butter, cheese and peanuts enjoy the protection of import quotas.

A maximum of satisfactory trade results from a prosperous domestic economy freed from the threat of a breakdown resulting from unfair import competition; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to provide adequate safeguards in tariff and trade legislation, including import quotas and an effective prohibition against dumping of imports in the United States; against the destruction or lowering of our American standard of living, the labor standard of our workmen, and the stabliity of our economy by unfair import competition and that the existing trade agreements legislation be amended accordingly; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

HOUSE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

He also presented for concurrence bills of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 262, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) providing for attendance of school directors at National School Boards Convention.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

House Bill No. 269, entitled:

An Act amending "The Second Class Township Code" approved May 1, 1933 (P. L. 103) further providing for the employment of a certified public accountant the duties of the township auditors and further regulating appropriations.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

House Bill No. 391, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 11, 1917 (P. L. 802) entitled "An act authorizing county commissioners to repay moneys collected or forfeited recognizances in certain cases" providing for the return of forfeited recognizances upon application therefor .

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

House Bill No. 400, entitled:

An Act amending the "Uniform Acknowledgement Act" approved July 24, 1941 (P. L. 490) deleting the reference to "Philippine Islands" the reference to "homestead" and the requirement that certain asknowledgements taken without the State be authenticated.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

House Bill No. 402, entitled:

An Act amending the act of December 14, 1854 (1855 P. L. 724) entitled "An act relating to the authentication of Letters of Attorney Protests of Notaries Public * * *" authorizing deeds executed and acknowledged out of State to be recorded.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

House Bill No. 403, entitled:

An Act to validate certain acknowledgements and to regulate the effect thereof.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

House Bill No. 579, entitled:

An Act requiring the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to change the names of certain interchanges on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

House Bill No. 738, entitled:

An Act repealing the act of May 1, 1907 (P. L. 147) entitled "An act to require corporations owning leasing or operating steam or electric railways and engaged in the business of carrying freight or passengers within this State to report to the Secretary of Internal Affairs the number of statute miles of lines so opearted * * *"

Which was committed to the Committee on Corporations.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 279 (Pink), on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SEYLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would like to call to the attention of the Majority Leader, the Minority Leader, the President pro tempore of the Senate and any other Members of the Rules Committee within my hearing, that the working out of the rule which said we should not reprint bills unless there was some amendment seems to me to have merit and seems to be working out all right except in one particular, and that is that we do not have on the desks of the Members a copy of those bills which come from committee and which are not reprinted.

Now I realize that up here in the front corners of this Chamber someone has thoughtfully provided for that. However, Mr. President, I would maintain that as I am at my desk, particularly when we are going through the calendar, I have frequently in the course of the last several weeks had need to look at a bill which was on the calendar and not reprinted and, therefore was in the pink and I could not do it.

I would like to make the following suggestion for the consideration of the Rules Committee. I would like to suggest that if one more of these binders can be secured for each Member, not necessarily ones with our names on or fancy, but that we have one of those for the pink bills and that the staff be instructed to put them in in the order of the numbers of the bills. In this way, each Member would have on his desk all bills under consideration at all times.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHANY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, each Senator receives the pink bills that are on the calendar and they are delivered to the respective Caucuses. I understand that the Senator could be supplied with one of those packages each day which contain all the bills that we are discussing on the calendar.

It would take a considerable amount of time and help here for us to put these pink bills in their proper numerical order in a binder. Consequently I would suggest that the Senator, while he is listening to Senator Dent and myself and others, busy himself putting his bills in the binder if he wants to do that. That will keep us all busy then.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SEYLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I have no desire to go into a long discussion on this, but I would demur from what the gentleman says on two counts.

First of all, we also get copies of the white bills in Caucus. However, we do have a file of them on our desks also. That has been the procedure from time immemorial in the Senate. We have had them available here in a file so that if they are not brought up from Caucus or if the Member is unfortunate and not able to atend the Caucus, we do have the bills placed here.

Now we have not had a Caucus, I would remind the gentleman, on House Bill No. 279 or on many of the other bills on this present calendar. We have not had such a Caucus, Senator Mahany, and we do not have copies of this bill. I am unable to see what this bill says unless I take a trip up to the front of this Chamber and pick up the pink copy. If I do that, by the time I get back to my desk you are on the next bill. Therefore, I miss having the opportunity to look the bill over before passage.

I do not think what I am asking for is unreasonable. It would not take the staff any more time to put the pink bills in this folder than it used to take them to put the white bills, which were reprinted, in this folder. It would be precisely the same amount of work. If you can just supply us with one of these folders for this purpose, it will not take your staff any more time to put them in.

I am serious because I have always maintained that a Member who comes up to Harrisburg or maybe it is down in your case, Senator, who desires to do a good, a conscientious job and keep abreast of what is going on and read the bills, should have the facilities for doing it. To the extent that that has been limited by the passing of this new rule, I think we should do something about it.

I do not object to the rule. I think the saving of money is desirable, provided it does not handicap the Members in doing a conscientious job for their constituents of the Commonwealth.

Therefore, I would ask the gentleman to reconsider and use his undoubtedly magnificent influence with the Rules Committee to help effect this reform for the benefit of us poor individual Members.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHANY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I certainly will be glad to discuss this with the Rules Committee. I do differ with the Senator, Senator Seyler, when he says it would not take any longer to put the pink bills in than it does to put the white bills in the respective binders.

First, when the white bills are printed, they come out with printer's numbers which then follow numerically as each bill is printed, and the staff is able to put those white bills in according to the printer's numbers at the end of the bills that are already in the binder. If they tried to put the pink bills in in numerical order, they would have to rip the whole thing apart each day so that they might be able to put those pink bills in in their proper numerical order. That is the reason, Senator, that the House did not adopt our policy. They found that they did not have enough staff over there to rip apart all of the bills in the binder so that they might put these pink bills in in numerical order.

We will try to work out something though, Senator, so that you will be apprised of the contents of the bills as we act upon them.

The reason that we are moving these bills up today, before we have had any discussion of them in Caucus, is because Senator Dent and I had an understanding that we will have Caucus action or we will discuss them in our respective Caucuses before we act upon them finally on Monday. At that time on Monday, first, if there are any amendments which anyone has to offer, they may offer them on third reading and, secondly, if on Monday they have not had an opportunity at that time of studying the bill, the bill will then be passed over in order until Tuesday. When Tuesday comes if they still have not had time, then we will pass it over until Wednesday and so on, until such time as every Senator has had sufficient opportunity to study the contents of each bill on which he is called upon to vote.

Mr. SEYLER. Thank you.

LEGISLATIVE SCHEDULE

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, in order for the Members of the Senate to plan their week for next week, I would like to announce that we plan to have a four day Session next week. I would like to have all Senate Committees meet on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week to clear their desks of all bills which have been referred to them.

We also plan to have a vacation the week preceding Easter. If you folks want to make some plans to go somewhere that week, I think you can be free to make your plans.

Also, on the Monday after Easter, we plan not to come in on that day, but we will convene on the Tuesday after Easter Sunday.

In order for us to make further plans, I wish to also announce that on May 6, the Knights of Columbus are planning to have a convention in Harrisburg and they need hotel space on that evening. Therefore, regarding the week of May 6, we will not come in on Monday, but will come in on Tuesday. We will notify the hotels that they may have the hotel space for Monday and Monday night for the benefit of the members of the Knights of Columbus.

I would suggest that the Secretary enter these announcements in his bulletin to the Members, so that those who do not happen to be present in their seats at the present time may have notice of it.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, April 1, 1957, at 3:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, March 27, 1957.

The House met at 10:00 a. m.
The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend John F. Moore, Pastor of the Furnace Run Chapel, Kittanning, Armstrong County guest Chaplain and guest of the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Guthrie, offered the following prayer:

Our Father in Heaven, we recognize this as the day Thou hast made, in which we will rejoice and be glad. We approach or Lord as a prayer hearing and a prayer answering God. Thou dost never weary of our coming. Our faith and confidence in Thee is expressed in the words of an inspired poet:

"If radio's slim fingers can pluck a melody
From night and toss it over continent and sea;
If petaled white notes of a violin
Are blown across the mountains or city's din;
If song like crimson roses are culled from thin blue air,
Why should mortals wonder if God hears and answers PRAYER."

We do not wonder, oh Lord for we live in America, and in Pennsylvania where their God is the Lord. We are appreciative indeed for what Thou hast done for us both Spiritually and materially. For the blessings of the yesterdays; for today, and we are equally confident of tomorrow.

We pray that guidance will be given every one in this legislative hall as they make important decisions today; that the deliberations of the hour may have the smile and approval of Heaven.

Our Father in Heaven we realize how important are the decisions made here to the men and women, boys and girls of Pennsylvania; how they effect not only the great cities but the most remote hamlet and home. Human wisdom will fail us. We need Divine instruction. Thou hast never left us in darkness from the dawn of Creation until now.

We can say great is Thy faithfulness! Morning by morning new mercies I see; All I have needed Thy hand hath provided. Great is thy faithfulness, oh Lord to us.

May the Love of God our Father; the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ; the fellowship of His Spirit be with us now and for ever more. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. Are there any corrections to the Journal of Monday, March 18, 1957 If not, and without objection, the Journal is approved.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Tuesday, March 26, 1957 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. BRETH and FARABAUGH.
(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 70.

In the House of Representatives, March 26, 1957.

Practically all nations of the world number among their exemplifying national symbols a floral emblem, a choice founded on gratitude.

The United States, a land of flowers, has never made such a choice.

The United States is endowed with a rare gift which has its roots deep in the history, legends and lore of the western hemisphere.

This rare gift was anciently revered by calling it maize, a name meaning mother, that which sustain us, and which sustained countless generations of original Americans through more than ten thousand years.

This "mother" was waiting on the bleak shores of the New World to sustain the freedom-seeking Pilgrims, who came empty-handed into the wilderness.

It was Massasoit's gifts of maize, Indian corn, which mothered the Pilgrims through their first agonizing winter.

The first harvest gave the Pilgrims food for their second winter, seed for their second sowing, plus a supply to send to London as payment on their debt for the Mayflower crossing and to purchase a few desperately needed supplies.

This shipment of golden seed became the first export from the present United States, bullion soon to become greater in value than all the gold and emeralds wrested by the Conquistadors from the Incans.

This same golden fruitage from our native plant traveled in saddle bags, in prairie schooners, in ox-carts, in hollowed log boats as the Pioneers moved ever westward, building settlements that became colonies, and colonies that became this mighty nation.

Today, from early spring until the end of harvest days each year, corn marches in regimental rows, mile on mile, across plains, down into valleys, up mountain sides, from the eastern ocean to the western coast, providing for the nation.

Dedicated scientists have converted corn into myriad uses so that it is with us all our waking hours—in cream in the morning coffee, the bacon, ham, eggs, butter, many cereals, corn syrup for cakes and waffles at breakfast, through the entire day, reigning at every dinner and banquet throughout the country; in the pages in ledgers in business offices, in the ink used on the pages, in candy kitchens, bakeries, in apothecary shops, laundries, ice cream parlors, in expansive dairies, factories, meat packing plants, and in military supplies for the defense of its native land.

Astronomical statistics testify to the fabulous value of corn in the economy of our Nation.

With the shrinking of the world through the rapid multiplying of its people, corn will become increasingly needful, increasingly priceless.

Our native grain is as characteristic of our land, as significant and distinctive, as our remarkable flag.

Corn is not only American, it is America, having become as necessary to and as much a part of our Nation, our people, and our high standard of living, as the air we breathe, the good earth, the bountiful sunshine; therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate Concurring) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States in profound gratitude, to honor this rare gift and its Giver by adopting its flower, the tassel of corn, as our national floral emblem, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each house of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. DENNISON and GUTHRIE.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 71.

In the House of Representatives, March 26, 1957.

Resolved, (the Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives designate one member of the House and the President Pro Tempore designate one member of the Senate as representatives of the General Assembly in matters of highway safety; and be it further

Resolved, That the members of the General Assembly respectfully request the Governor to appoint their representatives so designated as members of the Governor's Safety Council.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. READINGER, PETROSKY, Mrs. MUNLEY and Mr. WARGO. RESOLUTION No. 72

Whereas, there appears to be a concerted effort on the part of some individuals, organizations, commentators, and others to discredit by unsubstantiated charges, the Pennsylvania Highway Department and its personnel, and

Whereas, said charges are of a very serious nature in that specific legislation pending in the legislative halls may depend upon the reaction to said publicity, and

Whereas, from the statements contained in the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph which appears to be spearheading this campaign against the Highway Department, there are four specific individuals and groups who are making the charges, namely:

(1) Disgruntled former employes, hoping to regain favor and prestige.

(2) Discharged employes seeking to cover up their own shortcomings by falsely accusing others.

(3) Self servicing officers and lobbyists of a business group more interested in contracts for highway construction than in an effort to stabilize both expenditures and construction by the Highway Secretary.

(4) Collusion between said parties, organizations and the high command of the Republican Party, and

Whereas, said collusion was openly admitted by the spokesman for the Constructors Association from their Convention in Atlantic City, when he stated—

"This report was not supposed to have been made public—it was only given to certain members of the Republican high command." and

Whereas, there is at present an act of the legislature proposed in the House by the Republican leadership to expend the sum of $100,000.00 in the period of approximately two years in an investigation of said charges, therefore be it

Resolved, that the Joint State Government Commission be instructed to immediately hold hearings into these charges, calling upon all of the aforementioned persons and groups and specifically those who have appeared in the newspaper as quoted as making specific charges to ascertain, whether or not, these charges are of sufficient validity to justify the expenditure of such an enormous amount of the taxpayers money, and be it further

Resolved, that if the House concur, that the Joint State Government Commission make a report to this General Assembly in order to guide the Assembly in their decision on the ultimate action to be taken on the Act to create an investigatory committee.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. STRAUSSER asked and obtained unanimous consent to extend the time five days on House Bill No. 317, Printer's No. 60 on page 6 of today's calendar, bills on third reading postponed.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 319, Printer's No. 163,
House Bill No. 347, Printer's No. 170,
House Bill No. 395, Printer's No. 171 and
House Bill No. 454, Printer's No. 173,

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 860, entitled as follows:

An Act creating a Highway Investigation Commission for the purpose of making a study and investigation of all activities of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways and making an appropriation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, House Bill No. 860 is a bill which sets up a Highway Investigation Commission to study the Highway Department in all its many activities.

It asks for an appropriation of $100,000 to make the study, and the Commission is to report to the next session of the General Assembly.

The importance of the bill today is pinpointed by, first, the rather self-evident fact that the mileage of highways in Pennsylvania under direct supervision of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways is over 41,000 miles. It has been said it is the greatest state highway mileage system, I believe, in the nation and also is greater than the mileage of all highways kept up by all the New England states and, I believe, one or two southern states, in addition. So you can see the tremendous job we have in Pennsylvania with 41,000 miles of roads to keep up, repair, reconstruct, widen and of course, rebuild.

This bill on the calendar today is also very important because we have had presented to us by His Excellency, the Governor, a budget calling for the expenditure of $779 million in the next two years. It is also very important because it comes on the eve of the construction in the nation and in Pennsylvania of the largest federal interstate highway system in all history.

It is particularly important to us because we have a peculiar and unusual situation, which I believe is peculiar only to the state of Pennsylvania, that is to say, we have the money from our gasoline taxes and other taxes on vehicles earmarked by our Constitution for road building purposes and the constitutional amendment says that we, the General Assembly, shall appropriate the money to the Highway Department.

We have done that by a blanket appropriation act and we do not each session in any way appropriate the money to the Highway Department for any specific purpose. The money is spent through an allocation by the Governor to the Highway Department as he thinks they need it, and we have absolutely no control. We, in effect, have given a blank check to the Highway Department to spend the money as the Secretary of the Highways and the Governor in their, we hope, sober wisdom deem fit.

There have been many charges made against the operation of our Highway Department. From this very microphone last session, as you read in the record, I was at the microphone quite frequently accusing the Highway Department of a breakdown in their morale, the release of trained personnel, a slowdown in the highway construction program.

As you know, last session the cry was "Give us another $5.00 on the license plates; give us more money for the Highway and Bridge Authority. You give us the money, we have the plans and we will go ahead at a rapid pace."

What should have been said to us here last session was, "Give us engineers; give us manpower; give us the ability to design roads. We have the money, all we want is plans." That is what should have been said, and that has been borne out by the fact that since that time we have had over $100 million cash in the bank in the Motor License Fund. That, I believe, has prevailed continuously since we were here last session at this very microphone.

There have been charges of incompetence in the operation of our Highway Department. There have been charges of green engineering firms supplanting former trained engineers in the Department who did our own road designing. There have been charges of the misuse of the patronage system, hiring politicians instead of road builders. There have been charges that the Highway Department report which we should have had was suppressed, the report which was due in September of last year. There have been charges that the system is completely broken down and is in a state of collapse. There have been charges that the construction of new roads has slowed down to a snail's pace. There have been statements made that the five cent gas tax is plenty of money with which to run the Highway Department. There have been numerous other charges against the Department, and letters are coming into us every day from small wage earners in the state, from industries and from people generally making charges of this, that, or the other things, which we feel will merit investigation. You might say, why are you interested in having this study or investigation made? What do you intend to do? What will be the tone of your investigation? What are you after?

The idea is we are after better roads. We would like to see Pennsylvania in this new era of road construction consider the vital needs of the travelling public for safe, dependable highways. We want better roads and we want them built as cheaply as possible and as quickly as possible.

We do not intend to have a witch-hunt. There is no idea to incriminate anybody. There is no idea to prejudge anybody and say that this fellow or that fellow has been crooked or that money has been stolen. I would say this commission should study the charges of incompetence which have been made all along the line; whether the patronage system is the best for the Department and whether the merit system should be installed which will attract high-type personnel, trained engineers, on some type of security basis for themselves, which would redound to the great benefit of this state.

I think we should investigate whether we have been getting the most from every tax dollar which has been spent. We have a five cent gasoline tax in this state and have had a six cent tax. New York's tax is four, and I understand this session of the New York General Assembly is adjourning without raising their gasoline tax to five cents. The question is: Is five cents enough? Should we have six cents a gallon, or is the five cents a gallon being wisely, properly and economically spent so that five cents a gallon is enough to take care of the job which has to be done?

There has been a lot of talk about a Highway Commission to run the Highway Department. As I said, the way our Highway Department is set up at the present time it lends itself to a gigantic political machine. First, I told you about the blank check which they have and about the money they are spending and the control over those funds by the Governor. I am wondering if you realize that any plan today to build a new road must be signed by the Governor himself. Think of the weapon which that gives the Governor, who can refuse or fail to sign, or permit a facsimile signature to be placed on a particular plan in a particularly disobedient county if he thought they were on a political basis.

So we should look into that very phase of it, whether a commission type of control for our Highway Department, as recommended by the Governor for our Turnpike Commission, would not be the answer to a lot of the questions with which we all are confronted.

I think this commission could look into the overall condition of our roads in this state. Ten years ago we had the Highway Planning Commission which was, I believe, under the chairmanship of Senator Berger. They made certain findings, certain recommendations, about the age of the roads in this state and the problems the state will face 15 or 20 years from now because of the colossal antiquity all at once of our highway system. I believe this commission, this study group, could well make recommendations and findings with respect to the very, very vital and important matter of what to do about the antiquity of our present system and the obsolescence which is occurring rapidly from year to year.

They could well look into the question of whether our Highway Department is, as has been stated, in a state of collapse. I know when the Democrats first took over stenographers left. Even the Chief Engineer, Mr. Warrick, I believe, had to write his letters in longhand for the first few months after the Democrats took over. I believe you could ask Mr. Warrick on that phase and he would give you that answer.

We could look into whether a collapse has occurred. We could inquire whether by reason of the loss of engineers and the loss of trained personnel throughout the various counties in the state it is true that the Department in view of the tremendous job which has been placed upon it is in a state of collapse.

We could well look into whether there have been too much favoritism in Highway dealings. That goes into the purchase of supplies, it goes to the purchase of cinders, it goes to the question of granting negotiated contracts to, as has been alleged, green and newly organized design engineering firms who may or may not be equipped to do the tremendous job which this new era of transportation has forced upon us; whether political firings have reduced the former rapid construction pace, and whether that is the reason why the Highway Department report which we received several weeks ago shows there was a big drop in new road construction, but quite a sizeable increase in maintenance costs.

We could well look into whether designing roads by direct negotiations with design engineering firms is the most economical and wisest way in which to do the most vital job of all, designing the roads so that they can be properly built, and whether these present firms are capable of doing the job at a reasonable cost.

This commission could well look into whether the General Assembly should not control the budget of the Highway Department, as we do in the other departments. They could make very sincere recommendations along that line. It is quite a problem whether we, the General Assembly, should decide how much money should be allocated to rural roads, how much money should go to our Federal Aid system, how much money should go to our interstate system, how much money should be given for maintenance of highways. Perhaps if we could freeze the maintenance dollar, it would stop the hiring of large numbers of employes, as had been alleged, on the eve of election and then letting them go after the election. Things like that could well be looked into and the question decided. Should we adopt a budget in this General Assembly which will tell the Highway Department how it should and could spend their money in all its many activities?

Personally, I would favor at the beginning of each session the combined Highway Committees in the House and Senate sitting down and conducting a series of prolonged hearings on the highway situation in the state, deciding how much is needed for the various activities, the condition of our farm-to-market roads, and then in concert with the Appropriations Committee writing a sensible Highway budget which would be more realistic to the demands of the state as a whole.

Finally, I would say if there are any charges of connivance or wrongdoing, certainly the commission should ferret them out and report back to this General Assembly what it was and the extent to which it had been carried on for this body to make a decision as to what, if anything, should be done about it.

You say you are going to spend an enormous sum of money, $100,000. The bill says $100,000, or as much thereof as is necessary. You know the way costs are today. In order to do the prodigious job which will be placed upon this commission to give us the real facts in regard to that Department, it will take trained engineering talent, trained accountants, trained technicians and trained office people to assist our Commission in doing that tremendous job. They will require legal counsel. They will require, of course, money for stenographers to transcribe the testimony so that it will be available when the commission writes its report.

I am not saying they will need $100,000, but in a system as vast as our Highway Department and with a budget, as I say, of $779 million, certainly if they are going to do the job, they should be supplied with a decent appropriation so they can come back here two years from now with a Bible with which we can work in this state for the next fifty years as far as the Highway Department is concerned.

I say this investigation is not politically inspired. Everybody in Pennsylvania is looking forward to this study because highways so vitally affect every person in this General Assembly, every person in Pennsylvania, in fact, every person in the nation who uses our roads. It is tremendously important that we get to the bottom of it so that Pennsylvania will have the greatest Highway Department in the United States.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman tell us when this Commission which House Bill 860 would create is to report to the General Assembly?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe, Mr. Speaker, the bill says, "Report to the next session," if my memory serves me correctly.

Mr. READINGER. The gentleman is correct, and that would be January of 1959. Is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman tell us who made the charges that he has spoken about which gave rise to the creation and introduction of this House Bill?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say the charges have been multitudinous and made by thousands.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman name some of them? Name the important ones if you will, whose charges gave rise to the birth of this idea to investigate the Highway Department?

Mr. JOHNSON. Well, Mr. Speaker, I would say some of the charges have emanated right from this microphone from my own lips. It started last session when we were discussing whether we should give the extra $5 on the license plate and increase the bonding power of the Highway and Bridge Authority. A study was made then and we, from this microphone, have made charges. The newspapers, both by news articles and editorialy I understand the newspapers all over the state have pretty generally editorialized things with respect to the Highway Department and have made accusations bearing out what I have said here today.

Practically every motor club in Pennsylvania has come out to date with charges. I would say that the Resolution you have, I believe, mentions that the State Road Building Association have made charges of incompetence and that the Highway Department is in a near state of collapse.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. JOHNSON. I could go on ad infinitum, I would imagine, to give you—

Mr. READINGER. I would point out that the gentleman has not mentioned the name of any person or any newspaper. But to go on with the interrogation, I would like to inquire whether the gentleman has made any inquiry directly or through any other person of the Highway Department for answers from that Department or its personnel to any of the charges he speaks about, prior to the introduction of this bill?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I have not talked to anybody in the Highway Department about this matter. I have taken the reports that they have issued and the reports speak for themselves.

Mr. READINGER. Has the gentleman written any letters to Secretary Lawler asking any specific questions relative to any of these charges he speaks about?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe I did, Mr. Speaker, at the beginning of the session, write a letter to Mr. Lawler requesting certain information with respect to roads, engineering firms, and so forth, and I do not recall receiving the information requested.

Mr. READINGER. Do you recall that you did not receive an answer to your letter?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe I received an answer but I cannot recall that it contained anything of substance.

Mr. READINGER. But you do say, I believe, that you have not specifically requested information or answers from the Highway Secretary concerning these multitudinous charges to which you refer today?

Mr. JOHNSON. Other than requests made from this microphone, which are a matter of record in this session. I believe I have been at this microphone four or five times making charges of deliberate slow-downs, suppression of highway reports, and so forth. The Journal will speak for itself.

Mr. READINGER. Did the gentleman, at the time he made any of his charges, specify any facts upon which he is basing these charges, or were they the usual political charges and statements?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I believe if you will read the Journal, you will find that what I had to say about the Highway Department was factual at the time. I believe I have dwelled on the fact that you have, for instance, and have had right along $100 million cash in bank as contrasted with when we were running the Highway Department, we spent the money and put it in roads and the bank balance would run even as low sometimes as $14 to $18 million.

Mr. READINGER. Does the gentleman not believe that these charges to which he refers of incompetence or dishonesty or whatever his charges—

Mr. JOHNSON. I do not believe that I used the word "dishonesty," Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Well, whatever the charges are that you are referring to, do you not believe that they are sufficiently important to be investigated immediately by a body such as the Joint State Government Commission which is already in operation and has a staff and personnel and available funds to immediately make an investigation?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I do not. I consider the Joint State Government Commission a research arm of this General Assembly and not an investigatory body as such. I think that this Job is such a prodigious job and the tentacles of the Department reach out in so many manifest ways that it is not a job our Joint State Government Commission can do. It is not within their province, I do not believe. Despite the fact that we have enlarged their powers so that they perhaps could make such an investigation, but I do not recall we gave them subpoena power.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman agree that the Highway Department is set up now in the same manner that it has been for many years and that the matter of employing great numbers of persons for maintenance was available to all previous administrations if it was desired to be so used?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct. I will answer that. I am sorry I do not have the figures here just to show you the abuse that can occur where we do not budget the funds. In the dying days of the Earle administration, when the Democratic party was seeking to elect a Governor, when Earle was going out of office, the payroll of the Highway Department, if I remember the figures, there were some 15,000 employes put on gradually up to the day of election and then almost a startingly large number were fired immediately after the election, when Governor James was elected. Those figures are a matter of record.

I do not believe a thing like that has obtained since, but it certainly could obtain under our present system of handling the Highway Department and that of course, is not good.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman if he is now asserting that the Republican administrations which have intervened since the Earl administration have not materially increased the Highway payroll prior to elections.

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say that is very true. You can find the figures—

Mr. READINGER. I am not stating it, Mr. Speaker. I am asking you whether you are asserting that that was not done by Republican administrations?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say this—I am sorry I do not have the figures here, but I can bring them Monday—I can show you the number of employes that the Highway Department had on the eve of the election in the last year that Governor Earle was Governor.

I can show you how many Highway employes we have had every year since then and I believe the figures will bear me out that there has not been any wholesale hiring of workers on the eve of election during the sixteen years that we were in power. There might have been some abuse of it, I mean the system would lend itself to it, and it could probably be true in some degree, but it certainly was not true in the gigantic degree as in the fall of 1936.

Mr. READINGER. The gentleman has spoken about many phases of the legal setup of the Highway Department which he believes should be looked into by this Commission, and which may be might be improved. May I ask, why during all the intervening years between the Earle administration and this time no resolution or no bill of this kind was proposed to investigate the Highway Department?

Mr. JOHNSON. For the simple reason that there were no wholesale charges of incompetence made throughout the state and a break-down of the Department like there has been in the last six months.

Mr. READINGER. Then the gentleman still believes that this bill should provide for a report to the 1959 General Assembly and not previous to that time?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe that is true, Mr. Speaker. The job is such a gigantic one that I cannot conceive of any Committee or Commission rendering a sane, sensible factual report before that time.

Mr. READINGER. Would it not be true that if these charges to which you refer are true, that millions of dollars could be lost or wasted between now and the beginning of 1959?

Mr. JOHNSON. That could be true, Mr. Speaker, but I say the job of investigating it is so vast that it cannot be done on a cursory basis in the immediate future.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I am not basically opposed to an investigation of the Highway Department. I think probably there are features of the operation of the Highway Department which we might study and which possibly might be revised by legislative act. Perhaps we should as a Legislature have stricter control or, at least, scrutiny over the plans and operations of this vast Highway Department. We are all interested, as I know the Highway Department is, in building good roads in the State of Pennsylvania and getting every dollar's worth of service and materials for which we spend money.

But it seems to me we are going about this in absolutely the wrong way. If there is any merit to these charges which have been referred to today, charges made by the Sun-Telegraph and various individuals of which we have read in the paper, they should be looked into immediately, not by a commission which is going to report a year and a half from now and not a commission which, if it desires, could be a great political weapon for any party in control of it.

This matter is so important that in my opinion the thing should be looked into immediately by the Joint State Government Commission. That Commission already has funds available to it. Hearings can be held within the next several weeks. These people who are making the charges could be subpoenaed, brought in and asked what the facts are upon which they based their charges.

The gentleman from McKean has said that this bill, No. 860, asking for the creation of this commission is not politically inspired. I wonder if that is true. I have been hearing stories ever since I have been Member of this House starting in 1936 about the Highway Department putting on an unusually large number of persons in the maintenance department prior to election times.

The gentlemen has no figures and I have none at the present time, but I think if we go back over the books of the Highway Department and see how many employes were on the payroll from time to time, we will find it has been a rather common practice to use a lot of maintenance people during the months of September and October and we will find that thereafter many of them are laid off in the Highway Department.

Yesterday I introduced a resolution which would direct the Joint State Government Commission to make this investigation and to make it immediately and, depending upon what merit is found in any of these charges, we then proceed to consider the matter of spending $100,000 to investigate and study the entire operation of the Highway Department.

I say I do not oppose the idea of an investigation, I do not oppose the idea of spending some money, but I do oppose doing it at a time when we do not know whether the commission which will be set up will immediately look into the charges that are being made. We do not know whether they will make a report six months from now, a year from now, or not until January, 1959. If this bill passes the way it is, they are not even charged with the duty of making a report prior to that time.

I also object to passing on a bill of this kind and appropriating this amount of money before other steps are taken which this House could take. The Majority Leader or any other member of this House could be writing a letter to the Secretary of Highways, or by personal interview with him, ask for the information which would enlighten us as to whether these charges are true.

I have seen several statements so far by Secretary of Highways Lawler that there is no truth to these charges and statements which have appeared in the newspapers. We do not know what the facts are, but we have not even tried without spending money to get to the bottom of this and get the answers to these various things. I dare say most of the information which this commission would obtain could be obtained without there being a commission at all. I think the Secretary of Highways would be pleased to appear before your caucus, or before our caucus, or before any other group we might designate without the appropriation of any money, and give us facts that are facts. Any information which we wanted I am sure would be disclosed. After all, he is part of the executive branch of the government. He knows we appropriate the money and we make the laws, and he should be only to glad to give us this information without any money being spent.

I am going to ask that this House do not take action on this bill until it first considers a resolution which was introduced yesterday which would have the Joint State Goverment Commission make an immediate investigation. Only after that is acted upon will I go along with a bill of this kind.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fulton, Mr. Garlock, yields to the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman, Mr. Garlock, to yield to Mr. Andrews temporarily.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fulton, Mr. Garlock, yields to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, since we are agreed in this House as to objectives, it should be possible, being in agreement as to objectives, to make an inquiry under auspices and in a manner that initially, at least, could not be objected to on the ground of partisonship.

The problems before us fall into two major divisions. First, it is our duty and our obligations to ascertain, and ascertain as definitely and as soon as possible, whether there is mismanagement, whether there is collusion, whether there is an improper use of patronage and whether we now have a Highway Department capable of performing its duties. If the Highway Department is so ridden by improper forces, the sensible thing to do is to get the Highway Department in such shape that it can deliver the goods for and on behalf of the people of this Commonwealth during the remainder of this biennium. It is as criminal upon our part to ignore dereliction in the Highway Department for another year and a half as it would be to be guilty of the dereliction itself.

The second phase of the problem before us is the organization, the method of operating and the jurisdiction range study. It is a study we should be in a position to face when this General Assembly gathers for the next session.

But the problems of mismanagement, if any are immediate. They call either for the censure, the impeachment or the removal of any agents who are incapable of performing, or who are performing with evil intent, and to do it now.

As a result of a 10 year battle, a battle which I say in all modesty that I perhaps spearheaded, every Member of this House and every Member of the Senate is now a member of the Joint State Government Commission. I say it is sheer fallacy to say that Members of this House, who are members of the Joint State Government Commission, can perform a service for and on behalf of the House which the Joint State Government Commission could not itself perform.

I am in agreement with the Majority Leader. I believe the questions raised are so important, so vital, that they should be faced within the next six months.

This House, as far as payroll is concerned and as far as legislative intent is concerned, is operating on a full-time basis year by year. You may not have it in the Constitution, but you have in the intent of this Legislature and you have embodied in statutory enactments that we are full-time servants, not just while the session is a going concern, but we are the servants of the Commonwealth and should operate as Legislators this year and next year.

So it is my position that this inquiry should be undertaken under the auspices of the Joint State Government Commission, that the Joint State Government Commission should be instructed to investigate and ascertain the weight of the charges which have been made in the Press and which have been made by the Majority Leader, that it report to this House within six months, that when the report is ready for action this House be reassembled, that we do not in June adjourn sine die, but that we recess to be called back to act upon a report designed to cleanse the Highway Department, either to condemn it or to vindicate it.

My friends that is a logical position. Then in the remainder of the time the Joint State Government Commission shall proceed upon the major problems relating to reorganization.

I know from the record that some of the charges made are wholly inaccurate. I have been told we have no competent personnel as district engineers in charge of districts.

In District No. 5, Allentown, there is a new man. Who is he? He is a veteran engineer with an international reputation and with experience in private industry and with the Federal Government, Rotherman, Theodore K. Rotherman. His record justifies his appointment.

In District No. 6, Haverford, we have a department veteran of more than 20 years. He has been with the Department since his graduation from engineering school.

District 8, Harrisburg, Robert H. Klucher, new, a young engineer who graduated with honors from an engineering school and who has an enviable record as an engineer in private industry, a war veteran and a vigorous administrator.

District 9, Hollidaysburg, Raymond F. Campbell, new, an outstanding engineer with extensive highway experience.

District 10, Indiana, George A. Robeson, a department veteran of more than 25 years.

District 11, Pittsburgh, Curran, with more than 25 years in service and experience in several of the most important districts.

District 12, the same thing, he is a new man, but he is an outstanding civil engineer. And I could go on.

There is one thing which should be investigated and which we should have an immediate report upon, and that is whether we have been the victims of a conspiracy upon the part of Highway Department employes who have had an extended term of service, who may be designing engineers for the Commonwealth at $7,500 a year, or something like that, who are eligible for retirement and who conclude that since they are working at designing roads they might as well design roads at a $12,000 a year salary. Therefore, they couple up with these firms which have been called upon to do the designing. I would like to know how many former employes of the Highway Department are now serving as members of the staff with these engineering concerns to which the Commonwealth has turned in order to get engineering advice. I want to know whether the exodus from the service has been because $7,500-a-year men have been able to obtain $12,000 a year positions in private industry, and whether the changes in personnel have been made because of retirements to go into private industry by members of the technical staff of the Department.

It is very easy to say there have been political firings, but that has not been justified. Time and time again I have asked the Majority Leader to file for the record a report of all the deserving technically qualified public servants who have been fired because of political reasons.

So I am asking this House to do this job in workmanlike fashion. I am neither condemning nor holding a brief for the Highway Department. It is my belief that it can stand up under honest inquiry. But you who believe differently, who are convinced there are some bugs under the rocks, ought to know it now. The inquiry you propose to make under the auspices you propose making will handicap the Department in its operations. You cannot have a construction program which is being torn to pieces day by day by partisan inquiry. You cannot build roads that way. We ought to take four, or five, or six months to get the facts as to the offenses of the Department, come back here and listen to the report and then when we have cleansed the Department, if it needs cleansing, proceed to make inquiry concerning the organization of the Highway Department, if it is the opinion that it should be so reorganized.

I submit that is a fair, square, non-partisan proposition. You are going to control the investigating committee from the standpont of party allegiance. You are going to control it. We will speak only with the minority voice, but at least we will have a forum in which we can speak. Now we have no forum. You want to make this inquiry with a commission which will not report and the stigma you have created will hang over the heads of all of those who operate in the Department. I want a forum of inquiry, I welcome a forum of inquiry, but I want a forum of inquiry at which and in which the voice of the minority can be heard.

So I do not want to hear about Highway deficiencies a year and a half from now, I want to know what they are now.

So, Mr. Speaker, I submit to the Members of this House, in all fairness, that since we are in agreement as to objectives, that we proceed to divide the inquiry into an immediate investigation of alleged Highway Department dereliction, and that those who make the inquiry be instructed to report to this House within six months, and that if we get our other business done, we take a recess and we come back here to pass upon the report, and if we have an inefficient Highway Department, we then can proceed to make it efficient and make the coming year not a wasted year as far as highway construction is concerned, but a year of real benefit to the people.

I wonder Mr. Majority Leader whether somewhere, not in his mind—he does not have that kind of a mind; he is too genial; he is too pleasant; he wants to be too friendly with all the people—but he might have been influenced by counsellors who wanted to create a condition that would absolutely stymie highway construction during the remainder of the present administration, and I say, if that might possibly be the case, the plan that I have outlined would make it possible to cleanse the Department, to stand it on its feet, to send it on its way to construct and achieve, and then we could, in the remainder of the time attack the problem too long delayed as to the organization and method of cooperation.

I firmly believe that since we are in agreement as to objective, we at least should start off on this program along sane, sensible, non-partisan lines.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader, Mr. Johnson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the period of operation of the Highway Department which you expect to investigate by House Bill 860?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe the intention of the investigating committee is to go ahead and investigate the operation of the Department within the last two years and then prospective dates in the future.

Mr. GARLOCK. Do you think it should cover a period of operation, say, from 1950 on?

Mr. JOHNSON. I cannot see anything wrong in reaching back and going into other things if they care to. I believe they are not hamstrung by the resolution.

Mr. GARLOCK. Well, I think they should have a definite date to go back to because they might even want to go back to the Earle administration.

Mr. JOHNSON. I do not believe that we should tie the hands of this commission. Let them investigate, let the chips fall where they may.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman tell me how many registered engineers the Highway Department employs?

Mr. JOHNSON. I can't give you the number, but I am informed at the present time it is not very many.

Mr. GARLOCK. Can you tell me how many engineers the Highway Department employed in 1954?

Mr. JOHNSON. I can only say that previous to the new administration roads were pretty generally designed, surveyed and drafted and designed in the several district offices by capable design engineers, and I believe we only spent, when we were in power, something around $1.5 million for outside design engineering firms. Now the situation is, I believe in this biennium there will be some $18 million spent for outside designing, which previously had been done by or within the Department.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask, further, whether or not it is a fact that all costs have increased, including the Members of this House's pay? The cost of the operation of this House has also increased, has it not?

Mr. JOHNSON. Yes, I would say that the price index in the last four or five years has gone up somewhat, that is right. Although the President of the United States, through his advisers and the Federal Reserve Board, has tried to hold down inflation, that is true, and have done a pretty good job.

Mr. GARLOCK. I believe you will agree, then, they have not done a very good job.

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I did not say that. I said that the Federal Reserve Board and the President have done an excellent job in holding down inflation. I believe the figures will bear me out.

Mr. GARLOCK. Well, the budget really does not show it. Is it not a fact that over the last ten years the Highway Department has employed outside consulting engineering firms to do the major design work for the Highway Department of the roads that have been constructed, new roads, and the designing was actually contracted out to consulting engineering firms and they actually have done this work over the last ten years?

Mr. JOHNSON. There has been some of that, yes. I have in mind the figure of $1.5 million for our last biennium, something like that. I think it will be $18 million this biennium and they are asking for $24 million this coming biennium.

Mr. GARLOCK. They are having a larger road program for this biennium than has ever been worked on in the history of the state, is that not correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say up to this point, you are probably working on the smallest number of jobs at any time in history—by reason of lack of survey crews, corps men, draftsmen, and so on. It is all being done by negotiated design engineering contracts, and it could be true that there is a lot of it in the planning stage and on drawing boards, but all I know is from hearsay of what has been reported.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact that a big part of these districts over the state which make up the Highway Department have been manned by very few engineers in the past as well as today?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I would say that from my understanding of our system previous to this administration, a tremendously large amount of the surveying, of course, was done out of the district offices and the designing of the roads was done by draftsmen right within the district office itself, and, of course, quite a bit of it was done right here in Harrisburg under the chief engineer, I grant you that there was some work done by professional trained design engineering firms.

Mr. GARLOCK. Are you going to classify the draftsmen as engineers?

Mr. JOHNSON. No. He is a type of highly trained, skilled person, especially gifted in drafting and designing roads and taking it from the surveys by the survey crew. It takes pretty nearly ten years to really train a good man in the drawing room to do that important job so that roads will not be over designed or under-designed.

Mr. GARLOCK. I think you will agree that it is a fact that there are districts that are being headed by one, and in some cases two, registered engineers. In most cases that is the extent of the registered engineers that have been out in the districts of the Highway Department over quite a number of years. We have had a lot of fellows classified as engineers that never entered the doors of an engineering school, that have had titles hung onto them as engineers.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Garlock, I say that is true. I would say that when we were in power, there was truly a vast majority of the trained personnel that we had designing roads, drafting on the drafting boards and so forth, many of them did not have engineering degrees but they had grown up in the business over a period of twenty-five years and were especially and particularly skilled in their jobs. I am through with the answer.

Mr. GARLOCK. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. GARLOCK. I have in my hand a bunch of pictures that were taken of highway material hidden in the woods. This was called to the Highway Department's attention in August of last year. I knew that this existed the year previous, but I did not take the pictures until August of this past year, 1956. I called it to the Justice Department's attention along with the Highway Department's attention and the Highway Department conducted an investigation. We were told by one of these so-called indispensable engineers that this was common practice. That it had gone on over a period of years and years and years, that they took this material out so that they had a chance to get it when they needed it, that they did not need to bother making requisitions and what-not for it. They took fifteen truckloads of this stuff back into the maintenance shed in Huntingdon County. The material was piled on a former Assistant Superintendent of Highways' property with no agreement whatsoever. He had done nothing wrong.

They go to the District Engineer and the District Engineer says this is common practice. It has gone on for years and years. So I think that we should investigate whether that was one of these indispensable engineers. He is so indispensable that he is still in the Highway Department. So, he says these fellows have done nothing wrong—they had done nothing wrong.

I think we should do a little investigating back to where they got some of those. Maybe those fellows are not so well qualified to still be in the Highway Department. Maybe they should be relieved of their duties. They have transferred the gentleman from his area that he was in to try to clean up the mess that existed. I think they have done a pretty good job. I believe that any of these irregularities that everyone knows exist, if they would pass the information along to the Justice Department and the Secretary of Highways, I think that he would be only too glad to cooperate and clean these messes up.

I realize that there is some of it existing. I know of one particular instance which I reported that was a construction job, faulty construction. It was investigated. There were thirteen inspectors on the job. Now, mind you, twelve of these inspectors were Republican inspectors—Republican hold-overs. They had accepted the road, these very efficient inspectors who had all this training to know how to inspect roads. They came along and they take this road over from the contractor and agree that it is all right. It was investigated and found out that there was faulty construction. I think there have been some adjustments made in that.

I think that the Highway Secretary would be only too glad to lend assistance to clean up any of these things that exist in the Highway Department if you would just give him your cooperation and report them to you.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, I think it is to be anticipated that the Minority Leader and the distinguished former Speaker of this House would take the position that they have taken on the matter that is at hand. And one can but commend the minority for their insistence that something should be done by reason of the allegations and averments that have been made in the press and by citizens throughout the Commonwealth.

I should like to say, Mr. Speaker, as one of the sponsors of this measure, that it has not been at any time within the compass of my thinking, that I make charges against the administration nor against the Secretary of Highways, because I have no facts. But I am of the opinion that there is sufficient here that needs this entire assembly to work as a unit and a team to bring about a thorough understanding of the validity or the truth of the allegations and charges that have been made. It is our duty to our citizens. Whether or not the method which has been selected by the majority or the recommendation made by the minority for the utilization of the Joint State Government Commission is the proper method, it seems to me is the particular issue that is before us.

In my humble opinion, I believe that this study is of such a magnitude that it requires a specially created committee that can act immediately, go into operation within another week, at least, with the concurrence of the Senate, and start to try to find the answer to these problems.

Now, insofar as I know, Mr. Speaker, this would not be a slow session, this would not be a study that would not be revealed to the Press or to the people of the Commonwealth until 1959 when the final report would be made. This would be open to everyone, and whatsoever might develop as this study continues and goes on will be known to everyone. Therefore, it would have an immediate and salutary effect upon the Highway Department, and the Highway Department could at least make efforts and make such recommendations and put into force such plans as might come from that study in the immediate future.

The gentleman from Cambria has lamented here this morning to a considerable extent that he believes that a specially created commission would be biased in its attitude. He asked, therefore, that the Joint State Government Commission be the commission to handle the investigation or the study, which I believe is a better term, in order that there be a fair forum. I do not need, it seems to me, to say to all of you, that in a matter so serious as this, there would be a biased attitude by any group whatsoever, and certainly those who are answering to the charges will have all the right to bring before that committee any facts and evidence that they wish to present in substantiation of their position.

Let us say, and grant, for the sake of argument, that the Department of Highways is not at fault. Let us grant that there may be problems beyond their control; let us grant that there are situations which they have faced which they cannot handle, and something needs to be done from a recommendation standpoint from others from the outside that would make certain recommendations to them. We do not say that there has been dishonesty or thievery. We do not say that there has been misfeasance in office or maladministration of the Department purposely or intentionally performed. All we do say, Mr. Speaker, is that we have here a problem which is serious and reaches throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and every citizen is vitally interested in the outcome of the same.

I should like to have the Speaker indulge me a little further to go into what I consider to be one phase of this problem which has been touched upon very briefly here this morning.

As soon as the 1956 Act of Congress was passed, the Federal Highways Act, the citizens of our Commonwealth immediately became alerted, and it is common knowledge to all of you I know, that there have been associations formed throughout the Commonwealth—the Save Route 6 Association, the Established Routes Association, the Lincoln Highway Association. I think there is an Allegheny County Community Development Association, the Philadelphia Port Area Commission, the Keystone Shortway, the Route 22 Committee, and others.

I want to state in fairness to Secretary Lawler and to Governor Leader that they have met with these groups, that they have tried to analyze some of the problems. Whether or not the answers which they have given and the results which they have given are satisfactory and valid and reasonable to the economy of our communities is something else that remains to be seen.

There will be appropriated to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the next 13 years, 33 billions of dollars of Federal aid. It is estimated from the figures that I can ascertain that there will be given to Pennsylvania 2.2 billion dollars of Federal money in that period of time, of which $1,865,800 will be for interstate highways in the State of Pennsylvania.

I am informed and reliably informed, that there will be 1,446 miles of interstate highways built within Pennsylvania during that period of time, and that there will be 5,000 miles of Primary road construction carried on also. In the next three years there will be in 1957, $53.6 million come into Pennsylvania from the Federal government. In 1958, $91.1 million, and in 1959, $107.2 million which makes a total in the next three years of $252 million. Add to that, for primary road construction, the Federal allocation of $92 million and add to that for urban extensions the allocation of $97 million, and we come up with the staggering sum of $540.5 million for road construction in Pennsylvania in the next three years.

It was not this speaker's original intention, when he submitted with the aid of others on this side of the House, a resolution, to go into any charge insofar as the Highway Department is concerned. This speaker was merely seeking for information and facts in order to help the citizens of this Commonwealth as to the allocations of these roads. Where are they going to be built? Where is the matching fund money going to come from to meet that program and last, and most important, what is the time schedule of that construction? Yet, our Governor comes before us and he tells us that he is going to have a free turnpike. That must be done because he has admitted now, tacitly to us, and I think reasonably so, that you cannot have a toll road in competition with a free thruway and expect the toll road to survive, and that is logical. We have been saying that for a year, at least. What then can we do about the Pennsylvania Turnpike? The Act of Congress excludes turnpikes from any allocation of Federal aid, so, as a consequence it would require an amendment to the Act of Congress in order to bring the Turnpike, a toll road, under appropriations from the Federal Government, and, in answer to that, if we were to be able to accomplish that, it is my understanding that approximately $460 million worth of indebtedness against the Pennsylvania Turnpike, of the allocated amount of money, therefore, that we have for interstate, if we spend that money just to buy up a route already in existence, and if we also build a freeway up through the central part of the state and the northern part of the state known as the Keystone Shortway, we will have spent almost half of the amount of money that we get from Federal aid. Then the rest of the communities are left to look out for themselves.

Now, I speak, I believe, from my own knowledge when I note that the Highway Department has made promises for primary road construction to certain areas, and no doubt, intend to try to fulfill those promises, but I would believe that probably an investigation or a study would show that all those promises cannot possibly be kept, nor is there going to be enough money to take care of everything the Department is promising to do.

What is the present schedule of the Highway program insofar as the interstate matter is concerned? Well, I have in front of me a report, the last one that I know of that has been available, dated as of January 4th, 1957, which sets up the roads that are to be placed and have been approved on the interstate system. This report shows me—I will not take the time to read the results of the report, but you will see from it that it vitally concerns each one of you—691 miles of road already approved. For engineering studies being made, for allocations to the Federal program there are 571 miles at that time being considered, and in those were the Keystone Shortway and the Pennsylvania Turnpike already listed on the list of approved roads. How can you list the turnpike on the list of approved roads for Federal aid when you would have to get an amendment from Congress? But our Governor comes to us and says if we can't get Congress to approve of listing the Turnpike as a free road, then we will ask the Highway Department to enter into a leasing agreement with the Turnpike Commission and thereby amortize the debt. When you think of $460 million that has to be paid on your leasing agreement by the Highway Department, I ask again, where is that money going to come from?

This all points to one thing and that is that it is long delayed, insofar as we are concerned for an analysis and study to be made of the serious situation in our Highway Department, serious from the standpoint of the charges that have been made in the public Press, which may or may not be valid. Certainly there is enough smoke there to think there might be some flame, and certainly it is encumbent upon us in this Assembly to go into an investigation or a study of that, and certainly the Minority Leader and the distinguished former Speaker are to be commended upon their attitude of the necessity of an investigation, but I take the position that the method that has been employed in the bill presently before us is the method to use, by reason of the gigantic magnitude of the problem which we face.

I therefore ask you, all of you, Democrats and Republicans in this House, to vote for the bill before you because it is to the interest of all the people of the Commonwealth and to the interest of the Highway Department itself.

Mr. ANDREWS. I did not want to interrupt the gentleman by asking him would he yield for a question?

Mr. STROUP. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STROUP. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. I would say that I want to compliment the gentleman from Bedford, who in the manner of a very, very clever lawyer, has befogged the issue by misstating it.

Does the gentleman from Bedford believe that if we are facing the possible allocation of $541 million worth of construction during the next three years that we need a solid foundation upon which to proceed and the solid foundation would be a capable Highway Department?

Mr. STROUP. I would certainly agree with that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. I want to ask the gentleman further, can we proceed with confidence that we have a solid foundation upon which to build, upon which to rely, unless we first establish the present integrity of the Highway Department or proceed to create a Highway Department upon whose integrity we can rely? And is not that further, Mr. Speaker, a question of immediate concern, the integrity of the Department?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, I would answer the gentleman from Cambria by saying that by the method of answering leading questions on numerous occasions and found myself objected to that I now find myself in a position of answering a leading question. However, I shall make an effort to respond to the gentleman's question nevertheless.

It would appear, first of all, it is necessary for us to have a solid foundation, and if the integrity of the Highway Department is going to be put into effect, the program for the next three years must be unquestioned. That is the major reason I think for this bill that is before the House. Certainly it will merit its expeditious action. This Committee can go to work and bring us some particular replies and responses within the next six months beyond a doubt.

Mr. ANDREWS. One further question. Would the gentleman favor a program that would contemplate a report as to the capability and integrity of the Highway Department at an earlier date than he has contemplated as to the final report in the pending bill?

Mr. STROUP. Yes, I understand that—

Mr. ANDREWS. A report at the end of six months and the Legislature to be in session, to be convened, to consider that report?

Mr. STROUP. Well, now that is a double question again, Mr. Speaker, and I shall have to take each part separately.

In the first place, in answer to the gentleman from Cambria, I would favor a report being made, an interim report, just as soon as possible that any facts can be developed by the Commission that is going to be set up.

As to the question of recess and coming back at a later date to consider the report by this House, that is a matter, in my limited position on this side of the House and in the Assembly, on which I would not feel I should give any opinion. I should let that to wiser heads than I to give the gentleman an expression of opinion on it. If it were necessary and vital then it might be indicated, however.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, one further question. Does the gentleman not concede that if very, very, very grave offendings were unearthed and if conditions were uncovered so serious that a session of the General Assembly would be necessary to correct them, that unless we are in a position to receive a report it would be necessary for the Governor to convene a special session?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, let me say in the first place, that thus far His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, has shown celerity of action when any Department of his seems to be under any cloud.

I should take for granted that immediately upon any representations that might come out of the study, he would move very swiftly and displace those who might be in a responsible position who have not lived up to their position with integrity.

In the next place, if, in his considered opinion, His Excellency should deem it necessary to call a special session on a matter of such vital concern I am sure he would call that special session.

Mr. ANDREWS. The gentleman will not concede that it would be much cheaper. It costs a little more than a $1 billion or something like that, $600 thousand, to convene a special session. It would be much cheaper to leave the way open for us to come back if the Speaker of the House and the President pro-tempore of the Senate decided that that was the thing to do. Would that not be the cheaper course?

Mr. STROUP. In answer to the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, I might say this: In the first place he is acting upon a premise which is unwarranted. I don't think this premise would stand. It is presumptuous for him to assume that before this House adjourns, if this committee goes to work, that there will not be sufficient before us to come to decisions as to whether or not we should recess or adjourn. That may be what would happen.

It is my contention, Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, if the ladies and gentlemen of this House will vote for this committee, and it gets over to the Senate next week, and then comes out as a full-fledged committee which will work immediately upon that, vowed and dedicated and consecrated to the tasks before it, we will have information before adjournment of this House this year.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, a further inquiry. Would not either an amendment to the existing measure or a new bill be necessary if this committee is to file an interim report? Is it empowered to file an interim report?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether I got all of the gentleman's question. I believe he is asking me whether or not an interim report may be made by this committee? Is that correct?

Mr. ANDREWS. Under the existing act?

Mr. STROUP. Under the existing act. It would be my judgment that the committee as created would have the power to make an interim report. It says to make a report by 1959 but it does not say that it shall not make an interim report in the meantime.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, he is too clever a lawyer for me. Mentally, I have no doubt that he has conceded the validity of my contentions, but like a very, very good lawyer, he is faithful to his client, and his client is his particular bill.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. Speaker, I may answer the question by saying that I have not evaded at all the issues of the matter that the gentleman has brought to me. I do not concede the validity of his position.

Mr. RAGOT. I believe that House Bill 860 introduced last week, calling for an investigation of our Highway Department, is good. I might add that it is probably long overdue.

I would like to inject a thought. Much of our thinking on this matter hovers around the state level. I would like to point out that the work be done down to the county level. We should take a good look at each of our counties' highway organizations.

The Secretary of Highway, Mr. Lawler, in his defense, states that the reasons for the investigation of his Department are just rumors. Here are a few examples which are not rumors.

In January of this year the three Assemblymen from Northampton County went to the Secretary's office to see what could be done about Route 22 at the Easton entrance. We made an appointment with Mr. Rothermore, the District Superintendent, and we went to the highway and inspected it and thereafter we heard nothing from the Department. "Something would be done," they said.

It necessitated two Resolutions, one in the House and one in the Senate before the Department started to do something.

However, they only said they would do something and up to Monday when we travelled the highway, still nothing has been done.

As to the matter of incompetency. I am speaking of District No. 5. The Superintendent of Highways of Northampton County is an ex-bartender of recent vintage.

In the County of Northampton, the Highway Department was going to hardtop a dirt road. Instead of digging into it and doing the job right, they resurfaced the old dirt road, right on top of it, raised it in one place three feet on one side, and on the other side of the farmer's house, which lies along this road, they raised it, on the other side of his property it has a low spot just about where his house sets. This highway is on the crest of a hill. Why they raised the highway on a crest of the hill, nobody can answer. So they asked the fellow who did the job, "What about this? What are you going to do about it"? "Well," the fellow said, "I know it is wrong but I don't know what to do about it."

We have also an engineering assistant employed by the Highway Department who also sells revolving lights which are used on the top of vehicles under contract by the Department. It is reported to me that this engineer's assistant has coerced several small truck owners into buying a $50 light from him. In one instance a man had to move a light from his truck and purchase a new one from him. This type of coercion should be cleaned out wherever it exists. I feel it is only one small example of what is going on at the county level throughout Pennsylvania.

I urge that in this investigation special emphasis be given to the county as well as to the state level.

I cite another instance and read from the Allentown Morning Call of March 18th, 1957, as follows:

> Chief Who Quit Agrees Road Program Is In Danger; Assails State Patronage.
> Arthur L. Wiesenberger of Allentown, who resigned last fall as deputy secretary and chief engineer of the State Highways Department, agrees with the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that the entire state road program is in jeopardy. When Wiesenberger resigned in September he said it was due to differences of opinion with Joseph J. Lawler, state highways secretary. Why, I Resigned. Last night, after examining an Associated Press account of the Pittsburgh news story, Wisenberger said, The public is entitled to the real explanation of why I resigned. They've got it now. The story by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is justified. The situation is definitely true, Wiesenberger said.
> The Associated Press report, published in the Sunday Call-Chronicle, quoted the Sun-Telegraph as saying: Only radical and immediate reformation from top to bottom will save the State Highway chaos. Non-qualified persons were hired to fill the places of trained engineers who were fired because of political patronage. Dedicated Professionals. Wiesenberger, when he resigned last September, indicated that he fought job changes based on patronage. His theory is that engineers are among today's most sought-after professional personnel. Political differences should have nothing to do with whether they occupy a post as long as they are qualified, he feels.
> Last night, Wiesenberger noted that directly after his resignation the state hired a man named Harold F. Jerrold, who had been with the Ohio State Highways Department. Jerrold was made deputy secretary of Pennsylvania highways. He resigned after four weeks.
> Secretary Lawler and others in government must learn that dedicated professional people will not stand for political pressure. They accept work with government, at salaries lower than they can get in private industry, because they are dedicated to certain ideals. They won't be pushed around, Wiesenberger said.
> To support his argument, the Allentown engineer observed that among persons who resigned in recent months from the State Highways Department were H. G. Van Riper, chief design engineer; William Caulkins, assistant chief of design; William Warrick, chief construction engineer, and his assistant, Fred Mason; and Al Ditmer, chief right-of-way engineer.
> In addition, Wiesenberger said, about five of the eleven district engineering offices in the department are functioning with "acting" engineers.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that the investigation should go on and that this bill should be passed.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to remind the gentleman, Mr. Ragot, that he has had no trouble at all since he complained about one road just in January of this year.

I would like to call to the attention of the House that since I have been here, which is since 1948, I have brought to the attention of the Highway Department an S-curve in Kennywood, located in West Mifflin in Allegheny County, where there have been at least 11 deaths and the accidents were in the eight hundreds as of four years ago. On numerous occasions I went to the Highway Department and they said, "Yes, we will do something." At the present time I understand that a survey has been made to eliminate this dangerous S-curve in my county.

Apparently there are some differences regarding Mr. Wiesenberger's statement, because from this morning's Patriot I want to read the statement of the former state aide in which he lauds the road system.

Apparently there is some confusion, but since Mr. Ragot interjected into the record the statements made by the Sun-Telegraph, I certainly would like to interject these statements into the records today:

> Arthur L. Wiesenberger, Allentown, former chief engineer and deputy Secretary of Highways, said yesterday that while he had disagreements "the progress and achievements made in the past two years out-distance any previous record."
> Weisenberger issued a statement in connection with the current controversy over administration of the state Highway Department. He was named district engineer at Allentown in March, 1955, appointed chief engineer and deputy in September of that year and resigned in September. 1956.
> Wiesenberger, said in his statement:
>
> "I am a profesisonal engineer and therefore will not allow any one to use me for political purposes. Undoubtedly, there are matters which need adjustment in the highway department today; however, the same criticism can be applied to previous administrations.
>
> In my opinion, the progress and achievements made in the past two years out-distance any previous record.
> Wiesenberger said that when he took the highways post, "I recognized that the secretary (Joseph J. Lawler) was a layman and that there would be differences of opinion on technical problems."

"These differences became aggravated over the months and finally reached a breaking point," Wiesenberger said.

"Of course, I have, in private conversations, expressed my personal opinions. However, I want it clearly understood that they were strictly personal opinions and not to be counted as an indictment of the Department of Highways."

Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like the Majority Leader to tell me how many trained engineers, or engineers, we have in the state Highway Department at the present time.

Mr. JOHNSON. My answer to that question is that that information is peculiarly within the knowledge of the Democratic party and I am sorry I do not have it. The hearsay is that it is an incredibly small number.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, for the gentleman's information, and I think my figures are correct, there are 2,900 engineers, registered engineers, in the state Highway Department.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman, since the Highway Department has fallen apart at the seams, how many registered engineers have been dismissed by the state Highway Department?

Mr. JOHNSON. As I have stated before, we are gradually compiling it. I have a young man in my office who is working on this. We are compiling the information as rapidly as we get it.

We just learned that one of the chief engineers in the Chester division received a telegram one day at 5:00 o'clock that he was fired and not to show up the next morning. We are gradually getting the list. You have the records down in the Personnel Department and I would say, you that have those records, bring them here yourselves. We are having to go out and ask various people in the state about it, but you have the information. You produce it.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, the number of engineers—and I am not saying these were fired, because most of them resigned, if I am correct, the total is 18 registered engineers have left the state Highway Department under Mr. Lawler's administration.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman in his dissertations stated, and quite correctly, that we have 41,000-some-odd-hundred miles of state highways. Yet he states that New York with a four cent tax on roads is doing a comparable job. If the gentleman remembers, the state of Pennsylvania has more roads than the New England states, New York, New Jersey, and I think Delaware, combined. Is it not reasonable to assume that since New York does not have the amount of roads to construct and probably does not have the same topography, the same terrain as Pennsylvania, that road costs are much higher in Pennsylvania than in New York, New Jersey, Ohio or maybe in some of the other states.

Why does the gentleman compare New York state with Pennsylvania? Why not take some other state?

I would like to ask the gentleman another question, Mr. Speaker, if he will permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman made the statement that they are building a gigantic political machine in the state Highway Department. I would like to ask the Majority Leader how it came about that all of the engineers who were in the state Highway Department up until Governor Leader took office were Republicans?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I do not know as I said that the Highway Department was presently a gigantic political machine. If I said it, I believe that it is true.

The system we have today—and it is true—lends itself to that very thing. And it is true when we were in power we used it for politics, too. Those who worked were registered Republicans. That is very true. I said in my remarks that this commission could well determine whether the patronage system is the right thing for such a gigantic industry as our Highway Department. They could well give consideration to a good merit system within the Highway Department where we could take some of these young engineers coming out of Lehigh, Penn State, Pitt, Temple and the University of Pennsylvania and give them such type of security that they would be willing to give us the benefit of their modern training and their skills. That, I am sorry to say, is not true today, and was not true even when we were in power.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman for his honesty. Since he made the statement that we should not have the patronage system, I hope that when the Governor's recommendation for civil service in the Highway Department comes up on the floor of this House he will support it.

Just one question, Mr. Speaker. I would like to ask the gentleman—and he did make an allegation in his statement that some of the contracts are going out to engineering concerns which are not qualified—if he has any information or any records I would like to have him name, one, two, three, or any number of unqualified engineers who are being hired at the present time by the Highway Department?

Mr. JOHNSON. I did not say what you are attributing to me.

I did not make a positive statement that there were design engineering firms who were green and incompetent and turning out poor plans, underdesigning or overdesigning roads or causing additional payments having to be made to contractors because of poor design. I did not say that. I said it has been alleged that that is true and, if that is true, this commission should look into it. I agree with the gentleman.

Mr. FILO. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, because of allegations made, it seems silly to me that all of a sudden—since the day of inauguration of our present Governor, January 19, 1955—our road program, our roads and maintenance of the roads, has gone to pot. Certainly if roads were built prior to the administration of our present Governor, they should have been roads which would have stood up even if the Department of Highways did not do one bit of repair on them. I say this, if those roads are breaking down at the present time, it is not the fault of the present Highway Department, it is the fault of the men that built those roads prior to the Governor Leader's administration.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Alelgheny, Mr. Filo, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FILO. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman say there were 2900 registered engineers in the Highway Department?

Mr. FILO. Technically? They are called technical engineers. I may be wrong in that.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. By engineers, does the gentleman refer to registered professional engineers?

Mr. FILO. No.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. What does the gentleman refer to?

Mr. FILO. I guess they would be classified more or less—

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. What is the source of the gentleman's information that led him to state there were 2900 engineers in the Highway Department?

Mr. FILO. Well, that is a lawyer's question, incidentally, and it might be a technical question, too. But I believe that information is as good as some of the information I got from the other side of the House.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Will the gentleman state whether the information that he has given us as to the number of engineers is similar to the information he gave us concerning the cost of printing bills?

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, truthfully, I am not responsible for—I may be responsible for the statement that I made. but I am certainly not responsible for the figures that were given to me.

Mr. RENWICK. Mr. Speaker, I know you have been very patient here. There have been a lot of arguments pro and con, but I think it is very necessary that you people hear the thinking of the small town editor with regard to this investigation.

This editor lives in a small town in my district in my county, and I might add that he is a registered Republican. He goes on to say, and I quote:

> It now appears likely that the General Assembly will approve a full-scale investigation of the State Highway Department at an estimated cost of $100,000. "The probe is being sponsored by most Republican members of the House who claim they are concerned by growing clamor of irregularities and misdeeds by those in the department. Personally speaking, we can't buy the probe—not one red cent of the $100,000 publicity scheme can we buy. This matter of investigations in state and national government has reached the point where the public is numb. What's more, because someone decides the $100,000 expenditure is justified the people back home are supposed to be happy.
> In this day and age when personal and property taxes are being increased on all sides the citizens have got to get to the point of letting their lawmakers know they aren't satisfied with the huge amounts of money being expended to probe this thing or that.
> The Republicans in the House want to investigate the Highways Department. We personally have to question whether they want to probe the department for the good of the folks back home or for political fodder for two years hence when we will elect a governor and a state senator.
> When John S. Fine was governor and the same department was in the hands of the Republican administration we do not recall them advocating an investigation when an $80,000 steel and concrete bridge was built in the middle of an open field, as part of a four-lane divided highway, with no connecting roads on either side of the span, nor was there any apparent future need for such connecting roads.
>
> When this situation was called to the personal attention of Governor Fine he put his answer in writing. It went something like this: The bridge was placed there in the event one is needed at that spot some time in the future.
>
> The Republican chairman of the county in which the bridge was erected slipped a disc when Governor Fine's explanation appeared in cold, black print.
> The Highways Department is and has been a political football. We don't need a $100,000 investigation to determine that.
>
> Our personal complaint about the proposed investigation centers on the motive behind the probe and the cost to the taxpayers.
> If the Republicans were in power and the Democrats called for the same investigation we would take the identical stand. It matters little to us who's on first and who's tossing the curves. Our interest is in the welfare of the citizens of Elk County who will have to help foot the bill.
>
> The people of Elk County helped to pay for that $80,000 bridge in the middle of the open field—in the county where it is located it is referred to as "the bridge that leads to nowhere"—and there was no investigation to determine who was responsible for the "coincidental" erection of it just in case it might be needed in the future.
> Our personal feeling is that we folks here at home are going to continue to pay $100,000 bills until we get the lawmakers—Republicans and Democratics alike—know we don't like it.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, you heard what the thinking of this editor is. So, I say to you that is my thinking and I think it is the thinking of all the people of Pennsylvania. So, I am asking you to vote down this bill today.

Mr. GRANVILLE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I am not particularly opposed to this investigation, but I am concerned about the large allocation this bill is asking for, $100,000, which brings to the citizens of the Commonwealth an unwarranted amount of taxes to pay.

At this time I would like to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell me just how many members are on this committee or are supposed to be on this committee?

Mr. JOHNSON. It is a ten-man commission.

Mr. G. E. JONES. A ten-man commission. Could you tell me what the rates will be of those serving, such as clerks, investigators or what-not? Can you give me that break-down?

Mr. JOHNSON. The members of the commission will serve without pay. They will be members of the General Assembly and are being paid for their official duties.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I mean the secretaries and employes, clerks.

Mr. JOHNSON. I am sorry, I do not have a budget. I only have to say that enough secretaries will be employed to do the job.

Mr. G. E. JONES. What will be their titles, investigators or . . .?

Mr. JOHNSON. You asked me, secretaries? I would say if we employ a stenographer, she will be called a stenographer. If she is a secretary, private secretary to the Chairman of the Commission, she would be called a secretary.

Mr. G. E. JONES. And you are not in a position to tell what her rate in salary will be?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say it will be the customary fair and reasonable going wage for personnel of that type that's fixed by the Governor's conversion system here in the State Capitol.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I would like to know how the committee on this bill arrive at such a figure as $100,000?

Mr. JOHNSON. I believe I have previously explained that. It is such a prodigious job and will require counsel and engineers and accountants and some type of technical personnel to work on this probe and I would say that it will cost money to do it. It cost $12,000 to have a House Committee here just making a cursory study of the Delaware Joint Toll Bridge Commission's activities, part of which expenditures have not been received by anybody.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Does the gentleman expect this committee to go over until some part of 1958 in its investigation?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would suspect that this commission will, yes. The study will be prospective in nature, and if the arm of the commission reaches into 1958 for purposes of planning and projecting highway needs, I would say yes, that they will study in the year 1958, that is it is quite possible.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, if the $100,000 is not sufficient to complete this job, do you think the committeee will come in and ask for an additional amount of money?

Mr. JOHNSON. That I cannot say. The Legislature not being in session, they would have to come back into session to ask for additional funds, and if they did, that would be before this General Assembly for a vote.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Chairman of the Joint State Government Commission, Mr. Royer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Royer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROYER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is the chairman of the Joint State Government Commission? Is that correct?

Mr. ROYER. That is right.

Mr. G. E. JONES. First, could the gentleman tell me if his commission is fully established to proceed with the nature of this business?

Mr. ROYER. We are equipped to go into any research problem that the Assembly may require.

Mr. G. E. JONES. It is the specific duty of your commission to investigate the board and commissions and other departments, is that correct, their findings or functions?

Mr. ROYER. We are permitted. We have the right to investigate and receive any information from any department in the State Government.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I would like to know if your commission has the power to summon any persons for which such information is needed in the investigation of any department or commission in the state government?

Mr. ROYER. Have you reference to subpoena?

Mr. G. E. JONES. Yes.

Mr. ROYER. I question that.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Do you have the privilege to summon anyone at all for investigation while you are investigating the committees?

Mr. ROYER. Mr. Speaker, we do.

Mr. G. E. JONES. You have that power or privilege?

Mr. ROYER. We have the right to request any information from any of the departments.

Mr. G. E. JONES. You receive appropriations to make such investigations, do you not?

Mr. ROYER. We receive a biennial appropriation for the conduct of the commission.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Now as to the results or the findings of your commission, you, therefore, submit your recommendations to this House to dispose of it as they see fit. Is that correct?

Mr. ROYER. If the gentleman will read the new Act which was created at the last session, he will find that the procedure is somewhat different than it has been heretofore. The results of the task forces which operate under the direction of the commission make their reports to standing committees of the House and Senate.

Mr. G. E. JONES. You just told me if I read the findings in your reports, I will find out just how you make your recommendations to this body. You make them to the standing committee, I understood you to say, is that right?

Mr. ROYER. That is correct.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I asked you a few moments ago if you make your recommendations to the General Assembly to dispose of the problems or the results of your findings.

Mr. ROYER. The final analysis of the findings are reported to the General Assembly by virtue of the task forces for whatever disposition the standing committees of the House and Senate desire.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I would like to ask one more question, of the Chairman, Mr. Speaker.

Just how many members are on your committee, the Joint State Government Commission?

Mr. ROYER. On the entire Commission?

Mr. G. E. JONES. The entire Commission?

Mr. ROYER. The entire Commission is composed of all members of the House and the Senate.

Mr. G. E. JONES. All the members of the House and the Senate?

Mr. ROYER. That is correct.

Mr. G. E. JONES. That must be a new regulation, a new set-up.

Mr. ROYER. Mr. Speaker, in fact, if you were a member of the Assembly in the last session, you helped to pass on it.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I was not included as a member of the Joint State Government Commission. I have not found my name on it.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I have read the act and I will now raise one more important question. Some 60,000 to 80,000 citizens of the Commonwealth want to know this. That is why I asked the questions.

Has there been at any time during your tenure any of the colored Members of this House serving in the capacity as a member of the Joint State Commission?

Mr. ROYER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, the selection of members of the former task forces and also of the committee which made the studies were always appointed, suggested by the Speaker of the House, and by the President Pro Tem of the Senate. The Chairman of the Joint State Government had nothing to do whatsoever with the selection of any member of any committee.

Mr. G. E. JONES. The question I asked, Mr. Speaker, was whether any of the colored Members of this House served in any capacity, on your committee?

The SPEAKER. The questions that are being asked by the gentleman are not relevant to the question that is before this House.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. G. E. JONES. I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I have asked this question because the Joint State Government Commission, having the power to investigate every department of the state government, I want to know, like the citizens of the Commonwealth want to know, how many of our Members have been or have served or are now serving on these committees.

The SPEAKER. Now is not the proper time to raise that question. The question before this House is on House Bill 860.

Mr. G. E. JONES. That is what I am talking on. I will come to that, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will continue. The gentleman will be in order if he continues talking on the question.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Thank you, Mr. Royer.

Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, just a few weeks ago you voted $20 thousand to a committee. On the calendar we have another bill asking for another $10 thousand today. We are now considering House Bill No. 860, asking for $100 thousand for a committee to investigate a certain Commission. We have to save the taxpayers of the Commonwealth from any unwarranted taxes, which they expect you and I to do. What would be to stop this House from proposing other legislation asking for allocations to investigate other Commissions, such as Public Utility, Liquor Control Board, and what not? The Joint State Government Commission established by this House and Senate can do the same as the investigating committees if so requested by this Assembly. If we are going to create new and special committees to investigate certain departments and boards and commissions, then we should abolish the Joint State Government Commission because its functions and duties are meaningless. There are several examinations needed, perhaps, in the various departments of state government, such as, dual job-holders, like the Commissioner, for instance, also serving as Superintendent of Pennsylvania Industrial School in White Hill. Because of the large number of negroes in the various institutions, I raise the question of colored Members being on the Joint State Government Commssion. We reserve the right to see and know what happens to them.

Mr. Speaker, I want to read into the record, a letter from one of the business houses here, addressed to me. It is a letter from a taxpayer asking why we, the members, do not try to alleviate some of the taxes like we are meditating on now, unwarranted taxes.

This letter is from the Thomas Holmes Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of textiles, notions and specialties:

March 11, 1957.

> Dear Assemblyman: The increasing burden of taxation in the State of Pennsylvania is growing to the point where we are seriously considering moving our business out of the state. What with the heavy burden of taxes paid on federal, state and local levels, a small business enterprise such as ours finds it increasingly . . ."

The SPEAKER. The Chair has asked the gentleman to confine his remarks to the subjcet before the House. The subject of the letter the gentleman is reading has nothing to do with the subject.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I am reading the subject of the taxpayers who ask of me, as a Member of this House . . .

The SPEAKER. The Chair has ruled that the gentleman's remarks are not in order.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, am I not permitted to state the citizens' viewpoint as a taxpayer?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will read from the rule concerning debate:

> Rule No. 611: On being recognized, a Member may speak, confining himself to the question under consideration and avoid personal reflections.

The gentleman is not discussing House Bill No. 860.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I am discussing and talking on House Bill No. 860, and I have to refer to each point of it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has ruled that the gentleman is not discussing House Bill No. 860; the gentleman is discussing the tax program.

Mr. G. E. JONES. All right, Mr. Speaker, I will go further on in my final conclusion here.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the subject before the House.

Mr. G. E. JONES. I, therefore, wish to conclude my statement, Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, that this is another large sum of taxpayers' money being used just to find out who influenced who for political expediency. I, therefore, Mr. Speaker, at this time move to recommit this bill to the Committee on Rules so that the Joint State Government Commission can have the power to go on and do its duty.

Mr. G. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I wish to withdraw the motion I just made to recommit the bill to the Committee on Rules.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be a great deal of concern about spending $100 thousand for this investigation. I think the price is very small, for, as you see, in my district they are now building a bridge, and I am from the district the Governor comes from. We live only a few miles apart. They are building a bridge which cost $160 thousand, and this bridge is being built by Mr. Lawler on a road which carries two cars per day. I have a letter from the Highway Department stating just that. It is also going to develop certain real estate, ground for certain people around York.

Another thing concerning the Highway Department, they said there were no men fired for political reasons. A neighbor of mine was fired last week. He was in the Highway Department for 40 years. He is now 60 years old. He was a caretaker from 1919 to 1929 and up until '45 he was a timekeeper. At the present time he has been a foreman since 1945. He was fired and I wish to quote the Superintendent of Highways firing him. He said, and I quote: "We had an executive meeting and I am under pressure. You must go and every other carryover is going to go with you." It so happens that in my county the Superintendent of Highways is also the Democratic Chairman of York County. It has been stated that 24 Democratic County Chairmen are Superintendents of Highways. However, this has been denied. In my county I can back that up that this is the case, and he has fired men for political reasons and he is no more qualified to be the Superintendent of Highways than I am, and I know nothing about building highways. I am very much in favor of this bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I yield to the gentleman from York?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, yields to the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I hate to take up the time of this body with the sort of petty tales to which the gentleman from York who preceded me has alluded.

You have heard the grave charges that he has made here today and I want to point out only one aspect of this argument and ask you to judge the rest of it on that. He stated that the Secretary of Highways is building a bridge at a cost of $160 thousand in York County. Very true. But, what the gentleman does not tell you is that the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, at the initial request, refused to include such a bridge in its plans. The bridge was only placed on this road at the insistence of the Federal Bureau of Highways under the Eisenhower administration as a prerequisite to Federal reimbursement for this highway.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we have prolonged the debate for quite some time on this bill. I would like to say that there are many editorials in small county papers that are questioning this type of investigation. I personally have had an opportunity to read some as recently as today from a Clearfield paper, and papers in the western part of Pennsylvania, from small town papers not covering major circulation, but only counties. I have had requests from staunch Republican people, people whom I have great confidence in even though we differ in political opinion, who have disapproved of this type of spending of money.

I have told those people, and I think I will stand up under the pressure, that I believe the investigation should go on, and the results should be given to them as well as to me, and, even though it is not a great sum of money, when you come from small counties these figures look mighty big. It is a lot of money to small people and small town editors, which Mr. Johnson seemed to indicate are the major part of newspapers that all over the state favor this. I would like for him to have his members from his areas, from Republican county areas, see editorials that I have seen and read and to give them to Mr. Johnson.

I would like to say that I, as one Democrat, support this investigation and I would like to have the investigation done very rapidly, as rapidly as possible, and get all the facts, because I could go on here today for hours on some things that have happened in former administrations, things which we could produce by facts, which, I hope, will be a part of this investigation so that we can correct those things.

Be it Democrat or Republican that controls the Highway Department, I am one person who believes in giving political patronage to the people in the Highway Department, and for those people who are just as capable of doing a job as they will be if you win and you remove them. I like to think that we have people on both sides of the fence, highly capable of doing small tasks, not technical.

I would like to say that I hope when this investigation is completed and, I would like to believe, and I hope and pray, that it will be certainly an investigation that will reveal all the facts. The mistakes that may have been made can be corrected for the future, and if those mistakes are mistakes of our fault and your fault, we owe it to our people, the people that you represent to correct them.

I believe that we have had a debate and we could go on into petty facts regarding this bill. I could bring up charges in former administrations in my county; you could do the same, probably at the present time. But let us go in and finish the story because I am at least led to believe that this is not a political football for the next election, but a true intent to find out if we can correct and make our Highway Department a better Highway Department. I know that as I listened to some of the figures here today regarding the allocation dealing with the Federal funds, that will come out later in which you will see that there are many things that hold it up. The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission has held up millions of dollars' worth of work in Pennsylvania. You will see that certain other allocations will hold up certain portions of this.

The Federal Bureau of Highways insists upon certain things, and even though the Highway Department does not approve, they must do those things to be eligible on that particular road. Many of these projects were in your own county. It would be well for each Member in this House to just stay in his own backyard and follow the system carefully, the regulations that are imposed from the Federal end, the ideas that have to be carried through. We possibly cannot change that. We have no jurisdiction over the Federal regulations imposed upon the Highway Department, but again, those things should be brought out in the investigation. The public is entitled to hear both sides of the question, to hear it fairly and to render its decision acording to the report of the investigation.

On those grounds, and to those Republicans in my county who have personally come to me, people who ask that I oppose this investigation, that they are getting sick and tired of investigations either at Washington or in Harrisburg, to them I say that I will stand here to defend that this investigation go on. The charges should not hang over their heads forever. They have been indicted in the public Press. They are entitled to their day, to a decision so that the public may render its opinion.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, in order to set the record straight, the Federal Highway Department did not at any time tell or even suggest putting a bridge at any place. They either disapprove or they approve the plans, they do not suggest.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I believe I would like to return to the main issue before us here as mentioned on this floor by the Minority Leader and our former Speaker, the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

I believe their arguments on the issue that in order to do a job for the people, today is the time to make this investigation. They have propounded many arguments to you as to why it should be done immediately rather than setting up a commission to do it over a period of two years to report at a later date.

I would like to add my arguments to that. I believe that we in the General Assembly want to do the best job possible for the people as regards the highway program today and the projection of that same program into the future.

In my deliberate study of this program, Mr. Speaker, I find there is more to be concerned about than just the mere matter of a hundred thousand dollars appropriation for a study, and in passing I want to say this is the first time in my 17 years of tenure in this House that I have seen a willingness on the part of the minority, which is of the same party as the administration of our state government, willing to investigate the Department.

We would like to investigate that Department for the betterment of the program that we have for the people. We are for an investigation. We have evidenced that by sponsoring a resolution, a proper one, to bring the facts before the 210 Members of the House and 50 Members of the Senate as to what is wrong in the Highway Department, if anything is wrong, and to promote a program which will enable us to partake of that which should come to us under Federal allocation.

Recognize this if you will, Members of the House, in my study of this problem I feel you are dealing with the possibility today of jeopardizing the state of Pennsylvania's position in receiving allocations for the next three bienniums to the total of $800 million from the Federal Government.

The total allocation in the 1957-1959 biennium will be $225 million. As it moves into an accelerated basis for the 1959-1961 biennium, then from the 1961 to the 1963, there is a greater allocation from the Federal Government.

After that biennium it levels off in that same amount, which will be allocated to our state based upon our survey needs and under the legislation passed in 1956 by the United States Congress and signed by President Eisenhower.

Just think of the cloud you have hanging over the Highway Department today. Just think of jeopardizing the position of the state of Pennsylvania, the position of the people of the state of Pennsylvania, with the thought of the United States Bureau of Better Roads feeling that some of these things may be true. That will hinder our procuring the amounts of money we should get from the United States Bureau of Better Roads under the Federal allocation.

You have a greater problem here than you think we have, and I defy anyone in this House to say otherwise, because under control of the Democrats and the Republicans in this House, we have established a fact-finding body known as the Joint State Government Commission. This Commission is staffed with the highest caliber of personnel we were able to obtain and it is ready, willing and able to do a job, and to do a job immediately, so that we can for all time set this into motion in a proper manner. You cannot let this rest as it is and bring the report into this Assembly at the next session of the Legislature.

We are confronted with an expanded highway buildinf program and that program should have no smoke-screen, no cloud, over it, in order to do a job for all the people in this Commonwealth.

I state to every Member on the other side who got up and spoke, spoke of the time element involved, that we too are concerned with that time element. We are concerned with the time element because of the impact of a drawn-out political hassel. Every investigating committee, whether it be conducted by Democratics or Republicans, has proven that in the past, that is what came out of every committee.

You have witnessed it in the Federal Congress and in your state government. I take you right back to 1939 in your state government investigations with all the indictments and eveything else you had, when all the smoke was cleared away it looked as though nobody was guilty of anything, since the political purpose for which the investigating committee was set up to do was accomplished. I want to believe, and I do believe, with the gentleman on the other side of the House from McKean County, that this will not be used for political purposes. However, let us hear from the fact-finding arm of this Legislature which we have under our control. Remember this, the Joint State Government Commission is just as strong as 260 Members of the General Assembly, because we are the Joint State Government Commission.

Let them move forthwith. Let your technical directors of that Commission under the Chairman of the Commission the Honorable Baker Royer, the gentleman from Lancaster, set up immediately a schedule to follow through, bring in a bill of particulars from their fact finding—and incidental to that I may say this, if the $360,000 which we allocated to the Joint State Government Comission is not sufficient, you know and I know we can pass additional appropriation bills to give them sufficient money to conduct this inquiry. But let them first go out and locate for us a bill of particulars upon the question at hand. Let us take that bill of particulars and during this session pass the remedial legislation necessary to rectify whatever evils exist under the charges or under the allegations which have been made to date.

I may say that has been a recommendation by one of the groups which made some of the allegations. They said it would be too late to wait for another session of the Assembly. In order to have this highway program for the state of Pennsylvania conform with the Federal program, two years from now will be too late. You and I know we ought to get to our jobs forthwith, because within this immediate biennium there is consideration given to over $600 million for the operation of the High way Department in its budget as presented to us. When you extend it into the next three bienniums, the allocations from the Federal Government will be over $800 million.

I listened to a very learned gentleman, a gentleman by the name of Major General Louis W. Prentiss, a very highly qualified man who is with the American Road Builders Association. He stated it takes from 18 to 24 months to plan and design these major projects which are being contemplated under the Federal Aid program, the interstate, the primary, the secondary and the urban portions of the Federal allocation.

Members, if you wait for two years before you pass remedial legislation to correct whatever is wrong, recognize, if you will, that you are postponing those projects which are so essential to the citizens of Pennsylvania for another two-year period. Don't lose sight of the fact that it is a harder job for the Highway Department to do some good and to get cooperation from the United States Bureau of Better Roads and the other Departments with which they must get cooperation in order to build the highways so necessary to us.

This time element is of major importance. By setting aside that importance by passing a bill today requiring a report to the next session of the General Assembly, you are doing an injustice to the people of Pennsylvania.

We are willing with you to sit down in an investigation through this non-partisan fact-finding body which we have established. It has proven its value and its worth in the past on matters of this nature and it certainly will do so at this time.

I venture that within a period of 60 days if the leadership of this House on both sides will put themselves to the task of working out an investigation, they can return a bill of particulars through the Joint State Government Commission. You know we are not opposed to an investigation, but we feel we owe the people of Pennsylvania a service. I merely ask you to immediately move forward and find out the particulars involved in all the allegations which have been set forth by individuals, by discharged employes, by associations, or any other group which has made such allegations.

After having set up this study and getting the bill of particulars, then we can move further into an investigation, if such is necessary, and we can move further into passing legislation at this session to rectify the evils that exist. We must do that today.

We cannot delay because one of the largest associations in this state have told us that two years from now will be too late. Let us find out if anything is radically wrong. I think if the leaders on both sides of the House get together, expediting such an investigation through that arm of the Legislature which we have set up to do so, to procure facts and to do research on these problems, they can within a 60 day period of time—and I certainly do not think you are going to adjourn sine die before a 60 day period of time—bring before the 260 Members of the General Assembly those facts and those particulars. Then we can immediately with dispatch expedite the necessary legislation to correct those evils.

If a further investigation is necessary from those findings, then I say to you, gentlemen, we will move along with you.

However, I at this time cannot from the very import of the bill before us support this measure. An immediate investigation, yes, I believe that that is necessary in order to help the people in Pennsylvania.

A delayed-action proposition such as is contained in House Bill 860—and had you wanted to make it different than what we must assume it is, a political witch-hunt, then you would have written into this House bill specified items and a specified agenda so that the Members could intelligently approach the subject matter before us.

Members, we want an investigation. We want it because it is going to serve the best interests of the citizens of Pennsylvania, but it will never serve their best interests if you delay it the way you will be able to delay it by enacting House Bill No. 860. If you are sincere in your purpose, you will move immediately through the group we have established and you will give the people the facts, you will give them a full bill of particulars, and then we will proceed to the business of the day and you will not jeopardize Pennsylvania's position in procuring the Federal allocations which are coming to them.

I ask you in the interests of the people who are concerned with good highways and good business administration in Pennsylvania, set aside your political leanings, do this job for the people, and I know you will have the full cooperation of every Member on this side of the House.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe this matter has been quite thoroughly debated and I am sure we all appreciate the way the Members have listened to the debate and have stayed here during this entire proceeding.

As I see it, this investigation would be divided into two parts, first, investigating the charges against the Department, second, giving us a long-range program or a study of how the Department can best be operated.

We have moved rapidly on this bill. We put it in Committee one day and had it out the next and we are voting on it today. The plan is to have the Senate vote on it next week. The commission could be immediately appointed and set up. They could get going quicker than the Joint State Government Commission could. They would first investigate the charges against the Department, because that is the most paramount thing, so they can be cleared.

Secondly, they can do the other phase of the job. This commission is the vehicle by which we are going to, and should, do this job and I am asking all of you to vote "aye" on this bill.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interogate the gentleman from McKean.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman agree to have this bill before us amended, to write into the bill itself what the gentleman has just stated, and also put a time limit on the report to this General Assembly on the first phase of it?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, an amendment like that could well be inserted in the Senate, but the bill is before us today. We have spent a long time debating it. I say let us put it to a vote and send it over to the Senate and, if there is merit in those proposed amendments, I am sure they can be inserted in quick time there and we can concur in any amendments. Let us get the bill out of the House today in order to make time so this investigation can get under way.

Mr. READINGER. I desire to ask the gentleman further whether he would agree to a further amendment to this bill to provide that there shall be an equal number of Republicans and Democrats on this commission?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is, of course, a soul-searching question, one I am really not able to answer. It is up to the Speaker and the President pro tempore to make those appointments. I hardly believe it has been customary in legislative halls to do that. I do not believe you did it on any committees of investigation last session.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman agree that this commission should be completely non-partisan in its approach to the problem?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say, as I said at the outset, that this is not a witch-hunt, this is not a matter to gain political advantage, but certainly I do not believe there should be divided control. I think somebody should be the boss.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman agree to recommend to his membership that this bill be amended to provide that the Joint State Government Commission shall make the investigation, the first phase of it?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I will not agree to that. I personally feel the Joint State Government Commission should remain the research arm of this Legislature and not become an investigatory arm as this bill contemplates. I understand none of the states in the Union have combined research and investigation in their Joint State Government Commissions. They stuck to research for the members and left investigations for other commissions and committees.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman agree to place this bill on the postponed calendar for the purpose of considering a resolution now in the Rules Committee raising the question specifically as to whether the Joint State Government Commission should make this investigation?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I would not agree to that motion at this time.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I think the crux of this whole problem is not whether there should be an investigation, but how it should be done. That was my opening statement, and I am going to close with that statement.

I intend to vote for an investigation, but I do not intend to vote for it in the way you are attempting to force it down our throats. The gentleman has said the first phase would be so and so and the second phase so and so, and suggests that the other amendments I have indicated might be inserted in the Senate. We do not know whether they will or whether they will not. My guess is they will never get in in the Senate. If they do not get in the bill in this House, they will never get in.

Members, you and I know what can happen to investigations. Not so long ago we appropriated some money and set up an investigation committee and gave them a time limit of 60 days. It now appears they will not get finished in anywhere near the 60 days. They have not even taken up in the first four weeks the main subject of the committee's work. The very case that gave rise to setting up the investigating committee has not even been discussed. I can just see what will happen if this bill gets on the books.

Mr. Stroup said earlier in the debate that it would be a fair investigation, and so forth, and so on, and he speaks as though he would be a member of it. Perhaps he will, perhaps he sould be, perhaps he will not be, but if the Rpublican high command, the State Chairman, says, "Look, let's delay this and run it out, run out and run it out away into 1958," I can just see what you could do with a commission of this kind. You can really play politics, and I do not doubt that you would. I think if you are honest about this you will put a time limit on, you will say the first phase of these charges which have been made should be investigated and the report should come back to this session of the General Assembly. Put a 60 day limit or a 90 day limit on, but bring the report in during this session, not in 1959, and do not string it out during 1958. I am going to ask every Member on this side of the House to vote against this bill because of your unyielding attitude and the methods and the manner as to the way in which this should be done.

We want an investigation, we want our Department of Highways either cleared, as Mr. Andrews has said, or to place the blame for whatever might have been done wrong. But we do not want it spread out over the next year and a half for political purposes. I think this bill should be voted down today and I think we should rewrite it, rewrite it along the lines I have mentioned.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, I think the best political thing the Republican party could do would be to let the Highway Department keep on fumbling and stumbling as they are now doing. I think the people in Pennsylvania believe that the intelligent approach is to find out what is wrong, if anything, with the Highway Department.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

A verification of the roll was requested by Messrs. CAPANO, PETROSKY and ROVANSEK.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mrs. MUNLEY, Messrs. WARGO, EDWARDS and REIDENBACH offered a resolution which was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 21, 1957

Tuesday, March 26, 1957, marked the silver wedding anniversary of the Honorable and Mrs. J. Russell Phillips of Scranton, Pennsylvania. It is indeed a pleasure to join with Representative Phillips and his wife, the former Mildred Reese, in celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the taking of their marriage vows. We feel confident that this fine union will continue happily for many years to come, setting a splendid example of ideal marital bliss; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of the House of Representatives all join together in extending their most hearty congratulations to Representative and Mrs. J. Russell Phillips on their silver wedding anniversary. Their marriage was blessed by a son John, therefore be it

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Representative and Mrs. Phillips at 2310 Boulevard Avenue, Scranton, Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Phillips.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, this comes as a surprise to me. I am very proud of it, very happy that the House would take recognition of our anniversary.

Speaking for Mrs. Phillips and myself, I want to say, thank you. There comes a time in everybody's life, I think, when you stop and look back and see just what has happened.

I can say that we have stopped at this time, Mrs. Phillips and I, and looked back and we can say that we have had a very happy and a very healthy life. I think when you have had that, that is all you can ask for.

I only hope that the rest of our days together will be as happy and as healthy as they have been. I thank you again.

The SPEAKER. The happy bride is also present. Will she rise in her place?

The SPEAKER. With the consent of the Majority and Minority Leaders, all remaining bills on today's calendar will be passed over. The Chair hears no objection.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1957. 142nd of the General Assembly.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 1, 1957. No. 31.

SENATE

MONDAY, April 1, 1957.

The Senate met at 3:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. J. B. WILLIAMS, Pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Harrisburg, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Thine, O God, is the Kingdom and blessed is the Nation whose God is Lord. We know that Thy hand has been in the founding and in the fortunes of our Country.

May the clouds that hang over us be dispersed by the clearing of the sun of righteousness and peace. Help us, O God, that the dream for freedom with fraternity may be realized. We have been looking in the face of hypocrisy and corruption in high places. The very foundations of the moral structure of our government are threatened. Grant us this day, and for years to come, the courage to place men in control of our government who will adhere to the principles of our Constitution. We are grateful and zealous of the Constitution of our Country, which has been given to us by our fathers.

O God, restore this Nation to a sense of its heritage and destiny. Give us the right to exercise our initiative and collective responsibilities so that our children will be able to grow up in a free citizenship and enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, facing the realities of one world of nations, working with God, that His Kingdom will come on earth as it is in heaven. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. MAHANY and Mr. PECHAN, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Which was committed to the Committee on Corporations.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, during the Session of 1955, there were two bills dealing with the subject of historical zoning and for a long time they lingered on the Postponed Calendar. Each time, I appealed to the Chairman of the Republican Caucus and to the Majority Leader. They have been candid enough to tell me that this matter must be cleared with a certain Senator. This Senator was the only obstacle on the way to final passage of the bill at that time. Eventually, during the dying days of the Session, the bill was sent back to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish.

This bill which I am about to introduce, deals with the subject of historical zoning. The Senator who consistently opposed this subject was doing it at the behest of a lawyer who imagines himself to be a great authority on constitutional law.

Mr. President, I am renewing my efforts and I am introducing one of these bills now, dealing with historical zoning. I do, however, hope that the Senator this time will not cause me any difficulties. Judging from his change of heart which is evidenced in one of his bills which appears on today's Calendar, perhaps he saw the light of day.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 509, entitled:

An Act authorizing counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships to create historic areas within their geographical limits; providing for the appointment of historical boards empowered to preserve historic buildings and to regulate the erection reconstruction alteration restoration demolition or razing of buildings within the historic areas.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Messrs. KOPRIVER, JR. and SARRAF read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 510, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1931 (P. L. 1206) entitled "The First Class Township Code," changing the manner of filing certain appointments in the police force or as paid operators of fire apparatus.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

They also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 511, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 4, 1927 (P. L. 519) entitled "The Borough Code," changing the manner of filling certain appointments in the police force or as paid operators of fire apparatus.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Messrs. McMENAMIN, DENT and PECHAN read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 512 entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," regulating the dismissal, suspension, demotion, reenlistment, and retirement of enlisted members of the Pennsylvania State Police.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, by way of explanation I might say that these bills which I am about to introduce on behalf of the Minority and Majority Leaders, are the result of our meetings with the Governor and they are supposed to be in the realm of noncontroversial legislation.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. DENT and MAHANY (By request) read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 513 entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," authorizing long-term lease of State airports or parts thereof.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

They also (By request) read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 514, entitled:

An Act to provide for the commemoration by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of the one hundredth anniversary of the Civil War creating the Civil War Centennial Commission of Pennsylvania; authorizing and directing the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission to participate in the commemoration and to prepare and plan for historical publications on Pennsylvania's part in the Civil War; and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

They also (By request) read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 515, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 25, 1937 (P. L. 2086), entitled "An act providing for the making of compacts by the Commonwealth with other states for mutual helpfulness in relation to persons on probation or parole; . . . ," whereby the term "State" shall mean any one of the several states and certain territories and possessions of the United States.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

They also (By request) read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 516, entitled:

An Act amending the act, approved May 17, 1921 (P. L. 789), entitled, as amended, "The Insurance Department Act of 1921," by continuing the provisions of section 211.1 in effect for a further period.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

They also (By request) read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 517, entitled:

An Act to provide revenue by imposing a State tax upon sales or gifts of cigarettes; requiring persons engaged in the sale of cigarettes to secure licenses; prescribing the method and manner of collecting such tax; making it unlawful to sell or possess cigarettes upon which the tax has not been paid; conferring powers and imposing duties on the Department of Revenue and other persons; making an appropriation and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I have before me a series of four bills dealing with the gas tax. It is a question that must be resolved by the Chair as to whether or not they would be properly introduced in the Senate or whether they should be introduced in the House.

Although the Constitution says that legislation pertaining to the imposition of taxes must originate in the House, it is a very valid question as to whether or not amendments to tax bills already passed by this General Assembly during this biennium may not be amended by amending acts introduced into the Senate.

If it is proper to introduce the bills, I would like to introduce them into the Senate. However, if the Chair feels that such bills must be introduced in the House, I will abide by that decision.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would state, for the information of the gentleman, that the Constitution does provide that all tax bills and revenue measures must originate in the House of Representatives. However, I feel that the Chair should not rule on this question; that possibly it is a question that should be left for the entire Senate to decide.

Could we be at ease for a moment or two, and would Senator Dent mind coming with Senator Mahany to the rostrum, please?

Senator Mahany, could you come up for a minute? Senator Dent, would you come up, please?

(The Senate was at ease.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would like to announce that after a consultation between the Majority and the Minority Floor Leaders, Senator Dent has agreed not to present the bills today as there is a question on the constitutionality of their introduction into this body, but will leave them until tomorrow, until such time as the Rules Committee of the Senate had had an opportunity to meet and discuss the question.

STUDENTS OF BALDWIN-WHITEHALL JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL, PITTSBURGH, PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. KOPRIVER, JR. Mr. President, as I said before, I had the honor of presenting a group of students from the Baldwin-Whitehall Junior High School of Allegheny County, in my District. Half of them were not in the building at that time, but they are all together now. Therefore, I now present this group of Junior High School students to the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, the Chair is happy to welcome to the halls this afternoon all of the group from Senator Kopriver's District, and hope that you have a pleasant and informative visit with us today.

MISS BERNELL HELM PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President and colleagues, I have the happy duty to present to this Body a very beautiful girl from my county. She is not only a very beautiful girl, but she is a talented girl and she has a claim to fame because of her distinguished father, who is now the Speaker of the House, from Kittanning, Pennsylvania.

I would like Bernell Helm to rise.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, the Chair is happy to welcome you to this Chamber today, Miss Helm.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO COACH WILLIAM LAYCOCK, THE BASKETBALL TEAM AND THE PRINCIPAL OF SHARON HIGH SCHOOL UPON WINNING THE P.I.A.A. CLASS A STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, last Saturday evening a famous basketball team, coming from Sharon, Pennsylvania, went down to Philadelphia where they had a basketball tournament, in which, I am sorry to say in a way, we beat a team coming from Senator Watkin's District. Senator Watkins is again a loser, but it is not like his horses. None of us lost any money on it.

I have had this Resolution prepared, Mr. President, which I would like to read:

In the Senate, April 1, 1957.

"On Saturday, March 30, 1957 before eight thousand screaming basketball enthusiasts at the University of Pennsylvania's Palestra, Sharon High's Tigers captured their first P.I.A.A. Class A State championship in twenty-seven years by defeating Chester High and thus returned to the west the coveted State basketball title.

"Piloted by jubilant coach William Laycock, Sharon in addition to winning the class A State championship extended its winning streak to twenty-eight games. Coach Laycock has the added honor of being one of three present basketball coaches who once played on a P.I.A.A. State title team and returned as coach to capture the same title. However, coach Laycock is the first person to have accomplished this feat at the same school.

The aggressive defensive play that Sharon demonstrated diminished the effectiveness of Chester's fast breaking offensive play so much so that at one point Sharon High led in the scoring by fifteen points. On offense, the entire Sharon club operated in flawless fashion as their spectacular passing and accurate shooting paved the way to victory for them. At one point in the game when it seemed as though Chester High might close the gap in the scoring column, Sharon employed its passing skills and so created a "freeze" that proved to be the deciding factor in their drive to the title.

"An especially heartwarming aspect of this spirited basketball battle was the fact that in their defeat, the boys and coach of the Chester High basketball club were not hesitant in extending their congratulations to the victors of this friendly rivalry. Senator Watkins of Chester County can be justly proud of the fine sportsmanship and American qualities of fair play that the coach, team and entire school body of Chester High demonstrated on Saturday night at the Palestra.

"The entire citizenry and school body of Sharon can be justly proud of this spirited body of ball players and the coach who provided the know-how and determination that resulted in their scintillating performance and attainment of a richly deserved basketball title therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth extend its sincere congratulations to coach William Laycock and all the players of the Sharon High basketball team and the principal of Sharon High School; and be it further

"Resolved, That the Secretary transmit copies of this resolution to coach Laycock of the Sharon High School basketball team and the principal of Sharon High School."

SENATE RESOLUTION ADOPTED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, on behalf of myself and my colleague, Senator G. Robert Watkins, I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of this resolution and move its immediate adoption.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I certainly want to concur in the resolution which, as you will note, I co-sponsored with Senator Mahany.

I want to say that Sharon has one of the finest basketball teams. They had to have the finest in order to beat Chester. We had a couple of bad breaks in the ball game. We were within about seven points of Sharon and we were just unable to catch up with those boys. They threw the ball around and would not give Chester a chance to get hold of it. If we would have had the chance to get hold of the ball in the last three minutes, I am afraid it may have been a different story.

Mr. President, I think Sharon has a wonderful team and I want to congratulate the coach. However, I want to just give him the warning that next year, look out, because we are going to develop something to break up their freezing tactics during the last three minutes.

Mr. President, I sincerely concur in this resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

SENATE RESOLUTIONS

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE BASKETBALL TEAM, THE COACHING STAFF, THE STUDENT BODY AND THE TEACHING STAFF OF SHANNOCK VALLEY HIGH SCHOOL UPON WINNING THE WESTERN REGIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP AND BEING RUNNER-UP FOR THE P.I.A.A. CLASS B STATE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Mr. PECHAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 1, 1957.

Congratulations are certainly in order for the Shannock Valley High School basketball team upon winning a trophy emblematic of the Western Regional title, a plaque for the Section 21 Title, a trophy for winning the W.P.I.A.L. championship, and being runner up for the State P.I.A.A. Class B Championship; its only loss being to Fountain Hill in an exciting championship game on Friday, March 29th.

Shannock Valley, which nestles in the hills of Armstrong County, derived its name from the school district that was consolidated with Cowanshannock Township and Rural Valley.

The Spartans of Shannock Valley have won twenty-six straight games against the toughest kind of competition in their own area and in Western Pennsylvania. Under the brilliant coaching of James Sibley, through many long hours of instruction and practice, the Spartans have been molded into a team of perfection. Many of these boys have been training since they were in the sixth grade.

Members of this outstanding team are:

Jim Franceschi, Leo Haky, Willard Long, Richard Matyus, John Marken, Tom Krizmanich, Mike Krecota, Dick Smith, Tom Mueller, Larry Boyer, Tom Shirey, and Stanley Yanik.

Ron Zuchelli is the faculty manager of the team. The four student mangers of the team, who spent many hours taking care of the boys and the equipment and making preparations for them, are:

Bob Sotak, Junior Hockenberry, Fred Keller and Dwain Croft. The supervising principal of the school is Thomas Edelman.

This small school, with only 431 students, has made basketball history.

In football, Bob Pellagrini, a recent graduate, was named All-American at the University of Maryland.

The outstanding teamwork and excellent sportsmanship which the Shannock Valley Spartans have displayed throughout the season well entitled them to our admiration. The student body and teaching staff are no less praiseworthy because of their faithful support of the team; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania extends its heartiest congratulations to the basketball team, the coaching staff, the student body, and the teaching staff of Shannock Valley High School upon winning the Western Regional Championship and being runner-up for the P.I.A.A. Class B State Basketball Championship; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Shannock Valley High School.

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE BASKETBALL TEAM OF ST. VINCENTS' HIGH SCHOOL, PLYMOUTH, PENNSYLVANIA, AND TO THEIR COACH, JOSEPH EVANS, ON WINNING THE STATE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP OF PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS IN CLASS B COMPETITION

Messrs. MURRAY and FLACK offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 1, 1957.

The basketball team of St. Vincents' High School, Plymouth, Pennsylvania has been proclaimed the State Champion of Parochial Schools in Class B competition. The St. Vincents' team earned this high honor by defeating an outstanding and long undefeated team from St. Casimirs of Pittsburgh on March 23, 1957, by a score of 76 to 65.

The outstanding sportsmanship and good citizenship which the St. Vincents' team has displayed consistently throughout the season, culminating in this coveted award, has gained the admiration and respect of us all; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate extend its most hearty congratulations to the basketball team of St. Vincents' High School, Plymouth, Pennsylvania, and to their coach, Joseph Evans, on winning the State Basketball Championship of Parochial Schools in Class B competition; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to coach Joseph Evans.

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE STUDENTS, THE TEACHING STAFF, THE COACHES AND THE BASKETBALL TEAM OF FOUNTAIN HILL HIGH SCHOOL UPON WINNING THE P.I.A.A. CLASS B STATE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Mr. VAN SANT offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 1, 1957.

Congratulations are certainly in order for the Fountain Hill High School basketball team upon winning the State Class B basketball championship. The "Hillers" won by defeating a scrappy Shannock Valley High quintet, holder of the WPIAL "B" title, and a team undefeated in twenty-six contests prior to the championship game. The final game, played on Friday, March 29th at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pennsylvania, ended in a 72-64 victory for Fountain Hill.

Fountain Hill, a small community in the Lehigh Valley, was full of admiration for their team, and rightly so. Under the brilliant coaching of Charlie Dubbs, the team had achieved perfection in their class for the second year in a row. Last season the "Hillers" won the State crown by downing East Pittsburgh. This year more than 3,800 spectators saw the Lehigh-Northampton League Champions roar into the lead against the Spartans of Shannock Valley and hold it all the way to the championship.

The spectacular teamwork and excellent sportsmanship which the team displayed throughout the season culminated in this great victory and earned them the admiration of all. Without the support of the entire student body and the teaching staff such a championship would not be possible; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania, extends its warmest congratulations to the students, the teaching staff, the coaches, and above all the basketball team of Fountain Hill High School upon winning the P.I.A.A. Class B State Basketball Championship; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Fountain Hill High School.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. VAN SANT offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 1, 1957.

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, April 8, 1957, at four o'clock, p.m., E.S.T.; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, April 8, 1957, at four-thirty o'clock, p.m., E.S.T.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. LANE, SCOTT, DONOLOW and DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 518, entitled:

An Act regulating arrests for misdemeanors; prescribing duties of arresting officers; and imposing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. WATSON asked and obtained unanimous consent for immediate consideration of the nominations reported at today's session.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 331, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the fifth day of July one thousand nine hundred forty-seven (P. L. 1335) entitled "The Pennsylvania Hospital Survey and Construction Act" by requiring that non-Federal funds be available before application shall be made for hospital construction projects to be owned or operated by the State.

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Senator Mahany, could you tell the Membership of the Senate just what you propose to do with this particular piece of legislation?

Mr. MAHANY. I have a willing witness here in Senator Pechan whose bill this is. May I yield to Senator Pechan, who probably has more information about the bill than I have?

Mr. LANE. Senator Pechan, I see we have the second team up here today.

I wonder whether you could tell the Membership of the Senate what you propose to do with this particular piece of legislation.

Mr. PECHAN. Pass it.

Mr. LANE. I know you are going to pass it but what in the text of the bill do you propose to do legislatively?

You have the votes over there; we do not. However, we have a thirst for knowledge.

Mr. PECHAN. Senator Lane, we certainly do not want to take advantage of you just because we have the votes.

Mr. LANE. Of course, you would not. However, go right ahead.

Mr. PECHAN. If you will recall, we had a similar bill during the last Session when the Secretary of Welfare arbitrarily said that he was going to spend the $10,000,000 that he had available in Hill-Burton funds for State mental institutions. We passed that bill over here and it was our understanding that the Secretary would not avail himself of this money. However, he used that as a wedge and the General State Authority gave him the $10,000,000 anyhow, and then he distributed it to the various hospitals.

We want to give this $10,000,000 or about $10,000,000, which will be available in the biennium, to the State-aided hospitals, the hospitals in your area, the hospital in my area. For instance, the hospital in Kittanning is in an expansion program and they need this Hill-Burton money. That was what this money was set up for originally, and what it has been used for until Secretary Shapiro became the Secretary of Welfare. This bill now will not allow him to take the $10,000,000 unless we here in the Legislature O. K. it. It is just that simple.

Mr. LANE. Then to sum it all up, Senator Pechan, you are still picking on poor Secretary Shapiro, is that not correct?

Mr. PECHAN. I am doing what?

Mr. LANE. You are still picking on poor Secretary Shapiro, is that not correct?

Mr. PECHAN. I do not think I am picking on him and I do not think Secretary Shapiro is poor. What makes you think that?

Mr. LANE I would say if the Republican Majority had its way, he proably would be

Mr PECHAN I think if you will talk to Secretary Shapiro, he will tell you that Al Pechan is one of the best friends he has

Mr LANE Your attitude is very indicative of your friendship; there is no question about that. The point I am trying to make is just what do you propose to do. There is no indication that we, on this side, are banded together in opposing this amendment that you have in there. However, I wanted to get this on the record in order that at the next Session you will not be in a position to back track on what you said today.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I can understand Senator Pechan's position. However, in order that there be some clarification of the situation, I think it is only fair to say that I voted on this same piece of legislation last year because I felt then, and feel now, that when it is possible, the moneys from the Hill-Burton allocation should go to the private hospitals in the Commonwealth. All of us who live in communities where these hospitals exist know that they are in dire need of funds for expansion. This money is used for expansion purposes.

However, in fairness to the Secretary, I want to say that I was named to a subcommittee which had to talk to the Hill-Burton people. The first promotion of the idea of taking the money from the regular hospitals came from the Hill-Burton people, themselves, on this basis. The Hill-Burton moneys are set up to be expended in four categories of expenditure. The categories cover various phases of hospital activity. One of these categories is the category which embraces mental health. Over the years, there has been an utter disregard of that portion of the money which was to be used in the field of mental health.

Senator Shapiro's position was that if the local hospitals were willing to make provisions for taking a stated number of beds for mental health treatment, then those hospitals would immediately receive a priority on the Hill-Burton moneys. However, he ran into opposition in the local hospitals in that they had no facilities for the care of mental health without adding a great deal of expense to their staff. Then, he shifted from that position into the position that if a certain amount of money were allocated for mental health, then the only way to get it was through the General State Authority.

Mr. President, I think this Senate emphatically placed its stamp of disapproval upon taking Hill-Burton funds from the local hospitals and using it through the General State Authority. I am happy to say that Senator Shapiro told me very recently, right before he entered the hospital, that he is getting a great deal more cooperation from the local hospitals because of this great cry to bring mental health out into the open and to tear away the shrouds of secrecy and dread which have always hidden the story of mental health. He told me that he has many hospitals now in the State that are willing to set up certain sections or wings of their hospitals, under new construction, to go into the problem on a limited base for mental health.

Therefore, this bill will again reiterate our position and I certainly intend to vote for it. If we do not vote this way, maybe someone in the future may take the position that under a little coaxing and urging from the Federal Government, it may deprive the local hospitals of this much needed money. That is the main reason for my voting for this legislation today.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO REPEAL THE EXCISE TAXES UPON THE TRANSPORTATION OF PERSONS AND PROPERTY

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. MALLERY, McGINNIS, STEVENSON McMENAMIN, SCOTT, MAHANY, DENT and DERK offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, April 1, 1957.

For the purpose of meeting war time emergency necessity, the Congress of the United States enacted excise taxes upon the transportation of persons and property.

Today, eleven years after the cessation of hostilities these levies continue in effect at a rate of 10% on the transportation of persons and 3% on the transportation of property.

One of the principle purposes of levying such taxes upon the transportation of persons was to discourage unnecessary war time travel.

Such taxes continue to act as a deterrent to travel and shipment by commercial means, although no shortage of travel facilities presently exists.

Such taxes, by applying only to commercial travel and transportation, constitute a discriminatory penalty against the commercial transportation industry, one of the most vital industries of the nation and one of the largest industries of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

By entering into the cost of manufactured products and agricultural commodities at successive stages of manufacture, marketing and distribution, the tax on transportation of property pyramids the cost of living to the detriment of the economy of the United States and of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

By applying to all domestic travel, while exempting therefrom most foreign travel, the taxes constitute a discriminatory penalty against the American tourist and recreational industry, and against the resort and recreational industry of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is vitally concerned in protecting and developing its resort and recreational industry on an economic basis with foreign vacation travel areas.

The transportation of both persons and property play such a vital role in the economic life of this country that the costs of transportation should be kept at the lowest possible level.

Transportation is in no sense a luxury but is a vital necessity and there is, therefore, sound reason for distinguishing between the transportation taxes and other excise taxes that are imposed upon luxury items.

It is the opinion of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the best interests of the country and of the people of the Commonwealth would be served by a repeal of the transportation taxes.

There is presently pending before the Congress of the United States legislation which would repeal those taxes; therefore be it

Resolved (The House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to support and enact into law legislation which will repeal the excise taxes upon the transportation of persons and property, and be it further

Resolved That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States to the presiding officers of each house of the Congress of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I want to do two things. First of all, I would like to call to the attention of all present that today in passing Senate Bill No. 97, I think this Senate has done a commendable and a very statesmanlike piece of work. I want to, secondly pay my compliments to the Chairman and the Members of the Judiciary General Committee which had the custody of this bill.

It was my privilege to attend the public hearings on this bill, as a witness. I talked to many of the people who came here on both sides of that question, and it was my impression that it was unanimous among all those people, no matter which side of the question they themselves were on and which side they came here to present, that they admired the fairness with which the hearings were run. They feel that that committee has distinguished itself by the way in which the hearings were conducted. I think a great deal of the credit for this, of course, reflects upon the Chairman of the Committee, Senator Scott, who, in my opinion, did an admirable job in presiding over those hearings.

I want to congratulate the Senate for a very statesmanlike job and, at the same time, I want to say that I deeply appreciate the very fine way in which that committee handled the bill.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I just have a very short comment to make which I would appreciate if my friend and colleague, Senator Watkins, would listen closely to because it refers to some of the speeches he makes here every Session. I would like to just save him the trouble or else he can prepare competent rebuttal within a week or so.

A gentleman of Webb and Knapp, which is the largest real estate firm in the world, recently held a convention along with many persons who are interested in the surburban areas which are growing up around the large cities. This was held at San Francisco in the end of March, and the Philadelphia Bulletin last Thursday carried a rather large article on this matter.

I will not go into any detail. You can read that for yourself, but one of the things that the president of this firm of Webb and Knapp pointed out was that the real "carpetbaggers"—and he used Philadelphia for whatever reason best known to himself—and "freeloaders" on the "mother ship" were the surburban counties. He urged legislation permitting annexation of these fringe areas by the "mother ship," which meant the large cities, or the core cities, without the consent of the suburbs.

I would not want to go that far myself. We would like to have their consent, but one of the things he pointed out which I think my friend and colleague and some of the other gentlemen here, who do not come from large cities, should bear in mind is that the price for everything comes out of the national economy. We cannot afford twenty police departments, twenty fire departments, twenty water systems or even twenty planning commissions when one should be doing the job.

Everybody has to pay for this type of service they are getting. Unless the peripheral community, as he tends to call the surburban areas, cooperates with the large cities so that they work as a single unit—in other words, in Philadelphia when we have a fire today in one of the communities surrounding Philadelphia, all of our fire departments or fire areas move up to be able to cover the suburban areas and also to keep an eye on the city.

His idea, and correctly I believe, is that if all these communities got together and worked together, the overall cost to the entire people living in that community would be infinitely less and everybody would receive a better and more economical and efficient service than they get today.

Therefore, Senator Watkins, when you make your classic, annual speech, I hope you will bear that in mind.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I can appreciate the remarks made by the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner. I know that he is always thinking in a progressive manner. However, I happen to know a little bit about California and how they stretch for miles and miles and miles, and they have eaten up all the communities.

Down in my county of Delaware, and I think I speak for the Senator from Bucks, the Senator from Montgomery and the Senator from Chester, if they reach them, we have other ideas about it. We are thinking that perhaps we will annex Philadelphia and join it to our section. Maybe we will give part of Philadelphia over to New Jersey. We have not thought about just what we would do. It is a progressive idea and perhaps in the Twenty Hundreds it might come to pass that somebody will annex it. However, we are dead against Philadelphia annexing or going in through the back door to take any parts of our counties. That has certainly been their intent for years. Yes, a nice little bill that puts a fire company together and puts the other municipal authorities together. They will wind up as the ruler over it, and we will be paying taxes as the 97th Ward of Philadelphia. I do not think it will work. It might work in Los Angeles, but it will not work for us in our adjoining counties to Philadelphia. We are not going to give in and be nice and let them slip in the back door.

We will debate this much later when Senator Stevenson brings out the Philadelphia Wage Tax Bill. I think we will be able to discuss the whole situation at that time and not take up the time of the Senate now.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, it is very distressing to see two of our more distinguished Members, Senator Weiner and Senator Watkins, at odds on a matter of this kind.

It might be appropriate to remark that today is the unofficial opening of the Northeastern Extension of the Turnpike and that brings together, much more closely than ever before, the great cities of Scranton and Philadelphia. Therefore, now we have some problems in common with Philadelphia.

However, Mr. President, I do not think it is exactly fair of Senator Weiner to bring up a matter like this today with Senator Watkins. Today, being "Basketball Day," Senator Watkins had the problem of acknowledging the superiority of Senator Mahany's team. He has had a hard day here. Maybe being an also-ran is not new to Senator Watkins, but I think both of them owe a debt of gratitude to Senator Van Sant. Senator Watkins was a little happy for awhile when they got by Allentown, the perennial champions of Pennsylvania, and then had to go and lose. I, therefore, do not think we should get into any serious matters on such a sad day for our good friend, Senator Watkins.

However, Mr. President, it might be appropriate at this time to find out from Senator Van Sant what happened to Allentown this year.

Mr. VAN SANDT. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, first of all, I would like to point out again that Allentown did win the P.C.I.A.A. State Championship. Lehigh County came through in the Class B, P.I.A.A. Championship and we stretched over into Senator Ruth's neighboring District, which is close to Lehigh County, where Fleetwood won the Class C, P.I.A.A. Championship. It is kind of infectuous that we should go over into that county.

In so far as Allentown is concerned, Mr. President, we fell by the wayside to Chester High School. I am going to tell the truth, Senator Watkins. Senator Watkins informed me today that he gave to the Chester basketball team the same type of pills that he gives to his horses when they race and that is just the way Chester went against us. They were all winners that night and we were the losers.

Senator Watkins, I hope that soon you will have a winning team of horses like you had a winning team of basketball players.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, after hearing Senator Watkins' reply to Senator Weiner, I have become convinced of something about which I have always suspected Senator Watkins, and that is that he is an isolationist on a local basis.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, before announcements by the Clerk, I would like to suggest to Senator Watikns that if he ever gets a premonition that one of his horses is really going to win a race, he let us fellows who have been backing him up for years know in advance.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, April 2, 1957, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 5:59 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Tuesday, April 2, 1957, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, April 1, 1957.

The House met at 4:30 p. m.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Jesse R. Houk, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, West Middlesex, guest Chaplain and guest of the gentlemen from Mercer, Messrs. Willard and Down, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Our Heavenly Father we thank Thee for this day of opportunity and service. We thank Thee for our nation and the privilege we have as free people to govern ourselves. Bless this meeting of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania that it may act and deliberate that the causes of justice, freedom, and brotherhood may be fostered. May each member keep in mind the safety, honor, and welfare of all the people in this state. Grant to this body and to our national leaders the wisdom to plan and the power to achieve an order which shall protect all nations from fear and from want, and secure to them freedom to grow in knowledge and faith in Thee. Give us the vision to strive for that time when the will of God "may be done on earth as it is in Heaven."

During this Lenten Season may we keep before our eyes the vision of Jesus Christ who came and lived among men that they might see this Kindom in Him. Restore our faith in the triumph of righteousness, knowing that "righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people." May we look beyond the things that are seen and temporal to the things that are unseen and eternal. These things we ask with the pardon of all our sins in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. Are there any corrections to the Journal of Tuesday, March 19, 1957? If not, and without objection, the Journal is approved.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Wednesday, March 27, 1957 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. STONER RESOLUTION No. 73.

In the House of Representatives, March 27, 1957.

Big Spring Creek is one of the few remaining limestone streams capable of sustaining native brook trout and is also one of the most beautiful streams transversing our Commonwealth. Fishermen, sportsmen and nature lovers from a wide area are genuinely interested in insuring the preservation and perpetuation of this stream in its native state.

Indicative of the widespread interest in this project is the throng of people who volunteered their services to help restore the natural beauty of Big Spring in the recent "Operation Clean-up."

The future of this stream is threatened, however, by the operations of the Green Spring Hatchery at Newville, Pennsylvania, and greatly dependent upon the decisions of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and the Water and Power Resources Board in respect thereto; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of three members of the House to conduct an immediate investigation of the activities of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and the Water and Power Resources Board relative to the Green Spring Hatchery Co., Inc. in order to determine whether or not the laws of the Commonwealth are being upheld and justice rendered; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee so appointed make a report of its findings to the House of Representatives at the earliest possible date before the adjournment of this session of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL No. 322.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governors' Office, Harrisburg, March 29, 1957.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 322, Printers' No. 44, entitled "An Act making certain bridges in the Commonwealth toll free providing for the payment of certain bond issues requiring the Department of Highways to sell certain property and appropriating the proceeds of sale thereof."

This bill would require that all toll bridges acquired by the Commonwealth pursuant to the Act of April 22, 1949, P. L. 715, shall be made toll free at noon on May 30, 1957.

The truth is that the bill, instead of expediting the freeing of these bridges, actually would delay it. The Department of Highways already has determined that, barring unforseen circumstances, it will be feasible to free the toll bridges owned by the Commonwealth not later than May 15 of this year—without this additional and superfluous legislation.

This means then that if this bill were to become law, the people of this Commonwealth would be required to pay tolls for the use of these bridges for an additional fifteen (15) days.

We should not delay the freeing of these bridges even one day beyond the time necessary to accumulate sufficient funds to retire all outstanding bonds.

The bill also requires the Department of Highways to sell at public sale all buildings and other property and appurtenances which were acquired incident to the purchase of the toll bridges and to deposit the proceeds thereof in the Motor License Fund for the purpose of paying the interest and sinking fund charges remaining to be paid on bonds issued on account of the toll bridges.

This bill raises substantial constitutional and statutory problems. Since the acquisition of these bridges was financed by the issuance of bonds, any provision mandating the freeing of these bridges of tolls without providing adequate security for the redemption of all bonds would seem to offend against the constitutional inhibitions against impairment of contracts. Although, by their terms, these bonds do not mature for several years, there is no provision to finance the retirement of the bonds should the sale of the realty mentioned in the bill coupled with the possibility of unforseen circumstances relative to toll collection prevent the accumulation of sufficient security by the time mentioned in the bill.

This bill requires the Department of Highways to sell at public sale all buildings and other property and appurtenances which were acquired incident to the purchase of the toll bridges, despite the fact that all purchases and sales for the Department of Highways are statutorily required to be handled by the Department of Property and Supplies.

For these reasons, the bill is not approved.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

COMMUNICATION AND BILL LAID ON TABLE

Mr. BOWER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the communication from the Governor together with the bill be laid on table.

The motion was agreed to.

Senate Bill for concurrence No. 257.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows.

Mr. Stoner for Mr. GEORGE for the week because of illness.

Mr. Gibson for Mr. WILLARD because of illness.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. RAGOT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, we hear a lot about the Sales Tax but never anything about the use tax.

Last week the Governor stated a selected few enjoy special tax privileges. He mentioned some Pennsylvania categories exempted in House Bill 337. What he did not mention is all the New Jersey retail and wholesale dealers who enjoy a special privilege. I refer to those cities and boroughs adjoining Pennsylvania. They bring thousands of dollars worth of consumer merchandise across the Delaware River into Pennsylvania and no effort is being made to collect the use tax, thereby making it possible to undersell by three percent Pennsylvania storekeepers.

In the City of Easton, of which I am a resident, truckload after truckload of merchandise can be seen coming across the Delaware River and state line to the disadvantage of the merchants of Easton.

There is a way to collect the tax due, but no effort is being made to collect it from purchasers in Pennsylvania.

It behooves the sales tax division of the Department of Revenue to take a more realistic view of this leak in revenue and enforce the collection of the use tax along the border of Pennsylvania.

The Governor would do well to shed a few crocodile tears over the plight of the merchants of Easton and bring in the revenue to the state which is its just due under the law.

SENATE MESSAGE

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. Bowman.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 444, entitled:

An Act amending "The Third Class City Code" approved June 23, 1931 (P. L. 932) authorizing council to provide for the closing of city offices on Saturday.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, it seems there is a cult being organized in various departments of our activities in the labor world and political circles, a cult composed of those who believe in getting more and more wages for doing less and less work.

We receive a great deal of criticism here because we do not work hard enough, because state employes do not work hard enough, or enough time, and yet we are constantly passing legislation easing up on the services which should be rendered by those responsible for the functioning of local offices.

We all know that in many communities Saturday should be a big day in some departments at city hall. People have to live on Saturdays, government must go on. It very often happens that those who are unable to visit city hall during the other days of the week can go there on Saturdays.

Of course, as far as my town is concerned, you do not have to enact this legislation to accomplish its purposes. You cannot find the mayor on Saturday and sometimes not on Friday. You cannot find the superintendent of highways when you want him. But that is no excuse for passing legislation which authorizes them to be absent from their offices when there is a need for them at city hall.

Of course, if this House is sold on the idea of doing less and less work for more and more money, that is their option. Personally, I am opposed to the idea, whether it is in the labor world, the political world, or anywhere else.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be a division in the ranks over here. I am going to vote for this bill because it strictly sets forth that the local councils in third class cities shall make the determination whether their offices shall be open on Saturdays or not.

Some time ago in Berks County the banks decided it would be better practice to close Saturday mornings and to extend their hours from 3:00 o'clock on Friday afternoon until 6:00 o'clock. They were able to do so because we passed legislation some few years ago allowing it to be done. At first it did not strike me as being a very good idea either, but since it has been in operation for a couple of years I have had no complaints from anyone about the fact that we by law allowed them to do it. Frankly, I do not find it is any inconvience to myself. I have scheduled my affairs so that I get my banking finished by Friday afternoon and I do not run into any difficulty.

If we were telling the local third class cities they must close on a Saturday morning, I would agree with the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews. Since we are leaving it to the various localities to make the determination themselves, they should be responsive to the local needs and the local desires.

I think this is good legislation and I would like to see it passed. I am for longer weekends and less work for more money if you can do it reasonably without hurting public service.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I can pardon the Minority Leader, I am not a candidate for judge.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I too am from Berks County, from the rural areas, and many of my constituents work during the week and are not able to get into these offices during their working hours. The fact that the banks are open until 6:00 o'clock on a Friday is OK, but until there is some sort of legislation passed which will make it mandatory for these offices to be open also until 6:00 o'clock, if they are allowed to close on a Saturday morning, I am going to vote "no."

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been informed of the presence in the Hall of the House of a former Member of this House, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilbur Hamilton.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 347, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) entitled "An act relating to the public school systems, etc. . . ." by providing for additional increments for professional employes having thirty years of public school service.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, I have been trying for the last few days to find some reason why I should vote for this bill, and as yet I cannot find that reason. Perhaps someone can enlighten me.

I think it is poor government when we in the House of Representatives say the school districts throughout this Commonwealth must spend so much money to aid school teachers and professional employes—it does not only include school teachers. We are telling them they must spend this money, but we are not giving them any chance to raise this money and many of the school districts are up to the limit as far as levying taxes is concerned. We have not increased that provision, we have not found a way for them to raise more money, but we in Harrisburg as Legislators say, you shall spend this money.

I think it is very bad government. I like home rule, but I like to give the people to whom we give home rule the tools with which to work. I doubt very much whether I would vote for that type of legislation, but to do this before we even try to do the other and say they must increase the salaries of these teachers is wrong. It is true they probably need it, some of them started in the low brackets and did not catch up with the others. But I still say we are wrong when we deliberately send a mandate back home and say, you shall do this. We do not care where or how you raise the money, but do it anyhow.

Mr. Speaker, I just cannot find my way clear to vote for this bill. I think it is bad legislation and, therefore, I am forced to vote against it.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to answer briefly the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Hocker, who just spoke. We have passed many, many times in this House bills to raise the pay and set the hours of policemen and firemen back home, which cost the municipalities a lot of money in many cases, and we did not provide the money for that. I do not doubt for an instant that in many cases it cost the municipalities a lot more money than the few thousand dollars it might cost each district to give this deserving class of teachers some greatly needed relief.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Columbia, Mr. Strausser.

The CHAIR. Will the gentleman from Columbia, Mr. Strausser, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STRAUSSER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know just what the need is for this particular bill? Just what are we trying to correct?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, we are trying to correct a situation wherein, as was brought out, a good many school teachers who started in a low bracket have not reached their maximum. This is simply to raise those teachers of 30 years experience or service. We are giving them $200 extra increment in order to bring them up to their maximum, frankly, with the idea that they will be in a position, to draw a decent retirement allowance.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Are there many teachers in the Commonwealth who have had 30 years of service and still are not at their maximum salary?

Mr. STRAUSSER. No. I do not know just how many, Mr. Speaker, but in my county I checked and there are 92 teachers who have taught 30 years, but I would say not all of these 92 would be eligible for a raise. In other words, some of them already have reached their maximum, or they are up to their grade now, so the total of 92 would not be involved.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I take it the gentleman does not know just how many of the 92 have reached their maximum and how many of them have not.

Mr. STRAUSSER. I am sorry, I cannot give you that answer.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Is this primarily designed to give them additional retirement benefits?

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is true, yes, sir.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Is that the primary purpose of the bill?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Yes, and also to give them a salary which would be equivalent to young teachers who are now starting at $3,000. They start at $3,000 now, and some of the younger teachers are getting more salary than the teachers who have already served their 30 years, or more.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Do I understand the gentleman to say there are teachers who have taught 30 years, or more, who are earning less than a starting teacher makes now?

Mr. STRAUSSER. No. I did not say that, Mr. Speaker. I said they are not up to younger teachers who have benefited. I think it was the 1949 Act which gave a $200 a year increase, but I would not put the new teachers in the bracket of receiving more salary than the older teachers. It is those who date back prior to 1949.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I desire to ask the gentleman whether if we were to grant them increases as we have done in the past on several occasions, and give them double increments, they would then get, in addition to the double increment, this $200. also.

Mr. STRAUSSER. I would say so.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Then it would be possible, if we increased the increments to $400, they would get an increase of $600 a year?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Not if they have reached their maximum.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I mean up until the time they have reached their maximum?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Yes, sir.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Each one of these increments remain and are added to each year?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Until the maximum is reached, that is right.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, for the information of the gentleman from Cambria, as Mr. Strausser has indicated, the primary purpose is to see that the teachers who are aged will have a base whereby they will have a decent retirement.

The figures I have before me indicate there are 3,600 teachers throughout the state of Pennsylvania who would be affected by this legislation. Many of these are receiving the same salaries today, after 30 years of service, as others who started only a year or two before.

The information I have received is that this is due primarily to the fact that when our new mandated salary schedules were enacted on a state level, no provision was made to place them on a new schedule with credit for years of experience.

We feel these teachers who have given 30 years of service are entitled to have a proper base so they will not have to come back here and ask for amendments to the Act in order to live. We feel it should receive the support of everybody who has an old-time teacher.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has said they were getting less than some teachers who started a year or two before. A year or two before what?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. The information I have received, and I quote from the State Education Association as follows:

> "Many teachers are receiving as a beginning salary this year as much as many of the teachers are receiving after long years of service."

The reason for that is this, from my understanding of the law many school districts receive a reimbursement fraction which enables them to use the money in any manner they desire. Instead of applying this money for the benefit of school teachers who have had years of service, the school boards have arbitrarily decided not to give them the benefit of the moneys they could so employ.

We feel the purpose of the act, although they are not required to do so, has been circumvented by school districts which receive aid from the state. We say we are placing this upon a local level. They have asked for aid from the state, let them do a job for the local teachers in the local method. That is the purpose of this bill.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, may I further interrogate the gentleman?

Can the gentleman tell us what the starting salary, or the minimum salary, was prior to 1955?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I have been advised that it was $2,400.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Does the gentleman know when that minimum salary was established?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I understand it was in 1949, before I was in the House.

Mr. LOPRESTI. In 1949. How many increments would they have had from 1949 until last year when the minimum was raised to $3,000?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. They would have had four.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I believe five.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Five, yes.

Mr. LOPRESTI. At least one of those was a double increment, was it not?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I believe so.

Mr. LOPRESTI. That would be six, so we have an increase of $1,200. How many teachers who have started since 1949 would be earning less than $3,000?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. These teachers did not start since 1949, these teachers were employed prior to 1949.

Mr. LOPRESTI. But those who were employed before 1949 would have to, at least, get the $2,400 minimum, plus the increments since that time?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. From my understanding of the law, that is not a fact. My understanding of the law is that in many school districts—and I believe one of the districts referred to me is in the gentleman's county—the school boards have not even been giving the benefit of the minimum to the old school teachers in the past. I may be wrong in identifying the county, so I will not identify the school district further.

Mr. LOPRESTI. As a point of information, is the gentleman indicating to me that even though we have fixed a $2,400 minimum salary there are districts which have not paid the $2,400 minimum?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. That is the starting salary.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Am I to understand, then, that there is a difference between a starting salary and a minimum salary?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. You have me there. I am not going to give you an answer, because I do not know.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I would like to know now. Iet us not misunderstand each other. I am not opposing this bill, I am just trying to find out what the bill proposes to do and what we are proposing to do. That is my only purpose in this interrogation. I am not opposed to it.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I will read you the letter I have from the Pennsylvania State Education Association, because I am interested in the bill and the purpose of this Association. I do not believe they would misrepresent things. The letter is as follows:

> "In brief, the purpose of this legislation is to take care of our older teachers salarywise who have had 30 or more years of teaching experience by granting them an extra increment of $200 until such time as they reach the mandated maximum. So the purpose of this bill is to enable them to reach the mandated maximum."

And as I indicated before, to give them the same basis as other teachers would have who started in 1949.

They do not have the mandated maximum, even though they were teaching prior to 1949. For your information, I believe as the years go by these teachers will retire and the burden upon local districts will decrease greatly from year to year.

Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I yield to Mr. Moscrip who will be able to give more details about the bill.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, yields to the gentleman from Bradford, Mr. Moscrip. Will the gentleman from Bradford permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOSCRIP. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOODLING, Mr. Speaker, I would like to question Mr. Goldstein on a statement he just made.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Bradford, Mr. Moscrip, yields to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, I may have misunderstood the gentleman, but did he say that there are school boards who are now receiving subsidies for teachers' salaries and then applying the money for some other purpose?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I did not say that. I said there are school boards, I am informed, who are receiving subsidies who do not apply this particular subsidy to teachers with thirty years' experience or more, so they would be in a bracket whereby they could get the mandated maximum. Otherwise, they have the funds and they have the money but they do not do it because they have discretion under the Act.

Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, to the best of my knowledge, a school board could not possibly do that because every penny that comes from the state must be accounted for in the auditor's return that comes back through the county office to the state office. I do not see that it would be possible to misappropriate any money.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I did not say they misappropriate money. I said they did not apply the money, which they would have available, toward having these older teachers get the mandated maximum. In other words, they used their discretion to keep them as low as possible.

Mr. GOOOLING. Thank you, Mr. Goldstein.

The gentleman certainly gave me an attorney's answer. He talked all around the question and he still has not answered it to my satisfaction.

I have been a school director for a good many years and I know something about the operation of the school districts back home. To the best of my knowledge, by and large, most of them are trying to do a good job so far as the teachers are concerned.

Until such time as this General Assembly or some session of the General Assembly gives us, as school directors, a different tax base, I do not believe we should put an additional burden on the people back home.

There is a bill in the Senate, as I understand, at the present time, which will change the tax base back home. If the school districts back home have additional taxing power, then I will be for this bill 100 percent. But as I stated, until such time as we give those people back home more taxing power, I will not vote to put an additional burden on the school districts.

Mr. MOSCRIP. Mr. Speaker, I think some of the confusion in the minds of the ladies and gentlemen of the House lies in the fact that for some years the actual market salary at which you could hire a teacher has been somewhat in excess of the minimum salary decreed by law.

As of today, that minimum salary is $3,000 and in a great many districts a teacher will not even look at you for less than $3,600. It was the same way when the base was $2,400, we were paying $3,000 and $3,200 for starting teachers.

The difficulty that arises with these thirty years of service teachers is that they started back sometime before the increments when they were small. I know it personally because I had jurisdiction of it. We had a case of a teacher who had taught upward of 30 years and was drawing $3,700 a year, and we were hiring new people out of normal school who were just average—because that is all the market had to offer—for $3,200.

I think it is obvious that such a condition creates a morale factor with our older teachers. Our older teachers are the backbone of the faculty. I think they have a meritorious cause. As this thing progresses, it will gradually taper off, because as each teacher reaches the ceiling decreed by law, the board is no longer under any obligation to pay the increment.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. MOODY filed the following reasons for his vote on House Bill No. 347:

I am voting against this bill for the reason that I do not believe that additional increments for teachers should be legislated until such time as legislation is enacted, similar to that provided in House Bill No. 54, which provides for additional reimbursement for the transportation of children residing less than one and a half miles from the school where existing traffic conditions are extremely hazardous and the lives of young school children are imperiled by such hazardous conditions.

In the past I have supported additional increments for school teachers and will do so in the future when warranted. But in order to focus attention on what I consider a most essential piece of legislation for the safety and welfare of our school children, I feel impelled to vote in the negative.

Mr. DAVIS filed the following reasons for his vote on House Bill No. 347:

Mr. Speaker, it was attempted earlier to amend this bill so that its costs to third and fourth class districts would be integrated into the state aid system.

It became apparent that such an amendment would have no chance of carrying at this time.

Such districts as are found in Forest County cannot support the increased payments under this bill.

However, I am personally deeply interested and concerned in the problem of increased teachers' salaries. Particularly in the cases covered by this bill—teachers of long service faithfully rendered who will otherwise retire at a real disadvantage.

Rather than vote against this bill at this time, I have decided to support it, having reason to believe that it will be later amended to bring it under the state aid formula, in the Senate or in conference.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 395, entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) providing for approval to erect traffic signs and changing the definition of the term "school zone."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. BRENNINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the third reading postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Session 1957. 142nd of the General Assembly.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1957. No. 32.

SENATE

TUESDAY, April 2, 1957.

The Senate met at 1:30 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. J. B. WILLIAMS, Pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Harrisburg, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Eternal God, Thou hast commanded us to seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and then Thou hast made us a promise that if our hearts and minds and souls and wills were thus dedicated, we should receive as dividends the very things we seek, an abundant ministry unto all our needs. Help us, O God, to believe this. Help us to practice it that we may find ourselves that the promise is true, that all of our needs are met and supplied in Thee.

Teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom. The time of life is short and to spend this shortness basely, it were too long. Since, O God, we do not know how much time we have left, help us to use wisely our time, our talent and our strength.

Save us from the vain delusion that the piling up of wealth and power will bring peace of mind and soul: that we can feed our souls on things. Save these, thy servants, these men who have been chosen by their fellows to serve in this Senate. Save them from the tyranny of the nonessentials, from the weary round of that which saps the strength, frays the nerves, shortens life and adds nothing to their usefulness to Thee and to this State. May they give themselves to the important and may they recognize the trivial when they see it. Let them feel Thy presence and be ever conscious of the time when they must stand before Thee and give an accounting of their stewardship.

We beg it in Thy name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. MAHANY and Mr. WOLFE, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

They are accompanied by their teachers, Miss Grace Henderson and Miss Sarah Mischlich.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair, on behalf of the Members of the Senate, welcome the seventy pupils from Maytown, together with their teachers. We sincerely trust that you will have both an informative and an interesting visit with the Senate of Pennsylvania.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. PECHAN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 520, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 22, 1931 (P. L. 594), entitled "Rural State Highway Law," adding a route in Butler County.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHANY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I am about to introduce a bill on explosives and blasting operations. I want the Chair, and my colleagues in the Senate, to note that the sponsors of this bill are Senator Wade, Senator Dent and myself.

I think the bill is very well sponsored to accomplish any blasting operations and, therefore, I hope the committee to which you refer this bill will give it due consideration.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. MAHANY, DENT and WADE read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 521, entitled:

An Act regulating the use of explosives in certain blasting operations; requiring examination and licensing of certain explosives, detonators and prescribing the fee thereof, and conferring powers and imposing duties on the Department of Labor and Industry.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 523, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for the maintenance of the Einstein Medical Center.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Messrs. DONOLOW, MAHANY, DENT and CHAPMAN read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 524, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 31, 1949 (P. L. 372), entitled "The General State Authority Act of 1949" empowering the Authority to construct additions and improvements to medical colleges receiving State aid; authorizing contracts to lease and leases by Department of Public Instruction from the Authority of any additions or improvements to medical colleges receiving State aid and the furnishings and equipment thereof when used or occupied, and authorizing subleases of such projects.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Messrs. RUTH and VAN SANT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 525, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) entitled "Public School Code of 1949," providing for the expansion and development of educational services performed by the office of the county superintendent of schools, and for liaisons between local administrative units and the Department of Public Instruction; providing for the formation and operation of intermediate school service areas and officers and agencies thereof; prescribing their powers, duties and obligations and those of school districts, county boards of school directors, county superintendents and their staffs, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the State Council of Education; providing for Commonwealth reimbursements; and imposing obligations on counties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Messrs. MURRAY, KALMAN, YOSKO and LANE read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 526, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 2, 1915 (P. L. 736) entitled, as amended "The Pennsylvania Workmen's Compensation Act," changing provisions relating to benefits and rates and "earning power."

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

They also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 527, entitled:

An Act amending the act of December 5, 1936 (1937 P. L. 2897) entitled "Unemployment Compensation Law," redefining "unemployed" and "valid application for benefits" and changing provisions with respect to eligibility for compensation and benefits.

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

Messrs. MURRAY, McMENAMIN, YOSKO, KALMAN and LANE read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 528, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 21, 1939 (P. L. 566) entitled "The Pennsylvania Occupational Disease Act," changing provisions relating to benefits and rates and "earning power."

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the first bill I am introducing and presenting to the Chair is on behalf of Senator Pechan, Senator Wade and myself, and it deals with highway safety.

Mr. President, there has been a great increase in the number of trailers and tandem, two-wheeled carriers being hauled over the roads of Pennsylvania and every other State by regular commercial vehicles. Most of them are not equipped with the proper type of rear view mirrors which extend far enough from the bodies of the cars to clear the obstruction caused by the vehicles they are hauling. A great number of the cars—and we noticed this on trips, and particularly last Sunday when Senator Pechan and I, in driving the length of the Turnpike, made it our business to pay particular attention to this particular item about which I am talking,—which were dragging trailers behind them had absolutely no type of rear view mirror on the outside of the vehicle. The vehicle that they were hauling at the time extended higher than the rear view window.

Therefore, Mr. President, we believe it imperative to the safety of the users of our highways that this particular bill be introduced and passed at this time.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. DENT, PECHAN and WADE read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 529, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code," further regulating the use of mirrors.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DENT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to introduce a series of four bills. These bills deal with the subject matter that I discussed on the floor yesterday.

After going over the constitutional provisions, I find that there is an absolute restriction in the Constitution regarding the imposition of the tax by Senate legislation. However, the Supreme Court has taken a view, which is apparently in controversy with the Constitutional view, in that Legislatures in the past have passed tax legislation starting in the Senate, and then when the Supreme Court reviewed this particular legislation, on the basis of its constitutionality, it took the position that the question of constitutionality was not one properly raised inasmuch as they would not go behind the action of the Legislature.

However, Mr. President, these particular bills that I am introducing I think come within the prescription of the Constitution as well as the opinions handed down by the Supreme Court, in that they amend existing law which is now in effect. They do not add any further burden of taxation, but aim at distributing the tax which is now upon the books, if that tax is kept. The question of whether or not that tax is still on the books canot be resolved by the fact that this Legislature passed a repealing act within the last week or so, because that act has not yet been signed by the Governor. Therefore, it has no standing in law.

Mr. President, before I introduce these bills, I want to clearly state to the Senate exactly what they do. I might also say that I have discussed them with the Governor and the Governor said that if we take either one of the two forms which I am introducing today, handling this extra penny or so-called disaster penny in gasoline taxes. he would consider very much signing it. I believe that is tantamount to a promise of signature.

The one set of bills takes the fifty-six and one-half millions of dollars raised by this one cent extra of gasoline tax and proportions it out in this manner. It takes $20,000,000 or as much as is needed of the $20,000,000, added to the twenty per cent of the four and one-half cent regular gasoline tax in the Commonwealth, and returns it to the local communities, to make a total return to the local communities in Pennsylvania of $72,000,000. This amounts to $12,000,000 more than the $60,000,000 given out this biennium, and amounts to $20,000,000 more than would be available for the local communities if the present Act, which is lying on the Governor's desk, is signed.

That $20,000,000 is much needed by the local communities. I think every person in this room has full knowledge of the dire need for State moneys on the local base.

In support of this, Mr. President, I might say to you that the Legislature in New York quit on Friday of last week. One of the outstanding Acts which the New York Legislature passed was that they allowed the city of New York to eliminate their five and ten dollar registration tax on automobiles in the city of New York, which includes the five boroughs comprising the city, and are giving back to the City of New York twenty-five per cent of all of the gasoline taxes collected within the five boroughs. They recognized the need for returning to local communities a greater share of the centrally collected taxes in order that they may survive in this battle against the increasing number of vehicles on our city streets and country roads.

The balance of the money is then divided up into a series of divisions which are made according to need. The next bite which will be taken out of the fifty-six and one-half million, after the $20,000,000 is taken out, will be used to repair and rebuild any roads or bridges during the lifetime of the Act which are damaged by flood. The next bite out of the Act will be used to build roadside parks along our highways in the Commonwealth. The next bite out of the $56,000,000 will be used to retire the debt service of the Pennsylvania Highways Department. The residue of the fifty-six and one-half million dollars will be used primarily and exclusively upon the Pennsylvania 100 per cent owned and operated highways, totaling some 20,000 miles of secondary roads in this Commonwealth which receive no Federal aid nor any kind of subsidy whatsoever. They are the direct responsibility of the Legislature and the Department of Highways.

These are the roads that have been suffering over the years. These are the farm to market roads. These are the roads that feed, like spokes, into the hubs of great business activity in our various communities. These are the roads that we have to maintain and build and keep in repair by exclusive expenditure of our own moneys. This penny tax, then, would be serving specific needs that come up every two years in this Legislature. It would eliminate the need of so-called disaster funds. It would eliminate the need of introduction of legislation in each and every Legislative Session to take care of road damages and highway damages caused by floods. It would also eliminate the need of trading back to the State certain local roads before you can have a local road put upon the State's system. These are important; they are vital; they are noteworthy and they are making a step toward setting up a program which will allow the local communities to live and which will also take care of much needed service on the Pennsylvania highways.

The second set of bills, Mr. President, takes the entire cent and puts it into a special fund to be added to any amount required from the regular gasoline tax to make a total of $72,000,000 to be returned to the local communities.

I want to say to the Members of the Senate that I know it is not a good political gesture for any person to stand up, after a bill has been passed cutting one cent from gasoline, and ask for a cent to be added to it. I want to say to you that I am doing it on the basis of a personal belief that this is not only needed at this time, but will be needed even more so two years from now.

I want to also say to the Republican Members of the Senate that this makes the one cent a permanent tax. Your action last week in cutting off the so-called emergency cent, in my opinion, puts you in this position; that you are denying to this Administration the much needed moneys to do certain specific services and perform certain specific acts which are required in the Department of Highways. Just as sure as we are sitting in this room today, come January 1, 1959, if you elect a Republican Governor, you will be asking us to vote for an additional cent on gasoline. That fact is as sure as the fact that tomorrow will be another day.

I am saying to you today that I am sponsoring this legislation today, which means that I favor it, because of the need. However, I take the position that it is needed as much today as it will be needed two years from now. I promise you that I will oppose vigorously, and with every ounce of strength at my command, any attempt by your side to add the one cent two years from now if you refuse now to give the money when it is needed.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. Dent read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 530, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1944), entitled "An Act providing a permanent allocation of a part of the fuels and liquid fuels tax proceeds to cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships, for their road, street and bridge purposes; . . ." further providing for the allocation of certain additional taxes and making a conditional appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 531, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1944) entitled "An act providing a permanent allocation of a part of the fuels and liquids fuels tax proceeds to cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships, for their road, street and bridge purposes; . . .," providing for a temporary allocation of certain temporary taxes for certain State purposes, and making a conditional appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 532, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1931 (P. L. 149), entitled, as amended "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act," extending and naming an additional tax for a limited period.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 533, entitled:

An Act amending the act of January 14, 1952 (P. L. 1965), entitled as amended "Fuel Use Tax Act," extending and naming an additional tax for a limited period.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

REQUEST FOR PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, it is a very unusual occurrence that two Senators should make preliminary remarks on a bill.

Senator Dent just finished what I thought was a masterpiece, in length anyway, for the preliminary remarks on a bill before it was introduced. Usually we reserve the debate and all our ammunition for these bills either when they come out and appear on the calendar, or if they do not come out, on motions to discharge the committees.

If the Senator would assure me that his remarks are going to be very brief, say within a minute, I might go along with him. If we are going to have to listen to another speech of long duration, one that is going to clutter up the record for no particular purpose, I would object to it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears a qualified objection.

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, if the Majority Leader objects to my few remarks at this time, in order that the decorum of this Body will not be affected and that the Republican Majority Leader will be contented, I will withdraw making any remarks now. I will rise on Personal Privileges later on.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. WALKER and WHALLEY read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 534, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 15, 1933 (P. L. 796), entitled, as amended "An act providing for the preservation of the records or photographic film reproductions, or photographic or photostatic copies thereof, of banks, bank and trust companies, trust companies, savings banks, private banks, and national banking associations; . . . ," providing further for the preservation of records.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, one of the leading citizens of Pihladelphia in the mid-nineteenth century was Moses Aaron Dropsie. He was the Republican Mayor then of a hamlet down in the county of Philadelphia, known as Northern Liberties. He was one of the first Lincoln-electors who influenced this election of Lincoln as the Republican standard bearer, and he was instrumental in the campaign that was successful in the election of Lincoln.

Upon his death, he left all his fortune as an endowment for the establishment of an institute of higher learning, known now as Dropsie College, which is located in the city of Philadelphia in my Senatorial District.

During the last fifty years, Dropsie College has served as a seat of higher learning which has attracted scholars from all over the world. He stipulated in his will that there should be no discrimination in admitting students to Dropsie College—and it is free of any tuition—on account of race, color, religion or sex. Now they are celebrating their fiftieth anniversary, the jubilee year of the existence of Dropsie College.

During World War II, Dropsie College trained many servants in the United States foreign service, who were sent far into different countries to represent the United States. I feel that we should all be proudly appreciative of the cultural contributions of Dropsie College to the cultural progress of Pennsylvania and the Nation.

Accordingly, Mr. President, I am presenting this resolution.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE DROPSIE COLLEGE UPON THEIR FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY, AND RECOMMENDING THAT THE GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA ISSUE A PROCLAMATION

Mr. STIEFEL offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, April 2, 1957.

Proudly appreciative of Pennsylvania's leadership in the vanguard of America's cultural advancement along ever-ascending paths of progress, the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania notes with great pride and gratification that The Dropsie College for Hebrew and Cognate Learning in the City of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania, is presently celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of its existence under the Charter conferred upon it by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

An exclusively graduate institution leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, it is non-professional and non-sectarian, its sole aim being to advance knowledge and truth.

During an era which has marked the decline of humanistic studies in favor of the sciences which undergird the mechanistic structure of present-day civilization, The Dropsie College has developed those areas of study which gave the world religion, ethics and a way of life, rooted in faith, social justice and righteousness.

Founded by Moses Aaron Dropsie, an eminent citizen and lawyer born and all his life resident in the County of Philadelphia, Mayor of Northern Liberties, then a municipality in the County of Philadelphia and one of the Lincoln-Electors, The Dropsie College was designated by him to be permanently situated in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and he furthermore directed "That in the admission of students there shall be no distinction on account of creed, color or sex."

During the half-century of its chartered existence, The Dropsie College has gained renown throughout the world of scholarship and enhanced the scholarly fame and the cultural standards of our Commonwealth.

The Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania notes with particular interest and gratification the far-visioned policies of the Board of Governors and of the Faculty of The Dropsie College in pioneering through its Institute for Israel and the Middle East in the training of qualified personnel for United States Government Service, and for work in those countries in behalf of American social agencies, industry and commerce.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania greets and congratulates The Dropsie College for its manifold contributions to the enlightment and the cementing of human brotherhood and because of its unique role among the institutions of higher learning in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, of which our citizenry is rightly proud and hails with pride and satisfaction the Jubilee year of this distinguished institution.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Senate of the General Assembly shall respectfully recommend and does hereby recommend to His Excellency the Governor of Pennsylvania to issue a Proclamation on May 22, 1957, the day the Jubilee festivities will reach the point of culmination, expressing to the Governors and the faculty of The Dropsie College the appreciation of the people of Pennsylvania for the far-reaching influence of The Dropsie College in the cultural endeavors of our State and Nation.

REQUEST THAT RULE 39 BE SUSPENDED

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I am certainly not opposed to congratulating a college such as this. However, I do not know very much about it and I do not believe many of my colleagues know too much about it.

Inasmuch as this resolution refers to certain policies and so forth, I think it might be better, before we ask our colleagues to vote for something in the dark, to have a committee check this and go over it with Senator Stiefel. Thereafter, if they are agreed that the things set forth in here are in line with our thinking, and perhaps they are, then I would suggest to the committee that it report this resolution out as soon as possible.

I object to its immediate consideration at this time and ask that it be referred to committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution, and refers the resolution to the Committee on Education.

SENATE RESOLUTIONS

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO HERMAN BASHORE AND HIS COMMITTEE IN CONNECTION WITH THE ANNUAL MAPLE FESTIVAL OF SOMERSET COUNTY

Mr. WALKER, on behalf of Mr. WHALLEY, offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 2, 1957.

The annual maple festival of Somerset County will take place in Meyersdale, Pennsylvania, April 4, 5 and 6.

This annual affair, which started ten years ago as a local celebration, is now one of the most important festivals conducted in Pennsylvania. Special trainloads of interested persons make it their mecca when the dates of the celebration are announced by the committee.

The festivities, including parades, dancing, and other entertainment are climaxed with the crowning of a lovely queen and the naming of the king whose maple products carry off top honors.

Observances such as this; small communities holding affairs which attract thousands of persons from all parts of this Commonwealth, are examples of why Pennsylvania is a great State.

We salute the maple industry in this State and recognize the salutary effect it has on the economic progress of that portion of this State in the vicinity of Somerset County and the Commonwealth in general; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania, in recognition of their efforts, incidental to the annual maple festival of Somerset County, in making it a nationally known celebration, congratulates Herman Baseshore, and his committee; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania extends its best wishes and continued success to those persons interested in the maple industry; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Herman Bashore.

URGING THE DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS TO MODERNIZE AND IMPROVE THE LINCOLN HIGHWAY BETWEEN FORT LOUDEN AND LIGONIER

Messrs. WALKER and WHALLEY offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, April 2, 1957.

An important link in the Lincoln Highway which extends from the east coast of the United States to the west coast, a distance of upwards of three thousand miles, lies in Pennsylvania and forms a part of our highway system.

Those portions of the highway between Philadelphia and Fort Louden and between Pittsburgh and Ligonier are a credit to our highway system because of the improvements made to them and the manner in which they are maintained.

The bottleneck in this wonderful highway lies between Fort Louden and Ligonier. This portion of the highway traversing Somerset, Bedford and Fulton Counties crosses the mountains and is in serious need of improvement.

Modernizing and improving this portion of the highway would result in an excellent alternate highway in the event of war or sabotage whereby the seven tunnels on the Pennsylvania Turnpike would be made impassable.

Modernizing this stretch of highway of approximately ninety miles would eliminate travelling hazards and would make more enjoyable and facilitate vehicular traffic over the beautiful scenic mountains; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania urges the Department of Highways to exert every possible effort to modernize and improve that portion of the Lincoln Highway between Fort Louden and Ligonier; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Honorable Joseph J. Lawler, Secretary of Highways.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

CALLING ON THE DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS TO MAKE CERTAIN CHANGES ON ROUTE 219 IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

Messrs. WALKER and WHALLEY offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, April 2, 1957.

The north-south highway system through central Pennsylvania is totally inadequate for this industrial community. The area comprising Meyersdale, Somerset, Bedford, Johnstown, Altoona, Punxsutawney, DuBois, Ridgway, Kane and Bradford, is served by one major highway, Route 219. This route is circuitous and over a narrow road badly in need of repairs.

Any one traveling from Somerset or Bedford to the Pennsylvania-New York border directly north, must travel east or west 125 to 150 miles before finding a highway suitable to his need.

With the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, the central part of Pennsylvania will be teaming with industrial activity and vehicular traffic.

In order that this great Commonwealth may meet the challenge and opportunity for industrial progress, a modern direct highway is needed from Meyersdale to Bradford; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania call upon the Department of Highways:

(1) To make a study in conjunction with the Department of Commerce of the prospective industrial effect the St. Lawrence Seaway will have upon the area between Meyersdale and Bradford.

(2) To survey the area served by route 219 with the prospect of rebuilding that road into a modern high speed highway for the purpose of aiding industrial development in central Pennsylvania and linking it with the highways leading to the ports in the Great Lakes and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Honorable Joseph J. Lawler, Secretary of Highways.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

WOMEN'S COMMITTEE OF THE LEHIGH COUNTY PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS' ASSOCIATION PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I have the pleasure of introducing to my colleagues in the Senate today, a group of rural ladies from Lehigh County who are members of the Women's Committee of the Lehigh County Pennsylvania Farmers' Association. They are seated in the balcony.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, the Chair is very happy to recognize the Women's Committee of the Lehigh County Pennsylvania Farmers' Association and we trust you will have a pleasant and informative visit in the Senate of Pennsylvania today.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

RECESS

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I request a half-hour recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Republican Caucus an da Democratic Caucus. The Republican Members will meet in the Senate Republican Caucus Room downstairs, the Democrats, I understand, would like to meet in the conference room at the rear of the Senate, which is sometimes designated as the "love nest."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objections, and declares a thirty minute recess.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE ASSOCIATED SETTLEMENT AND COMMUNITY CENTERS OF PHILADELPHIA PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, we are honored today by a visit of representatives of the Associated Settlement and Community Centers, from Philadelphia. They came to Harrisburg for the sole purpose of seeing our government in action. It is a very commendable example that deserves emulation by other groups, because these people came to ask nothing and to demand nothing. They came here just to see how their representatives are working.

Therefore, Mr. President, it is my privilege to present to you this group from Philadelphia.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair, on behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, wishes to welcome the visitors of Senator Stiefel, from Philadelphia. We hope you will have an interesting and informative visit with the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 425 (Pink), on third reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 734, entitled:

A Supplement to the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) known as "The Administrative Code of 1929" regulating expenditures and commitments by administrative bodies boards and commissions from the General Fund during a portion of each biennium.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, it is useless for us to take up the time of the Senate by speaking in opposition to this piece of legislation if you, on the Republican side have caucused in favor of the bill. However, arguments were made against the bill in the House of Representatives. I have before me a considerable amount of literature which was sent to us by various departments of Government in opposition to this particular piece of legislation.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am calling upon the Members on the Democratic side of the Senate to vote unanimously "no" in regard to the passage of this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27

Berger,	Kessler,	Propert,	Walker,
Blass,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Scott,	Watkins,
Chapman,	Kromer,	Stevenson,	Watson,
Ehrgood,	Madigan,	Taylor,	Whalley,

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

REQUEST THAT BILL GO OVER IN ORDER

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 204, Printer's No. 135, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I object to this bill being put over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears objection to the bill going over in its order.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I do not know whether Senator Pechan realizes that Senator Hays is having amendments prepared, which he would like to offer to this bill. If he did not realize that, perhaps he would reconsider his decision, and at least wait to look at the amendments that Senator Hays is preparing.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, in answer to Senator Seyler, I might say that I will not object tomorrow to having Senator Hays offer those amendments.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, did I understand that the gentleman will not object tomorrow to having those amendments offered?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. As the Chair understands Senator Pechan, he will not object to the offering of amendments tomorrow. He does not, however, agree to support the amendments. Is that correct, Senator Pechan?

Mr. PECHAN. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, Senator Hays feels that will be satisfactory.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I now move that House Bill No. 204, Printer's No. 135, on second reading, go over in its order.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. Persident, I second the motion.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I would like to second that motion that the bill go over in its order until Monday.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SEYLER and Mr. LANE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—28

Barr,	Hays,	Murray,	Stiefel,
Camiel,	Kalman,	Pechan,	Taylor,
Dent,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Propert,	Wade,
Derk,	Lane,	Ruth,	Watkins,
Donolow,	McGinnis,	Sarraf,	Watson,

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 112, TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I call from the table Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 112.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

JOINT COMMITTEE TO STUDY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS OF STATE TEACHERS COLLEGES AND RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY OUT OF STATE CONSULTANTS

In the Senate, March 11, 1957.

Whereas, the General State Authority has adopted construction projects at several of the State Teachers Colleges of the Commonwealth, and

Whereas, the Department of Public Instruction has employed consultants from outside the Commonwealth to survey said State Teachers Colleges, and

Whereas, recommendations are being made to the Superintendent of Public Instruction which are impractical and impossible of accomplishment, and

Whereas, this has resulted in unnecessary delay in making critically needed repairs and expansions for a long period of time after money has been made available for this purpose, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur) that a committee be appointed, three by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and three by the Speaker of the House, to make a study of this matter and report to the Legislative not later than May 1, 1957, in order that this unfortunate situation may be corrected.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 112, AMENDED

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, I offer the following amendments to this resolution, which was introduced by Senator Harney and Senator Madigan on March 11, 1957.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend second paragraph of preamble, line 2 by striking out "from outside the Commonwealth"; Amend third paragraph of preamble, line 2 by inserting after "are"; "deemed"; Amend resolution, lines 1 to 6 of resolution, by striking out all of said lines and inserting in lieu thereof:

"Resolved, That the Senate Committee on Education be directed to confer with the Department of Public Instruction, its Superintendent and all personnel concerned, to ascertain and resolve the issues involved; and be it further

"Resolved, That the committee make a report of their findings and recommendations to the Senate on or before May 1, 1957."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution, as amended, will lie over for printing.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Robert D. Fleming) in the Chair

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I feel that I am compelled at this time to make an explanation as to a committee which was appointed by the President pro tempore at the last Session of the Legislature, as a result of a resolution which was passed unanimously on the floor for the examination of the activity of boxing in Pennsylvania. I know that from time to time we have read articles in the newspapers, calling the attention of the public in Pennsylvania to what has happened to that investigation. I feel that the people of Pennsylvania, Mr. President, at this time are entitled to an explanation.

The members of the committee, who were appointed by the President pro tempore, consisted of Senator Watkins, Senator Van Sant, Senator Kopriver, Senator Di-Silvestro and myself. That committee, in all fairness, decided not to have any sort of an examination of boxing until after the last election. We did not feel that it should become involved in an election which was taking place in Pennsylvania and in the Nation.

After the election, Mr. President, the committee was polled by Senator Watkins and we all agreed that in order to undertake a successful examination of boxing in Pennsylvania, it would be necessary that this committee have funds. It was unanimously decided by all the members that when we came back to this Session of the Legislature, we would introduce a bill calling for the allocation of some $20,000 in order for this project to be undertaken.

I may say to the Members of the Senate at this time that we are going to draw up such a bill. We hope to secure the approval of both the House and Senate in order to have an examination of boxing in Pennsylvania in the past and its lack of activity in the present.

Mr. President, I have used the word "examination" because that is exactly what we intend to do. This committee is not for the purpose of investigating. We are not looking for any victims. We are trying to find an answer or a solution to a problem which faces us.

Therefore, Mr. President, I feel that this explanation should take any sort of suspicion off of the members of the committee that there was any idea in our minds that we were attempting to forget about this examination. It shall be forthcoming at the earliest possible time when we get our appropriation.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, just as a matter of a prelude to what I intend saying within the next few days, I am rather astonished by the publicity which is given to some fellows who hail from the fringe of lunacy.

These hearings, which are being held before the committee that is examining the Board of Pardons, have many quasi-lunatics appearing there and just consuming a lot of paper and a lot of time without producing anything.

Preparatory to what I am going to say, either tomorrow or Monday, I do express my hope that the hearings will be brought up to a finer plane of decency and respect than listening to people who, perhaps, should be sent to an insane asylum rather than appear before a committee.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, the statement just made by Senator Stiefel is about as clear as mud. Whatever he has to say, I wish he would say it now in order for us to understand what he is driving at.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I read in the newspapers that an attorney from one of the neighboring counties of Philadelphia appeared before the committee and he spoke, and apparently the members of the committee are highly tolerant when they listen to matters which are unimportant and matters which should never have even been heard. This fellow, a practicing attorney, tried to impute to the Board certain political inclinations, maintaining that in the good, olden times, before the present Administration, he was favored. Now he has lost one case after another. For his information, Mr. President, and to show him that things do not work that way, I am happy to state—I say I am happy and I say it emphatically—that I lost five cases in succession. Yet, I do not blame the Board of being partisan. The fact that you lose cases before the Board of Pardons does not necessarily indicate that it is acting with political inclinations. However, he tried to create that impression.

During the course of the hearing, this attorney, one of Senator Propert's constituents, said that he saw me there several times. In other words, it is now a sin to appear or even be present in the room where the hearings are held, lest you be accused of trying to curry favors with the Board. According to these gentlemen, we are gradually approaching the police state where whatever you do militates against you. My very presence before the Board, in the capacity of an attorney—I was representing one of my clients—was already interpreted as though I was interceding on behalf of somebody. I want to say that the intercession on behalf of somebody, when you write a letter to the Board, is nothing because that is expected of us.

After all, in my opinion, although I voted for the resolution, this is a blunder of the first magnitude. Who can assay and who can measure leniency, clemency and mercy?

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STIEFEL. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. YOSKO. Senator Stiefel, the attorney who testified before the Board did not complain too much about your appearing before the Pardons Board with cases you might have. If my memory serves me correctly, he testified that there was political influence exerted on the Board while it was conducting hearings on applications. When he was pressed to give us the names of the so-called politicians who were up in the anteroom, outside the Pardons Board hearing room, he named you as one of the so-called politicians who was supposed to be up there putting pressure on the Board.

I ask you, Senator Stiefel, have you ever campaigned or tried to put pressure on any member of any Board of Pardons to act favorably or unfavorably on an application pending before it?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am glad that Senator Yosko presented that question. I would say that if I would be successful in prevailing upon the members of the Board, I would not have lost the cases which I did. I took it on the chin and I kept quiet. I did win one case, I think it was won by former Judge Schaeffer, from Reading, who came to testify. Perhaps, if it would not have been for the presence of Judge Shaeffer, I would have lost that case, too.

Furthermore, Mr. President, there is one thing for which I am very thankful and that is this Mr. Smith, who appeared before the committee, never received so much publicity in his life. The Philadelphia Bulletin and the Philadelphia Inquirer gave full front pages to Mr. Smith's ravings. Anyway, some people considered me, until now, as a statesman. During the recent campaign, when I ran for re-election, that charge was hurled at me. They said I was a statesman and not a politician. Now that I have either been demoted or promoted to the rank of a politician, I am very happy.

Mr. YOSKO. Senator Stiefel, you did not answer my question. It can be answered with a "yes" or "no." My question was, did you ever campaign in the anteroom, outside the Supreme Court room, where the Board of Pardons meets? Did you every try in that anteroom to exert pressure on any member of any Board of Pardons to act favorably or unfavorably on an application pending before the Board?

Mr. STIEFEL. I never did, Mr. President. I would say this, however, if anybody would come to me and would say, "Would you kindly write a letter to the members of the Board asking for mercy and clemency for my son or for my brother," or whoever it may be, I would be only too glad to write the letter. I would not consider this to be a transgression. I believe, I maintain, I submit, I underscore and I stress that when it comes to questions of clemency or mercy, there can be no imputation of politics and no imputation of slanted attitudes. Mercy and clemency are above that.

For this reason, Mr. President, I maintain that this entire expedition, known as the investigation of the Darcy case, is the matter of a fishing expedition and groping in the dark.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STIEFEL. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WATKINS. Senator Stiefel, you referred to a neighboring county. May I ask you, Senator, what county you referred to and what case?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, when I say neighboring county, I am not referring to Delaware County because Delaware County is above any reproach, and the fact that I refer to Montgomery County should not militate against that county. The fact that Mr. Smith happens to live in Montgomery county should not militate against it

Mr. WATKINS. Thank you, Senator, as long as you are not trading in my County it is all right.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, this particular attorney,—pardon me, I am afraid I will involve now Senator Harney—is from Chester County. Furthermore, once upon a time I spent two of my most pleasant years in Delaware County, and I am very fond of it. I am very fond of Brandywine, and I am very fond of the "Baron of Brandywine," my friend, Senator Watkins.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, April 3, 1957, at 10:00 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 4:58 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Wednesday, April 3, 1957, at 10:00 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, April 2, 1957

The House met at 1:00 p. m.
The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Thomas F. Luce, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Kittanning, guest Chaplain and guest of the Speaker, Mr. Helm, offered the following prayer:

O Lord, Thou hast searched us, and known us. Thou understandest our thoughts afar off. Thou art acquainted with all our ways. Whither could we go from Thy Spirit, or whither flee from Thy presence? Surely, O God, Thou art in this place.

Grant that Thy light within us may enable us to live this day in honesty with ourselves and in charity with our neighbors. Help us to know ourselves more truly; to discern our motives more clearly; and to be ready to admit that we can do neither of these things completely. Give us the grace to seek Thy forgiveness and the healing which it brings. and then to walk and talk and think as children of the light.

Keep us, O Lord, from straining and embittering our earthly relationships; and grant us, we beseech Thee, a courteous and forbearing spirit, so that we may be makers of peace.

So grant such a blessing to the members of this House this day, that the cause of peace and justice may be furthered in our Commonwealth by their labors. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, April 1, 1957 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mrs. MARKLEY and Mr. STECKEL.

RESOLUTION No. 74.

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1957.

Congratulations are certainly in order for the Fountain Hill High School backetball team upon winning the State Class B basketball championship. The "Hillers" won by defeating a scrappy Shannock Valley High quintet, holder of the WPIAL "B" title, and a team undefeated in twenty-six contests prior to the championship game. The final game, played on Friday, March 29th at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pennsylvania, ended in a 72-64 victory for Fountain Hill.

Fountain Hill, a small community in the Lehigh Valley, was full of admiration for their team, and rightly so. Under the brilliant coaching of Charlie Dubbs, the team had achieved perfection in their class for the second year in a row. Last season the "Hillers" won the State crown by downing East Pittsburgh. This year more than 3,800 spectators saw the Lehigh-Northampton League Champion roar into the lead against the Spartans of Shannock Valley and hold it all the way to the championship.

The spectacular teamwork and excellent sportsmanship which the team displayed throughout the season culminated in this great victory and earned them the admiration of all. Without the support of the entire student body and the teaching staff such a championship would not be possible; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extends its warmest congratulations to the students, the teaching staff, the coaches, and above all the basketball team of Fountain Hill School upon winning the P.I.A.A. Class B State Basketball Championship, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Fountain Hill High School.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. TOMPKINS. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 75.

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1957.

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the second Resolved Clause of House Resolution No. 1, Printer's No. 8, Session of 1957, is amended to read:

Resolved, That said joint committee shall make its report to the respective branches of the General Assembly within a period not to exceed [sixty] ninety days.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I rise to a parliamentary inuqiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, under House Rule 49 which governs the House today is it not the Rule that where a bill has been defeated one similar in character cannot be introduced during the same session?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, raises a very important question of parliamentary inquiry.

> "When a bill has been defeated by the House it shall not be re-introduced, nor shall it be in order to consider a similar one or act on a Senate bill of like import during the same session."

There has been no change of substance in this Rule over old House Rule No. 60.

It has been the practice of the House where a bill has been rejected, that the same bill cannot be again introduced, but a new bill which really presents a different question for the decision of the House on the same subject in a modified form may be introduced.

Points of order on similarity of bills previously defeated during the same session have been raised since 1865. In most instances the Speaker has submitted the question to the House for decision.

However, since the creation of the Legislative Reference Bureau, the legal arm of the General Assembly, where the question of re-introduction of identical or similar bills is raised, the Speaker has requested the Bureau to examine the bills and report to the House its findings, after which the question whether the bill violates the Rule or not is submitted to the House.

Does that answer the gentleman's question?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. It does, Mr. Speaker.

I would request that you refer to the Legislative Reference Bureau the question as to whether the introduction of House Bill 904 violates Rule No. 49, inasmuch as it seems to be identical or similar in character to House Bill No. 97, which was defeated on March 12th of this year.

The SPEAKER. House Bill No. 904 will be submitted to the Legislative Reference Bureau for a report on its findings concerning the question raised.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Thank you Mr. Speaker.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 216, entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Administrative Code of 1929" entitled "* * *" empowering the chairman of the Board of Finance and Revenue to appoint a secretary and make certain rules and regulations

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Section 1 (Section 405), page 3, line 3, by striking out the brackets before and after "board"

Amend Section 1 (Section 405), page 3, line 3, by striking out "chairman"

Amend Section 1 (Section 405), page 3, line 3, by striking out the brackets before and after "elect"

Amend Section 1 (Section 405), page 3, line 3, by striking out "appoint"

Amend Section 1 (Section 405), page 3, line 5, by striking out the brackets before and after "its"

Amend Section 1 (Section 405), page 3, line 5, by striking out "the board's"

Amend Section 1 (Section 405), page 3, line 6, by striking out "revocation" and inserting approval

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman state what these amendments do?

Mr. READINGER. I will be happy to do that. Senate Bill 216 as it now appears before us would remove from the Board of Finance and Revenue, as a board, the right to select a secretary and other employes and place that power in the hands of the chairman.

These amendments seek to put Senate Bill 216 back in the form of the law at the present time, to continue the Board as a board, as the group to make this choice. The amendments do not disturb the other amendment to the law made by Senate Bill 216, which provides that the Board's work shall be subject to revocation by majority of the Board, to adopt, prescribe and promulgate such rules and regulations as shall be necessary for the performance of the Board's functions and duties.

We have no objection to the secretary of the Board making such rules and regulations subject to revocation by the Board. So those amendments of 216 are being left in

But we are attempting to take out, by the amendments I just offered, this ripper provision which would transfer the appointing authority from the Board itself to the Chairman of the Board.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that under the present law the Board of Finance and Revenue has the right to appoint the secretary, while this bill would put the power to appoint back in the chairman of the Board?

Mr. READINGER. This bill very definitely gives the chairman of the Board, who happens to be the State Treasurer, the power to name all the personnel for the Board's operation.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Is it not true that these amendments would completely negative that intention in the bill?

Mr. READINGER. There is no question about it.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. READINGER. The bill rips out and we would stop the ripper with these amendments.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose these amendments and since they are so closely related to the bill, I would also like permission to speak on the bill at the same time in the interest of brevity.

I oppose these amendments, first, because the complete purpose of the bill is changed by the amendments. In other words, as the gentleman frankly admitted, the purpose of the amendments is to put the law back into its present form, which would, of course, change the bill.

I say this is clearly in violation of the Constitution which states that no bill shall be amended during its passage through either House so as to change its original purpose. However, I am not raising that point. But I do say that is one reason to oppose the amendments.

I also oppose the amendments and ask the Members to vote for the bill in its present form on its merits. This bill authorizes the State Treasurer, as chairman of the five member Board of Finance and Revenue, to appoint the personnel of the Board and to make rules and regulations to supervise it.

Under the present law, as set forth in the Administrative Code, the State Treasurer is named by law as chairman of the Board of Finance and Revenue. He is, therefore, the responsible person on that Board.

Until last year the chairman always, as a matter of custom, named the secretary and personnel of the Board and had power to supervise them and to make rules and regulations.

I have been advised, there are members of both parties on the Board, and that the personnel of the Board is more or less in the nature of career personnel, many of them serving under both Democratic and Republican State Treasurers.

On April 6, 1956 the then Attorney General Cohen ruled that the chairman did not have the power to appoint or supervise but the Board did, even though the State Treasurer was named by law as the chairman. As a result, the secretary for a great many years, a Mr. Elmer Graham, an experienced career man, was asked to resign and was replaced by one Julius Brenner, who I understand resigned a couple of weeks ago, leaving a present vacancy on the Board.

The purpose of the present bill is to correct an obvious mistake in the Administrative Code as it is interpreted. to permit the chairman to appoint the secretary and personnel of the Board and to make rules and regulations subject to the approval of the Board. The amendments offered by Mr. Readinger, of course, would completely nullify the bill and return the law to its present bad situation.

We say that the present law is bad administratively since the State Treasurer as statutory chairman has the responsibility of running the Board but he has no power to supervise or deal with his own employes. We say someone has to be boss. Since the employes occupy space, use supplies of the Treasury Department, and are paid out of Treasury Department funds budgeted to the Treasury Department by the Legislature, we say that the State Treasurer should be the responsible person.

This bill without the amendments would not change the law that a majority of the Board determine all matters before it. In other words, the Board will pass on the decisions as a Board. We say that the present law as it has been interpreted is ridiculous from an administrative viewpoint. Therefore, I ask all Members to vote against the amendments and for the bill.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I think that is one of the weakest arguments in favor of a bill and against amendments I have ever heard.

The law since 1939 has been as it was up until this time, or is right now, without any change. It provides that the Board select a secretary and personnel.

I will grant that what the gentleman says is true. that probably the Chairman has been doing it. But that does not change the fact that whoever is appointed secretary and whoever the employes are, should not be obnoxious to the majority of that Board, because the Board must perform and it can only perform when it has employes with whom it can agree.

It just so happens that the State Treasurer now is a Republican. The next one, who will take office in May. is a Republican. The other four members of this Board are Democrats. I would like to know what the gentleman would argue if the shoe was on the other foot, if we had four Republicans on the Board and a Democratic State Treasurer. I suppose he would just reverse his argument at that time.

The first point made by the gentleman that we should not change a bill in the course of its passage to nullify it, is not well taken at all because by these amendments I have offered we are not taking out the rule-making amendment in Senate Bill 216.

I think we might as well be honest about this thing all the way through. This is, pure and simple, a ripper bill. If this bill passes and is signed by the Governor, which I seriously doubt, the Republican State Treasurer will name all of the people who are going to work for the Board and the Democrats on the Board are not going to have a word to say about it. It is just that simple.

The way the law is now, the Democrats are naming these people. The Democrats are in control of the Board. They are responsible for its functions and I say they should have the right to appoint the personnel because they are the ones who will be held responsible if this Board does not function well.

I do not know anything about the career man who has left or his successor who has since resigned. I do not know them. I do not know what kind of work they have been doing.

I say basically this is a ripper bill and if you vote for it, you are voting politically to rip out some powers the Democrats now hold and you want to transfer them to the Republicans.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for a slow roll call on the amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. READINGER and PETROSKY and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I am rising now to oppose the passage of this bill.

I would like to point out that during the debate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott, spoke about the Chairman being the responsible person on ths Board. I do not know whether he means that other than the Chairman they are not responsible persons. Certainly the Chairman is not charged with the duty of running and operating the entire Board, nor performing all of its functions, so you have five responsible people on this Board.

By voting for this bill you vote to allow somebdy to make a choice of personnel, which personnel might be completely obnoxious to the other four members of the Board. If you vote for this bill, it will come back to haunt you some day.

I remember back in the days of the Earle administration and other administrations when various bills of this type were being proposed. I think it was during the Earle administration that a few ripper bills were passed and we were told then they would come back to haunt us, and they did. This one, too, will come back to haunt you some day, because we will have a Democratic State Treasurer again who will do the appointing and he will be kicking out everybody you might want on that Board. So I ask you again to vote against this bill.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I thought we had concluded our debate before. I will say that when I stated the chairman is the responsible person on this Board, I meant that he, the State Treasurer, is appointed chairman by law.

There are a great many other Boards, and they are all set forth in the Administrative Code, in which the chairman is elected by the members of the Board. In this instance, there is no choice in the matter since the State Treasurer is automatically named chairman.

I say this is not a ripper bill. The purpose of this bill is to secure an efficient operation of a board that at the present time is in a bad situation with the chairman, as State Treasurer, having no authority whatsoever over the personnel. I say it is not good administration if you do not have someone as the responsible person.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, recognizing the political stability of the opposition, I would be willing to take the last roll call vote in reverse.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman agree that the employes of this Board are employes of the entire Board and not just the chairman?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I would agree with that.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Does the gentleman from Delaware believe that in all cases where employes are to be hired by a Board, they should be hired by the chairman alone?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I would say not in all cases, but in this case the Board requires someone to supervise it currently. This Board is composed of the Attorney General, the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the Auditor General and the Secretary of Revenue. The direct supervision of the Board is in the Treasury Department, under the State Treasurer. It is in that department that the space is provided, the money is appropriated, and the supplies are used. He is the one, for example, responsible for refunds to farmers of the gasoline taxes. I understand there has been a considerable backlog in those refunds as a result of the lack of a secretary because of the ruling by the Attorney General.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest the gentleman answer the questions and not debate the bill until after we are through, then if he has any further debate I would be willing to listen to it.

Is it not a fact that the Chairman of the Board can do nothing more than to carry into execution the decisions of the Board?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would say that is true, but he must carry them out through the personnel, and if that is his duty he should have the right to supervise them.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Then he, himself, has no power to take action without the Board's permission in other matters?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I agree. That is correct.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, it must be quite evident to everyone in the House that this is no more than another attempt at political action. I have repeatedly suggested to the Republican majority of this House that we quit playing politics and get down to the business for which we were elected.

I cannot call upon the good sense of the majority in these matters when they want to present them, but I would like to point out to them that they are merely wasting the time of the House and the time of the Senate on these particular bills.

I do not believe the majority is so foolish as to think that the Governor, under the present circumstances, would approve this bill. So I cannot see any other reason for it than to make political capital, and I think it is about time that we quit wasting the time of the House and the Senate with political matters.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, would the Minority Leader consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact that this Board is composed of two elected officials and three members appointed by the Governor?

Mr. READINGER I think that is correct. The Attorney General, the Secretary of Revenue and the Secretary of the Commonwealth—three are appointed and two are elected. Treasurer and Auditor General are elected.

Mr. BELL. That is all. Thank you, sir.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Senate Bill No. 281, Printer's No. 87

was passed over temporarily at the request of Mr. READINGER.

BILLS ON THIRD READING POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar Mr. WOOD.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 582, entitled:

An Act amending "The Administrative Code of 1929" approved April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) requiring the Budget Secretary to submit budget material to the chairman of the Committees on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Senate within a specfied time

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 601), page 2, line 6, by inserting a bracket before and after "fifteenth" and inserting immediately thereafter: "first".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 601), page 3, line 1, by inserting a bracket before and after "August" and inserting immediately thereafter: "July".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 601), page 3, line 9, by inserting a bracket before "first" and after "November" and inserting immediately thereafter: "fifteenth day of September".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 601), page 4, lines 8 and 9, by inserting a bracket before "November" and after "first" and inserting immediately thereafter: "September fifteenth".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 601), page 4, line 10, by striking out "Within fifteen (15) days after receipt thereof" and inserting in lieu thereof: "Not later than November fifteenth of such even-numbered years".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 601), page 4, line 11, by inserting after "shall" "in the case of information relating to existing programs and in the case of information relating to those proposed new programs and additions to the scope of existing programs approved by the Governor for administrative implementation or submission to the General Assembly."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 601), page 4, lines 18 and 19, by striking out "Copies of all supplemental information and" in line 18, and all of line 19.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 601), page 5, lines 1 to 3, by striking out all of lines 1 and 2, and "chairman of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate" in line 3.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. JOHNSON.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of Senate Bill No. 140, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the committee appointed by the Senate to investigate activities of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

And said bill having read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. KELLER from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, House Bill No. 847, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949," approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), prohibiting pupils from wearing shoes equipped with metal cleats while playing football.

Mr. THOMPSON from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1040, entitled:

An Act amending the "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," approved March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228).

BILL ON FIRST READING

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for House Bill No. 1040 to be read for the first time.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the reading of this bill for the first time? Is there objection?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire if the tax bill has been reported from the Ways and Means Committee?

The SPEAKER. The bill has been reported out but not read.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LOVETT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I say to you today, let's be fair. The General Assembly of Pennsylvania has increased the salaries of its Members, which was very badly needed, but I feel since we as Members of the General Assembly in this house of democracy in Pennsylvania have received an increase in salary, therefore, we should not short-cut democracy.

The bill which has been reported to the House at this particular time is meaningless to my mind. I am going to ask after I finish my remarks, if the gentleman asks for first reading of this bill, that the gentleman rise and explain just exactly what this bill does.

I have not finished my remarks yet, so the gentleman can rest for a few minutes. I say to you that the intelligentsia is at work in Pennsylvania, the intelligentsia that worked on our tax program, that amended a six page bill to a 44 page bill just a week or so ago, is still at work in Pennsylvania.

I say to you gentlemen, let's be fair to the people of Pennsylvania. We are Members of the Legislature. We were elected by the people and sent here to work under a democracy which you cannot short-change.

I say to you in all fairness the short cuts, these hurries, the very things we are doing today, are what have our people of Pennsylvania confused. Everybody is confused. They try to make sense out of what we are doing, and it is impossible to make sense out of it. You and I can't make sense out of it.

So I say, let's be fair, let's take our time, let's do the things we should do as Members of the General Assembly.

Let's do them when we should do them and not be in a hurry.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that no one in Pennsylvania will criticize this General Assembly for trying to do an expeditious job. I wonder if the gentleman realizes that all over the nation many of the general assemblies which started in January have already finished their work.

The New York State Legislature adjourned Saturday night with a tremendous job done and with the adoption of a $1.6 billion budget for the State of New York. Nobody in the State of New York is saying the Legislature was rushing things through when they completed their session in just the months of January, February and March. Certainly nobody will criticize us for trying to do an expeditious businesslike job here this session.

There is nothing wrong with reporting out this skeleton bill. There is plenty of precedent for it in this General Assembly. We have reported out appropriation bills in skeleton form, and then have added to them agreed-upon amounts. We have done it and do it always on the highway omnibus bill. There are plenty of situations where we release a skeleton bill to the floor and amend it either on the floor or send it back to committee for amendment.

The reason we want to move this bill is to show good faith on the part of all parties. We are sitting and meeting with the Attorney General, representatives from the Governor's office, from the Senate, the minority, and we are going to meet later today and are hoping before the day is over to have agreed upon suitable amendments to place in the bill tomorrow on second reading.

We will save a legislative day that way and have the job done and wrapped up before we close for the Holy Week recess. I am sure both caucuses have heard about it this week.

There is nothing wrong with what we are doing. It is doing the job expeditiously. We are carrying out the good faith which was expressed in our meeting Sunday night with the Governor and in our meeting yesterday with the Attorney General. I do not believe anybody can criticize anyone for proceeding the way we have.

PERMISSION TO INTERROGATE

Mr. McCORMACK asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, just what is this bill?

Mr. JOHNSON. Was the gentleman listening?

Mr. McCORMACK. The bill was not read.

Mr. JOHNSON. Thank you. I think the question is reasonable. Yesterday we introduced a sales tax bill and it is House Bill No. 1040. The bill which is to be read for the first time merely says it is "An Act to amend the Act of 1956 as amended by" meaning the bill that is presently on the Governor's desk. Then it has an effective date in the bill.

The idea was to get the bill out and on the calendar tomorrow so that before this House we can offer and debate amendments to be placed in the bill which will be agreed upon by both the minority and majority party. It will save a legislative day, so that next week we will be here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The thought is that the Senate would pass the bill finally next Wednesday, and it would save the House coming back here on Thursday of next week. That is the real reason for having the bill released today and read for the first time.

As I am saying, we hope before midnight tonight to have agreed with the Attorney General, the Governor's office and the minority on reasonable amendments to the bill, and they will be offered tomorrow on second reading.

Mr. McCORMACK. There are going to be amendments offered on second reading is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct. The plan is to offer amendments to the bill tomorrow which have been agreed upon between the minority, the majority and the Governor's office.

Mr. McCORMACK. Is the gen leman asking us now to vote on a bill, an amendment to an act, when we do not even have the amendments here?

Mr. JOHNSON. No. All we are doing is asking you to agree to the reading of a bill for the first time which has been reported out of committee.

Mr. McCORMACK. The bill is an amendment, is that correct, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. JOHNSON. Do I understand the gentleman correctly?

Mr. McCORMACK. Yes, I say this bill which was just reported out of committee is an amendment to an Act which has not been signed by the Governor, is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. The bill as reported out for the first time says that it amends the Act of 1956, and then there is a blank space where we will insert into the bill tomorrow the fact that it also amends the Act of 1957, the presumption being that the Governor will sign this bill, or let it become law without his signature, on Thursday. It is presently on his desk.

Mr. McCORMACK. The gentleman says the presumption is that he will, or that he will let it go into law without signing it? He will sign it or let it go into law without his signature? Is that the presumption?

Mr. JOHNSON. The gentleman can call it whatever he wants to.

Mr. McCORMACK. No, I am using the gentleman's language. Is that a presumption? I do not want to be technical — — —

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say we would not be spending many, many long hours in conferences on this matter only to have the Governor kill the bill on Thursday. If that is what he intends to do, we might as well tear up the the bill we just reported out of committee.

Mr. McCORMACK. In other words, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman does not know what the Governor is going to do, is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. I suggest the gentleman confer with the Governor or the Minority Leader.

Mr. McCORMACK. Frankly, I am not interested in what the Governor is going to do, I am interested in what we are going to do in this House.

Since the gentleman said there is a presumption that he is going to sign it, or that it is going to become law without his signature, I want to know on what facts the gentleman bases his presumption?

Mr. JOHNSON. I base the presumption on the good faith of all parties concerned.

Mr. McCORMACK. Was there an agreement reached, then, that the Governor would sign the bill or allow it to come into law without his signature? Was there an agreement reached between both sides?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say there is no agreement that the Governor is going to do one thing or another. I would say that everything we are doing is based on good faith. If that is not enough, then it is time we did something else.

Mr. McCORMACK. The gentleman says there is precedent for reporting a bill out and asking for first reading, is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say we have read bills for the first time in this House since time immemorial when they are reported out of committee as committed.

Mr. McCORMACK. I want to refer the gentleman to a couple of the Rules of this House, Mr. Speaker, and ask whether I am interpreting the Rules correctly.

> Rule 13 of the House: "Every bill, after introduction and reference to committee, shall be printed."

Is the gentleman aware of that Rule?

Mr. JOHNSON. The bill is in print and is down in the bill room right now, if the gentleman wants a copy of it.

Mr. McCORMACK. The bill is in print? I am sorry Mr. Speaker—

Mr. JOHNSON. That is what I said, yes. The bill is in print and is down in the bill room.

Mr. McCORMACK. I see. Rule 39, which embodies Article III, Section 2 of the Constitution, says:

> No bill shall be considered unless referred to a committee, returned therefrom, and printed for the use of the Members.

Mr. Speaker, if I were to tell the gentleman that the Members did not have the printed bill in committee today, would he say that that is a violation of the Constitution of Pennsylvania?

Mr. JOHNSON. The gentleman did not read the last sentence of Rule 39, which says:

> Bills shall not be considered beyond first reading until the latest print thereof is on the desks of the Members.

I say we have answered the requirements of our Constitution by reason of the fact that the bill is presently in print and is down in the bill room. If any Member would like the bill, he can go down and get a copy of it. So we have answered the requirement of the Constitution.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, Rule 41 says:

> Bills amending existing laws shall indicate present language to be omitted by placing it within brackets — — —

That is an interpretation of the Constitution, Article III, Section 6.

This amendment does not bracket any amendments to existing law, does it?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman wants to be technical about this—

Mr. McCORMACK. I am not being—

Mr. JOHNSON. If the gentleman wants to be an obstructionist and destroy the good faith and feeling which is prevailing despite the vitriolic situations which occurred here last week, he can go ahead and do it. We feel we are proceeding in a proper way with good faith, and I think the gentleman to stand here and question that good faith is certainly not in keeping with good parliamentary practice.

Mr. McCORMACK. I want to say, Mr. Speaker—

Mr. ANDREWS. Would the gentleman from Philadelphia yield?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, yield to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews?

Mr. McCORMACK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I think perhaps I may be able to say something to clear up this situation.

First, I want to tell the Members of the House on both sides that in this matter now pending the Republican leadership is playing in absolutely good faith. There was, as you all know, a conference last Sunday evening in the Governor's Mansion.

Certain understandings were arrived at. It was understood that the Republican leadership would not accept any amendments in so far as the tax levying portions of the bill were concerned.

It was pointed out by the Attorney General and others who were at that conference that there were portions of the bill which as written impeded collection, made it difficult to collect. It was understood there would be a conference at which certain procedural amendments would be agreed upon.

It was further agreed that these amendments would be formulated and started on their way before the time came for the Governor to act upon the bill.

Now these amendments are desirable amendments from our point of view. We regret that we have not been able to amend some of the portions of the tax levying sections of the bill. The measure will be greatly improved procedurally by these amendments. Whether the Governor signs the bill or does not sign the bill, lets it become a law without his signature, does not have any application in the present situation.

The only thing is that we agreed on our side and the Republicans agreed on their side that, before the time came for the Governor to act, he should know what amendments the majority was willing to write into this bill. Tomorrow those amendments will be in shape. They will be an improvement on the bill and they will be in such shape that the Governor will know what changes in the bill have been made. With that knowledge in his possession, the range and sweep of the amendments, then the final decision as to what he does rests with the Governor.

It has been a proceeding in keeping with the highest traditions of this House so far as legislative procedure is concerned. It is a situation in which the good faith of the leadership on both sides of the House, in so far as the amendments are concerned, has been demonstrated.

I want to commend the majority for so quickly complying with the suggestions that amendments be made concerning the procedural aspect of the bill.

I can assure the gentleman from Philadelphia that this procedure is in no way in derogation of correct procedure. Indeed, it is in line with correct procedure and it enables the Governor to have the final word as to how far the majority leadership in this House will go, along with the majority party, in suggestions concerning the amendments that go into the bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I have no further interrogation and I thank the Minority Whip for the anaylsis. I appreciate it and it satisfies me.

PERMISSION TO INTERROGATE

Mr. AUKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentlman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ANDREWS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AUKER. I would like to ask the gentleman when this conference was held on the so-called high levels of both parties—that if these amendments pass, which are supposed to be introduced tomorrow on this particular bill, whether or not the Governor gave any indication whatsoever of what action he would take then on Bill 337, commonly known as the Sales Tax Bill?

Mr. ANDREWS. No such assurance was asked. No question was propounded. The Governor's ultimate decision is a decision in keeping with his own conscience. The majority did not demand to know what the Governor would do. The majority conceded that the Governor was entitled to know to what extent the bill would be amended before he made his final decision. It would have been incorrect for the leadership then to have dictated a final decision insofar as the executive branch of the government is concerned.

Mr. AUKER. I would like to ask the gentleman if these amendments as drawn, and as they will be introduced, would meet with the approval of the Governor in so far as his criticism of the sales tax bill is concerned as to the enforcement provisions of this bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. What is the gentleman's question?

Mr. AUKER. In other words, will the Governor know what these amendments are before they are introduced and will they have his definite approval before they are introduced?

Mr. ANDREWS. The amendments that will be offered will be amendments concerning procedure that have been agreed upon by the leadership in the legislative branch of the government. We do not know as we stand here whether this House will or will not adopt the amendments that will be proposed, but the majority party, as an evidence of good faith, is endeavoring to submit to the Governor their ultimate concession in so far as amending the pending tax bill is concerned. That is their ulitmate concession. Then it will be up to the Governor, consulting his conscience, to reach his decision.

We have no right to stride into the Governor's office and say, Governor, you must do this, anymore than the Governor has a right to stride into this Chamber, thinking he can command our action.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I thoroughly agree with the gentleman so far as that part of it is concerned.

What I am trying to get at is that there seem to have been meetings on high levels. The Governor was a part of those meetings. It is in response to his criticisim that these amendments are being offered and I want to know whether or not these amendments meet with the Governor's approval.

It seems to me that these amendments are being offered as a result of his specific criticism of the bill in reference to the enforcement part of the Tax Act, and I would like to ask the gentleman whether or not the Governor should have knowledge of and approve those amendments before they are introduced?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I have endeavored to answer the question. I cannot supply the gentleman with the mental powers to appreciate the answer, but I will try again.

In so far as the procedural amendments are concerned, a properly accredited spokesman for the Governor is in agreement with the procedural amendments that will be submitted. Whether the Governor's objections to other features of the bill lead him to the conclusion that he will act so and so remains to be seen. But the amendments that will be submitted, will be amendments to which a spokesman for the Governor and the leaders of the majority party have agreed.

Mr. AUKER. That is all I wanted to konw, Mr. Speaker.

Now one further question. Has there been any indication whatsoever on the part of the Governor or anybody representing the Governor, any indication in any way, shape or form, that if these amendments are adopted, the Governor will sign the sales tax bill that is on his desk?

Mr. ANDREWS. There absolutely has been no—

Mr. O'BRIEN. I would like to be recognized, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria has the floor.

Mr. O'BRIEN. There is nothing that stops the Speaker from recognizing somebody under a—

Mr. ANDREWS. I do not yield as long as the gentleman from Blair has the floor for the purpose of interrogation. As soon as the gentleman from Blair yields, or if the gentleman from Blair will yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, or he can maintain his position,—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will rule that until the interrogation has been completed—

Mr. ANDREWS. After the gentleman from Blair has finished his interrogation, then if the gentleman from Philadelphia desires to interrogate, I will endeavor to answer.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker—

Mr. ANDREWS. I refuse to yield, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. O'BRIEN. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is out of order. The gentleman from Cambria has the floor and has refused to yield. The gentleman will proceed with his interrogation.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The chair has not recognized the gentleman from Philadelphia. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews has the floor and is attempting to answer an interrogation. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. AUKER. Just one more question, Mr. Speaker, if I may. I would like to ask the gentleman, since these parleys and conferences have gone on, whether in his opinion there should not have been some indication from the Governor that, with the adoption of these amendments for which he and his party have asked and to which the majority party has agreed, he would act favorably on the bill.

Mr. ANDREWS. In reply to that, I say that it was the opinion of those who participated in the conference that no effort be made to obtain any final commitment as to the Governor's action, by reason of the fact that the spokesmen for the various parties recognized the final decision was an administrative decision and it was not in line with the purposes of the conference to demand a "yes" or "no" answer from His Excellency, the Governor.

Mr. AUKER. That is all, Mr. Speaker. I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, desire to be recognized?

Mr. O'BRIEN. Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Has the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, concluded his remarks?

Mr. ANDREWS. I did not understand whether the gentleman from Philadelphia arose to a point of order, a parliamentary inquiry, or for the purpose of interrogation.

Mr. O'BRIEN. I rose on the question of parliamentary inquiry. I think the two previous speakers were talking on a presupposition, and I think you, Mr. Speaker, should have recognized me and pointed out the fact to them that you just cannot presuppose what amendments are going to be offered tomorrow. They were wasting the time of the Legislature.

I call your attention to the fact that you should have recognized me under a parliamentary inquiry in spite of the fact that there was interrogation going on. The Parliamentarian is slipping if he would not direct you in that connection. I say to you that we presuppose what amendments are going to be offered. The only thing before this House is consent to read the bill for the first time. All of this has been just a lot of wishy-washy wasting of time.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, the interrogation was carried out under unanimous consent. Until that interrogation was completed the gentleman had no right to interrupt it without the consent of the persons who had the floor.

Mr. O'BRIEN. All I can say to you, Mr. Speaker, unfortunately this is the first time in my experience as a Legislator that we do not have a manual, but I can quote 500 times circumstances wherein we were discussing and asking permission to act on first reading on this particular bill, there should not be any presupposition of any amendments being offered tomorrow.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LOVETT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, when I arose a few minutes ago I was condemning the other side of this House for the action being taken at this particular time. I find out from my Whip that we have agreed with those actions. I did not know that before. Now I am going to condemn both sides of this House, at least, our leadership on this side of this House. If they have agreed to this action, they have not informed their Members to that effect.

The Majority Leader admits here on this floor there are going to be amendments to the bill which is now on the Governor's desk. Now, I say to you and I say to you Members here, in all fairness the proper thing to do is to recall this bill from the Governor. Then the deadline within which the Governor has to veto or sign no longer exists, the bill is back in our hands. If we agree that amendments should be put into the bill, why don't you do the right thing? Why don't you recall the bill from the Governor? Why don't you save the time of the House and recall the bill from the Governor and put your amendments in it? Then we will see what the Governor will do with the bill.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. READINGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, as one of the condemned leadership I would like to say there has been no agreement on this side that the skeleton bill would be reported out and the the amendments offered tomorrow, and so forth. That is a matter which has been decided by the majority of this House.

All of the remarks made by Mr. Andrews related to an agreement concerning the fact that the majority of the House and Senate would sit down with the administration and consider various procedural amendments to this Sales Tax Act.

The decision to move this bill as rapidly as it is being moved was the decision of the majority and not of the minority. I say that the gentleman from Westmoreland is confused in his thinking when he assumes that the agreements spoken about by Mr. Andrews included an agreement to move ahead at this rapid pace.

I am not complaining. I am not opposing the fact that you are doing as you are doing, but I did not enter into an agreement that it should be done that way. We were told that was the way it was going to be.

As I say, I have no objection if you want to be in a position to offer thes amendments tomorrow. That is your business. You have decided to do it. If you did not do it that way, it would probably delay the matter perhaps, the passage of these amendments or the rejection of them, until after our Holy Week recess. You have decided you do not want that long delay, so you have made the decision.

But when the gentleman from Westmoreland condemns us on this side for making an agreement, I say he is in error because it was not an agreement in that respect, it simply was a statement that we are not going to oppose what you are doing.

PERMISSION TO INTERROGATE

Mr. FILO asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. AUCKER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I feel the questions put forth to our Minority Whip, Mr. Andrews, about what the Governor is going to do with the sales tax, if and when this bill is amended, were unfair.

I am going to ask the gentleman just to answer me one question:

How is the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, going to vote on these amendments?

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is entirely out of order in asking me how I am going to vote on something that has not even been proposed in the House as yet. I cannot answer that question. I would not even try to answer it, and neither would he under the same circumstances.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, by the same token, how is the Governor of Pennsylvania going to make a decision on a sales tax they expect to amend? How is he going to make that same decision without knowing what is going to happen with these amendments?

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I can answer that question in this way, that was why I was trying to find out certain things as to what has happened in these conferences. As I understand it, the Governor was either there himself or had someone at this conference who had authority to speak for him. The amendments which were being considered were resulting entirely and directly from some of his main criticisms of the sales tax bill as passed by this House.

I would say further on this score, if the conference agreed certain amendments would be offered and if both sides of the House were going to be asked then to vote favorably on those amendments, and the Governor knowing, or being in a position to know, exactly what those amendments would be, he would have every right to say, knowing what was going to be in the final sales tax bill, how he would act on that bill. I think we have the right to have that answer from him before we vote on these amendments.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

The only thing that I can add is that Mr. Auker be appointed on this conference committee the next time.

PERMISSION TO INTERROGATE

Mr. LOPRESTI asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, not that I think it is pertinent to the debate, but the gentleman has injected into the debate the fact that the New York Legislature has already adjourned.

At this point, so that there will be no misconception, I would like to know whether the New York Legislature is working on annual sessions or on biennial sessions?

Mr. JOHNSON. They are an annual sessions and it is statutory that they must adjourn before the first of April.

Mr. LOPRESTI. That is correct. The budget to which the gentleman referred, would he state whether that was an annual budget or not?

Mr. JOHNSON. Their budget is an annual budget of $1.6 billion which was just adopted.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Would the gentleman therefore agree that his remarks, in so far as this particular debate is concerned, were out of order, or perhaps not pertinent, irrelevant and immaterial?

Mr. JOHNSON. No, I will not agree to that. I say this, a great state like New York with a $1.6 billion budget, even though by law they must quit by April 1st, shows that the job can be done by expeditious work and tending to business during that three-months period. There is no reason why, perhaps, this Legislature cannot eventually get around to where we could do the job in three months even on a two-year basis.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman suggest we are in proper order by comparing an annual session with a biennial session and an annual budget with a binnial budget? Would that be in order, making such a comparison?

Mr. JOHNSON. The answer is that we have already sent to the Senate a constitutional amendment passed by this House, we all voted for it, providing for annual sessions of the Legislature.

Mr. LOPRESTI. The gentleman evades the question, Mr. Speaker. I am asking whether he thinks it is proper to compare annual sessions with biennial sessions?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say it is proper within the field in which I made the comparison, that in three months' time a great state like New York working expeditiously can do the job and pass a $1.6 billion budget.

Mr. LOPRESTI. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, perhaps I am going to be called down for saying what I am going to say, but, nevertheless, one of my first lessons in logic was that you do not argue——(Expunged)

Mr. JOHNSON. I think that was a very unkind remark and I think it should be expunged from the record.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria well knows that personalities are not permitted in debate. The remark should not have been made.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Lopresti.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I believe that is proper. I am wrong and I agree they should be expunged from the record, but I still think, however, that the gentleman is not willing to reason. Let us put it that way.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LOVETT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, our Floor Leader said I was somewhat confused. I would say most of you are confused if you would admit it. There could be no misinterpretation in my mind on what my Whip said on my side of the House, that you fellows were doing the right thing, and doing a very good job, and that he agreed with that.

I do not think I misheard the gentleman, and I say again that if my side was party to what you are doing today I condemn them, regardless of who did it.

If I may have permission, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman admit that they are going to amend this bill which is on the Governor's desk?

Mr. JOHNSON. The bill we are reporting from committee for the first time, if it finally passes, will be a bill to amend the Act of 1956, as amended by the Act of 1957, that is correct.

Mr. LOVETT. The gentleman agrees he is going to amend the Act of 1957?

Mr. JOHNSON. The Act of 1956 as amended by the Act of 1957, so you are correct. We would be amending the bill on the Governor's desk after he has signed it and it becomes law.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, if in his mind there would be any time lost—. May I first ask the gentleman, if he recalled the bill from the Governor's desk, then the deadline on the number of days the Governor has to sign or veto the bill would not be in effect? Is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct.

Mr. LOVETT. May I then ask the gentleman how long a period of time he thinks it would take to recall the bill from the Governor's desk, have this House put the amendments into the bill and send it back to the Governor? Could it be done in less time, or how much more time would it take to do it this way?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say you could probably recall the bill and amend it in about the same length of time as the way we are proceeding, but we have elected to proceed in this manner and that is the way we hope to do it.

Mr. LOVETT. Then the gentleman will admit that there is no time saved by the method in which he has finally agreed to proceed?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct, to recall the bill from the Governor's desk, I believe the procedure would be to recall the bill and then reconsider the vote by which we agreed to the amendments inserted by the Senate. Then the question would recur, will the House agree to the amendments inserted by the Senate, and we would have to vote we do not agree. It would then go back to the Senate. The Senate would then, no doubt, vote that they insist on their amendments. It would come back here and we would insist on our non-concurrence and request a committee of conference. The Senate would do likewise, and the first thing you know the bill would be in conference and would—goodness knows how long that would take. I was on a conference committee last session on a bill that was wide open and I certainly do not hope to be on another one like it.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if the Senators were included in this meeting with the Governor, the Attorney General and the Members of this House?

Mr. JOHNSON. On the meeting with the Governor on Sunday evening the leaders of both the House and the Senate, majority and minority, were present. Yesterday at the meeting with the Attorney General there were present members of the House leadership and the Senate leadership on the majority side. We met for approximately three hours yesterday morning, took up each portion of the enforcement phases of the bill section by section and in detail. We explained the reason for the Republican amendments to the bill, we heard the Attorney General's reasons for areas in which they disagreed, and we reconciled, I would say, very pleasantly the areas in which there was agreement.

On some issues the Republicans gave in, on others the Attorney General gave in, and after the meeting was over, after the three hour conference, we all stood up and shook hands with each other and stated it was a very fine meeting, that great progress had been made, unbelievable progress had been made.

The understanding was that the young Deputy Attorney General who was present at the meeting would reduce the agrements to writing, and we have all the agreements now in our possession and we intend to meet with House and Senate leaders this evening to go over the draft with a view of having the amendments inserted in the bill tomorrow.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I say that the gentleman is more or less misleading this House when he says the bill would take all this time in having the Senate non-concur, having the House non-concur and sending it back to the Senate and the Senate insisting on its amendments, and then appointing a conference committee. The gentleman well knows if that agreement is true, the bill would go back to the Senate, the Senate would put the amendments they have agreed upon into this bill and then it would come back to this House for concurrence. The gentleman well knows that.

Mr. JOHNSON. I beg to differ with the gentleman. The amendments could only be inserted under our Rules in a committee on conference.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Chairman, I still insist if all the agreements have been reached, there would be no need for any delay and the time would not be any greater than to do it the way he is doing it today, which I say is not good procedure.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. AUKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I believe the air has been considerably clarified. It puts me in mind of a story of the very well-known inebriate whose wife could not correct him. He would go home night after night pretty well under the influence of intoxicating beverages. She continually nagged him, and nagged him, and nagged him, but it did no good.

He came home one night in good shape, ate his dinner and started out. She thought, I'll fix him. So she followed him out, and from the time he entered the corner taproom she was right after him. When he had his little beverage in front of him, she had one like it. He sipped his, and she drank hers, made some awful faces and gurgled and gagged. He turned around and looked at her and said, "Well, I guess you were mistaken. You thought all this time I was having a good time."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the reading of this bill for the first time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1040 entitled:

An Act amending the "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," approved March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228).

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. KNECHT from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, House Bill No. 501, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) increasing maximum limits on per capita taxes with certain limitations.

Mr. BRUCKER from the Committee on Cities—Counties, First—Second and Second Class A, reported as amended. House Bill No. 634, entitled:

An Act amending the "First Class City Home Rule Act," approved April 21, 1949, (P. L. 665), imposing limitations on the salary of members of city council or other legislative body.

Mr. VAUGHAN from the Committee on Cities—Counties, First—Second and Second Class A, reported as committed, House Bill No. 852, entitled:

An Act amending the "Second Class County Code" approved July 28, 1953 (P. L. 723), authorizing recorders of deeds to appoint solicitors.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. JUMP. Asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation to meet during the session of the House.

MEMBERS OF PHILADELPHIA SETTLEMENT AND NEIGHBORHOOD CENTERS WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the Hall of the House a delegation from the Philadelphia Settlement and Neighborhood Centers, the City of Philadelphia. They are the guests of the entire Philadelphia delegation in the House of Representatives.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 4 of today's calendar, bills on third reading, Senate Bill No. 281.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 281, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (Appropriation Acts page 120 Act No. 150-A) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth for two years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five" decreasing appropriations to the Department of Revenue.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOOD. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether this bill does not reduce the appropriation made to the Revenue Department for the present biennium by the sum of $5 million?

Mr. WOOD. That is correct.

Mr. READINGER. I desire to ask the gentleman whether he received from the Budget Secretary a letter dated March 20th in which he was given notice of certain lapses of appropriations totalling $9,166,714.96, which amounts are being lapsed by action of the Budget office and the administration?

Mr. WOOD. I did, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether or not the amount of lapse for the Department of Revenue in that letter was set forth at $3,100,000?

Mr. WOOD. I do not have the figures with me, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman take my word for it, that that was included in the list?

Mr. WOOD. I will take the gentleman's word for it.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask further whether this $5 million involved in Senate Bill 281 before us would not mean that a further lapse of $1,900,000 would take place if this bill were passed?

Mr. WOOD. That is correct.

Mr. READINGER. Now may I ask the gentleman why we should vote for this bill, lapsing an additional $1,900,000 in addition to the amounts already lapsed? How is this justified?

Mr. WOOD. Well, we figured that a different way, I guess, than they did.

Mr. READINGER. I did not hear the gentleman.

Mr. WOOD. I guess we figured that a different way than the Budget office did.

Mr. READINGER. Well, I am asking the gentleman, if he will, to justify and to inform this House why we should vote for an additional lapse of $1,900,000 for the Department of Revenue. We are certainly entitled to some figures to base a judgment upon.

Mr. WOOD. First we took $1.5 million from the appropriation to the Department of Revenue for all activities under the General Fund, except escheats and the operation of the sales tax bureau.

January 31, according to the statement of the Office of Administration—these are on an accrual basis, which is supposed to include all commitments, there was an unexpended balance of $2,692,677 in this item for the remaining four months of this biennium.

On February 28th the balance was $2,441,860.32, showing that only $250,817 was spent during the month of February. Multiply that amount by three the number of months still remaining and the salaries and expenses for March, April and May would amount to no more than $750,000.

If you subtract $750,000 from the $2,441,000 balance on February 28, you get a balance of $1,691,000. We propose to lapse $1,500,000 of that figure.

Now in the Sales Tax Bureau, on January 31, there was a balance $4,511,845 in the appropriation for this Bureau. On February 28, the balance was $4,230,152 indicating $281,693 was spent during February.

We propose to take $3,200,000 from this appropriation, or leave the Department $1,030,152 to operate during the months of March, April and May.

If the expenditures in those months average those in February, the total will be $845,679, leaving a cushion of $185,000 for any unforseen increase in expenses.

We also took $200,000 off of escheats. That makes up the $5 million.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. AUKER. I will, but I do not know what about.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether he understands the reasons for voting for or against Senate Bill 281 which is now before us?

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, any time I see a decrease in appropriations for any department, I will vote for it. It does not matter whether it is Republican or Democratic.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman further whether he would vote for it if he did not feel that the decrease in appropriation should be made? Or was not founded on good reason?

Mr. AUKER. I feel that they should be made and I feel that they evidently are on a good sound basis or they would not have been reported out.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether he understands the figures which have just been given by the House Appropriation Chairman to this House?

Mr. AUKER. I understood the figure of $5 million. I have read the bill. I am not too familiar with the other figure, the $1.5 million that the speaker mentioned.

Mr. READINGER. One further question, would the gentleman state categorically that the Department of Revenue does not need this $1,900,000 which is being taken from it for the rest of this biennium?

Mr. AUKER. Based on what I feel has been adequate research by the Appropriations Committee, I would say that would be correct, that they do not need it. Otherwise, it would not have been taken away from them.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, the Budget Office is set up by law to handle budgetary matters, to keep in close touch with the amounts of money that are available to the various departments, the controls over the spending of it, and so forth.

Our Budget Office has already lapsed by its action under the law $3,100,000 of the appropriation made to the Department of Revenue. Now it is true that if the department does not spend the amount of its appropriation during the biennium for which it was given, it lapses. So would this $1,900,000 involved in this bill lapse if it were not needed by the department.

What are we doing again today? We are passing a bill, or voting on a bill which, contrary to the advise of the Budget Office, would cut and lapse further funds from the Department of Revenue and we do not know what we are doing. We do not know whether it is going to be necessary to have some of those funds available or not.

I bet there is not one man in this House, other than Mr. Wood, who has any figures which would justify a decision to do this in opposition to the suggestion made by the Budget Office that we should not make further lapses until the end of the biennium when we will know how much money is left.

What this will save, if anything, I have not the slightest idea. Certainly if the ordinary functions of the Department of Revenue cannot continue without this money, they are going to come back here and ask you for a deficiency appropriation.

To me it does not make good sense to pass this bill without knowing any more about it than we do, when the money that we are talking about is going to lapse anyway at the end of the biennium.

I am asking the membership of the House to vote against this bill.

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that when we had the Secretary of Revenue before our committee we asked him whether he could get along with this $5 million, and he said he could live with it.

I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOOD. I would like to ask the gentleman how he expects to pay these deficiency bills, where we are going to get the money from, if we lapse these appropriations?

Mr. READINGER. Which deficiency bills?

Mr. WOOD. Well, we passed three. House Bill 8, House Bill 478 which is Public Assistance and House Bill 479, the Labor and Industry bill, Occuptional diseases, which have a total of $9,372,548.

Mr. READINGER. I have already stated to the House earlier that the total lapses instituted by the administration itself under this letter of March 20, 1957, totalled $9,166,714.96. That total seems to be higher than the total used by the gentleman for deficiencies.

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, we understand on this side of the House that the administration cannot decrease an appropriation. Nobody can do that but the Legislature, we have to pass a bill to do that. The Budget Department has no authority to lapse any money.

Mr. READINGER. I will read from the letter of the Budget Secretary of March 20th:

> "Dear Mr. Wood:
> "I am transmitting herewith a detailed list of lapsed appropriations totalling $9,166,714.96. These lapses are being submitted to the fiscal offices on the appropriate forms today. This will make the lapses official and the amounts shown on the attached schedule will no longer be available for expenditures."

I do not profess to be a budget analyst or a budget expert, but I assume that the Budget Secretary knows how funds are lapsed and his letter states that those funds were being lapsed. So I presume there will be sufficient funds to take care of the deficiency appropriation bills the gentleman has referred to.

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman did not read down quite far enough on that letter. It also says they could change their minds on these lapses and not lapse them after all.

Mr. READINGER. The letter states that these lapses are not necessarily all that will be done. There will be further lapses, depending on the amount of money necessary to run the departments. My argument still goes, I think it is still valid, that we should not force the lapse of money from this department than we have grounds upon which to base a belief that the lapse should be made. That is the business of the Budget Office to determine how much money a department reasonably needs to complete the biennium, and when it makes that determination to suggest and effect a lapse of the additional funds we appropriated to it. I certainly see more wisdom in not passing this bill and determining at the end of the biennium how much money is left and then lapse it.

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I still contend that the Budget Office can change its mind about these lapses and maybe tomorrow say it will only lapse $6 or $7 million.

I think we should pass this bill and then we will be sure of it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lancaster wondered where we are going to get the money. I have an answer to that.

We are going to take this tax bill we have passed, pockmarked with exemptions, use the bill to tap the rock of our resources and with all the exemptions abundant streams of revenue will pour forth. Just as easy as that, $480 million of revenue notwithstanding the exemptions. That will be a part of the record.

Speaking on behalf of the Department of Revenue, I have always said the pending bill is an alibi. Do not tell the Governor I said it, nor the Secretary of Revenue, but the Department has not been running along at such a vigorous rate as it might have been, and it has been criticized for not being able to collect or failing to collect.

The Department has been trying to gather itself together, get organized for action and proceed to collect, and I presume that if it fails to collect the Department of Revenue will be very glad of a curtailment of funds to which it can point and say, if we had not been so shortchanged, we would have had personnel to collect.

This bill robs you of your fine opportunity to point and say, You had money enough, but you were not collecting.

Now the Department can reverse it and say, It's no use. You took our money away and we canot collect.

Maybe it is a good bargain for the Department of Revenue, but anyway I will oppose the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

AMENDED SENATE BILL NON-CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has non-concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 124.

An Act amending the act of July 13, 1953 (P. L. 431) entitled "An act relating to support of dependents providing a procedure for enforcement thereof including attachment of property and earnings conferring powers and imposing duties upon courts district attorneys and probation officers" further providing a procedure for enforcement of the act

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House insist upon its amendments nonconcurred in by the Senate to Senate Bill No. 124.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILL FOR CONCURRENCE IN SENATE AMENDMENTS

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 5 of to-day's calendar, Bills for Concurrence in Senate Amendments, House Bill No. 143.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the message from the Senate.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 143.

An Act amending the act of May 2, 1945 (P. L. 382) entitled "An act providing for the incorporation as bodies corporate and politic of 'Authorities' for municipalities counties and townships prescribing the rights powers and duties of such Authorities heretofore or hereafter incorporated authorizing such Authorities to acquire construct improve maintain and operate projects and to borrow money and issue bonds therefore providing for the payment of such bonds and prescribing the rights of the holders thereof conferring the right of eminent domain on such Authorities authorizing such Authorities to enter into contracts with and to accept grants from the Federal Government or any agency thereof and conferring exclusive jurisdiction on certain courts over rates" requiring "Authorities" to submit annual reports to municipalities creating the "authorities" and to the Department of Internal Affairs.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 3, line 12, by inserting after the word "Affairs" the following:

"Every authority shall have it books accounts and records audited annually by a certified public accountant and a copy of his audit report shall be attached to and be made a part of the aforesaid annual report"

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House nonconcur in the amendments made by the Senate.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE MESSAGE

CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 2, 1957.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that House Bill No. 250, Printer's No. 73, entitled "An act amending the act of May 2, 1925 (P. L. 448) entitled 'An act relating to fish and amending revising consolidating and changing the law relating to fish in the inland waters and the boundary lakes and boundary rivers of the Commonwealth' excluding from the provisions thereof the operation of and fishing from temporary water tanks in connection with indoor sportsmen's shows," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LOPRESTI asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, several weeks ago I was appointed as the minority Member on a Committee of the House and Senate to investigate the actions of the Pardons Board. That Resolution called for an investigation over a period of five years.

In an effort to see that we had an impartial hearing and in order not to bring any politics whatsoever into the investigation, I have refrained from making newspaper statements and I have refrained from making statements on the floor of this House concerning the investigation. I believe an effort has been made and will be made on the part of the majority Members to have a full and fair investigation, an impartial investigation, of the operation of that Board over a period of five years.

Somehow or other it seems some of the newspapermen are not willing to allow the public to receive a fair and impartial comment on the investigation which is being conducted at the present moment.

In the paper this morning, The Inquirer of April 2, 1957, under the name of John M. Cummings appear the following words which are, I believe, an effort to disturb the minority Members and perhaps to quiet them in their efforts to see that this investigation is conducted impartially. I want to read some of the comments made by the gentleman from The Inquirer.

> "Unless some of the signs of the times are amiss an effort will be made by Attorney General Tom McBride and minority or Democratic members, of the investigating committee to shout down any serious effort to get all the facts in the Darcy case."

I submit there has been no evidence whatsoever that the minority Members intend to try to hide any of the facts or to shout down any person who has now or will later appear before the Committee. I personally resent the implication that the minority Members of this Committee are trying to hush or shout down any person.

Then he goes on further and says:

> The loud mouth diversionary weapon, employed last week by Senator Yosko and others,"—and I submit, Mr. Speaker, that "the others" must refer to myself because I am the only other minority Member—"is intended to smother the Darcy case under a blanket of sound."

I do not know up to this point that we have made any such effort and I am quite certain that I, as one Member of the Committee, will make no such effort. I resent the statements in the paper indicating that we might make such an effort.

If he is trying by this to silence us in taking exception to conduct which we think is improper or might tend to be impartial, I want to inform the gentleman it will not work, because if this Committee at any time—and I want to say in fairness to the majority they have not so done—should take a notion to make it a partisan or a political investigation or inquiry, I would be one of the first ones to except, and perhaps shout pretty loudly, even though Mr. Cummings has tried to close my mouth in advance.

I want to go a little further in his column where he says:

> Others are to be questioned—provided the interrogators are not shouted down.

I want to say to the gentleman who wrote this particular article that perhaps he should appear before this Committee more often, get the correct facts and then write his newspaper articles.

As I say, I have refrained from commenting on the case, and I have also refrained from speculating on the Inquirer's motives in printing these slanted headlines and these slanted and distorted stories. However, I believe this paper does this Legislature, this House and Senate, an injustice when they tend to create the impression that any member of any investigating committee, whether he be in the minority or the majority, is attempting to whitwash these investigations.

I will say, Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of the Members of this House—and this is not as a criticism as to what we have done so far—that from the time we started our investigation to the present time we have not had any discussions of those cases which were handled prior to the present Pardons Board, with the exception of a few cases brought in by the Attorney General and briefly studied. I believe it is the intention of our Committee, I believe it is the intention of the majority and they have so stated, that before this inquiry is closed we will go into other cases involving the prior Pardons Boards. We will do this not for the purpose, mark you, of showing that prior Pardons Boards, or this Pardons, Board, have been influenced by political considerations, but for the purpose of showing that the procedures which were carried out by previous Pardons Boards are also being carried out by the present Pardons Board and that neither of the Pardons Boards, neither the present one nor the previous one, were involved in improper motives or in political considerations when they took certain procedural actions.

We propose to show by the actions of the previous Board that as to procedure they were doing some of the same things that the present Board is doing, but we are not going to imply that either Board has done anything improper. Until such time as we have evidence, conclusive evidence, that any member of this Board, or any member of our Investigating Committee, is dishonest, I think the newspapers should refrain from casting these aspersions.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TOMPKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am not going to comment one way or another upon the news article. I am not going to state to this House any conclusions I may have arrived at, because I have arrived at none since we have not as yet completed our hearings.

I merely want to make one statement, when anybody comes into our Committee Room—and I think the Committee Members, including Mr. Lopresti, will bear me out—and our respective counsel have completed the interrogation of the witness, every member of the committee is given an opportunity to interrogate the witness.

Nobody has even been denied that right up to this time, and we do not propose to deny them that right. It is the right of each member of the committee to interrogate witnesses and we do not propose to close them off. We want that understood.

Interruption, however, at improper times might be controlled, but to deny them the right to question the witness will not be denied.

As to prior Pardons Boards, I might state we have tried to program our hearings so that we will cover all matters. We cannot cover everything in one day.

I will say that one minority Member of the Committee has kept asking for three or four weeks when we are going to get into certain cases, and our counsel in my presence has asked him to furnish us with cases. We will cover any case they want investigated.

Only on Monday of this week was I furnished with a list of cases that that Member has been hollering about for about four weeks. The cases which were turned over to me as Chairman of the Committee will be given proper investigation.

We will make our conclusions when we complete our hearings, and not before.

PERMISSION TO HOLD COMMITTEE HEARING

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask unanimous consent of the House to have a meeting of the Pardons Board Investigating Committee tomorrow, Wednesday, April 3, 1957, beginning at 10:00 a. m. in the Senate Caucus room.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. READINGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, on March 11th, House Bill No. 734 was introduced in the House by Mr. Wood and Mr. Johnson and was passed finally by this House on March 19th. That is the bill which would have restricted the departments, boards and commissions to an expenditure of not more than one-eighth of the total appropriation for a biennium during the last three months of any biennium.

We debated the bill very fully at that time. It was pointed out by this side of the House that it was bad legislation and should not be passed. Nevertheless, it did pass by, as I recall practically a strict party vote, 124 to 75.

At that time it was pointed out that it would cover the Highway Department, as well as all other departments. It was also mentioned that it would unduly hamper and handcuff various departments in their activities. Nevertheless, it was passed.

Since that time it has been amended in the Senate so that it is now restricted only to General Fund appropriations and not the Highway Fund.

During the debate I mentioned the fact that I was going to pursue the matter further and obtain some precise information from some of the departments to find out what it might do. I have done that. I have before me several communications addressed to the Budget Secretary from the Game Commission, the Department of Property and Supplies and the Department of Highways.

I am not going to dwell on the Department of Highways inasmuch as it was probably intended originally that the bill should not apply to the Highway Department. It was so stated on the floor of this House by the Majority Leader.

I would like to call your attention to the fact that the Executive Director of the Game Commission objects seriously to the passage of such legislation. I do not believe there is a man in this House who wants to hurt the people who hunt and buy our fish and game licenses in Pennsylvania. I do not believe anybody in this House thought he was doing so when he voted for this bill.

I would like to read this letter from Logan J. Bennett, Executive Director, dated March 21st, addressed to the Budget Secretary, since it is not very long and it will point out what I am talking about.

> Our attention has been called to the provisions of House Bill No. 734, passage of which would seriously handicap the Pennsylvania Game Commission in the performance of many of our development and maintenance projects. For example, because of the highly seasonal nature of many of our activities, such as the propogation of game birds, agricultural development on State-owned Game Lands, surveys of lands purchased by the Commission, and the necessary employment of additional personnel to carry on these seasonal activties, it is imperative that the Commission be permitted to expend more than ⅛ of the total budget in the final quarter of any biennium.

We ask that you use your influence to have this proposed legislation reconsidered for the above reasons.

He gives no figures in his letter. But I have one before me from John S. Rice, Secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies, addressed to the Budget Secretary, dated March 22, 1957:

With reference to House Bill 734, we wish to submit the following information as to the effect the passage of this bill would have on the Department of Property and Supplies.

On the item of salaries and expenses, the appropriation was $6,583,000. One-eighth of this is $822,875. Our estimated expenses for March, April and May, 1957, are $1,079,165, which will leave us short $256,290. The increased expenditure in this last three months is necessary in order to take care of the cost of the Pittsburgh office building, Labor and Industry building, Health and Welfare building and Commonwealth Garage, which buildings were either completed and operation expenses assumed very recently or during this biennium.

On the item of capital services the amount of the appropriation plus augmentations was $3,-019,000. One-eighth of this is $377,376. Our estimated expenditures for March, April and May, 1957, are $823,235. This would leave us a shortage of $445,859. This increase in this three-month period is due to the increased cost of utilities for the four buildings as listed above.

If this act were passed, it would be impossible to pay our utility bill for these three months.

Also, we are about to award contracts for renovations to buildings which could not be done during the winter period, but which need to be done now and have been planned out of this appropriation.

The plans for spending this appropriation could not be formulated until after the appropriation bill was finally passed, which was very late in the biennium. Consequently, the repairs could not be made uniformly throughout the biennium.

I am not going to read all of this letter because it goes into more figures in relation to legislative and judicial printing and inspection of construction projects in the General State Authority, and so forth, indicating that there would be another shortage of $136,000 in the one item and $3,100 in another.

I am using this material to point out to you one fact, and that is, while it is well to have a short businesslike session, it is not well to rush bills through this House blindly relying on your leadership, or whoever is guiding you in such matters, without looking into some of these facts.

Frankly, I have no worry about this bill becoming law. I think the Governor would strike it down if it ever got to his desk. It obviously will, because it is half-way through the Senate now.

If you think, Members, it is good legislation to pass a bill of this kind and practically handcuff a department which we charge with certain functions, which we have given certain duties to carry out, then I certainly cannot agree.

I am asking you now for the balance of this session to at least slow up long enough to understand what you are doing. Otherwise, if you say now you knew what you were doing and you intended to do it, you might as well write back home and tell all the people who are interested in fish and game propagation, and so forth, that you are against them, because you are doing exactly what they do not want done when you vote for legislation of this kind.

It is not my purpose to stand here and chide anybody. I tried at the time this bill was being debated to point out some of these things, but I had no figures. I could only try to point out what would happen and could happen. You have before you now the facts given to us by people who know what will happen if such legislation is put on the books.

I ask in the future that we take a little more time and give some of these things more consideration, stop playing politics, if that is what we think it is, and vote for bills which will help, and stop voting for bills which are going to hurt.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WOOD asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Reading, I understand him to say the bill was amended over in the Senate to take out the Highway Department. Is that correct? He also said it was amended yesterday to include only the General Fund.

Mr. READINGER. That is right. It was amended in the Senate to restrict it to the General Fund appropriations.

Mr. WOOD. We do not consider the Game Commission or the Fish Commission in the General Fund, but if the gentleman wants to be sure about it, we are willing to take that out of it, because it was never the intention on this side of the House to include the Highway Department, or the Fish Commission, or the Game Commission.

I have here a statement on this matter and to save time I would like to file it and put it in the record.

As of Feb. 28, 1957, the Office of Administration, under the Governor, sent out a statement showing the balances remaining in the appropriations, after taking into account all expenditures, all requisitions and all encumbrances against those appropriations for the previous 21 months of the biennium.

In other words, the balances shown represent the amount of unexpended and uncommitted funds available for the last three months or one-eighth of the biennium.

The bill passed by this House, which was attacked here today, only proposes to limit the Departments, in their expenditures for salaries and expenses, to one-eighth of the original appropriation.

This means that if a Department received an appropriation of $1,600,000 for the 24-months, they could only spend $200,000 or one-eighth of the original appropriation in the last three months.

Here is how this would work out in practice, taking the appropriations for salaries and expenses in each case, for some of the larger departments is as follows:

1955-57	Appropriation	Balance February 28	One Eighth	Possible Saving
Governor's Office ..	1,080,000	260,240	135,000	$125,000
Dept. of Agriculture ..	4,950,000	892,931	619,000	173,000
Forests & Waters	6,949,000	787,919	868,500	.....
Dept. of Health	9,200,000	1,614,818	1,150,000	464,000
Insurance Dept.	2,100,000	493,000	262,500	231,000
Internal Affairs	1,895,074	488,135	236,600	252,000
Dept. of Justice	1,350,000	159,095	168,500	.....
Labor and Industry	5,400,000	905,000	650,000	255,000
Property and Supplies	6,583,000	1,421,000	824,000	597,000
Public Instruction ...	1,640,000	368,000	205,000	163,000
Dept. of Revenue ..	9,540,000	2,441,860	1,182,000	1,259,360
State Dept. ..	560,000	118,000	70,000	48,000
Welfare Dept.	143,550,000	29,253,580	17,840,000	11,413,000

But you say these Departments are spending more now than they did before.

If that is true in face of the fact that this Commonwealth is running into the red to the tune of $82,000,000, then I say it is high time that some curb be put on this spending and this legislation is more necessary than ever.

When you are running out of money, the wise man doesn't spend more, he spends less, so he doesn't go so far into the hole.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to prolong this, but I would like to point out to the gentleman from Lancaster that when we passed this bill in the House it pertained to all administrative bodies, boards and commissions, so the Fish Commission and Game Commission were included. The words "General Fund" were not in the bill until the Senate decided to insert them.

I am not arguing that it will interfere with the Fish and Game Commissions the way it is amended now, but I am arguing that we did that when this House passed the bill over our vehement opposition.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1957. 142nd of the General Assembly.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1957. No. 33.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1957

The Senate met at 10:00 o'clock, a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. J. B. WILLIAMS, Pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Harrisburg, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, in Whose hands are the issues of men and nations, we bow in humble reverence before Thee, and with grateful hearts we acknowledge Thy manifold blessings to us as a people.

Through all the changed and changing circumstances of life, Thou hast made and preserved us as a Nation. Where we have been obedient to Thy will, Thou hast favored us. Where we have pursued our selfish aims, Thou hast justly punished us. With chastened humility, we confess our daunted pride, our boasted security and our avowed self-dependence. In our conceit, we have trusted in our own strength and have forgotten that Thou alone art the source of all peace and abiding happiness.

Give to each one of us freshened courage, renewed hope, a clearer vision of our duty to Thee and our fellowman. Restore to us as a people honorable industry, sound learning and pure manners. Save us from violence and lawlessness, discord and confusion. Endue with Thy spirit these to whom in Thy name we entrust the authority of government, that there may be justice and peace at home for all of Thy citizens

In the time of prosperity, fill our hearts with thankfulness. In the day of trouble, suffer not our trust in Thee to fail, all of which we ask through Him, Who for our sakes became poor that we, through his poverty, might be made rich. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. MAHANY and Mr. MALLERY, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

An Act transferring money from the Special Disaster Relief Fund to the General Fund.

Whereupon,

The President pro tempore, (M. Harvey Taylor) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. At this time, the Chair invites the gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Scott, to the rostrum to preside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (William Z. Scott) in the Chair.

SECOND READING CALENDAR

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 11, entitled:

An Act relating to and regulating atomic development activities within the Commonwealth providing for the appointment of a Coordinator of Atomic Development Activities and fixing his duties and salary and requiring certain departments and agencies to make continuing studies and recommendations relative to atomic industrial development.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 62, entitled:

An Act granting ambulances and fire apparatus free passage over all turnpikes and extensions thereof under the supervision and control of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Watkins, I ask unanimous consent that the following bills, on second reading, go over in their order.

House Bill No. 204, Printer's No. 135; and

House Bill No. 205, Printer's No. 104.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 247. entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 3, 1937 (P. L. 1225) entitled "The Game Law" changing the definition of "unprotected birds" to exclude hawks in a certain area for a portion of each year.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Oredered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 279 (Pink), on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I have no objection today, but I hope that we may be able to act upon this bill on Monday of next week. I do not want it to appear on the Second Reading Calendar until we adjourn finally.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection the bill will go over in its order.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 292, Printer's No. 105, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 298, entitled:

An Act amending the act of August 21, 1953 (P. L. 1273) entitled "The Private Detective Act of 1953" providing for additional penalties for violation of the act

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SEYLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I have no opinion at all on the merits of Senate Bill No. 298. It has a very fine sponsor and, therefore, it must be a pretty good bill. However, I have not had an opportunity to read it.

Here again we have a case, Mr. President, of a bill in the pink. It has not appeared on my desk. I have not received a copy in the Caucus Room because we have not had a Caucus. There are several other bills on the Calendar which put me in the same situation.

I have been unable to read the bill and I have some objection to allowing bills to move without any of us, except the leaders at the desk, presumably, reading them. I hope they have had an opportunity to read them. Most of us have not read them.

If I had been in time, I would have asked for Senate Bill No. 298 to go over in its order. I will not ask for us to go back, but I would like to make the point with Senator Mahany. He assured me that he will use his good offices with the Rules Committee to give us some action on this to continue his undoubtedly assiduous efforts toward that end.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would like to inform Senator Seyler that Senate Bill No. 298 was reported from a very fine committee.

Mr. SEYLER. There is no question about that, Mr. President.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHANY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I will agree with Senator Seyler that he may have ample opporunity to study further this bill. We do not expect to act upon it until Monday, I hope he may take the opportunity, between now and Monday, to examine the contents of the bill.

However, Mr. President, I distinctly heard the Clerk read the bill. If Senator Seyler had been listening he probably would have heard the Clerk read the bill.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SEYLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, in order for my constituents and the general public not to take the wrong inference from the gentleman's remarks, I was present. However, I was engaged in a very important discussion with a gentleman from the other side at the time the bill moved. I just woke up to the fact that we were proceeding with unusual celerity and, when I jumped to my feet, it was too late to make a motion.

Therefore, I would not want the remarks made by Senator Mahany to stand in the record, implying that I was absent from the hall of the Senate.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I find myself concurring heartily with Senator Seyler. I think he should have all the time he requests to study this bill, because he might think I was employing the Pittsburgh muddle system when I was over talking to him at the time the bill passed second reading.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, for the information of the gentleman from York, Senator Seyler, during the 1951 Session of the Legislature we passed a Private Detective Law. Unfortunately, at that time, the sponsors of that bill neglected to put a penalty into the law and this bill just puts in a penalty for violation of the Private Detecive Law.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SEYLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for his explanation. If we would want to take the time, so that each time when one of these bills in the pink comes up, the sponsor could rise and give us an equally clear and lucid explanation of the bill, then I would have no objection, of course, to proceeding as we have been. It is in the absence of such clear and lucid explanation that I feel I need time to read the bills.

SECOND READING CALENDAR

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the following bills, on second reading, go over in their order:

Senate Bill No. 316 (Pink); and Senate Bill No. 317 (Pink).

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 341, entitled:

An Act amending the act of August 21, 1953 (P. L. 1273) entitled "The Private Detective Act of 1953" permitting former members of the Pennsylvania State Police to apply for license.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, for the information of my colleagues, I would say that the only thing this bill does is to permit a former Pennsylvania State Policeman to apply for a license under the Private Detective Act of 1953.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 352, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872) entitled "The Penal Code" defining imprisonment in relation to the crime of prison breach.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, if Senator Seyler wants an explanation of this bill, we will call on the sponsor and have him explain the bill to Senator Seyler.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I think I have made my point about this procedure. I am willing to let this bill, and other bills in the pink, go through today with the understanding that amendments will be permitted on third reading without objection.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 365, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Public Instruction to promote highway safety education

And said bill having been read at length the second time

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

and agreed to,

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 35 (Pink), the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 376, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 27, 1923 (P. L. 858) entitled "State Employes' Retirement Law" further providing for payment of compensation to judges upon retirement under certain conditions and imposing duties on certain State officers.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 377, entitled:

An Act amending the act of January 21, 1947 (P. L. 3) entitled "An act relating to officers and employes of the General Assembly * * *" changing the compensation of certain officers and employes.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I would like to offer amendments to Senate Bill No. 377, Printer's No. 103, and also make a brief comment about the amendments.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, may we be at ease?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, at the request of the leaders on both sides, I will not offer the amendments at this time, with the understanding that the bill will go over in its order until Monday.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I now ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 377, Printer's No. 103, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 406, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor to sell and convey a tract of land situate in the Borough of Lewistown Mifflin County Pennsylvania to The General State Authority.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 409, (Pink), on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code" changing the period of titling now two-axle commercial motor vehicles and truck tractors in certain classes.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 487, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 29, 1937 (P. L. 2423) entitled as amended "An act establishing a Pennsylvania State Police Retirement System * * *," changing the definition of "final salary" upon which a contributor's retirement allowance is based.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 499, entitled:

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

LEGISLATIVE SCHEDULE

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I desire to state to the Members of the Senate that we expect to go into recess shortly, until one o'clock, to await any communications from the House. After we receive the communications from the House, we will adjourn. Therefore, the Members will not have to stay for that purpose.

I had originally intended that we should have a Session tomorrow. However, since making that announcement last week, I find that the House is not going to meet tomorrow. We have pretty well cleaned up our Calendar and, therefore, there will not be any necessity for a Session tomorrow. I hope, however, that we will be able to hold a four-day Session next week and have the succeeding week of the Session in recess, including Easter Monday.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair thanks the gentleman for that information.

INTERROGATION

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I want to find out the fate of a certain resolution which I introduced yesterday. I wish to know whether its fate will be sealed during this recess.

Mr. President, I would like to ascertain as to whether or not that innocuous resolution, which I introduced yesterday, is already through the stage of perusal and examination. I would like to know whether or not when we reconvene, I could move for its adoption.

Mr. MAHANY. I did not understand your last sentence.

Mr. STIEFEL. I wonder whether that resolution which I introduced yesterday, which is a very innocuous, inoffensive, commendable resolution dealing with cultural matters, has already been perused and examined so that I can move for its adoption after we reconvene at one o'clock.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, to answer the gentleman's question, as I understand it, the resolution was not referred to the Rules Committee. It was referred to the Education Committee, although I thought it was going to be referred to the Rules Committee.

I have not had an opportunity of checking this with Senator Wagner, who is the Chairman of the Education Committee. However, I will do so and if he is ready to report it out, we can then act upon it at one o'clock. Otherwise, I would suggest that you let it go until next Monday.

Mr. STIEFEL. Thank you.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman delay that motion to recess for a few minutes? I think we have everything from the House that is coming over today.

Mr. MAHANY. Yes, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE BILL No. 281

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 281, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (Appropriation Acts page 120 Act of No. 150-A) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth for two years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five" decreasing appropriations to the Department of Revenue with the information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

BILL SIGNED

The President pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (Appropriation Acts page 120 Act No. 150-A) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth for two years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred fifty-five" decreasing appropriations to the Department of Revenue.

Whereupon,

The President pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (William Z. Scott) in the Chair.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, April 8, 1957, at 4:00 o'clock p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The Motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11:14 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Monday, April 8, 1957, at 4:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, April 3, 1957

The House met at 10:00 a.m.
The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Thomas F. Luce, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Kittanning, Pa., guest Chaplain and guest of the Speaker, Mr. Helm, offered the following prayer:

O Thou to Whom we owe the gift of this day's life, give to us also, we beseech Thee, the spirit to use it as we ought.

Help us to stand this day for whatever is pure and just and true and good for the advancement of science and education and true learning for the rights of the weak and the oppressed for the conservation of the rich tradtiions of the past for the recognition of new workings of Thy Spirit in the minds of the men of our own time. ''

Hear us now as we call down Thy blessing upon all of the people of this Commonwealth. We remember especially before Thee, those who are in special need:

those who are in debt or poverty those whose homes are broken those who suffer sickness of mind or body in our hospitals those whose work is a burden to them and those who can find no work to do all prisoners
all the lost sheep of our human society.

Lay the burdens of these upon the hearts of the strong and able, and give us such wisdom and compassion that we may serve one another in all lowliness.

Use the labors of this assembly this day to further Thy righteous and loving purpose among all of our people.

Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. DOWN, WILLARD and MURPHY.

RESOLUTION No. 76.

In the House of Representatives, April 2, 1957.

Sharon High School won the P. I. A. A. Class A high school basketball championship by defeating the Chester High School basketball team in the University of Pennsylvania's Palestra in Philadelphia, on Saturday, March 30, 1957.

The expert play, fine spirit and clean sportsmanship of the winning team reflects credit on itself, its coaches, its school, and the faculty of the school.

The play of the losing team was also of a high quality, and served to display its own fine mettle and ability while competing against the team which justly deserves the State championship of its class; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extend to the coaches and players of the Sharon High School basketball team its sincere and hearty congratulations on their magnificent victory in the final game of the P. I. A. A. Class A basketball championship playoff; and be it further

Resolved, That the congratulations of the House of Representatives be extended to the coaches and players of the Chester High School basketball team for their fine efforts in the P. I. A. A. Class A championship game; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk be directed to send a copy of this resolution to Sharon and Chester High Schools.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1040, entitled:

An Act amending the "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," approved March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228)

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the second reading postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, on this motion to place this bill upon the Second Reading Postponed Calendar, I want to say I am opposed to this motion due to the fact that we certainly are not keeping faith with the Governor if we do not have these amendments prepared which they agreed to put into this bill today.

I said yesterday I could not see any reason for the speed. Today we find the speed is all over. You are not keeping faith.

I would suggest to the Governor of Pennsylvania that he veto the bill he now has before him due to the fact that you have not kept faith to have these amendments ready this morning.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I want to report to the House that the Republican conferees on the bill met yesterday afternoon and went over the rough draft which had been submitted by the Attorney General. We found them generally acceptable but there are one or two points of possible difference.

We came back after dinner last night and worked about another hour on them. The Members of the minority, by reason of a previous engagement, could not meet with us last evening. We are going to meet with them immediately after this Session.

The plan was to hold a caucus of the Republican Members, and I believe perhaps the Democratic Members would want to caucus at the close of our calendar today, to discuss the situation.

I therefore moved to place the bill on the Second Reading Postponed Calendar and have it remain there until we have had an opportunity to call a caucus, at least of the Republican Members, to discuss the situation and get permission from my caucus for further action with respect to the bill.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, it was my intention to ask for a Democratic Caucus during today's session when we had completed some of the other bills on the calendar.

As stated by the Majority Floor Leader, the amendments which have been discussed are to be prepared for presentation today before this session adjourns for the week.

We want to caucus on them as soon as we are able to do so and discuss the whole situation.

I agree fully with the motion to place this bill on the postponed calendar so that the amendments can be offered today and not next week.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, is it the gentleman's program that these amendments should not be considered prior to the time the Governor must act upon the tax bill which is on his desk?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, what I had hoped to do today was call a caucus of the Republican Members and endeavor to explain to them substantially what we had agreed upon with respect to these amendments.

We felt last evening it would not be good faith to have amendments drafted last evening without first having sat down with the minority and the Attorney General and completely agreeing on the amendments. What we would like to do is clear this calendar and then have a caucus and in so for as possible explain the matter to our Caucus and to yours, if you can get somebody to explain what has been done, and then have the amendments prepared and offer them later today.

Those who care to stay to debate the amendments, or any other matter, would be privileged to do so. That is one of the things we had in mind and we felt it very important that we have a caucus and get permission from our caucus.

To answer your question, yes, I would like very much before we go home this week to have an amended bill. Then we can send it out to the Members as soon as it is in print so they will have an opportunity to read it and know what is in the bill when they return next Monday and the bill is on third reading.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

In view of the situation as it has developed, it would be my opinion that it is the duty of the majority to maintain a working force and make certain the amendments are either in or out of the bill today. We should have assurance that that will be done, that the amendments either go into the bill today or they do not go into the bill today.

It will be possible then for the executive to act more intelligently upon the bill which he now has on his desk.

We should have enough Members in the House and enough Members on the majority side to make certain the amendments either stand or fall today.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 582, entitled:

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. OGILVIE ffrom the Committee on State Government, reported as committed, House Bill No. 446, entitled:

An Act amending the compact contained in the act of June 5, 1937 (P. L. 1664), entitled "An act to ratify and adopt a compact or agreement negotiated by commissioners designated by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and commissioners designated by the Governor of the State of Ohio, relative to the development, use and control of the Pymatuning Lake * * *," fixing the speed and horsepower of motor boats allowed on the lake; limiting operation of motor boats and prescribing penalties.

Mr. LUTTY from the Committee on State Government, reported as amended, House Bill No. 516, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor to acquire 253.1 acres, more or less, of land in Suippery Rock Township, Butler County, for use of Slippery Rock Teachers College; and making an appropriation.

Mr. PRICE from the Committee on State Government, reported as committed, House Bill 539, entitled:

An Act providing for the payment of the salary, medical and hospital expenses of employes of State penal and correctional institutions who are injured in the performance of their duty and providing benefit to their widows and dependents in certain cases.

Mr. POLASKI from the Committee on State Government, reported as committed, House Bill No. 619, entitled:

An Act amending the "Law Fixing Annual Charge on Forest Lands," approved May 17, 1929 (P. L. 1798), changing limitations on the responsibility of the Commonwealth to pay charges to counties on certain Federal forest reserves.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. Without objection the Chair will declare a thirty-minute recess for the purpose of holding Republican and Democratic caucuses immediately. The Chair would like to advise the respective caucuses the House will reconvene at exactly 11:30 o'clock.

The Chair hears no objection and now declare a thirty-minute recess.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) IN THE CHAIR

CONGRATULATIONS

The SPEAKER. Today is the anniversary of the birth of the lady from Philadelphia, Mrs. Pashley. The Chair normally sends a greeting card to every Member of the House on their birthday, but was informed that the lady did not give her birthdate to the Chief Clerk's Office. The Chair wishes to inform the lady his Gestapo has found out that today is her birthday and the Chair extends greetings to her.

The Chair recognizes the lady from Philadelphia, Mrs. Pashley.

Mrs. PASHLEY. Mr. Speaker, I did not know we were required to give our birth dates to the Chief Clerk's office. It is in the Manual. I wish to thank everybody in the House. It has been very nice spending my birthday here today and I am glad I will be spending the remainder of it in Philadelphia tonight.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we have no further business at this time and I suggest the Chair declare a recess until 5:00 o'clock for purpose of offering amendments as previously indicated.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. Without objection, the Chair will declare a recess until 5:00 p. m. The Chair hears no objection, and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) IN THE CHAIR

RECESS

The SPEAKER. Without objection, the Chair will declare a recess until 10:00 p. m. The Chair hears none, and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) IN THE CHAIR

BILL ON SECOND READING POSTPONED

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I call up from the second reading postponed calendar, House Bill No. 1040.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar, by Mr. JOHNSON.

The House resumed the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 1040, entitled:

An Act amending the "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," approved March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228).

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. JOHNSON offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 1, by striking out "Section" where it appears the second time and inserting in lieu thereof "Clause (f) of section 2."

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 2, by striking out "amended" and inserting in lieu thereof "added May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707)."

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 3, by striking out "to read" and inserting in lieu thereof by adding at the end, a new clause to read:

Section 2. Definitions.—The following words, terms and phrases when used in this act shall have the meaning ascribed to them in this section, except where the context clearly indicates a different meaning:

(f) "Purchase Price."

(5) With respect to the tax imposed by subsection (b) of section 201 upon any tangible personal property originally purchased by the user of such property six months or longer prior to the first taxable use of such property within the Commonwealth, such user may elect to pay tax on a substituted base determined by considering the purchase price of such property for tax purposes to be equal to the prevailing market price of similar personal property at the time and place of such first use within the Commonwealth. Such election must be made by filing a notice thereof in the form specified by the department and reporting such tax liability and paying the proper tax due plus all accrued penalties and interest, if there be any, within one year of the due date of such report and payment, as provided for by subsection (a) and (c) of section 520 of this act.

tax liability and paying the proper tax due plus all accrued penalties and interest, if there be any, within one year of the due date of such report and payment, as provided for by subsections (a) and (c) of section 520 of this act.

* * *

Amend Sec. 2, page 2, line 4, by striking out "This act shall take effect immediately" and inserting in lieu thereof

Section 541 of the act, amended April , 1957 (Act No.) is amended to read:

Section 541. Mode and Time of Assessment.— (a) Underpayment of Tax. Within a reasonable time after any return is filed, the department shall examine it and, if the return shows a greater tax due or collected than the amount of tax remitted with the return, the department shall [forthwith assess] issue an assessment for the difference. The difference shown on the assessment, together with an addition of three percent of such difference shall be paid to the department within ten days after a notice of the assessment has been mailed to the taxpayer.

(b) Understatement of Tax. If the department determines that any return or returns of any taxpayer understates the amount of tax due, it shall [assess] determine the proper amount and shall [determine] ascertain the difference between the amount of tax shown in the return and the amount [assessed] determined such difference being hereafter sometimes referred to as the "deficiency." A notice of assessment for the deficiency shall then be sent to the taxpayer. Such notice shall set forth in a reasonable manner the basis of the assessment. The deficiency shall be paid to the department within thirty days after a notice of the assessment thereof has been mailed to the taxpayer.

(c) Failure to File Return. In the event that any taxpayer fails to file a return required by this act, the department may make an estimated assessment (based on [the best] information available) of the proper amount of tax owing by the taxpayer [and the]. A notice of assessment in the estimated amount shall be sent to the taxpayer. The tax shall be paid within thirty days after a notice of such estimated assessment has been mailed to the taxpayer.

(d) [Notice of Assessment or Estimated Assessment. The notice of any assessment or estimated assessment shall set forth explicity and in detail the amount of such assessment or estimated assessment and the grounds for making the assessment or estimated assessment.] Authority to Establish Effective Rates by Business Classification. The department is authorized to make the studies necessary to compute effective rates by business classification, based upon the ratio between the tax reuqired to be collected and taxable sales and to use such rates in arriving at the apparent tax liability of a taxpayer.

Any assessment based upon such rates shall be prima facie correct, except that such rate shall not be considered where a taxpayer establishes that such rate is based on a sample inapplicable to him.

Section 3. Section 542 of the act, amended May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707) is amended to read:

Section 542. Reassessment.—Any taxpayer against whom an assessment is made may petition the department for a reassessment. Notice of an intention to file such a petition shall be given to the department [prior to the time the assessment becomes due and payable] within thirty days of the date the notice of assessment was mailed to the taxpayer, except that the department for due cause may accept such notice within ninety days of the date the notice of assessment was mailed. A petition for reassessment shall thereafter be filed within thirty days of the receipt by the department of the notice of intention. Such petition shall set forth in reasonable detail the grounds upon which the taxpayer claims that the assessment is erroneous or unlawful, in whole or in part, and shall be accompanied by an affidavit or affirmation that the facts contained therein are true and correct. An extension of time for filing the petition may be allowed for cause but in no case shall such extension exceed one hundred twenty days. The department shall hold such hearings as may be necessary for the purpose, at such times and places as it may determine, and each taxpayer who has duly [notified the department of an intention to file a] filed such petition for reassessment shall be notified by the department of the time when, and the place where, such hearing in his case will be held. [A petition for reassessment, if filed, shall set forth explicitly and in detail the grounds upon which the taxpayer claims that the assessment is erroneous or unlawful, in whole or in part, and shall be accompanied by an affidavit under oath or affirmation certifying to the facts stated in the petition.]

It shall be the duty of the department, within six months [after the hearing, or] after receiving a filed petition for reassessment, to dispose of the issue raised [at such hearing or by such filed petition. Notice of the action taken shall be given to the petitioner promptly after the date of reassessment by the department] by such petition and mail notice of the department's decision to the petitioner: Provided, however, That the taxpayer and the department may, by stipulation, extend such disposal time by not more than six additional months.

Section 4. The act is amended by adding after section 542 a new section to read:

Section 542.1. Assessment to Recover Erroneous Refunds.—The department may, within two years of the granting of any refund or credit, or within the period in which an assessment could have been filed by the department with respect to the transaction pertaining to which the refund was granted, whichever period shall last occur, file an assessment to recover any refund or part thereof or credit or part thereof which was erroneously made or allowed.

Section 5. Section 543 of the act, amended May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707), is amended to read:

Section 543. Review by Board of Finance and Revenue.—Within sixty days after the date of mailing of notice by the department of the [action taken] decision on any petition for reassessment filed with it, [or after the department's failure to act within the time specified] the person against whom such assessment was made may, by petition, request the Board of Finance and Revenue to review such [action] decision. The failure of the department to notify the petitioner of a decision within the time provided for by section 542 shall act as a denial of such petition, and a petition for review may be filed with the Board of Finance and Revenue within one hundred twenty days of the date prior to which the department should have mailed to the petitioner its notice of decision. Every petition for review filed hereunder shall state specifically the reasons on which the petitioner relies, or shall incorporate by reference the petition for reassessment in which the reasons are stated. The petition shall be supported by affidavit that it is not made for the purpose of delay and that the facts set forth therein are true. The Board of Finance and Revenue shall act finally in disposing of petitions filed with it within six months after they have been received. In the event of the failure of the board to dispose of any petition within six months, the action taken by the department, upon the petition for reassessment, shall be sustained. The Board of Finance and Revenue may sustain the action taken by the department on the petition for reassessment, or it may reassess the tax due on such basis as it deems according to law. The board shall give notice of its action [by mail] to the department and to the petitioner.

Section 6. Subsection (c) of section 546 of the act, amended April 1957 (Act No.), is amended to read:

Section 546. Collection of Tax.—* * *

(c) Exemption Certificates. If the tax does not apply to the sale or lease of tangible personal property, the purchaser or leassee shall furnish to the vendor a certificate indicating that the sale is not legally subject to the tax. The certificate shall be in substantially such form as the department may by regulation prescribe. Where the tangible personal property is of a type which is never subject to the tax imposed or where the sale or lease is in interstate commerce, such certificate need not be furnished. Where the identity of the purchaser or user is such that all transactions with such person are never subject to tax, such purchaser or user may furnish the vendor with a single exemption certificate. An exemption certificate, which on its face discloses a valid basis of exemption, if taken in good faith, shall relieve the vendor from any liability for the tax:

Section 7. The act is amended by adding, after section 546, a new section to read:

Section 546.1. Collection of Tax on Motor Vehicles, Trailers and Semi-Trailers.—Notwithstanding the provisions of section 546 (b) (1) of this act, tax due on the sale at retail of a motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer by persons other than those registered with the department in "Dealer's Class" under the provisions of section 408 of The Vehicle Code of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) and the tax due upon the use of a motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer shall be collected by the department upon application to the department for an issuance of a certificate of title upon such motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer. The department shall not issue a certificate of title until the tax has been paid, or evidence satisfactory to the department has been given to establish that tax is not due.

Section 8. Section 550 of the act is amended to read:

Section 550. Refund or Credit for Overpayment.— [In] With respect to all taxes paid to a vendor or to the Commonwealth prior to the effective date of this amending act, in the case of any overpayment, the department, within the applicable period of limitations, may credit the amount of such overpayment against any liability in respect of the tax imposed by this act on the part of the person who made the overpayment and shall refund any balance to such person.

Section 9. Section 551 of the act, amended April , 1957 (Act No.), is repealed.

Section 10. The act is amended by adding, after section 550, six new sections to read:

Section 551. Restriction on Refunds.—No refund shall be made under section 550 without the approval of the Board of Finance and Revenue.

Section 552. Refunds.—The department shall, pursuant to the provisions of sections 553 and 554, refund all taxes which have been erroneously collected or paid over to the person who actually paid the tax: Provided, That no refund shall be made under this section with respect to any payment made by reason of that portion of an assessment with respect to which a taxpayer has filed a petition for reassessment pursuant to section 542 of this act.

Section 553. Refund Petition. Except as provided for in section 556, the refund or credit of tax, interest or penalty erronoeusly collected or paid provided for by section 552 shall be made only where the person who has actually paid the tax files a petition for refund with the department within eighteen months of the actual payment of the tax to the Commonwealth. Such petition for refund must set forth in detail the grounds upon which the taxpayer claims that payment or collection was erroneous, in whole or in part, and shall be accompanied by an affidavit affirming that the facts contained therein are true and correct. The department may hold such hearings as may be necessary for the purpose at such times and places as it may determine, and each person who has duly filed a refund petition shall be notified by the department of the time when, and the place where, such hearing in his case will be held.

It shall be the duty of the department, within six months after receiving a petition for refund, to dispose of the issue raised by such petition, and mail notice of the department's decision to the petitioner: Provided, however, That the taxpayer and the department may, by stipulation, extend such disposal time by not more than six additional months.

Section 554. Review by Board of Finance and Revenue. Within sixty days after the date of mailing of notice by the department of the decision upon a petition for refund filed with it, pursuant to section 553, the peitioner may further petition the Board of Finance and Revenue to review the decision of the department. The failure of the department to notify the petitioner of its decision within the time provided for by section 553 shall act as a denial of such petition, and a petition for review may be filed with the Board of Finance and Revenue within one hundred twenty days of the date prior to which the department should have mailed to the petitioner its notice of decision. Every petition for review filed with the Board of Finance and Revenue under the provisions of this section shall incorporate by reference the petition for refund. The petitioner may, in his petition for review, elect to withdraw one or more grounds as set out in the original refund petition. The Board of Finance and Revenue shall act finally in disposing of such petitions filed with it within six months after they have been received. In the event of the failure of the board to dispose of any petition within six months, the action taken by the department upon the petition for refund shall be sustained. The Board of Finance and Revenue may sustain the action taken by the department on a petition for refund, or it may redetermine whether a lesser or greater amount of refund is proper. Under no circumstances may the Board of Finance and Revenue authorize a refund greater than that originally applied for by the petitioner. The board shall give notice of its action to the department and to the petitioner.

Section 555. Appeal to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County. Any person aggrieved by the decision of the Board of Finance and Revenue under section 554, or by the board's failure to act upon a petition for review within six months may, within sixty days, appeal to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County from the decision of the board or of the department, as the case may be, in the manner now or hereafter provided for by law for appeals and in the case of tax settlements.

Section 556. Extended Time for Filing Special Petition for Refund. Any party to a transaction who has paid tax by reason of a transaction with respect to which the department is assessing tax against another person may, within six months after the filing by the department of the assessment against such other person, file a special petition for refund, notwithstanding his failure to file a regular petition within eighteen months of the payment. The provisions of sections 553, 554 and 555 shall be applicable to such special petition for refund, except that the department need not act on such peition until there is a final determination as to the propriety of the assessment filed against the other party to the transaction. Where a petition is filed under this provision in order to take advantage of the extended period of limitations, overpayments by the petitioner shall be refunded but only to the extent of the actual tax (without consideration of interest and penalties) paid by the other party to the transaction. The purpose of this section is to avoid duplicate payment of tax where a determination is made by the department that one party to a transaction is subject to tax, and another party to the transaction has previously paid tax with respect to such transaction and, as such, this section shall be construed as extending right beyond that provided for by section 553, and not to limit such other section.

Section 11. Subsections (a) and (b) of section 571, section 572 and subsections (a) and (c) of section 581 of the act, amended April 1957 (Act No.) are amended to read:

Section 571. Additions to Tax. (a) Failure to File Return. In the case of failure to file any return required by section 501 on the date prescribed therefor (determined with regard to any etxension of time for filing), and in the case in which a return filed after July 1, 1957 understates the true amount due by more than fifty percent there shall be added to the amount [required to be shown as tax on such return] of tax actually due five percent of the amount of such tax if the failure to file a proper return is for not more than one month, with an additional five percent for each additional month, or fraction thereof, during which such failure continues, not exceeding twenty-five percent in the aggregate. In [all cases the amount added shall be a minimum of two dollars ($2)] every such case at least two dollars ($2) shall be added .

(b) [Failure to Pay Tax Through Negligence or Fraud.

(1) If any part of any deficiency is due to negligence or intentional disregard to rules and regulations (but without intent to defraud), there] Addition for Understatement. There shall be added to [the tax an amount] every assessment under subsection (b) of section 541 an addition equal to five percent of the [underpayment. The mere eixstence of a deficiency shall not constitute such negligence or intentional disregard of rules and regulations] amount of the understatement.

[(2) If any part of any deficiency is due to fraud, there shall be added to the tax an amount equal to fifty percent of the deficiency. This amount shall be in lieu of any amount determined under paragraph (1) of this subsection.]

Section 572. Penalties. (a) Penalty Assessed as Tax. The penalties, additions, interest and liabilities provided by this act shall be paid upon notice and demand by the department, and shall be assessed and collected in the same manner as taxes. Except as otherwise provided, any reference in this act to "tax" imposed by this act shall be deemed also to refer to the penalties, additions, interest and liabilities provided by this Part.

(b) Attempt to Evade or Defeat Tax. Any person who wilfully attempts, in any manner, to evade or defeat the tax imposed by this act, or the payment thereof, or to assist any other person to evade or defeat the tax imposed by this act, or the payment thereof, or to receive a refund improperly, shall, in addition to other penalties provided by law, be liable for a penalty equal to one-half of the total amount of the tax evaded.

Section 581. Keeping of Records. (a) General Provisions. Every person liable for any tax imposed by this act, or for the collection thereof, shall keep the records, render such statements, make the returns and comply with such rules and regulations as the department may, from time to time, prescribe, [in so far as the information which may be required is within the knowledge of the person required to make such return] regarding matters pertinent to his business. Whenever in the judgment of the department it is necessary, it may require any person, by notice served upon such person, or by regulations, to make such returns, render such statements or keep such records as the department deems sufficient to show whether or not such person is liable to pay or collect tax under this act.

(c) Records of Non-residents. A non-resident who does business in this Commonwealth as a retail dealer shall keep adequate records of such business or businesses and of the tax due with respect thereto, which records shall at all times be retained within this Commonwealth unless retention outside the Commonwealth is authorized by the department. No taxes collected from purchasers shall be sent outside the Commonwealth without the written consent of, and in accordance with conditions prescribed by the department. The department may require a taxpayer who desires to retain records or tax collections outside the Commonwealth to assume reasonable out-of-state audit expenses.

Section 12. Section 585 of the act amended May 24, 1956 (P. L. 1707) and April , 1957 (Act No.) is amended to read:

Section 585. Bonds.—(a) Taxpayer to File Bond. Whenever the department, in its discretion, deems it necessary to protect the revenues to be obtained under the provisions of this act, it may require any nonresident natural person or any foreign corporation, either not authorized to do business within this Commonwealth or not having an established place of business therein and subject to the tax imposed by section 201 of this act, to file a bond issued by a surety company authorized to do business in this Commonwealth and approved by the insurance commissioner as to solvency and responsibility, in such amounts as it may fix, to secure the payment of any tax or penalties due, or which may become due, from such natural person or corporation. The department may also require such a bond of any person petitioning the department for reassessment, in the case of any assessment over five hundred dollars ($500) or where it is of the opinion that the ultimate collection is in jeopardy. The department may, for a period of three years, require a bond of any person who has on three or more occasions within a twelve month period either filed a return or made payment to the department more than thirty days late. In the event that the department determines that a taxpayer is to file such a bond, it shall give notice to such taxpayer to that effect, specifying the amount of the bond required. The taxpayer shall file such bond within five days after the giving of such notice by the department unless, within such five days, the taxpayer shall request, in writing, a hearing before the Secretary of Revenue or his representative at which hearing the necessity, propriety and amount of the bond shall be determined by the secretary or such representative. Such determination shall be final and shall be complied with within fifteen days after [the taxpayer is given] notice thereof is mailed to the taxpayer.

(b) Securities in Lieu of Bond. In lieu of the bond required by this section, securities approved by the department, or cash in such amount as [he] it may prescribe, may be deposited. Such securities or cash shall be kept in the custody of the department who may, at any time without notice to the depositor, apply them to any tax and/or interest or penalties due, and for that purpose the securities may be sold by the department at public or private sale, upon five days written notice to the depositor.

(c) Failure to File Bond. The department may file a lien pursuant to section 548 against any taxpayer who fails to file a bond when required to do so under this section. All funds received in liquidation of such lien shall be refunded to the taxpayer with three percent interest should a final determination be made that he does not owe any payment to the department.

Section 13. This act shall take effect immediately.

They were agreed to.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. JOHNSON offered the following amendment:

Amend Title, page 2, line 1 of Title, by inserting after "appropriation": "changing the procedure for the collection of the tax and the administration of the act and providing appeals."

It was agreed to.

The title was agreed to as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, April 8, 1957, at 4:30 p. m.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 8, 1957. No. 34.

SENATE

MONDAY, April 8, 1957.

The Senate met at 4:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. HARRY T. RICHWINE, Pastor of Salem Luthern Church, Lebanon, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

God of our fathers, in Whom we trust, under Whose guidance this Commonwealth was established and by Whose grace it has been preserved and sustained, before we become involved in the routine of business, we lift our hearts to Thee in prayer. We pause before Thee, not out of mere sentiment or custom or convention, but out of our deep sense of need.

Let not the blessings of this day, nor the glow of good health, nor our present prosperity, nor pride in our own accomplishments deceive us into a false reliance upon our own strength and blind us to our constant need of Thee.

We thank Thee that this land is governed still by the people's elected representatives and now, as these chosen men discharge their duties, guide them, O God, in the decisions they must make. Give them humble, open minds, good and honest hearts, free from narrowness and prejudice and conceit.

Bless the Members of this Senate with good health and with good sense to preserve it, amidst the tensions and the burdens and the anxieties of their office. May this minute of prayer find each one of us reaching out unto Thee for help, and when this prayer is over, let us not forget Thee in the day and in the work which is to continue. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. PECHAN and Mr. DERK, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Messrs. MAHANY and DENT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 548, entitled:

An Act creating the Pennsylvania Power Authority as a body corporate and politic; defining its powers and duties; authorizing the issuance of bonds; granting it the right of eminent domain; and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SILVERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, at the last Session of the Legislature, three Members of the Senate, including myself, introduced a bill to reduce the age whereby a person committing a crime could be considered a juvenile delinquent from eighteen to seventeen years. This bill failed to come out of committee.

I should like, Mr. President, to refer to an editorial which appeared in the Philadelphia Bulletin on April 4, 1957. It reads as follows:

"That it is time for a major change in the handling of juvenile criminals in this city is evident from the report of the Detective Bureau that of the 28 boys arrested last week, 22 are repeaters. Among the repeaters are the three who murdered a druggist during a hold-up."

Mr. President, juvenile delinquents today commit crimes ranging from petty crimes to murder. We have no space in which to keep these juvenile delinquents. Very often, they are left go for that reason. There are juvenile delinquents committing such serious crimes that they deserve no coddling nor specialized treatment. Many are approaching the age limit after which they would be treated as adults and subjected to adult punishment.

Mr. President, this editorial goes on to say:

"Lowering of the juvenile age limit is one change that seems worth study."

I am, therefore, introducing this bill, Mr. President, to reduce the juvenile age limit from eighteen to seventeen. I hope it will receive better consideration than the last bill did.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. SILVERT read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 549, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 2, 1933 (P. L. 1433), entitled "The Juvenile Court Law," limiting the provisions of the act to children under seventeen years of age; limiting the powers of courts in certain cases, and excluding certain minors.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Messrs. SILVERT, SCHMIDT, WEINER and CAMIEL read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 550, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 5, 1933 (P. L. 284) entitled, as amended, "Malt Beverage Tax Law" by prescribing malt beverage tax rates for certain original containers of standard fractions thereof, and providing for refunds of tax for malt or brewed beverages and requiring the presence of the agent or representative of the Liquor Control Board to witness the destruction of malt or brewed beverages.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, this bill intends to apply only to cities of the First Class. There was a time when they called the State of Wisconsin the laboratory of the Nation. Perhaps Philadelphia will become the laboratory of Pennsylvania and we will experiment on guinea pig projects. However, in my opinion, this is not a guinea pig project because it deals with a very serious situation, especially in the realm of freedom and democracy.

Each day, we define new freedoms. This would be a freedom from interference by goons. In Philadelphia, we have an importation of goons from Chicago and New York who establish collection agencies. Then, with strong-arm methods, they are trying to intimidate people by threatening wives to make relations to husbands, threatening scandals in the families and threatening embarrassment of children because parents do not pay certain debts. This must be stopped. The only way to stop this is to eliminate these goons and they can be eliminated if the Department of Banking would keep a vigilent eye upon the operations of these agencies.

Mr. President, early in the Session, I introduced a similar bill for the entire State. It was referred to Senator Propert's committee and, in my absence, it was pulverized, cremated and buried.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am introducing this bill only for cities of the First Class.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 551, entitled:

An Act relating to collection agencies; providing for and regulating the licensing of collection agencies and collectors in cities of the first class; granting powers and imposing duties on the Secretary of Banking, prescribing unlawful acts and imposing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Messrs. WALKER, WHALLEY and KROMER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 552, entitled:

An Act regulating free public nonsectarian libraries in counties, cities, and townships of the first class having a population of seventy thousand or more; providing for their establishment and maintenance; imposing duties on boards of county commissioners, city councils and certain township supervisors conferring powers and imposing duties on the Department of Public Instruction; providing for State aid; prescribing penalties and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Messrs. SCHMIDT, SILVERT and WEINER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 553, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 12, 1951 (P. L. 533) entitled "The Mental Health Act of 1951," changing limitations with respect to guardians in certain cases.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

They also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 554, entitled:

An Act to eliminate the requirement of certificates evidencing payment of bonus, taxes and charges in cases of merger or consolidation of certain corporations, whenever the surviving or new corporation is a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation duly authorized to do business in Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Corporations.

Mr. WEINER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 555, entitled:

An Act relating to mechanics liens and making wages due or owing to workmen or laborers in connection therewith a first lien on distribution of any payments recovered thereon.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

He also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 556, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 7, 1937 (P. L. 589), entitled as amended "An act providing for the taking over by the Commonwealth under certain terms conditions and limitations, of certain streets in cities of the first class as State highways, and for the improvement, construction, reconstruction, resurfacing, and maintenance by the Commonwealth of said streets; . . .," changing or adding certain routes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

He also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 557, entitled:

An Act relating to and regulating the solicitation of moneys and property.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

He also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 558, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905), entitled "The Vehicle Code," requiring optometrist's or physician's statement of normal or correctable vision with applications for learner's permits and prohibiting issuance on noncompliance.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Messrs. VAN SANT, WATSON, SARRAFF, McGINNIS and BARR read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 559, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90), entitled "Liquor Code," permitting liquor licensees to elect to operate under daylight saving time when such time is generally being observed in that municipality.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

Mr. MILLER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 560, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 25, 1947 (P. L. 1145), entitled as amended, "Local Tax Enabling Law," granting income tax deductions to residents of other states if similar deductions are granted to Pennsylvania residents.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION
TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. WHALLEY offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, April 8, 1957.

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Tuesday, April 23, 1957 at four o'clock, p.m., E.S.T., unless sooner recalled by the President Pro Tempore; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Tuesday, April 23, 1957 at four-thirty o'clock, p.m., E.S.T., unless sooner recalled by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I am about to present a resolution to this Body. However, prior to doing so, I would like to read to the Senate a letter, dated March 23, addressed to the reader. It reads in part as follows:

"We would like to ask your help on a certain facet of the recent investigation conducted by the Water Power and Resources Board on February 18 and 25, 1957, pertinent to the Green Spring Hatchery Company and its activities upon the Big Spring.

"It has been ascertained by personal conversation with a Mr. Mazzolla, Deputy Attorney General, assigned to Highways, that he personally instructed Mr. Hermas Weary, local counsel of the Department of Highways, to cease and desist from further investigations of the Green Spring Hatchery Company infringements upon highway right of ways. We would like to know exactly why this investigation was so abruptly halted. We feel there are political ramifications present which may result in the laws of the Commonwealth being breached, that there is pressure being exerted by certain persons which is causing actions detrimental to the best interests of your constituents in particular, and the citizens of the Commonwealth in general. I feel sure that you, as Chairman of Highways in the Senate, will be interested in this and you will pursue it to a satisfactory end.

"If you would be so kind as to advise us of any findings you may uncover which would be of help to our cause, we would be deeply indebted to you."

Mr. President, this letter is not the entire story regarding Big Spring and this beautiful fishing report in Cumberland County, near Newville. However, I think you will agree, as well as the Members of the Senate, that the charges embodied in this letter are serious enough that they should be looked into.

The resolution I am about to present asks the Highways Committee of the Senate to look further into the matter. It is alleged that by backing up the water and increasing the height of the dam, against the privileges now permitted by law, a portion of the highway has been rendered dangerous. The water level has been raised so nearly to the level of the highway that the water flows over and freezes in cold weather and makes a very hazardous condition. The company, which was developing a portion of this Big Spring and its drainage run, has excavated near the road, thus helping to cause this very serious condition.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am presenting this resolution.

SENATE RESOLUTIONS
REFERRED TO COMMITTEE
SENATE COMMITTEE ON HIGHWAYS TO INVESTIGATE THE ACTIVITIES OF THE DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS IN RESPECT TO THE GREEN SPRING HATCHERY COMPANY

Mr. WADE offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, April 8, 1957.

It is reported from authoritative sources that a representative of the Cumberland County Department of Highways was present at a hearing before the Water Power and Resources Board and was prepared to testify as to infringement upon the State highway right-of-way caused by the Green Spring Company, Inc. in (a) flooding by increasing its dam height, and (b) excavation; and that this representative was restrained from testifying as a representative of the Cumberland County Department of Highways by the chief counsel of the Department of Highways, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

It should immediately be ascertained why (1) the aforesaid representative was prevented from testifying as he was prepared to do and (2) why the Department of Highways has not yet taken action to redress infringement of State highway right-of-way by flooding and excavation or to recover public funds expended to render these infringements safe to the traveling public.

If the laws of the Commonwealth are being breached and no action is being taken to rectify this evil, it is certainly a matter of grave concern to all; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate Committee on Highways be authorized to investigate the activities of the Department of Highways in respect to the Green Spring Hatchery Company and its operations upon and adjacent to the Big Spring Creek; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of its findings to the Senate as soon as possible before adjournment of this session of the General Assembly.

REQUEST THAT RULE 39 BE SUSPENDED

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Highways.

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO MAKE A COMPREHENSIVE STUDY OF THE OCCUPATIONAL DISEASE ACT AND OF THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE OCCUPATIONAL DISEASE FUND

Messrs. STEVENSON and BERGER offered the following resolution which was twice read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, April 8, 1957.

During the 1953-55 biennium, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania expended $1,025,000 in occupational disease compensation payments.

The amount so expended during the 1955-57 biennium, although not yet determined, appears to have arisen to more than $8,600,000.

The Governor's budget for the 1957-59 biennium suggests an expenditure of $15,000,000 for this purpose, and the administrators of the Occupational Disease Act claim the figure to be grossly inadequate.

This sudden and tremendous increase in cost to the Commonwealth demands that the Occupational Disease Act and the administration of it be subjected to close and extensive study; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to make a comprehensive study of the Occupational Disease Act and of the administration of the Occupational Disease Fund, giving particlar attention to:

(1) The system of establishing eligibility of persons receiving payments;

(2) The checks and follow-up procedures employed to determine the continuing eligibility of such persons;

(3) The adequacy of the protection of Commonwealth funds and the safeguards established for that purpose;

(4) The cost of operating the fund during the 1957-59 biennium for which a deficiency is forecast;

(5) The estimated obligation of the Commonwealth for such payments during the 1959-61 biennium; and

(6) Any other pertinent matter which the commission deems appropriate to the study; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission is directed to make a report of its findings to the next General Assembly not later than January 31, 1959, together with its recommendations for legislative action.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. YOSKO. Senator Mahany, let us assume that this bill is passed. What would be the effect of it?

Mr. MAHANY. As I understand it, Senator, it would prevent the Secretary of Welfare from establishing these employes that he has, these subsidized people, subsidized students, in any institution or any college with the exception of the State colleges.

Mr. YOSKO Do I understand, Senator Mahany, that the program already statrted by the Secretary of Welfare, whereby students are now attending classes and are having their education subsidized, will have to come to a halt if this bill is passed?

Mr. MAHANY. If this bill were passed and signed by the Governor and becomes law, I would say "yes", that is true, Senator.

Mr. YOSKO. Would that mean that the program would come to a halt immediately or at the end of the current school term?

Mr. MAHANY. I would say that it would come to a halt immediately because it says, "this act shall take effect immediately."

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, if what Senator Mahany said is true, I cannot support this bill and I trust my colleagues and the gentleman on the other side will also vote against it.

Back in February of this year, when it was learned that a scholarship program was in effect, I introduced a resolution in the Senate calling upon the Secretary of Welfare to submit a report on the scholarship plan and asked for certain information. In response to the resolution, the Secretary of Welfare did submit the scholarship plan. He gave the names of the students and the schools which they were attending and the compensation that was paid to each, in addition to the tuition. It also indicated the type of courses they were taking at the schools to which they were assigned.

I understand that the Attorney General of Pennsylvania agreed that the action of the Secretary of Welfare was legal. He did, however, disagree with the agreement that was entered into between the student and the Commonwealth. I understand since that time this agreement has been amended to conform with the suggestions of the Attorney General, and that each student participating in the scholarship plan signed that new agreement.

Mr. President, when the resolution on this subject was debated in the Senate a short time ago, Senator Barr read from a magazine the States that had scholarship programs for the training of medical students and others that eventually were funneled into mental institutions. I asked Senator Barr whether or not the scholarship plans in the States he enumerated were set up by the Legislature or by a directive. He said he did not know and suggested that I contact those states.

Mr. President, I did write to those states and I found that the scholarships plans that are in effect in the States involved were set up by the Legislature and are now in effect.

Mr. President, since I have been a Member of the Senate, and I have said this before, I introduced a scholarship plan that would guarantee a steady flow of personnel into our State institutions on the theory that without trained personnel a mental health program is useless.

This plan, although it found favor in a number of States because a number of States have written to me for a copy of the bill, was killed in committee each year. At this Session, I also introduced the same bill, and since it was not reported from committee, I introduced it as an amendment to the bill that is now before us. After being considered by the gentlemen on the other side, the bill was re-amended and my amendments were striken out.

I can only say, Mr. President, that something has got to be done about training personnel for our mental health program, and if we, as the Legislature, fail in our duty to provide and train that personnel then somebody has got to do it. I am assuming that Mr. Shapiro just grabbed the bull by the horns, since we did nothing about it, and he developed and inaugurated a training program in connection with the mental health program.

I call your attention to the fact, Mr. President and Members of this Senate, that we are spending, at least this figure is in the current budget, between $165,000,000 and $170,000,000 for various programs in the over-all mental health program. If we are going to spend that kind of money and refuse or fail to give the administrators of that program the trained personnel to which they are entitled, then it is equivalent to a waste of the taxpayers' money because everybody, I am sure, will agree that without trained personnel the mental health program just cannot be successful.

I also contend, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, that since Mr. Shapiro started this program and since I learned that there are students assigned to Temple University, the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Pennsylvania, Bryn Mawr and a school of nursing, and these students have been attending these classes, if they must suddenly stop and must quit school because of lack of funds or because we have passed a bill of this kind, it would be equivalent to letting go down the drain the money that has been invested in this program thus far, and will deprive us of at least fifty-five or sixty trained persons that could be funneled into our state institutions within a very short time.

It is for that reason and for the other reasons I gave, Mr. President, that I do not think we should pass this bill due to the fact that we are doing nothing about it ourselves, and, at the same time, attempt to tie the hands of those who are trying to do something about a creditable mental health program in Pennsylvania.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton, Senator Yosko.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Yosko, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. YOSKO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MAHANY. I would like to ask the Senator if he remembers the list which Senator Shapiro sent to us; that is, the list of the colleges to which these students were going?

Mr. YOSKO. My recollection is, Senator Mahany, that I wrote to every one of those schools because, when the names were submitted on the report form, their addresses were not included after the names. Therefore, I wrote to each one of the schools that were listed in that report and I asked for the addresses of the students; not the addresses that the students now had while attending school, but the addresses which would be considered their permanent residences. For the inspection of anyone, I have those letters, plus the names and the addresses.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, were most of those people from Pennsylvania?

Mr. YOSKO. I would say all but about five of them were from Pennsylvania.

Mr. MAHANY. Was one of the schools in which we have a subsidized employee or student the college of Vassar?

Mr. YOSKO. Vassar was not included. The Wilkes School of Nursing was included and Bryn Mawr College, in Philadelphia.

Mr. MAHANY. Bryn Mawr?

Mr. YOSKO. Bryn Mawr.

Mr. MAHANY. What course does Bryn Mawr have that would be helpful to personnel of the Department of Welfare?

Mr. YOSKO. If you will get the report, Senator Mahany, that was submitted by Mr. Shapiro, you will find in it the course of study that is available at Bryn Mawr which these students are pursuing at this school.

Mr. MAHANY. Well, isn't Bryn Mawr a girls' finishing school, supposedly?

Mr. YOSKO. No, I do not think so. I think you can get a degree in a number of studies at Bryn Mawr, although I do not know. I am not going to argue that with you.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, do you regard these students as employees of the State presently? Do not let Senator Dent confuse you.

Mr. YOSKO. I understand, Senator Mahany, that for Pennsylvania to subsidize the education of a person without that person being an employee would be unconstitutional or illegal and, I understand, it was for that reason that they were put on the payroll at, I think, it is from $47 to $74.50 a week, depending on who it was, and also having their tuition paid. However, for the salary that they were getting, for the financial help that they were getting, they were assigned to a State instiution I think either two or three days a week, while they were going to school. That was the services they performed while they were going to school for the State-aid that they got, plus the fact that they entered into this contract with the Commonwealth to enter a State institution in which they would be assigned on the basis of one year for each year their education was subsidized.

Mr. MAHANY. Is that the usual type of contract for employees whereby they agree that for each year they serve now, they will, at some subsequent time, be an employee for another additional year.

Mr. YOSKO. Senator Mahany, I did not see the latest version of the contract between the Commonwealth and the students, but I was told that it was revamped to make it legal and that it would guarantee one year's service for each year the student's education was subsidized or, in lieu of that, if they refuse to enter a State institution, they would have to repay to the Commonwealth the amount that was advanced to them.

Now there was just one loophole in that contract that I read which I disliked. That was the fact that there was no confession of judgment in the agreement which I thought should be in it, in the event a student refused to go into a State institution upon graduation. I did not think it was fair to let that student, although I have no reason to believe that they would fail, skip the State, and then we would have to chase after him to get the money back that was advanced. I understand that situation has been taken care of. Again I say, I did not read the agreement, so I am not sure.

Mr. MAHANY. Are these contracts with minors?

Mr. YOSKO. With minors?

Mr. MAHANY. Yes, children.

Mr. YOSKO. There is one thing that I forgot to do. I forgot to ask the students how old they were, so I could not tell you whether they are minors or whether they are not.

Mr. MAHANY. Well, is it not unconstitutional, Senator, to contract for future services or to bind yourself under such a contract as this?

Mr. YOSKO. I will have to consult my constitutional law attorney on that. I cannot answer you.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, you say that this was reworded so as to make it legal. Would you be under the impression that the former contract was illegal?

Mr. YOSKO. The Attorney General said that it was not legal and he suggested an amendment to it that would make it legal. I understand that was done and that the students involved signed a new contract.

Mr. MAHANY. Before they were termed prospective employees, and under the present contract they are designated as employees. In other words, they changed the named of designation, is that not true?

Mr. YOSKO. I could not tell you that because I did not see the amended contract.

Mr. MAHANY. Do you not agree that a rose by any other name would still smell, Senator?

Mr. YOSKO. I would not say that. I would not say that because if it would smell in Pennsylvania, it would certainly smell in the other States that have a similar plan.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, one more question. Do you now regard these students as employees of the State of Pennsylvania?

Mr. YOSKO. I understand that is so.

Mr. MAHANY. Do you know whether or not they have taken the loyalty oath as other employees have had to do?

Mr. YOSKO. That I do not know and if you know, I wish you would tell me.

Mr. MAHANY. Do you know, Senator, whether or not they are having any part of their salary withheld for the payment of income taxes?

Mr. YOSKO. I could not tell you that, but it is very easy to find out from the Auditor General who maintains the records for the Internal Revenue Department.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, one more question. Do you not wish that when you were going to college, you had been a subsidized employee of the State of Pennsylvania so that you would not have had to work your way through college?

Mr. YOSKO. I wish I could have found somebody to do it. I would have been most grateful if such a person had been around. You must distinguish between my situation, however. Frankly, I washed dishes, carried out ashes, waited on tables, went to the market and bought food, and made beds and everything else to help me get through school. I had no intention of going into a State institution when I was graduated. Now the people that are involved here have been recruited to do a specific job, to help make Pennsylvania's mental health program work. I, frankly, see nothing wrong with it inasmuch as the Legislature itself failed to do something about it.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, suppose after one of these persons graduates from college who has been subsidized by the State of Pennsylvania for four years or so, and they enter one of these State hospitals, and in order to get out of their contract, they go up and slap a patient or mistreat them physically, and as a result thereof, they are discharged by the State of Pennsylvania. Do we have any recourse then against that person to get our money back?

Mr. YOSKO. I am assuming, Senator Mahany, and I am not going to be as presumptuous as you are, that the people involved are of a high type and that they are ladies and gentlemen and are dedicated to doing the type of work in question. I do not think they would stoop so low as to slap somebody in the face in order to try to get out of a contract. Even if they did slap somebody in the face, they would be subject to arrest for assault and battery and it still would not bar the Commonwealth from filing suit to recover the funds advanced.

Mr. MAHANY. Thank you, Senator. I do not agree with all that you have said relative to the last portion of the question. I think it might very easily be a way for someone to get out of this contract if they so desired, and the question was a hypothetical one.

I feel, Senator, that we have not the protection that we should have under this type of setup. If some student wants to learn to get along with the people in our mental institutions and to help them become cured, he probably could get a better education to do that by attending one of the State institutions; by being there as a regular full time employee to observe the patients, and to obtain instruction from the superintendent of the hospital and the other doctors that are there. I believe that they would fare much better and derive a great amount of education, much more education in relation to this subject than they could obtain by going to a college that, up until now, I thought was designated as a girls' finishing school, the college of Bryn Mawr.

I do not know too much about Bryn Mawr, but I never understood that they concentrated or specialized on this kind of instruction until now.

I feel that we can do much better in the improvement of our mental institutions and the personnel there if we would allow these people to go directly to the institution and obtain their instruction directly from the superintendent and the doctors in charge.

Mr. YOSKO. Senator Mahany, I can only say to you that we have everything to lose and not one thing to gain. This is April of 1957. School will close in June, which will mean the end of the year. I say we have everything to lose and nothing to gain by curtailing this scholarship program at this time. The least we could do is let it continue until the end of the current school term. If this Legislature will be in Session in the near future or the far distant future,—whichever you want to select because it is up to you people as to when we will adjourn,—there is plenty of time for both sides here to get together and work out a scholarship plan which is airtight to the greatest extent possible, that is workable and which at the same time will benefit the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the 40,000 inmates in our mental institutions.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, my co-sponsor, Senator Mahany.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Senator Mahany, how long have you been a Member of the Senate and the House of Representatives?

Mr MAHANY. Since 1943, Senator.

Mr. DENT. During that time, did you or did you not know that we have had this training program going on whereby State employees have been sent to various schools by the various departments?

Mr. MAHANY. I did not believe that we had employees spending full time there. It might have been that they were there for short periods of time. However, I did not understand that we were subsidizing students in these colleges.

Mr. DENT. For your information, the various departments in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have many, many, many times, in the past, taken employees who showed an aptitude for a certain type of work and who lacked the educational background for that particular position and have sent them to the various colleges in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to acquire that knowledge. They have gone there the length of time which was required to pick up the necessary education to apply themselves to the job they were going to fill. This is nothing except an extension of that.

However, my particular quarrel with the bill, as it now is written and as it first went in with my endorsement, is the fact that we have barred from participation in a scholarship program or an in-training aid program in this Commonwealth our State-aided universities. You must remember that if you take an employee and put him into a State-owned institution which is an insane asylum or some other institution of the Commonwealth dealing with mental health or retarded children or anything else, all they can come out of there with is the training they received, without any credit whatsoever for the education they are desiring to get.

This program is in line with the fact that every State in the Union has stepped up its drive toward the care of the mentally ill. They are trying to create an entirely new atmosphere in that particular field of governmental activity. What has happened is that the demand for psychiatrists, the demand for trained personnel, is beyond the ability of the market to provide. Therefore, each State in the Union, by various means, is trying to obtain the right type of help and the trained type of help in the numbers which are required.

I think we were all a little confused about it in the beginning, Mr. President. We were properly discouraged when we heard about the pupils being on the payroll and going to school. However, it is not a new program; it was practiced during all the years that Senator Mahany has been a Member of this Senate. I do not want the impression to get out that we, the Democrats, now have started something new.

I do not know anything about Bryn Mawr, never having attended the school for well-known reasons. One of the main reasons was that I could not afford it. The second reason was that I belong to the wrong sex. I do not know whether it is a finishing school or a starting school. I understand that it is a liberal arts college, under the terms of liberal arts colleges. I do not know whether we have any students there or not; that is not my interest.

If you would have left the amendments in this bill, which were inserted by Senator Yosko, you would have had a cure for the situation because of the fact that you had a limited number of students. They had to pass competitive examinations and they could go to school the same as they go to your State teachers' colleges. You subsidize 13,000 to 14,000 young people every year in Pennsylvania who are going to State Teachers' Colleges. You do not require any kind of a guarantee that they will go into the State teaching system of the Commonwealth. You have done that for years and years, under the old law that you could not make a minor sign a contract.

What would you do if a regular medical doctor is willing to come into the State service—there is a crying need for psychiatrists—and he is willing to take a brush-up course of six months or a year or whatever is required of him at the University of Pennsylvania if the State will send him? After that, he can come into State service. When he comes into State service, he wants to go into pyschiatry. Would you then say that he could not do that under your bill? You cannot do it the way the bill is written.

Are you going to limit it to just attendants? The only persons you will be able to train, under this bill, will be the attendants in the institutions. You cannot give anybody credit for going through school under this particular bill that you now have. You are stopping the very thing that you practiced for years and years and years in Pennsylvania. You have taken persons who showed the aptitude for a position in government and you sent them to school. You have many of your State employees today whose training and education was paid for by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania while they were on the payroll of the State of Pennsylvania.

If you put the words "State-aided institutions" in there —I do not care if you bar them from going out of the State; I am with you on that. I do not care if you bar out-of-State students from coming in and being put on the payroll, I am with you on that. However, let us not cripple the effort to provide the right type of help for our State institutions. I would say that if you put in the words "State-aided institutions," to a man, the men on this side would vote with you.

Mr. MAHANY. I yield to Senator Schmidt, Mr. President.

Mr. SCHMIDT. Mr. President, I am happy to see that this Senate has awakened. You will recall, just about six weeks ago or perhaps two months ago, when this bill first appeared on this floor, I, at that time, said that this bill, if enacted, would cripple the mental health program. We cannot evade the issue. There is only one problem to be settled. Are we or are we not going to stand behind the Governor in this mental health program? We all realize that we do not have sufficient trained personnel. There is only one way to get it and that is to train them.

We, in this State, have been subsidizing State-aided institutions. Why can we not utilize those institutions? They are the only places where we can give people training in psychology, sociology, philosophy and all those courses which are necessary to obtain the trained personnel that is so necessary to carry out this modern theory of care of the mentally ill.

If this is an economy measure, it is false economy. It is not economy at all. Let us stand behind our own State-aided institutions. Let us utilize them and let us have these boys and girls get the training which they need in order to follow this course in mental health training. If we do that, Mr. President, Pennsylvania will get someplace.

We should not fear about these people leaving Pennsylvania, if we pay them. That is the trouble you had with the school teachers. We spent millions of dollars in the teachers' colleges in training these people and then when they came out, they could not make a living in Pennsylvania. If you train these people in our State-aided institutions and bring them out and if Ohio, New York or those other States will pay them more money than we pay them in Pennsylvania, surely we are going to lose them. You must train them and then you must give them a living wage. If you do that, you do not need to worry about their walking out on us.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MAHANY. Did yau say that you were satisfied with the bill the way it was when you signed it?

Mr. DENT. No, very frankly, I did not draft the bill. I was not aware of the fact that we did not have State-aided institutions in it, and agreed to an amendment for State-aided institutions. If State-aided institutions are included in it, I will subscribe to the bill.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator Dent, that is about all the bill did when you signed it, take out State-aided institutions.

Mr. DENT. That is right. I was unaware of the fact that we had eliminated the University of Pennsylvania, Temple University and the University of Pittsburgh. They are the three institutions, above all others, that are equipped with the medical schools, incidentally, to do the job of training the type of people we need in these institutions. You cannot name any other place where they could go and be trained. Very seriously, Pennsylvania State University would not be in the position or as well equipped to train, and it is the only State-owned institution of higher learning in Pennsylvania.

Mr. MAHANY. Do you not think that State College can take care of these people?

Mr. DENT. How many psychiatrists can they train there?

Mr. MAHANY. I do not know. I could pick a number out of the air, but I will not.

Mr. DENT. Just let me show you something. Senator Barr just handed me a list showing who is at the University of Pittsburgh. There are seventeen of them and they are all from around Pittsburgh. They are from Oil City, Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Blairsville, Johnstown, Canonsburg, Greenville, Midway, Homestead and Mayview.

If these Pennsylvania citizens are willing to go into the kind of work which has, for many years, been regarded as a degrading type of employment—one of the reasons our institutions are in the condition they are in and the reason that the care of the mentally ill is held in such low esteem all over the United States is because of the fact that many citizens who are qualified will not take a job. Here is Senator Pechan who, in my opinion, is the best dentist not only in Ford City, but in the State. However, he would not take a job at Torrance State Hospital because he would be finished in his local professional status at home. If you say that the University of Pittsburgh must discharge these people, that they can no longer go there, then you are wrong, Senator Mahany, in my humble opinion.

Temple University has six at the present time.

I found out something about Bryn Mawr College. There are seven at Bryn Mawr College. I am not going to join you in your condemnation of Bryn Mawr College. I understand it is a very worthwhile school. Incidentally, all of the student are girls.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I want the record to show that I certainly did not condemn Bryn Mawr College. Up until now, I stated that I did not understand that Bryn Mawr had such a course of instruction.

Also, Senator Dent, this does not mean that these people will have to quit going to college. They might do something the same as Senator Yosko did. They might do a little work in order to get through college. Perhaps, their parents may be able to dig in their pockets in the same way that my parents helped me. Maybe these parents have a lot more money than mine had when I went to college. There is no showing in here as to how much money these people have or the resources of their parents. All we know is that somebody or other has designated these persons to go to college at State expense and at some subsequent time they agree to go into the employ of the State of Pennsylvania. There is certainly no setup here as to how much money the State will pay them; no certainty of the amount of their salary when they get out of college and go into State employment. If they say that they are not satisfied with the amount we are going to pay them, they can go to some other State. It is very problematical, Senator Dent, that the State of Pennsylvania would be able to bring suit against these people and recover any money from them.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I think Senator Mahany is a warmer-hearted man than he proposes to show on the floor of the Senate. I do not believe that he really intends the meaning of the words that he said on the floor; that these students can wait on tables or clean out the heads and the rest of the work that must be done around the State institutions, in order to have the privilege of working at Torrance and the rest of these State institutions.

They should make, in your opinion, Senator Mahany, the supreme sacrifice of working their way through college in order for them to take care of the mentally ill in Pennsylvania. I think that is almost an unbelievable position in which to put them. I do not think that Senator Mahany would have worked his way through college in order to work at Torrance State Hospital, cleaning the latrines and things of these mentally ill people. I think that is one of the most ridiculous things I have ever heard on the Senate floor.

Why do you now pick on these students when you have been sending students to college under the Republicans during all the years you were in power? You never had the guarantee that they would come back and work for the State under any conditions. They signed no kind of contracts. At least, we are trying to get them into State service.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, you can see how Senator Dent twists words around. He said that I want them to wash dishes at the college in order for them to some day go up to Torrance to clean latrines. For heaven's sake, they certainly do not have to go to college at Bryn Mawr in order to learn to do that. I did not understand that is what they are supposed to do when they get through college.

Just briefly, Mr. President, if we took away this program of aid to these students, I do not think they would quit. I think that they would probably have sufficient means to go on and do the same thing as the attorneys are now doing. The law students are studying in school and they are getting through some way or other, either by their parents' aid or by their own aid to get through law school so that when they finish, they might get a job over in the Attorney General's office which, in turn, will aid them in establishing their own law offices.

I feel that when these students get through college they will have sufficient education, along with the training which they get in these institutions, so that when they get out, they will be able to command a pretty good salary or fees in their own private practice.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Titusville.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Senator, can you name any of the courses that are being studied by these students?

Mr. MAHANY. I do not know of any of them. I suppose they have to do with psychiatry and perhaps other things.

Mr. DENT. Would you say that they can get a degree or be accredited, or their work can be accredited, in clinical psychology by being trained in one of the State institutions?

Mr. MAHANY. They might not be able to get a degree, but if they knew Senator Stiefel, maybe he could help them get a degree.

Mr. DENT. Senator, if you want to take that position, then there is nothing that we can do and if you have never been to a State institution, then you do not know the relative closeness of the latrines to the top office of the entire administration of a State institution. Unless you have been into these places and you have gone through them, you do not realize that even the highest paid person in that particular institution may end up doing the most menial of all tasks. It is the kind of work that takes self-sacrifice and dedication to perform.

The students are studying clinical psychiatry, nursing, occupational therapy and social service work. They all require very particular study and I say to you, Senator, that what you are trying to do is a continuation of what started in January,—and we hope will end in June—to cripple this Administration in every attempt that it is making to wipe away the cobwebs of mal-administration and misunderstanding that have gone on for the past sixteen years.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am not going tonight to the shindig of the Medical Society, so I can talk for awhile. I am not in a rush nor in a hurry.

Mr. President, I would like to make one correction. Senator Dent pointed out our great institutions of medical study, such as Temple, Pittsburgh and Penn, but he forgot to include also your Woman's Medical College and in this field maybe we have been discriminating as well. It is a great institution.

However, what I want to observe is that I remember when Senator Yosko arrived in this body and started on his meteoric rise as a good investigator. He went after the mental institutions and he exposed many dark sides of those establishments. Now today I was very much gratified to hear his stand because that shows some improvement has been made there, if Senator Yosko is now blessing instead of cursing.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I have been trying to battle my way to the mike here while other people have been talking, and I would just like to take a few minutes to make my point of view known.

It was not too long ago, just a few weeks ago, that I attended over at the Penn-Harris Hotel, in the Plantation Room, a Mental Health Conference and I saw there thousands of people from all over the Commonwealth that were sincerely interested in a good mental health program. A lot of them were from my own community of York and York County, and I want to tell you they were not all Democrats by any means. It was a fairly nonpartisan group who were sincerely interested in this program, and I would like to define the issue on this vote today and make it clear.

In my opinion, it is a vote for a good mental health program in Pennsylvania or against a good mental health program in Pennsylvania. I think there is no question that the point made by some previous speakers is true, that a vote for this bill is a blow directed at the mental health program of Pennsylvania, because one of the most vital features that has been discussed by all of those interested, who have the information necessary to speak intelligently about what this program needs, is that we have a great deficiency of manpower. It is the most serious problem that we face in getting an adequate program of mental health.

I hope that the vote today will be just as nonpartisan as that conference was, and as the support for a good mental health program in this Commonwealth is, and I hope the people will vote on the basis of, do they want a good mental health progrem?

To that educational expert who sits in the first seat over in the corner—because I am sure it was a great shock to the nervous system of the people down at Bryn Mawr to find themselves called a girls' finishing school—Mr. President, I would like to inform our educational expert that Bryn Mawr is probably one of the finest liberal arts colleges in the State and, as a matter of fact, in the East. I would also like to call his attention to the fact that they have cerainly, without any question. one of the best graduate programs in social work, applied social science, in the Country.

I would like to call his attention to the list of the persons that are participating in this program at Bryn Mawr, and I would like to call the attention of Senator Dent to the fact that he is not necessarily disqualified from being in this program. I do not know whether he could meet the necessary entrance requirements, but I found on the program Albert Molitor. I find also on the program Joseph Rosenstock. Now both of these gentlemen are certainly attending this graduate program in social science, because this is one of the places you get it.

In all cases, Mr. President, the schools that have been used in this program are the schools that have the kind of program necessary to train the kind of personnel that are needed for the program. Now there is no use sending them to Penn State, no use sending them to the University of Pennsylvania, Temple or the University of Florida or anywhere in the Country unless they can offer the sort of program that is needed to develop the type of personnel which we need to properly staff the program, and that is why these institutions have been selected. If you cut off from the list the kind of schools that have the kind of programs you need, well then, of course, the program would be silly and that is exactly what this bill attempts to do.

Now the Majority Leader made some criticisms of this program and some of them did not sound to me too bad, but nothing in his bill attempts to correct any of the things he criticizes. Instead he wants to kill the act. In other words, instead of bringing up a bill here that will put into effect some of the criticism that he made so well, he decides to cut the head off of the whole mental health program which certainly is a poor way, it seems to me, to proceed on an important matter like this.

Now, once again, I hope the issue is clear. I hope all of you will think this through. I hope you will vote on the merits of the larger question here, shall we have a good mental health program in Pennsylvania or not?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, first of all, I want to say that in no way is a vote on this bill a vote for or against a good mental health program in Pennsylvania. That is a patent absurdity.

The purpose of this bill, of which I was one of the sponsors, was to draw attention to the fact that these people who are under this program, the so-called training program, were not employees of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. If I understand it correctly, the Secretary of Welfare selected, through the deans or the officials of the various schools, certain people who were already in school and put them on the payroll under a vague sort of agreement that they might work for the State sometime after they had finished their schooling.

Now, Mr. President, I was present and participated in this appropriation bill. I doubt very much whether anything in this bill would prevent either the Secretary of Welfare or the secretary of any other department from taking people already in the employ of Pennsylvania and sending them for brush-up courses or further training in institutions of higher education in this Commonwealth or anyplace else, for that matter.

The training referred to in this bill in State-owned institutions is not a new program. It is my recollection that sometime around 1947 there was an in-service training program for what are termed Psychiatric assistants going into the various State mental hospitals of the Commonwealth. These people are trained much more so than the ordinary attendants or even the nurses in these institutions, and they are trained to do what I understand are the courses that have been referred to by the people on the other side.

In other words, they are doing these things, getting their training in the State institutions right now and have for some time been getting it, to take care of these mental patients, and there is no prohibition in this bill or any other bill toward the continuation of that program. It is intended merely to provide that the people who are getting this education in the various colleges and schools shall be employees of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. If they are employees and people who have been in the various institutions and require further training, I think there is nothing in this bill which will prevent the continuation of that program.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the distinguished Caucus chairman, Senator Berger.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BERGER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Senator Berger, is it not a fact, by the way, that when my good friend, William Livengood, was Secretary of Internal Affairs, did he not attend a college over here in Carlisle and obtain his education while being a State employee?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am not familiar with that. I understand, however, that Mr. Livengood did attend law school while he was Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Mr. LANE. Is it not also a fact, Senator Berger, that he used his chauffer to drive him out to college?

Mr. BERGER. I do not know, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. I wish to thank the gentleman.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, further answering the interrogation, I do not understand that he was an employee. I understand he was an elected official of the Commonwealth.

Mr. LANE. May I ask the Senator now if his chauffer was an elected official?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I said I had no knowledge of that.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, it seems unusual that generally the gentlemen speaking have no knowledge of what has gone on in the past. However, I wish to get away from this so-called innuendo and political aspect. I thought maybe I might get him a little bit sore, but I did not.

Mr. President, what I want to talk about very seriously is something that I believe affects all of us. I believe, frankly, that some of the people dislike the Secretary of Welfare and they are driving a wedge at him. That may be the case. However, I want to tell the Members of this Senate that for years and years your Public Health Service has taken public health nurses and sent them to various institutions throughout Pennsylvania. They are on the payroll and their education is paid for. As a matter of fact, we have quite a number of public health nurses now attending the University of Pittsburgh, and I would like to ask the Majority Leader if he is going to discontinue that service to the people of Pennsylvania.

I would also like to ask the Majority Leader if he is going to discontinue the training of qualified personnel under your Rural Child Welfare Act. Do you know, Senator Mahany, that under your Rural Child Welfare Act they have trained many, many women to be Executive Directors and the only way they can be Executive Directors of a Rural Child Welfare Section is to obtain a Master's Degree, after working as a visitor for so many years. They are educated by the State of Pennsylvania in our various universities and they are on the payroll, and then they obtain their Master's Degree and then become Executive Directors. That has been the practice for years.

I want to call your attention to the fact that in your strike out, do you know that every person here that is eligible or is considered must be a college graduate? They cannot be more than forty. Do you also know that they participate in a competitive examination, which is set up by the Department of Public Instruction? I say to you that I know this bill is dead because you people have the votes but as some of the previous speakers have said on this floor, and very eloquently, too, what we are doing here today is setting back our mental health program because unless we have the personnel to man these hospitals, they are not going to be a success. You can build the walls and have the plans and equipment, but you must have the personnel. As a matter of fact, if some of you gentlemen had been in the Appropriations Hearing today and had talked to some of the medical men from the various colleges and universities, they would have informed you that it was absolutely necessary.

I hope if this bill goes down the drain, which I suppose it will, that you will come up with something else to help out our mental health program, because we do believe that the 40,000 unfortunates in our institutions surely deserve better treatment than they are receiving today here on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, the Senator has convinced me. I am going to vote for the bill.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, we have under consideration one of the most important measures that has been introduced during this Session.

I was more than surprised when seemingly we have invested more than $13,000,000 in institutions that were authorized for the specific purpose, as I recall, to train people in psychiatry and in other professions that would aid in curing the mentally ill; namely, the Western Psychiatric Institution at Pittsburgh and the Eastern Psychiatric Institution at Philadelphia.

Now having invested this large sum of money for that good purpose, I am curious why these institutions are not being used to train psychiatrists. I do not know what they are doing, but are we making use of the money that we invested in those two wonderful institutions?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, with no desire to belabor these arguments and debates because I think that everybody more or less had their mind made up before they even got up here, I think we have all forgotten a very interesting and a very informative talk that we heard during the last Session, by probably the most outstanding man in this field who was here and spoke to the General Assembly. The gentleman was Dr. Menninger, who probably is considered the outstanding person in this field and who has made great strides. The keynote of his speech, as I recall it and which I think all of us agreed upon later on, was that given any type of an institution or place—and he even went so far as to say give him a barn—but given the proper trained personnel, he would then increase the discharge rate of the number of persons being held in these institutions.

Now it is true what the Senator from Blair County just said, that we do have two fine institutions. However, I think all of us are well aware, from all the material that we get across our desks from time to time and from some of the information that is being given out publicly through the newspapers, television, radio and other media of communication, that we need people as auxiliaries to our psychiatrists; namely, psychologists, social workers, therapists and people who are in allied fields to aid and abet the work of the psychiatrists.

These people who are attending these schools that we are paying for are merely doing that type of work and being highly trained to aid and abet the work of the psychiatrists, because none of these people can do it alone. It is a group type of project and must be exerted in all different directions when they are dealing with healing some person who is sick in the mind. This is not the type of thing that you can cure by mere surgery or post-operative type of work. This is the type of thing that needs careful, long and tedious work.

I think that if we vote to put this measure across today, we are definitely setting back our State to where it was when Governor Leader took office, which was number forty-eight among the forty-eight States.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I hate to hold up the Senate, but I want to agree with Senator Mallery that we have two great psychiatric institutions in Pennsylvania; namely, the Western Psychiatric and the Eastern Psychiatric.

The Western Psychiatric today is under the supervision and operation of the University of Pittsburgh. I think that we gave it to them for one dollar. They are turning out psychiatrists, and I think they are doing a splendid job. Over in the eastern part of the State, the Eastern Psychiatric is controlled, I believe, by the medical hospitals in the east around Philadelphia, and they seem to be doing a good job.

If we keep going the way we are going in denying the funds to train these people, we are setting them back also, and we are not doing a job for the people as a whole.

It seems to me that it has been brought out here today that different philosophies of government are prevalent; namely, that of the liberals and conservatives, because we of the Democratic Party have a concern for those who are underprivileged and we have a concern for those who are afflicted and are mentally ill, and we trying to help them. We want you to help us.

I cannot vote for this bill in its present form because you have struck the meat out of it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Dr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not think you should call the roll until we at least clear up one situation which seems to be misunderstood.

I think you should hear this. In the years previous to this Administration, the students were paid stipends directly, but out of the institution funds. The payments ranged from $150 a month up to a sum equal to seventy-five per cent of the salary fixed for the position which the particular trainee was then occupying. It was paid to the students during the full year of the training period in the universities of the State of Pennsylvania.

This is not anything new. You fellows just stumbled across it accidentally, late in life.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would just like to clear up a point with Senator Berger because I think either he is in error or I am.

It is my understanding, Senator Berger, that you said only institutional assistants would be included in this. It is my understanding, Senator, that under the research and training clause, in lines 12 and 13, the whole training program, including the training for psychiatrists and clinical psychologists, is set up. You implied, I think, that this is not so. It is my understanding that that is so.

It is my further understanding that this whole program, which we have been discussing, is included under the research and training clause, in lines 12 and 13. If that is so, then it is not a patent absurdity to say that cutting this program out in the middle of things would destroy the program. It certainly would. If I am wrong, I would like to be corrected. However, it certainly is my understanding that this whole program we have been discussing is being managed under the research and training clause in this particular bill.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I again say that the vote on this bill will not be a vote for or a vote against the mental health program. When I say "the mental health program," I am not necessarily referring to the mental health program of the present Secretary of Welfare.

I believe, Mr. President, that the training which is referred to in this bill is exactly the training that I stated. When this appropriation was made, that was the type of training, the so-called psychiatric assistants and so forth, to be rendered in State institutions. Those were the ones which were referred to by Senator Mallery, the Eastern and Western Psychiatric Institutions, as well as the State-owned and State-aided mental hospitals. I do not believe now there are any State-aided mental hospitals. I think they are all under the Department of Welfare.

Therefore, I again reiterate that I doubt whether this bill will prevent the Secretary of Welfare or the secretary of any other department from sending people who are already employed in our mental institutions for brush-up courses or further education when they are employees of the State. However, the people we are speaking of now are not employees of the State. I doubt very much that any contract signed by them, when they are in school and have never been employees of the State, would make them employees.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I beg to differ with the Senator. These students are considered State employees inasmuch as they only attend school a certain part of the time and then they work in the institutions every week. They do not work in the institutions for nothing. They must be paid for it.

At this time, I think it is good to remind you of my father's old saying. He said, "It does not matter much whether the ox is gored; it depends upon whose ox is being gored."

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, if the gentlemen would take the trouble to read the letter which was sent to them by the Secretary of Welfare in answer to their resolution,—which is improperly drafted but the Secretary did answer it—they would find that the resolution asked for those medical students who are in school and there are no medical students in the program at all. However, Mr. President, I want to read this one salient paragraph:

"It should be noted that under the original and revised program of this department since January 1955, each trainee is bound to work for the Commonwealth in a State-owned or State-aided institution for a period of at least one year for each year of academic training received and during the period of the academic training, the student agrees to receive his clinical experience by working in these institutions."

Now listen to this. "Under the program as existing prior to the time when this Administration took office, there was no such requirement."

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, just let me say this one thing before you vote. If you are cutting out this program for economy reasons, let us not inaugurate economy at the expense of human misery.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 499, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 27, 1893 (P. L. 171) entitled as amended "An act providing for the acquisition of land and the erection equipment management and operation of the Scotland School for Veterans' Children . . .," making the superintendent the trustee of the funds of the children of the school and providing for the filing of a bond by such trustee.

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Franklin, Senator Elliott.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Elliott, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ELLIOTT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SILVERT. Senator Elliott, I understand this bill makes the Superintendent of the Scotland School for Veterans' Children the trustee of funds of the children.

Mr. ELLIOTT. Yes sir.

Mr. SILVERT. Do you know how many children there are in this Scotland School?

Mr. ELLIOTT. Several hundred; I could not be specific.

Mr. SILVERT. I see that on page 3 of the bill that, as trustee, the superintendent acts in amounts up to $5,000, is that correct?

Mr. ELLIOTT. That is correct.

Mr. SILVERT. Under the circumstances, do you think that a bond for $20,000 is sufficient?

Mr. ELLIOTT. I do, Senator Silvert. I would also like to add that this bill has been drawn up and gone over by the Joint State Government Commission, at the request of the superintendent of the Scotland School. He, too, as well as his board, felt that this would be a sufficient amount.

Mr. SILVERT. If you feel it is sufficient, I am going to go along with it. I thought, perhaps, the bond should be a little higher because the school has from 200 to 300 children and the superintendent can hold onto as high as $5,000 for each child. He may have in his possession, probably, considerably more than $20,000 at any one time. However, if you feel that amount is sufficient, I will go along with it.

Mr. ELLIOTT. I appreciate your point, Senator Silvert, and your interest. I do feel that it is sufficient, however, because of the people who have worked on the bill. I have confidence in their wisdom.

HOUSE BILL 1040 MADE SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1040, Printer's No. 243, on Page 7 of today's Calendar, be made a special order of business for third reading and final passage immediately upon the adoption of this motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the special order of business fixed for this time, House Bill No. 1040.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1040, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," approved March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228)

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the Majority Floor Leader?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, is it true that we were given an opportunity to offer amendments on third reading on this bill?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is true, Mr. Speaker. I do not believe we ever had a situation in this House where we denied anybody the right to amend a bill on third reading, or at least, an attempt to do so.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Majority Leader if he has any figures, or whether it would be possible to offer an amendment to this bill reducing the tax from a three percent tax to a one percent tax, whether it would be possible to amend this bill in that respect at this time?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say frivolous amendments are in order just as well as serious ones.

Mr. LOVETT. I thank the gentleman, but this criticism is not well taken.

Mr. Speaker, may I further ask the gentleman if we had a general one percent sales tax in Pennsylvania without any exemptions, if he feels it would bring in as much revenue as these amendments which we have to this bill at this present time?

Mr. JOHNSON. It depends on what the gentleman means by a general sales tax.

Mr. LOVETT. I just mean a general sales tax with no exemptions.

Mr. JOHNSON. If you had a general sales tax which would in effect be a general transactions tax in Pennsylvania, one percent would bring in a prodigious amount of money. I cannot say how much, conceivably a billion dollars if you taxed every conceivable transaction in this state.

Mr. LOVETT. Would the gentleman object to allowing the bill to be passed over until I have an opportunity to have amendments drafted to have a general one percent sales tax in Pennsylvania offered to this bill?

Mr. JOHNSON. I certainly will not consent to the bill being laid over. I would not.

The bill is before us right now and, if the gentleman has amendments ready, we will be pleased to receive them. We are working on a time table wherein the Department wants this bill by Wednesday so that the enforcement provisions can be put in full force and effect immediately and so that there will be no unusual and bad situation during the next month while we are fussing over whether this bill should be passed or not.

This bill should be put on the Governor's desk on Wednesday and he should sign it on Wednesday so the Department of Revenue can use the enforcement provisions of this bill forthwith.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if I am mistaken that the bill which became law without the Governor's signature becomes effective next Wednesday? Is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. No. The bill the Governor permitted to become law without his signature is in effect at the present time. Enforcement provisions for that bill are the law right now. They would, therefore, like to have this bill immediately signed by the Governor so that the Department can enforce the sales tax under this bill, rather than under the present bill which the Governor has allowed to become law.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman how the Governor is now enforcing the law under the sales tax?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we will have to ask McKinsey and Company for that answer. I think they have given it.

Mr. LOVETT. And that answer is what?

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, really, because of the way in which we have proceeded on this bill and the way in which we have conferred with the Attorney General and the compromises which have been made, I rather dislike right now to say anything about how the Governor's office or the Department of Revenue has administered the sales tax. I really do not feel like engaging in bitter partisanship debate when we have an enforcement bill which we are willing to put on the Governor's desk. I would rather not answer the question, but if the gentleman insists I will answer it. It will not be a very friendly answer.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I am not very much interested in what the answer might be. The only thing is, I would like to know, if it is so important that we have to do this at this particular time in order to have the Governor have the law in order collect this tax, what law are they using today to collect the tax?

Mr. JOHNSON. I would say that as of this minute they are utilizing the provisions of House Bill 337, the enforcement provisions of that bill, which we feel were all right, but the Attorney General's office and the Governor's office wanted some changes made in enforcement provisions and we have gone along with those changes. There was a little giving and taking here and there, and this bill is before us. We are doing as we agreed. I think the Governor acted in good faith last week, and we are doing as we agreed. Therefore, we want this bill on his desk by Wednesday.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, then the gentleman's answer is that he will not permit me to have this bill passed over in order to have these amendments drafted and offered to the bill, is that correct?

Mr. JOHNSON. That is correct.

Mr. LOVETT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I have continually condemned the action in this House on speed in connection with legislation of this type. This legislation is very important to all the people of Pennsylvania. The bill we passed and are now amending which became law in Pennsylvania, we certainly are not giving it the consideration which we should give it.

The Majority Leader compared House Bill 337 with a graduated income tax in Pennsylvania. Now comparisons like that are certainly out of place. The gentleman compared our bill to New York state's and surrounding states. New York has a sales tax and an income tax.

The one point I have continually fought about is the fact that we are taxing those least able to pay under a sales tax in Pennsylvania and we are not deriving any tax from those best able to pay. At least, if you enact a general sales tax with no exemptions, then those who are now exempt under the present law would have to pay their fair share under a sales tax in Pennsylvania and we would have some unity of taxation.

I cited to you that this House during the last session of the Legislature enacted two bills, one on income and one on sales. To my mind, although I dislike a flat income tax, I say you are being fair if you divide the taxation between income and sales and not put it all on our young families who are just starting life and allow those who are in the clover of life to go untaxed.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, perhaps while I will speak briefly, I should ask permission of the House to make a statement, because I desire to make some references that technically might not apply to a discussion of the merits of the bill. I will speak briefly, instead of asking later to make a statement. I will say what I have to say about the bill and a few other things at this time.

We are considering a bill which I presume we have all read and thoroughly understand and with which we are in entire agreement. We are proceeding, of course, with a pistol at our heads.

As I stand here, Mr. Speaker, there are certain echoes of previous utterances that reach my ears. I can still see and hear Charlie Smith standing in his place on the other side of the House and saying he wanted us to understand there was not a single vote on his side of the House for a 3 percent sales tax. Then, Mr. Speaker, there was that valiant minority in the midst of a minority that said: never, no never as long as we stand here will we accept the sales tax unless it carries a stamp plan.

It shows that our intentions expressed on this floor sometimes are like children writing in the sand, they are as transient as gamblers' oaths, and the present point to which we have come is a magnificent tribute to the evangelical talents of the Majority Leader who has a unique way of commanding his dissident forces to hit the sawdust trail and rally, rally, rally to the support of the measures upon which the high command has decided, and to be good fellows and get in line for the sake of the Grand Old Party.

I note, Mr. Speaker, that the Majority Leader has expressed at least tentative agreement with the program designed to reduce the budget by $100 million. It is easy to reduce the budget by $100 million. All you have to do is to answer the question, what do you intend to starve? Notwithstanding the increase in population, notwithstanding the increase in productivity, notwithstanding the fact that we are said to be facing a period of unparalleled prosperity, we are decreeing that so far as the finances of this Commonwealth are concerned we shall become a static state in which there shall be no progress.

We have placed a seal upon the endeavors now pending, we will curb them a bit, but in no direction, Mr. Speaker, notwithstanding compelling need, will we branch out and expand the services of an expanding economy and the services needed by expanding needs.

In one respect I must agree with the gentleman from Westmoreland, with whom in most respects I am in violent disagreement. We were told there would be no amendments to this bill, they would not be tolerated, and we would not even listen to amendments.

Well, we have before us a bill amending the magnificent triumph of statesmanship represented by the sales tax bill that passed this House. The very amendments admit that the bill as it came to us was unworkable and now it is generally admitted that in certain respects the bill is still indistinct and muddy as to intent.

Very properly, in order that the intent of those who wrote the bill might be expressed so that it could not be overturned by hostile regulations on the part of the Department of Revenue, there should be and doubtless will be further amendments.

I am asking the Majority Leader to declare a policy. We are going to reduce the budget by $100 million. Now do not surprise us some fell day with a program reducing expenditures by $100 million and say no amendments will be taken, presenting us with a fact accomplished. Outline it and tell the people of this Commonwealth. Are you going to take a 10 percent across the board reduction in non-preferred claims upon the Commonwealth?

You can do that. You can materially reduce the appropriations to the universities, hospitals, and institutions. Give us some idea where you are going to get this proposed $100 million reduction.

I understand we are going to declare a sort of legislative regency. We are going to depart from this chamber by means of a sine die resolution and leave behind us some sort of legislative committee that is supposed to ride herd on the expenditures of the administration. One of the duties of the Appropriations Committee should be to do that very thing as a matter of common accepted practice.

It is my individual opinion that, instead of having a mere legislative committee functioning for and on behalf of the will of this House, we ought to have that committee watching expenditures. If they did not like the way money was being spent, the Speaker of this House and the President pro tempore of the Senate could call us back into this Chamber to take the appropriate action.

Once gone, $100 million taken out of the budget, who knows what disaster, what unknown trouble may arise to plague us? There may be situations with which we could deal only in an extra session.

If we are going to reduce the budget by $100 million, we ought to hold ourselves in a position where if we are mistaken, if the essential activities of this Commonwealth and its paramount needs are short-changed, we can be here to do something about it. Above everything else, trot out just what things you propose to start.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will request the Chief Clerk to take the gavel during the consideration of this resolution.

The CHIEF CLERK (Lloyd H. Wood) IN THE CHAIR.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. JOHNSON. There is no day in the year that means more to a person than his birthday, and it is with a great deal of pleasure that I offer the following resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

Messrs. JOHNSON and READINGER offered the following resolution which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 8, 1957.

The County of Armstrong has been the scene of many important events in Pennsylvania history, not the least of which occurred on April 8, 1908, when Fred and Jennie Clark Helm were presented with a son who was destined to become the most handsome member of the Pennsylvania General Assembly.

In spite of his masculine beauty, cause enough in itself to arouse jealousy of his fellow members, he has attained the high position of Speaker of the House of Representatives, and through hard work, dedication to duty and sincerity of purpose, he has acquired the respect and admiration of every other member of the House.

Many of his accomplishments as Speaker of the House will probably be overlooked by posterity because one achievement has so overshadowed the others. Since assuming his post, the House has convened on time and adjourns promptly upon completion of the calendar and the daily ration of oratory. This end, so devoutly to be desired, has been a dream of legislators since our Commonwealth began, and now each member of this body is proud and very happy to be a part of the General Assembly which saw it accomplished.

"Stu's" zeal and efforts in the House of Representatives are only a part of the energy he expends on behalf of his fellow men. He has devoted much of his time to his community, Kittanning, Pennsylvania, in serving on its school board, participating in community projects, and promoting the good service of the Kiwanis Club, Masonic bodies, and the B. P. O. E.

In yet another endeavor, he has been most successful, in his marriage to the former Geraldine Rearick, and its beautiful fruits, two fine daughters.

The work of W. Stuart Helm in the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania deserves the commendation and praise of every member and certainly is reason enough to give him special note on his birthday. However, the real reason we wish him happiness today is that we like him so much; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives, individually and as a body, express our gratitude to our Speaker for a good job, well done, and on his birthday wish him our very best for the future, a long and happy life, and a distinguished and worthy career. We also wish him a long tenure as Speaker, but this for our benefit, not his; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be delivered to W. Stuart Helm, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Chief Clerk, I would say this is a very lovely resolution and I am certain it reflects the sentiment of everybody in this chamber.

We have with us an outstanding choir leader in the person of Dr. Clyde R. Dengler, the Representative from Delaware County, who leads musical groups, and I am going to yield to Dr. Dengler and ask that he lead us in the singing of "Happy Birthday."

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. Chief Clerk, this is probably the finest group of singers I have ever conducted in my life. Will you all rise and sing, "Happy Birthday, Mr. Speaker, Happy Birthday, to you." And really sing it.

(The Members sing, "Happy Birthday.")

The CHIEF CLERK. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Chief Clerk, during the last session, observing certain signs and portents upon the political horizon, I thought it wise to give some consideration to my successor as Speaker.

Mr. Chief Clerk, I selected the gentleman from Armstrong for that particular post, and it was not on account of his beauty.

The CHIEF CLERK. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. READINGER.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Chief Clerk, many years ago my mother told me never to sign anything without reading it. But I did today. I knew what it was, but I did not have the time to read it at the moment. Had I read it, I think I would probably have taken exception to the fact that we picked the best looking man as Speaker. I think we have other candidates who would probably qualify for speakership if it was on the basis of beauty.

I wholeheartedly joined in signing the resolution and I am happy to offer our congratulations to the Speaker.

The CHIEF CLERK. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Chief Clerk, I must say this birthday party is not a phony one.

I was out to California on an important meeting with Charlie Smith and we went to a place to eat in the course of the evening.

Charlie Smith went up to the orchestra leader and said, we have a young Representative from Pennsylvania here—he did not call me Representative, he said, "We have Senator Johnson, from Pennsylvania here." He said, "during the course of the evening I want you to play 'Happy Birthday' and have him stand up."

So we were enjoying the evening and along about midnight the drums rolled and the spotlight was put on our table and they said they were honored in having Senator Johnson from Pennsylvania here and it is his birthday"—which, of course, it was not. I had nothing to do but to stand up and receive the plaudits of the mob which was in that particular place. Then a birthday cake arrived with many sparklers on it. It was really quite an evening. As I say, that was a phony birthday.

This is a real one, and it could not happen to a nicer person, a gentleman who is presiding over us with great ability and who is held in great esteem. He is carrying on where the Speaker who presided last session left off.

He is raising the level and dignity of this great legislative body which we are all so proud to belong to, and I am glad to join with everybody in wishing the Speaker the happiest of all birthdays.

The CHIEF CLERK. The Chair recognizes the distinguished Speaker of the House of Representatives, the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Helm.

Mr. HELM. Mr. Chief Clerk and fellow Members of the House, surely after we reach our twenty-fifth birthday we have reached the time when we hate to see a birthday come around, but it is the nice things which have happened to me today which make my birthday more enjoyable.

First, I had a very delightful surprise from the office force down in my office at noon today. Then when I took the rostrum this afternoon one of the Page boys brought a card to my desk which said, "Congratulations and Good Luck on your Birthday. The Pages of the House."

I want to tell you it really touches you when a group of young fellows will take the trouble and the time to go down and buy you a card and wish you a happy birthday.

Of course, I could not pass up the opportunity of thanking "King-maker" Andrews. I am sure he gave me the opportunity to be Speaker of this House.

I also appreciate the marvelous expressions from every Member of this House. The flower I am wearing happens to come from a Democratic Member of the House. Let me tell you it is really appreciated, not only because it came from a Member, but from a Member of the opposing party.

I say to you this has been one of the happiest birthdays I have enjoyed in my entire 49 years. I wish every one of them from here on out may be just as happy.

Thank you very, very much for your fine expressions.

The CHIEF CLERK. The Chair requests the Speaker to return to the rostrum.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chairs thanks the Chief Clerk for presiding.

Mr. AGNEW. I wish to interrogate the Minority Leader with reference to the resolution he signed without reading.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has a perfect right to refuse.

Mr. READINGER. I do it with pleasure.

Mr. AGNEW. The gentleman, Mr. Speaker, raised only one objection to this resolution. I am wondering if he does not have another objection?

Mr. READINGER. No other one.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to point out that in this resolution signed by Messrs. Johnson and Readinger we wish the present Speaker a long tenure in the Speaker's Chair.

I would like to note for the record that the Minority Leader and apparently the Members of the Minority party by their silence, because nobody objected, wish to maintain the Republican majority in this House just as long as we do.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, my only comment is that two years can be an awfully long time.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. STIMMEL. Mr. Speaker, I might say that as handsome as the Speaker is, we in Lehigh County have a lady who is both beautiful and gracious.

Messrs. STIMMEL, STECKEL and DE LONG offered a resolution which was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 8, 1957.

On an April 8, of a recent year, Edgar and Bertie Hall became the proud parents of a beautiful baby girl.

They were proud of her then and so were their friends. Now her entire State is proud of her.

"Mother" Markley has devoted her entire life to the service of her fellow men. She has spent much of her time working to combat the ravages of polio. She serves as a captain of the American Cancer Society. She is on the Board of the Allentown Free Library and Macungie, Pamona and State Grange. She is a member of the Lehigh County Council of Republican Women; the Allentown Quota Club and the Business and Professional Women of Emmaus. She served as a member of the Republican County Committee of Lehigh County for twelve years.

With all of her many activities she has still found time to be a good wife to Franklin H. Markley.

It is the extreme good fortune of the members of the House of Representatives, that we be favored with her presence and her service. First as secretary to the majority leader, then as administrative assistant to the speaker, and since 1950 as member, we have learned to respect her ability and judgment, appreciate her good humor and genuinely like her warm friendliness; therefore be it

Resolved, That on the anniversary of her birth, the members of the House of Representatives extend their best wishes to Marian Markley and hold her forth as an example of the useful life to which every Pennsylvanian should aspire; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be delivered to Mrs. Marian Markley.

The SPEAKER. The Chair congratulates the lady from Lehigh, and recognizes the lady from Lehigh, Mrs. Markley.

Mrs. MARKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the resolution offered in my honor. I am very happy to enjoy my birthday with so many friends here in the House. I am particularly proud that my birthday occurs on the same day as that of the Speaker of the House.

I would like to make one request. I would like to have the resolution sent to my husband. I think he would appreciate all those nice things you have said. Thank you.

MEMBER CONGRATULATED

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been informed that the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, also celebrates his birthday on the same day as the Speaker of the House and the lady from Lehigh, Mrs. Markley.

I am sure the Chair and every Member of this House wishes to extend congratulations to the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, on this occasion of my fifty-second birthday I am sure I am a lot younger than I used to be.

I take great pleasure in having company in my youth with Representative Markley and the Speaker.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. Wood asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Appropriations to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO INTERROGATE

Mr. STRAUSSER asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ANDREWS. Reluctantly.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether he had anything to do with placing me in his County, on page 396 of the Pennsylvania Manual of 1955-1956? If so, I would like to know when the Cambria County delegation holds its caucus so I can be present at the next one.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I have been in such frequent communication with the gentleman from Columbia that, consulting with my colleagues from my county, we decided perhaps the easiest way of maintaining contact with the gentleman was to include him in the delegation. So, with their consent, we had him transferred from the County in which thinks he is to the County where he elects to function.

Mr. STRAUSSER. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Vol. 35. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 1957. No. 35.

SENATE

TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 1957.

The Senate met at 1:30 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The chaplain, Rev. HARRY T. RICHWINE, Pastor of Salem Lutheran Church, Lebanon, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, under Whose gracious providence all our days are spent, we thank Thee for the mercies and the inspirations of this day.

Bless, we beseech Thee, the Presiding Officer, the Members and the servants of this Body as they take up their specific duties and responsibilities. Give them strength for their tasks and guide them in their labors that they may have wisdom in their decisions, understanding in their thinking and love in their attitudes. Help them to be patient with the sometimes long and painful process of democratic procedure. Enable them to disagree without being disagreeable, to differ without being difficult.

Create within this Chamber an atmosphere in which free men of good will may work together for the good of the Commonwealth and all its citizens. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, time and again during the last few weeks, I stressed and voiced my personal viewpoint that leniency, clemency and mercy cannot be investigated. In my opinion, there is only one field where some improvement can be made and this is in the field of a procedural nature.

According to statements, you know, I have been loitering around the Pardons Board, listening to what is going on there. District attorneys have been coming in from various parts of the Commonwealth and making statements which determine the fate of a human being without thorough research and thorough understanding.

Mr. President, this has to be remedied, and that is the reason I am putting in this bill; whether it gets through is a different story. I am putting in a bill whereby a district attorney, appearing in the name of the Commonwealth, will have to file an affidavit showing his efforts, showing his research and showing his study before he can appear before the Pardons Board and make statements.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 581, entitled:

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. WATSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. WATSON. Mr. President, I report at this time, from the Committee on Executive Nominations, a communication from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, recalling the nomination of Doctor John G. Mountz as a Member of the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners.

The Clerk read the communication as follows:

RECALLING THE NOMINATION OF DOCTOR JOHN G. MOUNTZ AS A MEMBER OF THE STATE BOARD OF CHIROPRACTIC EXAMINERS

April 8, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In accordance with the power and authority vested in me as Governor of the Commonwealth, I do hereby recall my nomination dated April 1, 1957, for the appointment of (Dr.) John G. Mountz, 761 Locust Street, Columbia, Lancaster County, as a member of the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners, until July 15, 1958, and until his successor is appointed and qualified, vice Dr. Jack J. Stokes, Philadelphia, whose term expired.

I respectfully request the return to me of the official message of nomination in the premises.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

NOMINATION BY THE GOVERNOR REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. WATSON. Mr. President, I further report from the Committee on Executive Nominations the nomination of Doctor John G. Mountz, and ask that it be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the nomination as follows:

MEMBER OF THE STATE BOARD OF CHIROPRACTIC EXAMINERS

April 1, 1957.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate (Dr.) John G. Mountz, 761 Locust Street, Columbia, Lancaster County, for appointment as a member of the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners, until July 15, 1958, and until his successor is appointed and qualified, vice Dr. Jack J. Stokes, Philadelphia, whose term expired.

GEORGE M. LEADER.

NOMINATION RETURNED TO THE GOVERNOR

Mr. WATSON. Mr. President, I move that the nomination just read by the Clerk be returned to His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. The nomination will be returned to the Governor.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS PRESENTED TO THE SENATE

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to make an announcement and call to the attention of the Members of the Senate that we are honored today by some distinguished guests who are now in the gallery and possibly some on the floor of the Senate. These women are members of the League of Women Voters of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I might say, for the information of the Senators, that the Majority Floor Leader, Senator Mahany, and the Minority Floor Leader, Senator Dent, and myself met with these ladies this morning at eleven o'clock in the House Caucus Room. We spoke to them briefly and invited them to come to the Session this afternoon.

I would ask that all of the Members of this League please arise so that we can see who you are.

I might further add that we are very honored to have you here today. We hope that you can come back and visit with us again, and that your visit today will be very worth-while.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, while we were with the League of Women Voters this morning, you promised there would be some kind of a controversy demonstrated here between Senator Dent and myself.

We have not as yet caucused on the Calendar and it will be necessary for us to do that, which will take approximately a half-hour. That caucusing will be necessary before we get to the Calendar.

Senator Dent probably has any number of subjects which he would like to discuss. He can make a speech at the drop of a hat. This morning, the only person in the world who has ever been able to shut him off was one of the representatives who was acting as the moderator down there, or the one in charge of the League, and she did shut him up. My hat is off to that young lady for having accomplished that magnificent feat.

I am trying, Mr. President, to get Senator Dent into the notion of making a speech, but he is shaking his head.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair might say, for the benefit of the visitors today, if there is not an argument today, it will be a very unusual day.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I regret that we must disappoint our visitors because I am sure that if they would stay, they would probably see some action when we get to the Calendar. However, we are unable to get to the Calendar until we have a caucus of the Republican and Democratic Senators, which will take about a half an hour.

RECESS

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I request a thirty minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Republican Caucus and a Democratic Caucus.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a thirty minute recess.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. KOPRIVER, JR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce bills at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. KOPRIVER, JR. read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 594, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Highways, with the approval of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, to acquire a tract of land in Allegheny County to be added to the Pennsylvania highways system, and making an appropriation therefor.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 595, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Highways, with the approval of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, to acquire a tract of land in Allegheny County to be added to the Pennsylvania highways system.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

NAYS—1

Seyler,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 487 (Pink), on third reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objections? The Chair hears none.

SENATE BILL No. 11 CALLED UP

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call up, from Page 1 of today's Third Reading Calendar, Senate Bill No. 11, Printer's No. 98, which went over in its order, temporarily.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 11, entitled:

An Act relating to and regulating atomic development activities within the Commonwealth providing for the appointment of a Coordinator of Atomic Development Activities and fixing his duties and salary and requiring certain departments and agencies to make continuing studies and recommendations relative to atomic industrial development.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Sec. 5, line 18, by inserting after "person": "by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all the members of the Senate."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

SECOND READING CALENDAR

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 87, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1937 (P. L. 487) entitled as amended "The Permanent Registration Act for Cities of the Second Class Cities of the Second Class A Cities of the Third Class Boroughs Towns and Townships" requiring the commission to prepare for each election district a list of the names and addresses of registered electors arranged by streets and house numbers or alphabetically.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDMENTS OFFERED

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 204, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 28, 1937 (P. L. 1053) entitled "Public Utility Law" excluding buses owned by or under contract with school districts private or parochial schools for the transportation of school children to and from school sponsored extra curricular activities from the definition of common carrier by motor vehicle and contract carrier by motor vehicle.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. HAYS offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 5, line 7, by striking out "whether"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 5, line 7, by striking out "or spectators"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 5, line 11, by striking out "whether"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 5, line 12, by striking out "or spectators"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 7, line 10, by striking out "whether"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 7, line 11, by striking out "or spectators"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 7, line 15, by striking out "whether"; Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 7, line 15, by striking out "or spectators."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, if Senator Hays is about to explain the amendments, I will yield to him.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, this amendment omits the word "spectators" from this bill. As I understand the bill with the amendments, it is still written in the bill that school buses may transport children anywhere for school purposes. This will enable a school to take children to the courthouse; transport the band, chorus and glee clubs. It will enable the school buses to bring boys and girls to this Capitol, to Valley Forge, and I think to any place that is a school purpose.

I could perhaps defend this amendment on economic grounds, but I choose not to do that. I choose instead to point out a kind of an educational principle here. We have a great shortage of teachers and school personnel and it seems to me if we ask the schools of the State to operate a transportation system for spectators, we are not doing what I believe the majority of the people of Pennsylvania want the teachers and school personnel to do; namely, to teach the curriculum, the courses of study, in the schools of the State.

Therefore, for this reason, it seems to me if we permit and encourage schools to operate buses for spectators, we are asking our teachers, already heavily burdened, to be some kind of glorified baby sitters.

So, I urge my colleagues to vote for the amendments.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I believe that these amendments should be voted down because of the safety factor.

My boy is not quite old enough to go to football games as a spectator. I hope when he does become old enough to get into high school that he will be a member of the team but, in the event that he cannot make the team, I know he will want to go to the football games on Friday night and Saturday afternoon. I would much rather have him go in a school bus, with proper supervision, than to go with some classmate who happens to have one of these hot rods which they travel over the roads with to go to a football game maybe forty or fifty miles away and then race back to town to see who can deliver the good news of the victory the quickest.

I know there are any number of accidents that may happen by virtue of forcing our children to ride in these private cars to and from these football games. I also feel that, in most instances, the boys and girls will pay fifty cents or one dollar for their transportation on these buses. Therefore there will not be any extra added load to the cost of education.

As far as the teachers are concerned, usually they are able to find one or two of them who are happy to accompany these children to the football game because they get a big kick out of going to the games themselves. Perhaps there might even be some extra remuneration to those teachers, the two or three of them who want to accompany the children.

I feel that inasmuch as we are going to allow the buses to transport the children who are participants in the games, we also should allow the children to go as spectators in the buses so that they would be properly supervised in a vehicle which is safe in order that we can feel pretty sure that they are going to return to our homes in a safe condition after the game, and not run the danger of being battered up in some jalopy that they might be able to get a ride in otherwise.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I wonder what the gentleman means by the words, "proper supervision"? Would he give me his definition of "proper supervision"?

Mr. MAHANY. I would say that these children would be in a bus. They, no doubt, would have the bus driver there and one or two teachers or other chaperones who would be in the bus to see that the children behaved themselves. I feel that usually their services would not be called upon too much. I know from experience that the children are well behaved. They spend their time by singing school songs, cheering and so forth, while going to and from the game. I feel they are in a much safer condition in a bus than they would be if they went over the roads in these jalopies.

Mr. DENT. Would you say that the teachers would be compelled to go as supervisors or chaperones?

Mr. MAHANY. Of course not, Senator Dent. We would not compel the teachers. I think, in my community anyway, there are enough teachers who would like to go along to the game. I do not think we have any trouble in finding teachers or others who are willing to accompany the bus.

Mr. DENT. Thank you.

Mr. President, the gentleman from Crawford, Senator Mahany, makes a very odious comparison, of course, to serve his purpose. He compares the bus with a jalopy. Why does he not compare it with the proper agency or the proper vehicle which is being eliminated by this bill? He is comparing a school bus with an over-the-road bus owned by a franchised operator which, incidentally, still has a driver in it. In every instance, I believe, it has a better qualified driver for that type of driving and transportation than the driver who would be used by a school bus operator.

I think you are going far afield here in that both of these bills tend to strike at an industry which everyone recognizes to be in very bad financial straits. I told you before that for many years I operated a bus operation, and, in order for me as an operator to get the right to haul these spectators back and forth or to and from any athletic events or any other school activity, other than the regular curricular activities of that school, I had to go before the Public Utility Commission and prove the need for these services. For this privilege, I was allowed to pay somewhere between $14,000 and $18,000 a bus. I had to pay a first-rate wage to the bus driver. I had to carry enough insurance to guarantee any damages that might occur to property or person. I had to have the proper equipment on the road.

You now try to tell this Senate that the equipment used by school bus operators is anywhere near comparable to the buses that are employed in the services of those who have to have their buses inspected and have to keep them up to certain inspection regulations passed by the Public Utility Commission; that the operators of these buses will not give to these children the same kind of protection that a private operator would give?

The second thing you are doing is that you are going to allow a bus operator to compete against a licensed bus operator, a franchised operator, by selling him a license for one dollar a seat as against the same operator who will pay upwards of $300 for a license.

Somewhere along the line, you must realize that school expenses come out of taxes and that taxes are assessed against going, private concerns and peoples. The more you eliminate these going, private concerns from the field of revenue-raising, the greater the burden is going to be upon those who are left. You cannot deprive these people of an opportunity of earning enough money to pay their taxes, to pay their drivers and to buy good equipment.

This is the furtherest stretch that has ever been made yet in the use of taxpayers' moneys for purposes other than regular school purposes. I say to you that within the next few years you will have to increase the amount going back in subsidies to the local districts, because it will become a burden completely carried by the school district. All of the spectators will go and then, Senator Mahany, a man like you will get up and say, "I think it is wrong for my little boy to go to this game without his mother or myself being with him. He is so little that, not being high school age yet, I think he should have somebody with him to hold his hand and take care of him." The next bill you will put in will extend not only the school children as spectators, but you will be taking the fathers, mothers, uncles, brothers and sisters. I say to you that you are opening up another wedge into the public treasury for the expending of great sums of money.

You think this is not a very serious bill. You are playing along because certain school directors want the bill. I know that it is Caucus action, and all the talking I do will not change a vote. I want to tell you that the greatest mockery of democracy has been made during this Session of the Legislature by Caucus action on any piece of legislation, regardless of whether it has the merits that deserve Caucus action or not. This is not a question of Party policy; this is a question of what is right and what is wrong for the people of this Commonwealth. I say to you that every franchised operator in this State stands to lose by this kind of legislation. If there should not be any franchised operators, then wipe out the Public Utility Commission regulations and let them haul wherever they want.

Under this bill, Mr. President, an operator in Titusville can go to Pittsburgh and pick up children from a school, with which he has nothing to do, and take those children to a game in some other area, maybe sixty or seventy miles away. If you think that is farfetched, you just wait until the bill gets into operation.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, Senator Dent evidently does not know our situation in Titusville nor in many of the smaller towns in the State of Pennsylvania. We do not have access to chartered bus service in our city. If it were possible to get a chartered bus, we would have to bring one down and deadhead it in from Erie to Titusville. Then we would take the children to the game, at quite a large fare. After that, then the bus would again have to deadhead back to Erie. It is impossible for us, and for the people in many, many of the smaller towns of Pennsylvania, to obtain that type of service.

Therefore, Mr. President, as a consequence, what happened in Titusville and many of the cities and towns throughout Pennsylvania last fall is just exactly what I stated. Children went in these jalopies or hot rods to the football games and some of them were injured.

I do not feel that we should judge this on the basis of whether or not we are going to take away some money that some bus company may have received last fall. Before we passed the legislation which prohibited this, at the last Session of the Legislature, these bus companies did not have this source of revenue. I do not think that at that time they felt they were going to go bankrupt if they did not receive it.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think we should allow the school district supervisors or school directors, to whom we entrust the affairs of our schools, to decide whether they want these buses to be operated in this manner. If they do, then they should decide whether or not they should except the children to pay the fares for the operation. I think you will find, in most cases, that school directors will allow the buses to be used for this purpose, but will expect the children to defray the expense of the buses in going to and from these games.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, maybe I do not know what happens up in Titusville. However, I do know that your school operator can apply, without any difficulty at all, by a simple matter of a letter, approved by the school board, and get a permit any time that you cannot get charter service within any community in Pennsylvania. That is true. All you have to do is to write a letter and you will get a permit from the Public Utility Commission. The Public Utility Commission allows any school bus operator to operate and haul spectators, not only school children, but anybody, to and from that game, so far as that community is concerned, if there is no charter service within the area. If they cannot get it, the school board can ask for it.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong the debate, but I think it amounts to more than just writing a letter. I think the bus operator must show a contract between he and the school for the purpose of hauling these children. The contract must conform to the standards set up by the Public Utility Commission and if there is any objection on the part of the chartered bus companies in his area, the certificated carriers, then they may protest and, after a protest, they have to hold a hearing. You must go through a long rigmarole with the Public Utility Commission in order to obtain these rights. It amounts to much more than just writing a letter.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. MAHANY. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

Mr. PECHAN. I ask for a roll call, Mr. President.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MAHANY and Mr. PECHAN, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—19

Camiel,	Kalman,	Ruth,	Taylor,
Dent,	Kopriver, Jr.,	Sarraf,	Wade,
Derk,	McGinnis,	Schmidt,	Watkins,
Ehrgood,	Murray,	Scott,	Yosko,
Hays,	Propert,	Stiefel,

NAYS—20

Berger,	Fleming,	Mahany,	Van Sant,
Blass,	Harney,	Mallery,	Wagner,
Chapman,	Kromer,	Miller,	Walker,
Elliott,	Lane,	Pechan,	Watson,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Wolfe,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I just want to call to the attention of my colleague, Senator Dent, that the vote certainly showed that we have not had any Caucus action on this bill. I want to again state to him that at no time did the Republican Party take Caucus action on any bill.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I appreciate that, and I will watch very carefully the vote on the bill on Final Passage.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the Majority Leader, if he noticed the vote on the Democratic side, there was no Caucus action either on this.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I never alleged there was.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second section and title were read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 205, entitled:

An Act repealing section 502.1 act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 905) entitled "The Vehicle Code" removing limitations upon the operation of commercial motor vehicles for carriage of passengers.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Messrs. MAHANY and WHALLEY offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 2, by striking out "repealed" and inserting: "amended to read"; Amend Sec. 1, page 2, by inserting between lines 2 and 3 the following: "Section 502.1. Use of Commercial Registration Plates Limited.—Except for transporting authorized employes of the owner or lessee, school children for school purposes, [or] and to and from extra-curricular activities and children between their homes and Sunday school in commercial motor vehicles owned by any school district, parochial school or private school, and school children between their homes and school, and to and from extra-curricular activities if the person performing the extra-curricular transportation has a contract with the school or school district in which the school is located for the transportation of its students between their homes and school and children between their homes and Sunday school in commercial motor vehicles operated, under contract, with any school district, parochial school or private school, it shall be unlawful for any person or political subdivision to operate any commercial vehicle for the carriage of passengers. A copy of any lease or contract shall be maintained in the vehicle at all times.

"For the purposes of this clause, extra-curricular activities shall include athletic, forensic, musical, dramatic or any other similar event or exhibition held under the supervision of school authorities in which the school children are participants or spectators, and in which the school is represented by a team or participating body.

"Penalty.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this section, shall, upon summary conviction before a magistrate, be sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five ($25) dollars and costs of prosecution, and, in default of the payment thereof, shall undergo imprisonment for not more than five (5) days."

They were agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The second section was read and agreed to.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Messrs. MAHANY and WHALLEY offered the following amendments:

Amend Title, page 1, line 1 of Title, by striking out "Repealing section 502.1" and inserting: "Amending the"; amend Title, page 2, third from last line of Title, by striking out "removing" and inserting: "changing."

They were agreed to.

The title was agreed to as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS RE-REFERRED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 316, on second reading, entitled:

An Act relating to the practice of ophthalmic dispensing providing for the registration and licensure of dispensing opticians and the registration of apprentices conferring powers and imposing duties upon the State Board of Examiners for Dispensing Opticians providing for the revocation or suspension of licenses in certain cases and prescribing certain unlawful acts and penalties.

be re-referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 317, on second reading, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," creating the State Board of Examiners for Dispensing Opticians and defining its powers and duties.

be re-referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 354 (Pink), on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objections? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 579, entitled:

An Act requiring the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to change the names of certain interchanges on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. WADE offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 12, by inserting after "interchange" the following: "and the interchange known as the 'Lancaster-Lebanon Interchange' shall be renamed the 'Lancaster-Hershey-Lebanon Interchange,' and the interchange known as the 'Wyoming Valley Interchange' shall be renamed the 'Pittston Interchange,' and the interchange known as the 'Wilkes-Barre Interchange' shall be renamed the 'Wilkes-Barre-Wyoming Valley Interchange,' and the interchange known as the 'Reading Interchange' shall be renamed the 'Reading-Ephrata Interchange.'"

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to ask that this amendment be held up. I would like to change the Irwin Interchange to Irwin, Jeanette, Greensburg, Herminie, and Penn Township. I might have a little trouble with a couple other little boroughs out there that would like to be in on it.

Since we are going to make the Turnpike names now into a map of the State of Pennsylvania, I would like to, at least, put the communities that touch onto Irwin into the Irwin Interchange. I would like to ask you to hold it until I get all of the listings.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, if this bill passes Second Reading and goes on the Third Reading Calendar, I will assure the Senator that I will give him the opportunity to present amendments or any kind of names he wants, including the "Dent Interchange," tomorrow.

Mr. DENT. All right, Mr. President, I will have them ready tomorrow for all the interchanges.

Mr. MAHANY. Senator, put one in for the "Dent and Mahany Interchange," after the great number of bills we have co-sponsored.

Mr. DENT. It is not the "interchanges," Mr. President. It is the "exchanges."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The second section and title were read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered to be transcribed for a third reading.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 112, TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I call from the table Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 112.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

SENATE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION TO STUDY CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS OF STATE TEACHERS COLLEGES AND RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY CONSULTANTS

In the Senate, March 11, 1957.

Whereas, the General State Authority has adopted construction projects at several of the State Teachers Colleges of the Commonwealth, and

Whereas, the Department of Public Instruction has employed consultants to survey said State Teachers Colleges, and

Whereas, recommendations are being made to the Superintendent of Public Instruction which are deemed impractical and impossible of accomplishment, and

Whereas, this has resulted in unnecessary delay in making critically needed repairs and expansions for a long period of time after money has been made available for this purpose, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate Committee on Education be directed to confer with the Department of Public Instruction, its Superintendent and all personnel concerned, to ascertain and resolve the issues involved; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of their findings and recommendations to the Senate on or before May 1, 1957.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 112, ADOPTED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate adopt the resolution just read by the Clerk.

Mr. MADIGAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information and I would like to ask the Chairman of the Highways Committee, Senator Wade, to give me his attention.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. DENT. Senator Wade, you are Chairman of the Highways Committee. Will you tell me whether this bill, changing the names of the Turnpike stations, came out of your committee?

Mr. WADE. It did.

Mr. DENT. Will you tell me, since I am getting my amendments ready for three interchanges which are in Westmoreland County, what mile radius I am supposed to use for the communities to put their names on the interchange?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, knowing of the great influence that the Senator has in that locality, I would say that he should set the mile radius.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I want to stay within the confines of the bill. I do not want to step out of it and make it more rediculous than it is. I want to just keep it at the par it is right now.

I want to know how many miles away a town has to be before it can be considered an interchange on the Turnpike; that is all.

Mr. WADE. I would say, Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman's interrogation, that the purpose of the bill, from its first inception until now, is to be more indicative of the towns and centers of population that are served by the interchanges. That is the purpose of changing the names of the interchanges.

There is a great deal of latitude in time so that there will not be an excessive loss on the part of the Turnpike Commission in reprinting tickets.

Mr. DENT. Well, I only asked you how far away a town has to be. I do not know. We have some mighty fine towns and cities in Westmoreland County that we feel are served by the Turnpike. Some of them are twenty miles away, some are fifteen, some are ten, some are six, some are two, some are one and some are sixty. I want to know what range I am supposed to use.

Mr. WADE. Well, Mr. President, I would answer the gentleman by saying that we bent to the demands and requests of a very prominent citizen of Pennsylvania in naming the interchange just west of the Susquehanna River. We changed it to the Harrisburg-West Shore-York Interchange.

Mr. DENT. How far is York from that interchange?

Mr. WADE. York, I would say, would be in the vicinity of eighteen to twenty miles.

Mr. DENT. Eighteen to twenty miles away?

Mr. WADE. That is right.

Mr. DENT. Well, I will have a few names for tomorrow.

Mr. WADE. All right.

BIRTHDAY FELICITATIONS EXTENDED TO SENATOR HENRY J. PROPERT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I want to call the attention of my colleagues to the fact that Senator Propert, of Montgomery County, one of the finest, outstanding Senators this Senate has ever had, is now celebrating his thirty-ninth birthday.

I would like my colleagues here to join with me in extending congratulations to this noble economist from Montgomery County.

Mr. PROPERT. Mr. President, I want to thank my colleagues. I also want to thank Senator Mahany for that fine compliment. I did not realize that I looked thirty-nine.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WAGNER, from the Committee on Education, to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. Stiefel on April 2, 1957, reported the same without amendment as follows:

CONGRATULATING DROPSIE COLLEGE ON ITS FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY AND RECOMMENDING THE GOVERNOR ISSUE A PROCLAMATION

In the Senate, April 2, 1957.

Proudly appreciative of Pennsylvania's leadership in the vanguard of America's cultural advancement along ever-ascending paths of progress, the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania notes with great pride and gratification that The Dropsie College for Hebrew and Cognate Learning in the City of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania, is presently celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of its existence under the Charter conferred upon it by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

An exclusively graduate institution leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, it is non-professional and non-sectarian, its sole aid being to advance knowledge and truth.

During an era which has marked the decline of humanistic studies in favor of the sciences which undergird the mechanistic structure of present-day civilization, The Dropsie College has developed those areas of study which gave the world religion, ethics and a way of life, rooted in faith, social justice and righteousness.

Founded by Moses Aaron Dropsie, an eminent citizen and lawyer born and all his life resident in the County of Philadelphia, Mayor of Northern Liberties, then a municipality in the County of Philadelphia and one of the Lincoln-Electors, The Dropsie College was designated by him to be permanently situated in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and he furthermore directed "that in the admission of students there shall be no distinction on account of creed, color or sex."

During the half-century of its chartered existence, The Dropsie College has gained renown throughout the world of scholarship and enhanced the scholarly fame and the cultural standards of our Commonwealth.

The Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania notes with particular interest and gratification the far-visioned policies of the Board of Governors and of the Faculty of The Dropsie College in pioneering through its Institute for Israel and the Middle East in the training of qualified personnel for United States Government Service, and for work in those countries in behalf of American social agencies, industry and commerce.

Be it therefore resolved that the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania greets and congratulates The Dropsie College for its manifold contributions to the enlightenment and the cementing of human brotherhood and because of its unique role among the institutions of higher learning in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvaina, of which our citizenry is rightly proud and hails with pride and satisfaction the Jubilee year of this distinguished institution.

And be it further resolved that the Senate of the General Assembly shall respectfully recommend and does hereby recommend to His Excellency the Governor of Pennsylvania to issue a Proclamation on May 22, 1957, the day the Jubilee festivities will reach the point of culmination, expressing to the Governors and the faculty of The Dropsie College the appreciation of the People of Pennsylvania for the far-reacting influence of The Dropsie College in the cultural endeavors of our State and Nation.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

A motion was made by Mr. MAHANY,

That rule 39, which requires resolution reported from committee to lie over for one day, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I object to Senate Bill No. 366 being read for the first time.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Senator Lane.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane, permit himself to be interrogated? Is it on the motion?

Mr. LANE. I think it is because of my objection to Senate Bill No. 366.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, if Senator Lane objects to being interrogated, I hate doing it.

Mr. LANE. I do not object to being interrogated, go right ahead.

Mr. WATKINS. I would like to ask, Senator Lane, on what grounds or on what basis do you object to this bill being read for the first time?

Mr. LANE. Primarily, Senator Watkins, I do not think we should rush something like this through the Senate. I believe that the populous of Pennsylvania should be very well informed on what we are about to vote for. Therefore, if we read it for the first time today, it will be on Second Reading tomorrow. For all I know, you might pass it next week. I feel that the population, as a whole, should be well informed as to what they are going to be faced with by the passage of Senate Bill No. 366. I think it is only fair that they should be well informed. Do you agree?

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman by asking him whether he does not think this is a procedure that has very seldom, in my opinion, been used.

I remember when I was a freshman Senator, in 1949, a tactic like this was used on a bill which I presented, the Philadelphia Wage Tax, and I think practically every Senator in the Senate came to my rescue to advise me just what to do.

If Senator Lane is going to insist that this bill be held on the First Reading Calendar, I shall also make a motion in just a moment on the balance of the bills. I shall ask that all bills be held on the First Reading Calendar. I shall read the numbers of each bill reported from committee.

I think it is an insult to the committee, Mr. President. This bill was acted upon in a democratic manner. The committee meeting was held and the majority vote was for this bill being reported out. I do not think it should get any different treatment than any other bill would receive.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Watkins.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Watkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I would like to object to all of the bills being read for the first time. Should I proceed to name them?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

Mr. WATKINS. I beg your pardon.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Watkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WATKINS. I do not know why I should not. I do not think he can hurt me.

Mr. LANE. Senator Watkins, something peculiar happened when we commenced this Session of the Legislature. Do you know that I served on the Committee on Law and Order for years and, lo and behold, when I looked over the committee assignments at this particular Session, I found out that I was liquidated or eliminated. I have often wondered why. Now I think the light has shone, and I realize why I was eliminated. I was eliminated because I sort of have a little objection to this horse racing bill.

Since you are the Chairman, I am wondering whether you could explain to the Members of the Senate why I was eliminated from that committee?

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I realize it is an honor to be the President pro tempore of the Senate of Pennsylvania and it is also an honor to be the Minority Leader of this Senate. I would suggest that Senator Lane consult with those two gentlemen in order to find the answer to his question. I had nothing to do with it. I cherish the friendship of Senator Lane and I respect his views. I certainly would have loved to have had him on the committee. I influenced no persons on how to vote on this bill.

Mr. LANE. That is very nice of you. However, I am wondering whether you, probably indirectly, might have talked to the Minority Leader and he indirectly might have talked to the President pro tempore and I might indirectly have been removed from the committee. Of course, that is within the realm of possibility.

However, Mr. President, I say that I have a right to object to the first reading of this bill, based primarily on the fact that I was not a member of the committee and I did not have an opportunity to express my views. Therefore, the bill was reported out. I do not know what the vote was, but I know my vote would have been "no."

Therefore, I feel that it is only fair to myself and to the people of my District, and to the people of Pennsylvania, that they be informed that Senate Bill No. 366 was reported out on this floor and they should have the opportunity to marshal their forces to oppose this legislation. There is nothing wrong with that.

If you feel you have a good case, you should welcome competition. At least, if I were in your position, with the support you have, I would welcome competition. I would say, "All right, let the bill come out and appear on First Reading." If you want to object to the rest of the bills, it is all right with me.

Mr. WATKINS. That was a very beautiful speech, Senator Lane, but I do not concur in your thinking.

Mr. LANE. I knew you would not and that is the reason I spoke so long and at such length.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in order that there be no misunderstanding, there was no collusion between Senator Taylor and myself, or Senator Watkins or anyone else, on the committee assignments on this side. Senator Lane, having been here longer than other Members, when it came to parceling out the committees, we elevated him to committees of higher standing in the echelon of importance.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I observed on my committee assignments that I was assigned to the Committee on Mines and Mining, which I had not requested. I was removed from the Committee on Law and Order.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it might interest the Member from Washington County that he has mines in his county and that there are very few Senators on this side, since most of my Senators come from the big urban centers, who have any knowledge of mines and mining, and he was put on that committee because of the fact that he is acquainted with that particular subject. However, if he wants on the Committee on Law and Order, I will certainly be glad to ask someone to get off and put him on it. Since I am on no committee, I have none to give him.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, since they have taken official action on the crucial bills at this Session, it would serve no useful purpose for me to now serve on the Committee on Law and Order.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, if any Senator objects to the first reading of bills today, is there anything which any other Senator can do to get past that objection?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair misunderstood the gentleman from Washington. I understood him to say that he was requesting this bill to be read. Now I understand that he objected to the reading of the bill for the first time. However, I have been informed that the Majority can rule whether or not any or all bills are to be read for the first time by motion. We do have a motion now that all bills reported from committee be read for the first time.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I object to the reading of Senate Bill No. 366 for the first time.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I object to the reading for the first time of the balance of the bills.

Mr. President, may we be at ease for a few moments?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agre to the motion?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I want to make it specifically clear to the Membership and to those who might be interested, that Senator Watkins, the Chairman of the Republican Caucus, Senator Berger, and the Majority Leader, Senator Mahany, have promised me and have agreed that if I withdraw my objection to reading this bill for the first time, it will be carried over on Second Reading until after the recess. Under those conditions and only under those conditions do I withdraw my objection.

Now I want that in the record and that is the way it stands. They are carrying this bill over on Second Reading until after the recess.

The PRESIDENT. The remarks of the gentleman will be printed in the Legislative Journal, and the Senator from Washington withdraws his objection to Senate Bill No. 366 being read for the first time.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I certainly did make that agreement with Senator Lane and I would like to withdraw my objection to any of the other bills being read for the first time.

The PRESIDENT. We have real harmony for a change.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I would like to say this to the Senator, that not only this bill, but any bill that I have in my committee that is as controversial as this bill is, I, too, think the public should have plenty of time to study it. Personally, I do not know how I am going to vote myself on it, but I personally feel that we should give the public all the time they want on a referendum.

I want to thank the Senator for withdrawing his objection. I think he was proper in doing it.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, in many instances I consider Senator Lane as a man in whose footsteps I would like to follow, and I like to consider myself as an amanuensis to Senator Lane. This idea of postponing action until after the recess is a very felicitous one.

Let him come to Philadelphia and then he will learn what the people think of that bill. Maybe he will change his mind about it.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I thank Senator Stiefel and I also thank Senator Watkins for his kind statements.

(Remarks of the gentleman from Washington, Mr. LANE stricken from the record at his request.)

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, since we are talking about the public, I am convinced that the public wants to decide this question once and for all. This bill, in its present form, is not authorizing anything. The only thing it does is place a queston on the ballot and gives the people an opportunity to vote "yes" or "no" on the question of whether or not Pennsylvania should legalize parimutuel horse racing, and I believe the people should be given that opportunity.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Senator Lane.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LANE. I will, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentlemen will confine their remarks to the motion before the Senate.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I will certainly keep my remarks responsive to the motion. You were kind enough to let him get away with a slurring remark and I want to press for an answer.

Senator Lane, can you recall any bill since I have been in the Senate of Pennsylvania, since 1949, that I have taken any undue action on that showed bad faith?

Mr. LANE. Well, Senator Watkins, I never paid any particular attention to your bills but, of course, I do say you have more than a passing interest in the horse racing bill and you seem quite determined because you have talked horse racing to me for months. I felt that was what you were trying to do, because you took the floor and started to argue with me about my objections and so, therefore, you have a great interest in the passing of this bill. Is that not true?

Mr. WATKINS. You are not answering my question. I asked you if you knew of any bill that I ever used unfair tactics in connection with in this Senate?

Mr. LANE. Well, I do not know of any, but I do not want you to either.

Mr. WATKINS. Well then, Mr. President, I ask that the gentleman's prior remarks be stricken from the record.

Senator, did you think I was trying to press for action on this bill?

Mr. LANE. Well, I think you were until I objected, and then you came over here and talked the thing over. I thought that you wanted to get this thing through as quickly as possible without too much controversy, without too much attention.

MOTION TO EXPUNGE REMARKS

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I think that this is all contrary to the Rules of the Senate. I think that the statement which Senator Lane made did impugn the motives of a fellow Senator, which is contrary to our Rules, and I move that all these remarks from the time Senator Lane made the statement about Senator Watkin's motive be expunged from the record.

The PRESIDENT. Let us place the motion. Is the motion seconded?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Did the gentleman state that all the remarks since Senator Lane made his first remarks be expunged from the record? It would include, then, the remarks of the Senator from Delaware, also.

Mr. MAHANY. That is right.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, has moved, seconded by the Senator from Potter, Mr. Berger, that the remarks of the Senator from Washington, Mr. Lane, and the remarks of the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Watkins, be expunged from the record.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, if this motion prevails, then a Member of the Senate cannot even express an opinion as to what he thinks.

The PRESIDENT. That is right.

Mr. LANE. As a matter of fact, I feel that I have a right to express an opinion on what I think of the activities of a Member of the Senate, especially in regard to legislation of this type.

I do not think I have said anything detrimental or derogatory. I might have some legislation on counties, or something like that, which I would have an interest in and I would not object if he made that statement.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MAHANY. The remarks of the Senator relative to the bill and the reason, and impugning the motives of the Senator from Delaware and his actions, does that not come within our Rules that we cannot do that sort of thing?

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Crawford has asked the Chair to make a very difficult ruling. It depends on how you interpret the remarks, and I would hesitate to rule on that at this time. I think it is a matter for the Senators to decide themselves.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I made the motion, and I will press for my motion.

The PRESIDENT. The question recurs on the motion.

The Chair recognizes the Senator from Northampton, Mr. Yosko.

Mr. YOSKO. Mr. President, I do not know whether my remarks are in order on this motion, but I am going to make them anyway.

Mr. President, there was a statement made here about Senate Bill No. 366, and I want to take this opportunity to defend the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Watkins. I happened to introduce this bill on March 12. Today I think is April 9, which means that the bill was in committee for a month. If there was any railroading, the Chairman of the Committee could have called a meeting a long time ago in an effort to get this bill out.

When I introduced this bill, or before I introduced the bill, I asked Senator Watkins to co-sponsor it. I want to say for him that he said that he would prefer not to because, first, he was Chairman of the Committee to which the bill would be referred; second, he said that since he was affiliated with horse racing he did not feel that it would be proper for him to sponsor the bill; and, third, he said he had not made up his mind just how he would act on the bill.

I will say for him this morning when the bill came up before the committee, it was far from railroaded. It was thoroughly considered and my guess would be that there was at least twenty minutes spent in connection with a discussion of it. Everybody had an opportunity to say anything that they wanted to say.

I will say this for the Chairman of the Committee, Senator Watkins. He did not vote on the bill this morning for the reasons I have already stated, and I believe that the statement that the bill has been railroaded since it has been before the Senate—it was before the Senate from the day it was introduced—is uncalled for and I agree that the statement should be stricken from the record.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I want the record to show that I never mentioned anything about Senator Watkins being affiliated with horse racing. Someone else made that statement here today. I did not make that statement. The s atements that I made here were not derogatory to Senator Watkins.

I said, and I repeat, that I thought he had more than a passing interest in the legislation because he has talked with me about it. He has talked horse racing for years and he was trying to get it through as quickly as possible. I did not mean to talk about his character or his being affiliated with horse racing or anything like that, and I did not make that statement here.

If you feel that I have insulted you and you want this off the record, you will not need a motion. I will withdraw those remarks but, remember, I did not say you were affiliated with horse racing.

The PRESIDENT. I am sorry that the Members of the League of Women Voters are not here now, because I definitely promised them this morning that we would have an interesting Session, and then you had an agreement between the Floor Leaders to have a recess and there was no Session. Now the interesting part has come along.

And the question recurring,

Will the Sena e agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would request that the maker of the motion withdraw his motion and the seconder withdraw his second to it. The gentleman from Washington has requested on his own volition, that his remarks be withdrawn.

Mr. MAHANY. Do I understand that Senator Lane now asks that all his remarks relative to this measure be withdrawn?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I made the statement that if Senator Watkins feels that any of my statements impugn his integrity or question his honesty, all he has to do is to get up and say so, and I will make the request that any remarks I might have made, which he feels are derogatory to him, be stricken from the record.

Mr. WATKINS. Frankly, Mr. President, I do not wish to continue the argument. However, I think Senator Lane's tactics were out of order. I think some of the things he said were improper and I would like to see all of it stricken from the record. There was nothing in there which would benefit the advancement of this Senate or which would get us out of here at an early date.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, that is all right. If that is Senator Watkins' position, I will request that my remarks be stricken from the record. He can edit my remarks and if he feels that I said anything derogatory, they may be stricken from the record.

MOTION TO EXPUNGE REMARKS WITHDRAWN

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I withdrawn my motion that certain remarks be expunged from the record.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I withdraw my second to the motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed Senate Bill No. 140, Printer's No. 49, entitled "An Act making an appropriation to the committee appointed by the Senate to investigate activities of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission."

GEORGE M. LEADER.

HOUSE MESSAGES

SENATE CONCURS IN HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 75

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows:

AMENDMENT TO HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 1

In the House of Representatives, April 2, 1957.

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the second Resolved Clause of House Resolution No. 1, Printer's No. 8, Session of 1957, is amended to read:

Resolved, That said joint committee shall make its report to the respective branches of the General Assembly within a period not to exceed [sixty] ninety days.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE BILL No. 222

He also returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 222, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 7, 1901 (P. L. 20) entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class" authorizing salaries of city officials and employes who are not elected to be increased or diminished during their terms of office.

with the information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

BILL SIGNED

The President (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 222, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 7, 1901 (P. L. 20) entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class" authorizing salaries of city officials and employes who are not elected to be increased or diminished during their terms of office.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I am quite sure that every Senator on this floor reads the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. It is a great newspaper, and I have an article here which appeared in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph. It is a picture of a slide down in Beaver County. All my life, I have lived in Pennsylvania and I have seen many slides come down, which were caused by the rains that come down from the powers above.

I am quite sure that the Sun-Telegraph is sorry that this hurricane which went down through Texas, and in the city of Dallas tore down 156 homes as level as this floor, did not come through Pennsylvania, near a State highway, in order for the Sun-Telegraph to blame it on Joe Lawler.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I know that all of the Members of the Senate do not read the Titusville Herald but we all read the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. However, I do have an item from the Titusville Herald, of Monday morning. I presume it was copied in the other newspapers or, at least, it appeared in the other newspapers and I did not happen to see it. If circumstances had been the opposite, I am sure my colleague, Senator Dent, would have been quick to have called it to our attention.

This article is headed: "Sun Oil Co. Cuts Price of Gasoline." It also stated that this was the second price reduction since January 12. It further states as follows:

"Today's wholesale price in Pittsburgh is lower than the average price for this city during each of the last four years. Although there were numerous price fluctuations during the four-year period the over-all trend has been downward, the company pointed out."

The article goes on and gives the various prices of gasoline.

Therefore, Mr. President, gasoline prices, contrary to the Senator's prediction, are going down instead of going up.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the one cent gasoline tax does not go off until June 1. Therefore, if they are reducing their prices now, it is because of the benefits they received under the sales tax.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, that would cover an awful lot of screwdrivers.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, April 10, 1957, at 2:30 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. HARNEY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 6:16 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Wednesday, April 10, 1957, at 2:30 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, April 9, 1957.

The House met at 1:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Ralph Newell, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Kittanning, guest Chaplain and guest of the Speaker, offered the following prayer:

Our Father we thank Thee for the intelligence entrusted to us. Give us this moment the courage to look critically at our own minds, keep us from conforming to this world, help us to be transformed by the renewing of our minds that we may prove what is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God. Forgive us when we offer to Thee that which is second best in any area of life. Direct us in our deliberations, keep us from planning selfishly, enable us to carry out our responsibilities so that at the close of this session we shall have an inner glow of satisfaction in work well done. In Jesus name, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, April 8, 1957, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. SHERMAN, BUCCHIN, EILBERG and GELFAND. RESOLUTION No. 77.

In the House of Representatives, April 8, 1957.

The traffic difficulties and problems besetting the nation is caused in no small part by the size of the modern automobile.

The small car of today is larger than the big cars of a decade ago.

The trend toward mammoth automobiles apparently proceeds upon the theory that a majority of the people want large cars. However since all of the manufacturers of popular cars have followed the same practice, the public has no choice in the matter, therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania urge the manufacturers of automobiles, particularly those producing the formerly small cars so popular with the public, to manufacture and make available to the public automobiles of a size comparable to the "small cars" produced between 1940 and 1950 and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to each manufacturer of automobiles in America.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 897, entitled:

An Act lapsing certain unexpended balances of appropriations heretofore made by the General Assembly.

And said bill having been read at length the first time. Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, to preside.

The Chair presents a former Speaker of the House, Mr. Andrews.

MR. ANDREWS IN THE CHAIR.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BREON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I have asked for the opportunity to address the House at this time on a matter that must be of considerable concern to all of us. As the Representative from Centre County, it is my privilege to ask you to consider Pennsylvania State University's Financial needs. This is a responsibility I am glad to assume, not only for our great land grant state university, but for the welfare of all the people of the Commonwealth as well.

These needs of Pennsylvania State University deserve certain justification in view of which their ultimate unanimous consideration by this House will be recorded as a great contribution to higher education and an acknowledgment of our Commonwealth's responsibility within its orbit of influence as it affects higher education generally and the Pennsylvania State University specifically.

Without boring you ladies and gentlemen of the House with a lot of statistical data, may I simply state it has become apparent that Pennsylvania ranks extremely low in the matter of state aid to its Universities. It is indeed an unfortunate fact that our state government conribuions to the current income of institutions of higher education represent a far more meager allocation of our state's resources than prevails in most other states.

Pennsylvania's state government contributions in this area rank third from the bottom or forty-fifth in terms of dollars per capita of the state's population. Pennsylvania ranks 38 per cent below the national average. Pennsylvania ranks forty-third in terms of percentage of state government's total expenditures.

The most serious of the financial disadvantages borne by institutions of higher education in Pennsylvania, as compared with similar institutions in other states, are those suffered by our universities and especially the Pennsylvania State University where the faith of the Commonwealth has been pledged to its support.

The foregoing facts were taken from an actual comparative analysis of the financing patterns among the states. They suggest that Pennsylvania's extremely low rank in the level of state aid per student is a matter plainly within the province of our State Legislature.

It has been suggested by some that an increase in student tuition and fees might be considered as a method of bringing the per capita income per student to a reasonable level. However, Mr. Speaker, substantial increases in this area are impractical, both because of the relatively high rates already prevailing in Pennsylvania and also because of the possibility that such increase might interpose an undesirable barrier to higher educational opportunities.

I submit that the only logical conclusion we can arrive at, in our efforts to resolve this dilemma, is that substantially expanded state aid is necessary to raise Pennsylvania's support of higher education to the national average.

It should also become apparent that this step is necessary to raise our salary level to the national average in this area as well. It is a fact that we have been forced to compete with industry in this matter of paying an equitable salary if we are to hold our well-qualified educators where they belong, in the classrooms.

It would be foolish for this Legislature to attempt, by state aid, to match the financial considerations offered by industry to those fortunate people with a college degree. But considering the cost of living, the value of the dollar, and other considerations, I believe it is the duty of this Legislature at least to make available that aid which will assure our educators a salary somewhere near the national average paid by other comparable state aided institutions.

$6 million is the amount in Pennsylvania State University's request for this matter.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 446, entitled:

An Act amending the compact contained in the act of June 5, 1937, (P. L. 1664) entitled "An act to ratify and adopt a compact or agreement negotiated by commissioners designated by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and commissioners designated by the Governor of the State of Ohio relative to the development use and control of the Pymatuning Lake * * *" fixing the speed and horsepower of motor boats allowed on the lake limiting operation of motor boats and prescribing penalties

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 515, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor to acquire a tract of land in the Borough of Slippery Rock Butler County for use of the Slippery Rock State Teachers' College and making an appropriation

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations for possible amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 516, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor to acquire 253.1 acres fore or less of land in Slippery Rock Township Butler County for use of Slippery Rock Teachers College and making an appropriation.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on appropriations for possible amendment.

The motion was agreed to

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 539, entitled:

An Act providing for the payment of the salary medical and hospital expenses of employes of State penal and correctional institutions who are injured in the performance of their duty and providing benefit to their widows and dependents in certain cases.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations for possible amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 558, entitled:

An Act amending the "Fictitious Name Act" approved May 24, 1945 (P. L. 967) providing for amended certificates requiring certificates of registration and of cancellation or withdrawal from the prothonotary.

The first section was read and agreed to.

The second section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agre to the section?

Mr. TOLL offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 6.1), page 5, line 9, by striking out "one dollar ($1.00)" and inserting in lieu thereof "five dollars ($5.25) and twenty five cents".

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The third section was read and agreed to.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. TOLL offered the following amendment:

Amend Title, page 2, last line of Title, by inserting after "prothonotary" and fixing fees.

It was agreed to.

The Title was agreed to as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 619, entitled:

An Act amending the "Law Fixing Annual Charge on Forest Lands" approved May 17, 1929 (P. L. 1798) changing limitations on the responsibility of the Commonwealth to pay charges to counties on certain Federal forest reserves.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations for possible amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair requests the Speaker to return to the Chair.

The SPEAKER (W. Stuart Helm) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the former Speaker for the able way in which he presided. It has just been a continuation of the able manner in which he presided during the last session.

FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the Hall of the House a former Member of the House from Fayette County, Honorable Harold J. Arnold.

FACULTY WIVES OF PENNSYLVANIA MILITARY COLLEGE WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the Hall of the House a delegation of faculty wives of Pennsylvania Military College from the City of Chester, Delaware County. They are the guests of the gentlemen from Delaware, Messrs. Bell and Murphy.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the Hall of the House a delegation from the League of Women Voters of Morrisville and Yardley. They are the guests of the lady from Bucks, Mrs. Kooker, and the gentlemen from Bucks, Messrs. Keller and Brennan.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 317, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1913 (P. L. 155) entitled "An act regulating the letting of certain contracts for the erection construction and alteration of public buildings" further regulating the letting of such contracts by the General State Authority and the State Public School Building Authority.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to try to clear up some misunderstanding regarding House Bill 317, Printer's No. 245.

This bill will change the existing law from a "shall" law to a "may" law. If enacted into law, the authorities will be allowed to use their own best judgment in deciding which type of contract will produce the most economical and most efficient operation on the particular job involved.

This bill as amended will now apply to the work undertaken by the General State Authority and the State Public School Building Authority only.

Mr. Speaker, to clear up another misunderstanding, It has been said that this permissive or "may" bill is a general contractors bill. As far as I am personally concerned, nothing can be farther from the truth.

I am a general contractor. If I voted in accordance with selfish interests as a contractor, I would vote against this bill. Each contract for an authority building contains a liquidated damage clause ranging from $50 a day or up for failure to complete on time.

Under the present Act I have at least three alibis to beat the liquidated damage clause because of the three other contracts. Another thing, under the present Act I have good grounds on which to sue authorities for damages suffered because of delays caused by these other contractors. So if I voted to further selfish interests as a contractor, I would vote against this bill. If it passes, I will lose all alibis. I will lose the opportunity for a profitable suit.

As a Legislator I am compelled to vote for this bill. The people of my county elected me to represent them, not to further selfish interests.

If this bill passes, it will effect savings in authorities administrative costs amounting to approximately a half million dollars a year.

I understand that the Army Engineers have taken bids both ways and have found the single bids are lower than those taken on a separate bid basis.

In my opinion a vote against this bill is a vote in favor of contractors' interests. A vote for this bill is a vote in favor of economy in state government.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would claim the privilege of closing the debate. If there are other speakers, I prefer that the Chair recognize them. If there are not, I would be glad to be recognized to close the debate.

Mr. COMER. Mr. Speaker, the former speaker has pointed out that the state will save money by this bill. I will go into that later.

I would like to state for the benefit of the Members who are not acquainted with this bill that in 1913 when this bill was introduced for the purpose of saving money for the state of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions the idea was to pay profits only on functions actually performed by the various subdivisions of the industry.

The general contractor's business consisted of excavation, which he generally sublet, together with steel erection. He erected the doors and windows with carpenters employed by him. In many cases everything from the cellar to the roof was sublet. The general contractor, as a rule, understood this class of work. The smaller general contractors came into the business as practical men. Some of the larger contractors, their percentage being very small, did employ civil and structual engineers who understood concrete, steel and building construction.

In 1913 plumbing work was comparatively simple. The heating systems consisted of metallic piping or hot air ducts which also were very simple.

The idea in passing this bill was not to pay the general contractor a profit on electrical work, plumbing work and heating work, only paying him a profit on the things he actually did and understood.

In 1913 electrical work in many cases consisted of a few lights and switches. High voltage systems on buildings very seldom exceeded 2300 volts and the work was done in a large number of cases by the electric utilities.

This bill has operated in the state with practically little trouble since 1913 and saved the state and its political subdivisions millions of dollars and secured for the state responsible, investigated, bonded and qualified mechanical contractors who did high-class work and knew their business.

Bricks, stone and concrete stand for generations, but the state felt if the mechanical work was not installed properly by high-class mechanical contractors in a generation the building would become useless. All this was discussed and looked into before the Separation Act was adopted.

The architects, engineers, and private owners have become educated, organized and used to the separation to trades on buildings. To change would cause utter disorder.

What do we now find in looking at the picture? After 40 years of separate bidding, we find the general contractor in many cases subletting practically everything on the building. In other words, he has become a broker, pure and simple. Electrical work has become so complicated that the general contractor is in a daze as to what it is all about. Today voltages up to 33,000 are installed on buildings and 13,000 volt and 5,000 volt systems are common. Electrical work is loaded up with every conceivable kind of electrical equipment and has increased ten times in volumne since 1913.

Plumbing work has come through nearly the same process as the electrical business.

There are a half dozen different kinds of heating systems installed in buildings which require a thorough knowledge by heating contractors. He is generally officered by registered, professional, mechanical engineers the same as the electrical contractors who are officered by electrical engineers.

To this has been added air conditioning, which is indeed a very complicated business. These systems of air conditioning are often incorporated with the heating system where the same units are used by both heating, ventilating and air conditioning. These heating and air conditioning companies are generally officered also by mechanical engineers.

Today in public buildings and private construction the mechanical work, which the state and its subdivisions have now been buying separately, has reached a proportion of more than 50 percent of the building cost.

Recent records show that of $6 million worth of buildings the services of the mechanical contractors, which the state buys separately, amount to over $3 million.

At a time when money is hard to get tax after tax must be levied upon our citizens to pay a second profit to a general contractor instead of saving this money and paying direct.

If the general contractor understood so little of these mechanical trades in 1913, what would he know today? It is often very dangerous to put these complicated systems within the general contractors, because the general contractor gets telephone bids several hours before their proposals are due and they often come from irresponsible people who do not know what they are quoting on or forget items they know nothing about in the specifications.

When the contract is awarded to the general contractor, he is hooked and could be put out of business. At the present time the awarding authority receives a certified check and a bond, and when the plumbing, heating and electrical contractors give a bid, that's it. The mechanical work will then last as long as the steel, bricks and mortar of the general contractor.

In closing, all the authorities have taken advantage of this Separation Act in order to save millions for the state. In fact, in their anxiety to save money they have now separated and bought separately elevator equipment, kitchen equipment, laboratory equipment, hospital equipment and laundry equipment.

I believe this is a bad bill and it should be voted down by both sides of the House.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Columbia, Mr. Strausser.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Columbia, Mr. Strausser, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STRAUSSER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, one of the most forceful arguments made against this change in the law is that a general contractor who bids on a set of specifications for an entire job, including all these matters which are usually subcontracted, will then go around among the various sub-contractors doing business in that area and bargain with them to get the lowest possible price for the Plumbing, heating or other work. What is your answer to that argument?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman did not use the word that is probably in the back of his mind. You have two different contractors, at least two different types of contractors.

You have the contractor who will take the lowest responsible bid before he bids the job and that is it. If he is awarded the job, he will award the subcontracts to the various people whose prices he used. Then you have the other type who will do just what the Minority Leader says. He will do a lot of shopping and try to cut prices.

The saving comes where you have a contract including a lot of outside work, such as excavation, concrete pipe work, septic tanks or sewage disposal systems which are constructed of concrete, and the general contractor works with the plumbing contractor before he bids the job. It is very possible that their combined efforts will result in a lower price by the general contractor taking all the excavation, the concrete work and so on.

In the past, I have done that in cases where the general plumbing, heating and electrical work were taken under one job.

You will find that is true with Bell Telephone work and other work. I have worked with plumbing contractors especially and we have worked out a lower price than would have been the result had the bids been taken separately.

I hope I have answered the gentleman's question.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman a further question. Do I understand the gentleman to say that it is possible to achieve some saving to the authorities involved in this bill by cooperation between the general contractor and the subcontractors?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Yes, Mr. Speaker, it is possible to go in with a saving.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman not also admit it is conceivable that the authority will not save any money on the job but that the general contractor, by shopping around among the sub-contractors, will enlarge his profit?

Mr. STRAUSSER. It depends on the contractor, Mr. Speaker, the type of contractor. If he is a square shooter and treats the "subs" as he should, he will not increase his profit and by working together as I stated, the authority will save money.

I want to call your attention to the fact that this a "may" bill and it is entirely up to the authority to decide whether a separate bid should be taken or whether broken-down bids should be taken. I think the members of the authority would use their discretion and better judgment in deciding what type of bids should be taken.

On the same project, they could take bids based on a general plumbing, heating and electric breakdown and a combined bid. They could then decide whether they want to let these contracts separately or as a whole.

It does not mean that in every case this award or contract will be let either on a separate or a broken down basis. I think the people in the authority, after taking the two bids, can decide whether the next result is a saving or not.

Mr. READINGER. Under this bill is it not possible for the contractor, if he so desires and if he happens to be the lowest responsible bidder, to shop around among the various subcontractors who have given him, as well as bidding on the job, a set of figures showing what their work would cost?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Sure, that is possible, the same as it is possible for an electrical contractor, a plumbing contractor or any contractor to shop around among his sources of supply for a better price. So you do not stop shopping as far as that is concerned.

Mr. READINGER. Under the present law, the bids for the separate work must be taken separately, must they not?

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is right.

Mr. READINGER. The authority must then take the lowest responsible bidder of those?

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is right.

Mr. READINGER. Under this bill, the authority could take eitheir the general contract bid, which would include everything, or the general contracting work alone and separate bids on the other items?

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is right.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to inject here a thought that it will be noted the amendments say that separate specifications shall be drawn up for the various phases of the work.

Mr. READINGER. They shall be made available for bidding on both the separate and the general, is that right?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Well, with the specifications drawn up separately, that would make that possible, yes, sir

Mr. READINGER. But the law would require the receiving of bids on the general as well as the separate. Even under this bill they will have to bid separately and the contractor can bid on everything.

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is up to the authority, Mr. Speaker. It is up to the authority whether they want to take a separate bid on a project or whether they want to take a bid covering the four phases. They could also take it both ways, on one contract or on four contracts on the same project. There is nothing to prohibit that

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Columbia, Mr. Strausser.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Columbia, Mr Strausser, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STRAUSSER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOPRESTI. Mr. Speaker, I am interested to know whether it is not now possible for the general contractor also to bid on the plumbing and the other specifications separately.

Mr. STRAUSSER. It is possible, Mr Speaker but it would be foolish to do that.

Mr. LOPRESTI. If the general contractor wanted to get the entire job, could he not do it by bidding on all of the different specifications?

Mr. STRAUSSER. If he put a separate bid in on each phase of the work, yes.

Mr. LOPRESTI. That is right He could put in a separate bid for his general contract, one for the electrical and one for the plumbing, then if he was the low man in each of these bids, he would get all of the work?

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is right.

Mr. LOPRESTI. So that under the present law it is possible for a general contractor to get the entire job if he thinks he wants to do it?

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is right, but the time element in preparing a bid prohibits him from doing that. He has all he can do to estimate his own job for bidding purposes without going into the other phases of the work, if he is not required to do so.

Mr. LOPRESTI: What difference would it make under this law, then? He would have to do the same thing, would he not?

Mr. STRAUSSER. In this case, as was pointed out, a general contractor would not attempt to do the work of the plumbing heating and electrical contractors. That is a foolish thought. He would go to the plumbing, heating and electrical contractors for their bids. But as I have pointed out, the general contractor and the plumbing contractor going together, those two principally, could result in a saving.

Do not lose sight of the fact that it would cut the administrative cost down to about 25 percent. The Authorities now have to deal with four contractors. Under a single bid they deal with one contractor who is responsible for the job, rather than have a divided responsibility on that job.

Mr LOPRESTI. Am I correct, Mr. Speaker, in assuming that the gentleman's answer to Mr. Readinger meant that the authority could, if it was so minded, advertise for one bid and not ask for separate bids?

Mr. STRAUSSER. It could.

Mr. LOPRESTI: In that event, all the individuals who would be interested in separate bids would be denied an opportunity of bidding on that job?

Mr. STRAUSSER. No, they would bid through the general contractor.

Mr. LOPRESTI. But I mean so far as the authority is concerned, it would receive no bids from anybody except general contractors?

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is right.

Mr. LOPRESTI. In that case you would not know whether by letting it out separately you would have a lower cost?

Mr. STRAUSSER. That is right.

Now let me point this out, too Before the war and since the war many contractors have been qualified, as far as their technical experience is concerned, to go into one of these contracting phases—plumbing, heating or electric. Now these contractors are denied the privilege of bidding because they cannot get a bond. Those same contractors could bid through a general contractor.

Mr. LOPRESTI. In other words, you would not want the state authorities to deal with somebody who was not deemed responsible and yet you would say it would be all right if the general contractor would bring in that same irresponsible fellow and use him as an estimate?

Mr. STRAUSSER: I do not like the word "irresponsible" As far as their technical ability or experience is concerned, they are qualified.

Unfortunately, the only thing that determines the qualifications of a contractor is whether or not he can supply a bond. Regardless of his ability to do the job or the type of work he does, the only thing that qualifies him is the fact that he can supply a bond.

Mr. LOPRESTI. We are getting back to the same thing, are we not? The general contractor could deal with a man who is not financially able to furnish a bond. If he were bidding for a state authority he could not bid.

Mr STRAUSSER. That is right if he were bidding direct. But if a contractor has enough confidence in this smaller contractor, he can take the bid of the smaller contractor and cover him with his bond.

Right now I have an electrical contractor working on a good-sized project. Technically, they are qualified, but financially they were not sufficiently strong to furnish a bond. They are doing a wonderful job. They are just about finished with the job.

In that instance, this small contractor is being built up to a point where he will have enough financial backing to qualify for a bond. But if I had not included his bid in with mine on this particular job, he would have been denied the privilege of bidding on the job

Mr. LOPRESTI. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I have come to love this little bill more and more because of the enemies it has made.

First, I want to clear up some of the background. Some weeks ago we talked about a conference at the national level on the part of the National Electrical Contractors Association. Some of the Members of this House have been told that the National Association opposes this bill. I want to read the following telegram:

> Understand my name has been used in connection with Act 317 to amend the Pennsylvania Separation Act of 1913. The policy of NECA is to leave to the members in each state the decision on the desirability of any state legislation. Any proposed national legislation should have no effect on Act 317 one way or the other. While there may be parallels between state and Federal law there are many considerations that require variations which only the local people are able to determine. I have not discussed 317 with the AGC and NECA has not taken any position nor does it intend to take any position on this measure.
> Paul M. Geary, Executive Vice-President National Electrical Contractors Association.

All of the Members of this House have received various communications from Edward S. Dull, who writes to them as Execuvtie Secretary of the National Electrical Contractors Association, and he winds up his communication by saying, "We feel that this act will destroy the the Separation Act of 1913."

The bill we are now considering does not apply to private business. The bill we are considering does not apply to contracts let by the Department of Property and Supplies. The Department of Property and Supplies under the rulings of the Attorney Generals in force these many years, on any contract can ask for one bid, an overall bid, or separate bids and take the lowest bid. If one bid is the lowest, the Department of Property and Supplies can accept it. If the various bids, the general bid and the other bids, are lower, the Department of Property and Supplies can accept those. The Federal Government does business on exactly the same basis.

It would be a complicated legal argument to show why this bill as originally drawn affected only the two authorities, the School Authority and the General State Authority. In order to make that point clear, we wrote into the bill that it applied only to the authorities.

The General State Authority is a vanishing institution. It is not a perpetual body, we will see the end of it eventually. It has $60 million to spend. There will not be any of that money spent in Pittsburgh because there are not going to be any General State Authority contracts in Pittsburgh. Very little of it will be spent in Philadelphia and very little in the third class cities.

There is now pending some $20 million in contracts for the various State Teachers' Colleges. Some of those are small bids, some of those are larger bids. Under the present situation if you are building a residence for the superintendent of an institution for $24,000 or $28,000 you must have an architect and a separate contract for the plumbing, a separate contract for the electrical work and a separate contract for the air conditioning on one little structure.

There is a great deal of feeling for letting the general contractor shop around. Are we to gather that the contractors, electrical, plumbing, and so forth, will quote one price to a contractor and another price to the state? The sub-contractors will submit their figures to a contractor just as they will submit them directly to the General State Authority. The object is to place the General State Authority and the School Authority in a position to decide whether the general contract or the separation is cheapest for the Commonwealth. Our client is the Commonwealth.

The General State Authority has spent over $475 million under the Separation Act. We have tried it at previous sessions, but there has always been some undercurrent, some misrepresentation of what we were trying to do. There are now three large contracting firms in the Commonwealth which have two organizations, one organization bids on the general contract and the other organization which they own bids on the other contracts. There is one organization, and that idea is likely to spread.

I say we only have $60 million dollars to spend and when we are building schools and when we are building these buildings at the State Teachers' Colleges the General State Authority is entitled to employ the means which will save the most money for the Commonwealth.

All of these general contractors talk about hiring inferior help. They are all under bond, they are all bound by specifications, and it is the purpose of the General State Authority if the contractor cannot finish his job in accordance with the specifications to have the bondholder finish the job in accordance with the specifications.

The gentleman from Columbia has spoken of the possible savings when the various elements in a given building situation can cooperate. On the smaller contracts there is a very, very decided advantage in having someone in charge of the general situation. The General State Authority has lost millions. The last calculation was that the General State Authority had lost in excess of $9 million dollars because of delays upon the part of some one of the subcontractors, electrical people did not come through or the plumbing people did not come through. There is no one to knit up the general situation, no general manager.

Now that we are in the final stage of closing the affairs of the General State Authority we again urge that the General State Authority be placed in the position in which the Federal Government operates, that it be placed in the position in which the Department of Property and Supplies operates. There is nothing wrong about that. The General State Authority should have at least the same tools with which to serve the Commonwealth and get minimum prices as the Department of Property and Supplies.

If there is someone, a powerful contractor, who is opposed to this bill, some powerful contractor who can make or break the future of Members of this House, I value their acquaintance. They can be useful in other things. So I say to all of the Members whose political future is endangered if they vote for this bill by some contractor or some labor leader saying, "Vote for this bill at your peril. If you vote for this bill you cannot come back," that if there is someone so powerful as that, I value our associations so much that I would not ask you to imperil your political future. But I do not like the idea that there is any alleged spokesman for labor trying to defeat this bill by means of misrepresentation. I do not believe that any powerful contractor—and I do not care how powerful he is—should be permitted to defeat this bill because of some undisclosed selfish interest.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, there is one point Mr. Andrews touch on, labor. Frankly, I believe labor should be in favor of this bill. I cite as an example what happens under seperate contracts: "Labor Trouble Outside of Riverside School." I am not going to read this whole thing. I am going to read just this much of it:

> Construction on a new Riverside elementary school has been held up protesting the alleged hiring of non-union electricians by the firm holding the electrical contract.

Here is an example of a school contract which has been let, and apparently the general plumbing and the heating contracts were awarded to a union contractor, the electrical contract to a non-union electrical contractor and you have the job tied up. Who suffers when the job is tied up? The persons for whom the school is being built, or whatever building it is, are denied the use of that building as long as you have strikes and are tied up on the job. If you have a single contract—I do not know of many non-union general contractors—the general contractor would be sure he did not solicit bids from other than union contractors in the other phases

Mr. AUSTIN M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to speak briefly on House Bill 317. This is a very simple bill. It was even more simple before it was amended, because at that time it constituted an outright repeal of the "Separation Act."

At the present time, with the amendments which have been made to the bill, it is in effect about a 90 percent repealer of the Separation Act, since my information is that about 90 percent of the work which is concorned in this particular matter is let under contract by either the General State Authority or the State Public School Building Authority. So if we pass this bill we will really be disposing completely of the Separation Act, an act which has been on the statute books of Pennsylvania for a period of 44 years. I think it was a good Act in 1913 and I think it is still a good Act today.

The distinguished gentleman from Cambria referred to the fact that about $9 million had been lost in contracts where there were delays. I would like to point out to the Members of the House, if there were delays and they were the responsibility of subcontractors, those subcontractors are bonded in exactly the same way in which the general contractors are bonded and in the same way in which the general contractor would be bonded under the single bid. So if it is the subcontractor's responsibility for these delays, the Commonwealth or the authority has an ample remedy to recover damages because of the delay.

Mr. Strausser made a very revealing remark in his initial comments on this bill. He said if this bill passed it would remove all of his alibis which are present at this time when the general contract is let separately from these other types of work. By his saying the passage of this bill would remove his alibi, he is admitting what we contend, and that is, if this bill passed a great majority of this work will be let on a single bid rather than on separate bids.

I think it is very interesting to look for a moment into the status of the Federal law in this particular field. Under the Federal law they now have the single bid procedure. I would like to inform the Members of the House that they are apparently beginning to run into a little trouble under this single bid process. I have in my hand a copy of House Bill 3340 which is pending in the 85th Congress in Washington and I would like to read for the information of the House what is contained therein by way of a declaration of purpose.

> It appears desirable and in the best interests of the Federal Government for the Federal Government in contracting for the construction of buildings to use the single contract system of procurement under which the general contractor is solely responsible to the government for completion and has undivided responsibility therefor and full control and authority to coordinate and complete, but that such system should include procedures under which the subcontracts for any mechanical specialty work involved should be finalized as far as practicable prior to the submission of the prime bids or proposals to give the government the full benefit of competitive subcontract prices as well as maximum efficiency in performance and that such procedures should be so established as to eliminate the unfair trade practice of bid shopping by general contractors or subcontractors and other unfair trade practices in connection with bidding on Federal work.

Mr. Speaker, I point out that this is extremely significant. At the present time we have the Separation Act and the Federal government in certain aspects uses the single bid philosophy. It looks to me as though they are running into trouble under that single bid philosophy and they are now beginning to move toward what we have, which is the Separation Act, whereby these bids should be let separately on the different types of work.

Just one final word in closing. Much has been made of the fact that a lot of money will be saved if we pass House Bill 317. I may be a little dense, but I just cannot get it into my head where letting the bids on a single contract is going to save us any money. If electrical contractors are bidding against electrical contractors for the electrical work, you are going to get lower bids, whereas if all of the work under the contract is being bid between general contractors, they are going to get prices from subcontractors for the specialized phases of the work, and they are going to add their 10 percent into the bid. So I just cannot see how the state, General State Authority, or any of these other authorities are going to save any money if this bill is passed.

I might point out that under this bill it does not mean in every instance that these bids must be let on a separate basis. It is up to the authority. Under this bill, if the authority so elects they can advertise for one single bid and never bother to obtain separate bids on these jobs.

Therefore, I would like to inform the Members of the House that I am opposed to the passage of House Bill 317 in its present form and I ask all of the Members on both sides of the House to vote "no."

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 565, Printer's No. 242,

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 44, Printer's No. 218

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 56, entitled as follows:

An Act amending "The Penal Code" approved June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872) prohibiting the sale or other disposal of morphine or facilitating or conspiring to sell or otherwise dispose of heroin to minors under eighteen years of age

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cameron, Mr Tompkins.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, would this bill allow a 20 year old person, an addict of heroin, who would sell or give some heroin to a 14 or 15 year old boy or girl, to be sentenced to death for that offense?

Mr. TOMPKINS It would give the jury the right to impose that penalty if it saw fit.

Mr. READINGER. Even though it were the first offense for the person who sells the drug?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Under the provisions of the bill, that is right.

Mr. READINGER. May I ask the gentleman whether there is not a Federal law now which allows the imposition of a death sentence for such sales of this drug?

Mr. TOMPKINS There is.

Mr. READINGER. has there not been for some time such a federal law?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Just within the past year.

Mr. READINGER. Would not that Federal law apply to any such act committed in the state of Pennsylvania if the Federal authorities chose to ask for that penalty?

Mr. TOMPKINS It would in those cases where the Federal courts assume jurisdiction, but not in those cases where the state courts have jurisdiction.

Mr. READINGER. Are there any cases where the Federal courts could not take jurisdiction throughout the United States in connection with the violation of the sale of drugs?

Mr. TOMPKINS. That question I cannot answer, Mr. Speaker, I am sorry.

Mr. READINGER. Would the gentleman not agree that a Federal court anywhere in the United States dealing with a drug case could take jurisdiction and try the person for the violation?

Mr TOMPKINS. No, no more than they could assume jurisdiction over murders which are committed in Pennsylvania. We have statutes on our books dealing with dope peddlers, and so forth, and imposing penalties for their violation.

Mr. READINGER. Does the gentleman believe this will aid the prosecution or be a deterrent to the sale of drugs of this kind by allowing the imposition of the death penalty?

Mr. TOMPKINS. According to the report of the Federal Government, yes, that is so.

Mr. READINGER. Does the gentleman know of any case where the death penalty has been imposed upon a person over the age of 18 who sold to a minor under the age of 18?

Mr. TOMPKINS Not under the Federal law, which was only enacted, as I say, about a year ago.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman tell this House why he thinks it is necessary to go to the extent of allowing the imposition of the death penalty in any case?

Mr. TOMPKINS. The practice has become very vicious in various sections of the United States and in some portions of Pennsylvania where dope is being peddled, particularly to our high school children. They are becoming addicts to it. It is becoming so destructive to their future that the Federal Government—I have a report, this is the entire report of the Federal Government on that very subject. I am not going to take the time to read it to the House, but I will read a few of the results of that investigation by the Federal Government in that connection, and that is this law.

This is Section 107 of the Federal Laws passed here in the 1956 session of the Congress.

> Notwithstanding any other provision of law, whoever, having attained the age of eighteen years, knowingly sells, gives away, furnishes, or dispenses, facilitates the sale, giving, furnishing, or dispensing, or conspires to sell, give away, furnish, or dispense, any heroin unlawfully imported or otherwise brought into the United States, to any person who has not attained the age of eighteen years, may be fined not more than $20,000, and shall be imprisoned for life, or for not less than ten years, except that the offender shall suffer death if the jury in its discretion shall so direct.

The Federal Government after a very exhaustive study, a copy of which I hold in my hands, saw fit to enact that legislation placing the protection of our youth, in the Federal courts when they found violators coming under the jurisdiction of the Federal courts. Our children in Pennsylvania are just as precious to us in the administration of our justice as it is in the Federal courts, and that opinion is held not only by myself, but by a great number of organizations as shown by a great deal of editorial comment, which I am not going to take time to read to you here in the House, but merely call to your attention.

Therefore, we feel we are only bringing ourselves in line with the thinking of the Federal Government by proposing such legislation.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman one further question?

Have any of the other states of the union adopted this as a state law?

Mr. TOMPKINS. That I cannot tell you, Mr. Speaker, I am sorry.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I was not aware of the Federal law going as far as it does until today. It seemed to me it was going pretty far even though this is a horrible crime and not to be condoned by anyone. It seemed to me to be going pretty far to allow a jury to recommend a death sentence in a drug case.

For example, a young person 20 or 21 who has become an addict himself might sell this drug to a 17 year old who is not an addict and lead that child into the same terrible state of affairs that the addict has gotten into. If the jury saw fit, it could impose the death sentence on that person. I do not say it would happen, but I say passing such a bill would allow it to happen.

Of course, the Governor of the state could commute such a death sentence if it were imposed. Maybe he would and maybe he would not. Maybe after the present investigation is over there will not be any commutations of any kind given to anybody.

I am fearful this is going further than I would like to go, and I intend to vote against this bill for that reason, not because I do not want these dope peddlers dealt with harshly, but I would much prefer to see a life sentence or a 50 or 90 year term imposed upon them to remove them from society permanently, rather than putting them to death.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I merely wish to call the attention of the House to the fact that it is not mandatory upon a jury to impose such a penalty. It is only permissive for them to do so if the offense which comes before them is of such a nature that they think it should be done.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 173, entitled as follows:

An Act requiring court approval of contracts between registered architects or registered engineers and counties * * * and providing payments on such contracts may be made out of proceeds of temporary loans.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JUMP. Mr. Speaker, Members of the House, my colleagues and I introduced House Bill No. 173 at the request of the Luzerne County Institution District. At the present time they are in the process of building a $3 million home for the aged and the infirm. I would like to explan briefly what this bill does.

The purpose of this bill is to prevent needless waste of taxpayers' money by having municipalities enter into contracts with architects and pay substantial sums on such contracts only to find out later that the project is illegal for some reason or another.

It is also to protect architects, many of whom in the past have worked for months and even years and spent their own money in employing draftsmen, engineers, and other technical assistants in the preparation of plans for the construction of public buildings, only to find that the entire project had to be abandoned as increasing the municipality's indebtedness beyond the constitutional limitation.

The pertinent acts of the Legislature provide for approval by the court, by the State Art Commission and, in cases, by the Department of Welfare before any contract for construction of public buildings may be executed.

The laws of this Commonwealth have utterly failed to make any provision governing the preliminary work that must be done by an architect, whose services might require well over a year before the final plans and specifications are completed.

The proposed act would, to a large extent, correct this situation by requiring a preliminary examination by the court as to the purposes of the building, the financial condition of the municipality, and the cost of construction of the project, without taking away from the municipal authorities the discretion which the existing acts of legislation have imposed in them as to the final say on whether such a project should be undertaken and the manner in which it should be constructed.

As an illustration, we had a case go up from Luzerne County to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania (Innes v. Nanticoke School District, 342 Pa. 433) in which a change had taken place in the personnel of the school district after Innes had spent over a year obtaining the approval of plans and specifications for the construction of a new high school building.

The school district had paid out many thousands of dollars on the architect's contract, but it had not paid Mr. Innes the full amount he had expended in hiring draftsmen, engineers, and so forth. The architect's contract was declared illegal because the court determined that the construction of the building itself would put the school district somewhat beyond its constitiutional debt limitation. In this case not only was the taxpayers' money wasted, but the architect incurred a very substantial financial loss due to no fault of his own.

Now, Mr. Speaker, by occupation, I am not an architect engineer, or draftsman. I am a legislator by occupation.

Mr. KORNS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jump, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JUMP. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KORNS. Mr. Speaker, if this bill becomes law, would it not require that any project for a public building, and that would include school buildings, first have court approval before proceeding?

Mr. JUMP. That is correct, Mr. Speaker. They must inform the court as to the plans. In other words, the purpose of the bill is to alleviate a lot of red tape which occurrred in the past, so that they can come to some mutual agreement on the plans for the construction that is going to take place.

Mr. KORNS. The gentleman spoke of a lot of red tape. As it stands now, before construction of a school building it must be approved by the county school board, the county superintendent of schools, and about three agencies in the state Department. Now in addition you request that we require court approval. Is that not red tape?

Mr. JUMP. I might say to the gentleman that I did not quite get his question. I do want to apologize. I am a little hard of hearing, and there is a little noise, Mr. Speaker.

Is the gentleman going to ask me a question?

Mr. KORNS. Yes, sir. At the present time it is required that a local school district, before starting a project, first have approval from the county school board, the county superintendent of schools and about three different agencies in the Department of Public Instruction. Would this not require another agency be contacted before proceeding?

Mr. JUMP. Mr. Speaker, for the information of the gentleman, I cannot see where it would require another agency. It is just notifying the court, then it is to be passed upon by the court and the court in turn, from what I understand, would notify the prothonotary's office to advertise that such a project is going to take place. That would not be another agency.

Mr. KORNS. One further question, Mr. Speaker. You mention hearings on page 3 of this bill. In that hearing apparently, it is indicated that we must supply costs. Would it not be hard to supply costs without first engaging an architect or an engineer for that information?

Mr. JUMP. I do not know what the gentleman means by supply "cost." What does the gentleman mean, supply "cost"?

Mr. KORN. Does not the bill state that the court shall decide whether the district is able to pay for the school?

Mr. JUMP. The bill specifies notifying the court for its approval. Before an architect has his engineers and draftsmen prepare plans, they will discuss it with the court, then the court is to advertise.

Mr. KORNS. One further question, Mr. Speaker: Is this bill not, in the main, for the protection of the architects?

Mr. JUMP. It is not only for the protection of the architects but also the engineers and draftsmen he may hire, to protect the people. I explained what had taken place in the case of Innes v. Nanticoke School District, where the architect, engineers, and draftsmen worked for over a year and then the project was done away with.

Mr. KORNS. There will be no further interrogation on my part, Mr. Speaker. I would like to say a few words.

I intend to vote "no" on this bill mainly because I see no reason why the local school district, the local council, or the local supervisors should be required to seek court approval before they hire any architect and further complicate the school building program or any other program.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, may I have a friendly interrogation of the gentleman from Luzerne?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jump, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JUMP. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Is it not true that this bill only becomes operative in those instances where the architect's fees cannot be paid out of current revenue?

Mr. JUMP. That is correct.

Mr. ANDREWS. It would not apply in any other case, and does not give the court any other jurisdiction than to say, if the current revenue is not sufficient, that the school district or institution district can make a temporary loan?

Mr. JUMP. That is correct.

Mr. ANDREWS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. JUMP. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman who interrogated me.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Korns, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KORNS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JUMP. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman mentioned he was opposed to the bill because of the fact that it is taking power away from the local school boards or the city councils, and so forth, is that right?

Mr. KORNS. That is correct.

Mr. JUMP. Suppose they are preparing plans to build an institution district home or school, finally went to court, and it was turned down after maybe six months, a year or two years of work by the architect, the engineer and his draftsman, what would you say to that?

Mr. KORNS. The district pays the architect and that is the end of it.

Mr. JUMP. Then it is wasting the taxpayers' money, is it not?

Mr. KORNS. That is correct. But is it not wise to investigate the situation before they start construction?

Mr. JUMP. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the Minority Leader.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jump, yields to the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jump, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JUMP. I shall, Mr. Speaker, providing it is a legislative question and not a prospective judge's question.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether he has ever heard of a court of common pleas' decision being reversed by the Superior or the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania?

Mr. JUMP. If I have ever heard—

Mr. READINGER. Have you ever heard that there has been a reversal of a lower court by our appellate courts? Is the gentleman aware of the fact the appellate courts can reverse the lower courts?

Mr. JUMP. That is correct, yes.

Mr. READINGER. I refer you to page 3 of this bill and ask you whether it does not require the court of common pleas to hold a hearing in given cases and determine (1) whether the project under consideration is a lawful one (2) whether the project can be completed within the debt limitation of such political subdivision and so forth, and (3) whether the architect's or engineer's contract is properly executed and is in standard form. Is that not a provision of this bill?

Mr. JUMP. It is in the bill.

Mr. READINGER. That is what the court of common pleas is required to do?

Mr. JUMP. That is right.

Mr. READINGER. Now, I refer you to page 4 of the bill, Section 3. Does that section not state as to a contract with an architect or registered engineer approved by the court of common pleas, that no such contract shall be declared invalid because the political subdivision shall have failed to make provision in its budget for the payments that shall become due, nor shall any such contract be declared invalid because the project itself is later declared illegal? Is that not set forth in here?

Mr. JUMP. It is.

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman then tell this House what the effect would be in a case where the court of common pleas gives this legal advice, in its opinion, and it is wrong and the work has then been completed by the architects and engineers? Are they to be paid under this section even though the Superior Court or Supreme Court says the lower court was wrong?

Mr. JUMP. Mr. Speaker, the engineers and the architects are not going to work unless they know they have some agreement with the courts and the district in which this project will be. That is what this bill does. It is to alleviate previous red tape.

Mr. Speaker, I am not an attorney. As I specified, my colleagues and I introduced this legislation at the request of a group of attorneys for the Luzerne County Institution District. Therefore, I am more or less not in position to answer the gentleman in a lawyer's terms.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I must oppose this bill also. I think the objective sought is proper and is all right. Certainly nobody expects an architect or an engineer to do a lot of work and not get paid, but I think the legislative proposal is wrong.

I think it would be far better in order to expedite these building projects to let architects and engineers, who are about to do a lot of work for which they may or may not get paid, seek legal advice from their own counsel. If their own counsel are not convinced that the project is a lawful and proper one, and so forth, the matter can be raised by seeking an injunction against the authority or the municipality proposing to go ahead with it. Then the question will come squarely before the court as to whether or not the authority or municipality has the legal authority to enter into such contracts, and so forth, and you can have an adequate court decision based on an actual case.

What this bill seeks to do is ask the court of common pleas to give legal advice before any work is started and then provides that, even though it is later declared illegal by a higher court or for any reason the court's decision is set aside, they shall still be paid for their work. I think it is not the proper way to proceed with it. I sympathize with the gentleman's objective, but I think the method used is wrong.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Luzerne contends, I believe, that this bill has in mind cutting red tape. It seems to me that any time you have to present a petition such as this bill sets forth, to a court of common pleas and get permission of that court, you are just adding to the red tape rather than cutting it.

This seems to be bad legislation because it prefers certain members of certain professions, architects and engineers. It seem to me if you passed this type of bill, the next thing you know you will have merchants and other professional people who would like similar protection.

I can envision a situation where somebody who is doing business with a state, county or other political subdivision, would want similar protection, and would come up here and ask us for this type of legislation. It seems to be bad. I think it is going to add red tape rather than eliminate it.

Mr. JUMP. Mr. Speaker, as I said previously, the Luzerne County Institution District is in the process of building a $3 million home for the aged and the infirm. Why would they ask us, the Members of this House from Luzerne County, to introduce this legislation if it was not going to be beneficial to the building of this home and also to the people as a whole?

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, the unfortunate part about the bill is that it does not only apply to Luzerne County, it applies to the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and every subdivision thereof.

Mr. JUMP. Mr. Speaker, I might say all of the people of Pennsylvania are taxpayers as well.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MR. BOWER IN THE CHAIR

Mr. STIMMEL. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 666 would increase the statutory requirement under our present financial responsibility act from five and ten limits of public liability and a thousand dollars property damage limit to ten and twenty limits of public liability and five thousand dollars property damage.

Twenty-three states now have higher limits than we have in Pennsylvania and many others are presently considering a statutory increase.

When our original law was enacted in 1945 the present limits of five and ten and one were deemed an adequate and sensibile minimum. Who can argue, however, in view of the substantial increase in the cost of personal injury and property damage claims and costs, that today this is a sensible and adequate minimum.

Prudent automobile owners and operators voluntarily buy increased limits, some as high as $300,000 across the board, but because of the statutory stipulation those required to produce evidence of financial responsibility furnish only the bare minimum for the protection of our general public.

There are about 14,000 financial responsibility and 14,000 assigned risks in Pennsylvania, 95 percent of which today carry only the basic limits of five and ten and one.

Motorists who drive regularly in the contiguous states of New York, Maryland, Delaware and Ohio must have higher limits or run the risk of violating the laws of those states and suffer consequent penalties.

There is a salutory benefit, too, that will be gained. Recently made available to those who carry automobile insurance is the uninsured motorist or the family protection endorsement This coverage today is written on the basis of the statutory limits. Passage of this bill will increase those limits proportionately to every motorist carrying that coverage.

I think this is a long overdue bill in the interests of the people of Pennsylvania. I urge the support of this measure.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Stimmel.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr Stimmel, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STIMMEL. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, does this amendment to the law mean that those who are now carrying five and ten and one under the Financial responsibility Act will have to increase their coverage to the new limits?

Mr. STIMMEL. As of the effective date of the act, I assume it would, sir

Mr. READINGER. The gentleman says there are about 14,000 of them?

Mr. STIMMEL. Approximately 14,000.

Mr. READINGER. Is it not a fact that under the Financial Responsibility Act when a person who is carrying no insurance and who is involved in an automobile accident, which is admittedly not his fault, but the fault of the other driver, in case the other driver will not give him a release or will not indicate in some other way that he, the other driver, is at fault and agree to pay, and so forth, the Secretary of Revenue after 60 days is required to suspend that person who is not carrying insurance unless he then furnishes evidence of coverage?

Mr. STIMMEL. At this point I need an attorney.

Frankly, Mr Speaker, I believe the Secretary is empowered to require that, but I do not think he must require it. I think the case the gentleman from Berks talks about is the most infrequent and isolated instance.

I agree it can happen, but I say it is an infrequent and isolated instance. It affects only the man who today, or the day of the accident, or immediately prior thereto, did not carry any insurance.

Mr. READINGER. This bill will not require, will it, any person who is now carrying any insurace to take out insurance unless he comes under the Financial responsibility Act?

Mr. STIMMEL. That is correct.

Mr. READINGER How many persons do you estimate are driving cars or own cars in the state of Pennsylvania who have no insurance at all?

Mr. STIMMEL. Various figures have been given. I do not have figures that I would deem factual. I can only guess from experience and from that which I have heard, and it is generally agreed that it is approximately 10 percent.

Mr. READINGER. Who do not carry any insurance?

Mr. STIMMEL. That is correct

Mr. READINGER. Will the gentleman tell us what is the difference in the premium between the present coverage and the proposed coverage in Lehigh County, for example?

Mr. STIMMEL. The average over the state to double the limits of liability from five and ten and one is about $4.00 and the percent increase is 20 percent. It is about 20 percent and amounts to $4.00.

Might I say for that you get a double increase in your liability from five and ten to ten and twenty Then you go from one thousand property damage to five thousand property damage under the present setup at no additional cost.

Mr. READINGER Would the gentleman care to name any companies that might be in business?

Do I understand that it would cost each insured person about $4.00 a year more to have this additional coverage?

Mr. STIMMEL. No. No. You say the insured person, I am sure you did not mean that. It would cost those who have had their first accident, or involvement, or have been cited for drunken driving, and have to furnish evidence, it would cost them, and only them, this additional 20 percent of the basic cost of liability and property damage insurance. May I say that experience has shown in these 23 states—I do not know how many of them—there has been a disposition on the part of the insurance companies to start their basic policy at ten, twenty and five rather than five, ten and one where this law has been enacted.

I might also say I was rather surprised that I did not receive from the ones from whom I expected it any opposition to this bill whatsoever, which were the companies, because you are giving this opportunity to the public of increasing their property damage from one thousand to five thousand at no cost and, of course, increasing their public liability from five and ten to ten and twenty at a very moderate increase in cost of 20 percent of that base limit.

As I said in my presentation—this is not a sales talk, by the way—it is a fact that presently the companies are writing the uninsured motorist endorsement at the financial responsibility statutory limits only because that is the way it is set up.

We are going to give the general public right up and down the pike, every one of the insured, a better break if we pass this law.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, that was an excellent discourse, but I stil would like an answer to the question I asked. Take an individual in Lehigh County, who is now carrying five, ten and one, and please tell me, if you can, how much he pays for that coverage and how much he would pay after this bill becomes effective?

Mr. STIMMEL. The basic limits in Lehigh County for bodily injury is $14. The percent of increase is 20 percent, so increase in cost to him would be $2.80.

Mr. READINGER. Is that for the entire policy of five, ten and one, as against ten, twenty and five?

Mr. STIMMEL. That is correct.

Mr. READINGER. $2.80 more per year.

Mr. STIMMEL That is correct. The average state-wide would be $4.00 a year more.

Mr. READINGER. What would it be in Philadelphia? Can you tell me that?

Mr. STIMMEL. In Philadelphia the basic rate is $47, the increase would be $9.40.

Mr. READINGER Is that the increase to somebody who is now furnishing evidence of financial responsibility with insurance under the Financial Responsibility Act?

Mr. STIMMEL. No. That is the reason I used the state average, Mr. Speaker, because unless you take an individual case and tell me exactly what that individual is cited for, how much it is loaded, I cannot tell you what it would cost.

If, for instance, the man is arrested only for a minor offense, his loading is very slight. If he is arrested and convicted of drunken driving and then has to file evidence of financial responsibility, he has to pay as high as a 55 percent loading.

Mr. READINGER. So in that case the difference between the two amounts of insurance would be considerable, would it not?

Mr. STIMMEL. Sure, because the fellow who was arrested for dunken driving is paying 55 percent more to furnish evidence now. This increases that 55 percent by 20 percent.

Certain, it does that. That is the fellow who had the bad violation. That is the fellow who, in my humble opinion, should be paying it.

Mr. READINGER. I thank the gentleman.

Miss DUFFY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to volunteer to act as Mr. Stimmel's attorney.

The question which the gentleman from Berks County posed should be answered in the negative. It is not true that an uninsured driver who is involved in an automobile accident has his driver's license suspended or revoked simply because the other driver will not give him a release. He has another alternative. That is this:

The Secretary of Revenue will find out from the injured person what his damages are. He is required to do that. The injured person submits a photostatic copy of his repair bill and an affidavit that the prices are fair and reasonable, he submits an affidavit from the hospital and the doctor regarding the injuries. The Secretary of Revenue determines the amount of the damages involved and then informs the uninsured driver that he is to post security in the amount of these damages within 10 days. It is only if he fails to post security that his license is revoked.

Under the terms of the proposed legislation if the uninsured driver causes damage in exces sof $5,000 and he is unable to post security, only then will his license be revoked.

I think we should all be keenly aware of the great tragedy caused by the motorist who is inadequately insured. The person who loses an arm or a leg cannot be adequately compensated with $5,000. This will not take care of his medical expenses and it will not take care of his loss of earnings. You have to remember, also, that the lawyer takes about one-half of the net.

Furthermore, Mr. Stimmel mentioned another factor which would make this bill beneficial to not only all the people in Pennsylvania but to the drivers as well.

Most of the surrounding states have compulsory limits of ten and twenty. If a Pennsylvania driver is driving in New York, or in Massachusetts, or in any of the nearby states and is involved in an accident, and the damage which he causes is in excess of $5,000 and he is unable to post security for that amount, his license is revoked not only in New York, not only in Massachusetts, but also under the reciprocity act here in Pennsylvania.

The man who has been carrying five and ten can justify a claim that he has been trying to comply with Pennsylvania law and yet Pennsylvania has revoked his license. I think we should protect that person and make sure he knows he should carry ten and twenty, at least.

I ask all Members of the House to support this. I think it is a step in the right direction.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, the object of this bill is a good one, but the trouble is that it just does not go far enough. If this bill were a compulsory insurance bill requiring everybody in the Commonwealth who owns an automobile to carry ten and twenty and five thousand property damage, I would say, "Hooray, it's a wonderful bill. I'm for that. But this does not do that at all. This takes the man who got involved in an accident—as Mr. Readinger pointed out, possibly it is not his fault at all—and because he did not have insurance he gets brought up under the Financial Responsibility Law.

Then this law says that he has to carry ten and twenty and five thousand property damage. There are about 14,000 involved. All the other motorists in the state of Pennsylvania who have automobiles do not have to carry ten and twenty and five, they can carry, five, ten and one. Under those circumstances it certainly seems very, very unfair. I say Mr. Stimmel ought to come in here with a bill making everybody carry insurance, making it compulsory that they carry ten and twenty and five. I will gladly vote for such a bill.

Another thing this bill would do would be to penalize the minority groups throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania because under the Financial Responsibility Law it is difficult for certain members of our population to get insurance today. They have to go into the assigned risk class. It is going to be doubly hard if they have to get limits of ten and twenty and five.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say amen to what the gentleman from Philadelphia has just said. This business of having three classes of people in Pennsylvania, some without any insurance, some with five and ten and some with ten and twenty, certainly does not strike me as being the proper way to do this.

All the way through this debate we seem to be assuming that everybody that is under that Financial Responsibility Act is a critter, somebody who ought to be put in jail or punished in some other way. That is not the case. Lots of people over the years have found themselves unable to carry insurance, or at least they decided they did not need insurance, and they were driving and got into an accident when they had no insurance.

People do not get into accidents because they want to get into them. I dare say, 99.75 percent want to stay out of them. So we are going to place them all in the same category and say, you have been in an accident at a time when you were not carrying insurance, so from now on you are going to carry more insurance than thousands and thousands of other people in this state of Pennsylvania, some of whom carry five and ten and some of whom carry none.

I think the day is not far off when we will have a plan—and the administration is now proposing one, the bill will probably be in in the next few days—where everybody will be required to carry some amount of insurance. That, to me, is the right way to approach it, not to treat this group of 14,000 people as though they are people who should be disregarded in many respects and told, since you were in an accident, you are now going to do so and so.

I am going to vote against this bill for these reasons, and for these reasons only, not because I personally would not like to see everybody carrying ten and twenty, but because this is not the fair way to approach it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 904, entitled as follows:

An Act amending the "Second Class County Code" approved July 28, 1953 (P. L. 723) authorizing administrative tasks functions or duties required to be performed on Saturdays in certain offices to be performed on Mondays regulating the number of employes to be maintained for such purposes

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to a parliamentary question having been raised as to whether House Bill 904 violated Rule 49 of the House, the Chair is in receipt of a letter from the Legislative Reference Bureau which the Chair will read. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, raised the parliamentary question.

Dear Mr. Helm:

House Rule No. 49 provides that when a bill has been defeated by the House, it shall not be reintroduced, nor shall it be in order to consider a similar one or act on a Senate bill of like import during the same session.

House Bill 97 was defeated by the House on March 27, 1957.

House Bill 904 was introduced in the House March 19, 1957, and is still in committee.

The question arises—is House Bill 904 similar to the defeated House Bill 97?

House Bill 97 authorizes certain county offices in counties of the second class to be closed on Saturday for the transaction of business. It prescribes the effect of such closure on legal papers supposed to be filed on that day, and makes any acts or transactions required to be performed in any of the offices on Saturday valid if performed or transacted on the next succeeding business day. This bill was the one that was defeated.

House Bill 904 applies to the same offices in the same counties as House Bill No. 97. The bill does not say that the offices may be closed on Saturday but says any administrative function, tasks or duties required to be performed on Saturday shall be valid if performed on the next succeeding business day. It then provides that the respective officers shall maintain sufficient number of employes during such hours (presumably on Saturday) as shall be adequate in order to comply with this section. This bill seems to authorize and require a skeleton force in each office on Saturday.

In my opinion, House Bill 904 is not similar to the defeated House Bill 97, but does require amendment in order to make its intentions clear.

Sincerely yours,

Burt R. Glidden, Director.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, for the edification of the Members of the House, will the Speaker read the last sentence of the opinion?

The SPEAKER. The last sentence on the opinion is:

"In my opinion, House Bill 904 is not similar to the defeated House Bill 97, but does require amendment in order to make its intentions clear."

For the information of the gentleman, the bill was amended.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, we have an old saying that a difference of opinion makes lawsuits, and I respectfully disagree with the Legislative Reference Bureau because the purpose of this bill is identical in nature.

We debated this issue at great length and the bill as proposed originally by the sponsors was soundly defeated. This bill provides for a skeleton crew, it provides for opening the offices to the general public giving the prothonotary and recorder of deeds discretionary powers. In my opinion, the skeleton crew will disappear and also the skeleton, if we pass this bill.

We are doing something indirectly which in our sound judgment we said before was improper. The same arguments that I raised before I say are still valid.

I do not want to belabor the Members of the House on this particular issue. I predict if this bill is passed and becomes law that in Allegheny County the recorder of deeds and prothonotary's office will be a "Grand Canyon" on Saturday mornings.

Mr. VAUGHAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to make just a brief statement on this particular bill.

This particular bill takes no rights away from anybody. The offices will be open and the people can go in there and do what they wish. I do ask the whole House to vote in favor of this bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr.Speaker, I would like to ask who asked the Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau to give an opinion as to the similarity of the bills?

The SPEAKER. That is the procedure which has been followed in this House over the years, and the Chair requested such an opinion.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I thought Mr. Goldstein had asked for the opinion, and then I thought he was disagreeing with his expert.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, raised the question on the floor of the House.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Vaughan, consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Vaughan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VAUGHAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, we consider the gentleman an expert witness. Will the gentleman point out any portion of this bill which makes it mandatory for the prothonotary or recorder of deeds to perform any functions?

Mr. VAUGHAN, Yes, if the gentleman will read the bill, he will find out that it makes it mandatory for somebody to be there. You will find that in the bill.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I have read the bill. Will the gentleman point out to the Members of the House the section that says it is mandatory?

Mr. VAUGHAN. I have not read the bill today, I do not know. As far as I am concerned, the bill does make it mandatory that the office be open on Saturday and that they take care of the duties which are to be performed there.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I do not want to belabor my good friend, Mr. Vaughan, from Allegheny County. Thank you, Mr. Vaughan.

Mr. Speaker, my opinion is, and I can be wrong, as all so-called experts are. Since I used the word "experts," I had better give you a definition of what the Supreme Court has said about experts: "Experts are considered the lowest form of testimony."

I wish to say that is my opinion there is no duty upon the recorder or the prothonotary to perform certain functions. Discretionary power is given to these officials, and the prediction I made before is that the public will not be served as it is entitled to be.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection,

House Bill No. 395, Printer's No. 171,

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 75

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 7 of today's calendar, House Resolution No. 75.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1957.

Resolved (the Senate concurring) That the second Resolved Clause of House Resolution No. 1, Printer's No. 8 Session of 1957 is amended to read:

Resolved That said joint committee shall make its report to the respective branches of the General Assembly within a period not to exceed [sixty] ninety days

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. FLYNN ask and obtained unanimous consent to address the House

Mr. Speaker, I wish you would bear with me while I present to you a case which in my own personal humble opinion I think was a very unjust decision on the part of some of the men in our administrative offices in the state of Pennsylvania.

On March 28, 1957, the Highway Engineer of District 12-4, which comprises Washington, Greene, Fayette and Westmoreland Counties, dismissed the Superintendent of Highways of Washington County on the basis of an article appearing in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

At this time I would like to read into the record that article and then the truth that appears upon the records the the Highway Department of Washington County, and I invite any and all probers to inspect its accuracy.

This article of March 27th, is under a heading by Arthur T. Moore. The title of the article is: "$100,000 Down Creek—Little Bridge, Big Thunder."

Highways department blunders on the Route 40 bridge in Claysville, Washington County, cost state taxpayers nearly $100,000.

The historic arch span over Big Buffalo Creek collapsed on March 14 last year.

It had been built in 1818 at a cost of $1,200 It is a vital link on Route 40 between Washington, Pa. and Wheeling.

Joseph Abate, as superintendent of highways in Washington County was ordered to start constructing a temporary bridge.

This order was given Abate although he was a recent political appointee and knew nothing about bridge building.

No contracts were let for repair work. It was decided to do the "small" job with the highway maintenance force.

The idea was to use the old abutments and place 39 tons of steel on them. Work progressed slowly until the end of May, when the old abutments started to crumble.

An SOS was sent to Harrisburg, and Leo Porter was called into the act. He's a bridge engineer

He told Abate that a bulldozer would have to be taken to the work and a new bridge erected. That was on May 28.

It was announced that a $40,000 structure to replace the old bridge would be built and ready for traffic within six to eight weeks.

Sixteen weeks later a small pre-cast concrete bridge finally was completed over Buffalo Creek.

Washington area businessmen charged that highway officials "masterminded the worst road bungling job in Pennsylvania."

* * *

This is a disgrace to the public. It's the worst bungled highway job ever.

Ladies and gentlemen, I have in my possession a letter dated March 19th wherein Mr. Abate called the attention of the District Engineer to the inadequate temporary route.

I would like to read this into the record. This letter is addressed to Mr. N. G. Bell, District 12, and is from Joseph Abate, Superintendent, District 12-4.

Due to the partial collapse of a multiple arch structure on March 14, 1956 located on Legislative Route 114 (T. R. 40) it became necessary to close Legislative Route 114 (T. R. 40) to all traffic and establish temporary routes.

We thought it advisable to channel the light vehicular traffic over our Legislative Route 62132, and 62135 South of T. R. 40 in order to avoid congestion on the routes over which we were forced to direct the heavy truck traffic.

We established the heavy truck traffice temporary route over our Legislative Routes 62183, 62096 and 62108 "—those are Traffic Route 40." These routes are not only wider but are constructed to withstand the heavier loads with less resultant damage and we have no questionable structures or clearance problems to combat.

While this temporary route is the most logical, it is by no means adequate to carry the normal volume of traffic that uses Route 40 both east and west bound. There are many bad curves and grades and we anticipate extreme difficulty in its use by the heavy trucks, trailers, tandems, etc.

We, therefore, recommend that you exercise your jurisdiction or authority and request or demand that all heavy east bound traffic be diverted in Wheeling from Route 40 to Route 31, via Wellsburg. We also suggest that we be permitted to channel all such heavy west bound traffic here in Washington from Route 40 to Route 31. We are of the opinion that if this is done, the temporary routes as presently established will function satisfactorily and with little ill effect on our secondary system.

Mr. Speaker, I also have in my possession a letter dated May 22, 1956, advising the District Engineer against the pouring of concrete. I would like to read this into the record.

It is directed to N. G. Bell, District 12, from Joseph Abate, Superintendent, District 12-4.

In order that the Department Forces of District 12-4 are cleared of any undesirable publicity because of the catastrophe created at the Bridge on U. S. Route 40, I am sending you this letter so that there will be a permanent record of our position and the action which our department has taken since the beginning of this project.

Upon collapse of this bridge, it was recommended by this office that a Bailey Bridge be installed. Because of the unavailability of that type of bridge, the idea was abandoned.

It was suggested by the Bridge Engineer, Mr. Nicksick, to build a temporary structure by placing a stone abutment at the astern end, and to pour a concrete abutment in the center pier. Upon excavating, it was discovered that an inefficient amount of base was left to pour the center pier. At that time I brought this to the attention of Mr. Nicksick and also I recommended that it not be poured. However, the advice was not taken and the abutment was poured causing breaks in the remaining arches on either side. This office took the position and again recommended to the bridge engineer that since the structure was not strong enough to hold the steel beams, that we knock down the eastern arch. This was brought about with the thought in mind that one or two things could happen; that the abutment would remain in place and that we could reinforce it to carry the load or that the abutment would collapse and we could pour a new one. This advice was not taken by the bridge engineer either.

This letter is written because it is now apparent that because of the failure of the structure of the bridge on Route 40, it is convenient for the bridge engineer and the people to blame the Department Forces of District 12-4 for all undesirable and bad publicity given to the department.

In order that we may protect the morale and the integrity of District 12-4, I suggest that you send a copy of this letter to the Secretary of Highways and to Mr. Porter, Bridge Engineer.

I also have in my possession a letter dated July 6, 1956, pleading with the District Engineer to allow the Superintendent to exercise his rights in keeping down the cost of construction.

This letter addressed to N. G. Bell, District 12, from Joseph Abate, Superintendent, District 12-4.

Upon reviewing charges to Authorization 2562149 operation 135, I find it has cost the Department $17,214.52 to construct the by-pass.

Up to date, I have had very little or nothing at all to say about the work schedule, hiring of rented equipment, or the number of personnel to be used.

Since I will probably be called upon in the near future to explain the enormous cost of construction of a four hundred (400) foot by-pass, I think that I should be given the right to exercise the protocol of the Superintendent to direct work and to try to bring down the mounting cost of this operation.

I feel that the work has progressed enough now that it will not be necessary to hire rented equipment except when there is work for them to perform. I cannot see the necessity of three construction sections working and would like to relieve two of them for work throughout the county and increase Mr. Lang's section from five to nine and place him completely in charge of constructing the bridge and maintaing the by-pass.

I feel that with strict supervision and planning the remainder of work on this authorization can be completed without delay and staggering cost.

Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentleman of the House, for 25 months Mr. Abate was knocked from pillar to post by politicians in Washington County who had no consideration for the people of the county itself, their main concern being their own selfish interests and their greed and lust for political power.

On March 30th I sent a letter to Mr. Joseph Lawler, Secretary of Highways, and as of this date I have not received a reply from his office.

I would like to have this spread upon the record, Mr. Speaker. It is addressed to the Honorable Joseph Lawler, Secretary of Highways, and I quote:

I was astounded to learn that Mr. Joseph Abate, Superintendent of Highways, District 12-4, was called into the District Office at Uniontown on the morning of March 29, 1957, and was asked to resign or be dismissed effective as of five o'clock on the above mentioned date.

The basis for this request was a newspaper article appearing in the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph under date of March 27, 1957, relative to the repair and construction of a bridge spanning Route 40.

Mr. Abate refused to resign on that basis and therefore was dismissed by Mr. Bell, District Engineer.

Perhaps you do not have at your immediate disposal the commnications and records pertaining to the actual construction of said bridge. Therefore I am enclosing herewith official copies of letters sent to Mr. Bell from Mr. Abate.

It would seem to me that under the circumstances a certain group of unscrupulous politicians have demanded their pound of flesh and quite advantageously received it. Therefore I have taken the position that I intend to vindicate the good name of Joseph Abate, former Superintendent of Highways, Washington County.

I shall read into the record of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the truth as taken from the files of the Washington County Department of Highways in Washington, Pennsylvania.

First the actual cost of the bridge and letters dating back to May 22, 1956 written by Joseph Abate to District Engineer, Mr. N. G. Bell, calling to his attention the danger of pouring abutments on old construction and advising him against such practice, which he failed to take that later caused a failure in construction. Then again on July 6, 1956 a letter to Mr. N. G. Bell pleading with him to allow the Superintendent to exercise his prerogative to control the enormous expenditures on this project, but he again ignored the appeal of the Superintendent.

I shall also read into the record the actual cost of this construction as appears on the ledger in the office of the Superintendent of Washington County. I invite any auditor that you or any other person in the Commonwealth might choose to inspect the accuracy of this record.

Mr. Secretary, I regret that I have to revert to such action to vindicate the name of any person that has been so loyal to the Commonwealth as Mr. Abate. I do this without any prejudice to any member of this administration.

Respectively yours,

Michael R. Flynn, Representative of Washington County

Mr. Speaker, I would like also to read into the record another editorial which appeared in the Washingtn Observer, that is a local Washington County paper, dated April 1, 1957.

For the information of the Members of the House, if you will bear with me, the people in Washington County know that something is amiss. After reading this editorial I think you will agree with me that it is not a question of the capability of Mr. Abate or whether the supervision of the Highway Department was done accurately, it is a question, as I have said before, of a group of unscrupulous politicians.

I quote these words in the Washington Observer, dated April 1st:

Joseph Abate, county superintendent for the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, could become the bone for a lot of quarrels as a result of his loss of his job. He was fired Friday by District Engineer N. G. Bell, of the Uniontown District Office.

First reports of his discharge indicated that the immediate reason was the manner of handling the replacement of the washed-out bridge on Route 40 at Sunset Beach last year.

It will be remembered that an attempt was made to place a temporary bridge at the Sunset Beach site, perching it on top of piers set on the bases of the old stone arches. That was a miserable failure, and finally State engineers ordered a new bridge built.

According to information available at the time, neither Abate nor the county office of the Department of Highways had any definite part in making plans or decisions regarding the disposition of the Sunset Beach bridge trouble. It did have jurisdiction over the established detours and the way these totally inadequate roads were maintained produced the brightest spot in the whole picture.

Every indication was that all decisions in the matter came from Uniontown or Harirsburg, and that little of the actual work at the bridge was under jurisdiction of the county office or of Mr. Abate. What was done by local highway department forces was generaly regarded as being done under orders from higher up.

If Joseph Abate was fired for his failure to handle the Sunset Beach affair properly, it would seem to Washington Countians that a rank injustice was done.

At any rate, the Sunset Beach bridge fiasco is going to be aired again because of the discharge of Abate. The State Highway Department, or at least its administrative organization, cannot gain from the airing.

Most Washington countians will suspect that there was some other real reason for firing Joseph Abate. That real reason should be the one given to the public, even if it would take the cover off some one else. If Abate's firing, or the reasons given for it, are really intended as a covering up for some other department agent, it is time for an investigation of the department or some of its higher-up personnel.

But as to the reason for firing Abate, it is perfectly possible that there was adequate reason. But that reason should have been given, in the interest of both Mr. Abate and the public.

What's back of the entire series of bungles is properly the business of the people of the county and the State. And that business should be straightened out, whether the guilt lies on the back of Mr. Abate or, as most persons will believe, on the back of some one higher up in the department.

In view of the fact that the people of Washington County are demanding to know the truth and place the blame where it justly belongs on the person or group of persons responsible for this so-called "Bridge Blunder" I would like to suggest to the Department of Highways that Mr. Abate be absolved of any blame concerning the Sunset Beach affair. The fact remains that according to the record Washington County under the supervision of Mr. Abate has an outstanding record in the supervision and maintenance of our state highways in the county. If Mr. Abate was dismissed on the basis of politics, then the people should know. But so far as placing blame on someone who is not responsible for the "Bridge Blunder," I would like to finally suggest to the Highway Department that a thorough investigation be made and the results made public, particularly to the people of Washington County, and the charges against Mr. Abate be corrected.

As you and by fellow Members well know, politically I am a Democrat by choice, but above all I am an American citizen first. Being an American citizen, I subscribe to the philosophy of fair play. I do not believe in tramping on a man when he is down. In this particular case that is exactly what is hapening. I am firmly convinced that the philosophy of fair play was not taken into consideration in the dismissal of Mr. Abate and I base it on these facts:

On March 12, 1957, which was a couple of weeks ago, Mr. Abate and I were in the office of the Secretary of Highways. I cannot quote Mr. Lawler verbatim, but if my memory serves me correctly he stated at that time, "Joe, you are doing a wonderful job. The only fault you seem to have is that you are a little hot-headed. I would suggest that you try to cool off."

That was on March 12th. On March 29th he received a call to report to Uniontown and he was given the choice of resigning or being dismissed Mr. Bell, the District Engineer, informed Mr. Abate at the time that he was dismissed on the basis of an article appearing in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, but on March 30th an article appeared in the Pittsburgh Press written by their Harrisburg correspondent stating that Mr. Abate was dismissed on the basis of insubordination.

I would like to suggest to the gentlemen in the Highway Department, either to the District Engineer or the Secretary himself, that they get their heads together and make up their minds why he was discharged.

I would like to have placed in the Journal of this House the breakdown of the cost of this bridge. I have here the purchase order number, the index number, how much the bridge cost, the bridge deck, the concrete, the lumber, and so forth. The total cost according to the records in Washington County amounted to $102,601.70.

I would also like to have placed in the Journal the telegram sent to the Secretary of Highways, Mr. Lawler, also a telegram sent to Honorable George M. Leader, Governor of the Commonwealth, and also the Washington County financial records for the fiscal year June 1, 1956, to March 15, 1957 I would like you to look at the total amount authorized for each different authorization, I would like the public to check the amount expended to date, I would like them to check the cash balance he had on hand.

If that is poor management, then I am surely a little bit off base. Any time that you can operate a department such as the Highways Department of Washington County in this manner, as large as it is, I say it is very good management.

In conclusion, ladies and gentleman, I want to thank you for being kind enough to listen to me, but I think it is time the people of Pennsylvania, particularly in our own localities, learn the truth.

As I said before, politically I am a Democrat, but above all I am an American and I believe in treating people as I would like to be treated myself.

I would like to have this record spread upon the Journal.

Joseph J. Lawler, Secretary of Highways

I have been informed by District Engineer, N. G. Bell, that you asked for my resignation because of an article appearing in the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph on March 27, 1957.

I am astonished at your haste and personal disregard of a man's honesty and integrity. Especially when you have at your finger tips, the truth that would vindicate myself and my family of the horrible charge of squandering $100,000 of State funds.

March 29, 1957

To: The Honorable George M. Leader, Governor
Because of an article appearing in the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph, your Secretary of Highways, Joseph J. Lawler, dismissed me as Superintendent of Highways, Washington County.

The newspaper, in effect, charges that I have wasted $100,000 of State funds.

I ask you to intervene to have the Secretary release the truth so that I may vindicate my name so that I may leave the State Department with the same dignity and respect that I had before I came to work for the State two years ago.
The Secretary has at his disposal, records that will prove the article appearing in the newspaper a lie in its entireity.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

Washington County Financial Record

June 1st '56 to March 15 '57

Fiscal Year Ending May 31.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to compliment the gentleman on his courage in making that speech. I know he said it might be his political swan-song, but I am sure the people in his district, regardless of his political affiliation, will certainly look with great favor upon his courage in bringing out something which is to him a great injustice done to one of the citizens of his county.

I think we should all congratulate him on doing the job and we certainly hope that his people back home will realize that he has done this in all sincereity because he thinks a wrong has been done that should be righted.

PERMISSION TO HOLD PUBLIC HEARING

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to hold a meeting of the Pardons Board Investigating Committee tomorrow, April 10th, in the Senate Caucus Room at 10:00 a. m.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

The SPEAKER. The bill is re-referred to the Committee on Cities—Third Class.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 7 of today's calendar, House Bill No. 734, Amended House Bill Returned for Concurrence.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 734.

A Supplement to the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) known as "The Administrative Code of 1929" regulating expenditures and commitments by administrative bodies boards and commissions from the general fund during a portion of each biennium.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Title, page 1, line 3, by inserting after the word "commissions" the following: "from the General Fund";

Amend Section 1, page 1, line 2, by inserting after the word "commitments" the following: "from the General Fund";

Amend Section 2, page 2, line 7, by striking out after the word "supplement" the following: "and no law shall be deemed to be repealed hereby with respect to expenditures by administrative bodies boards and commissions" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "All acts and parts of acts are repealed in so far as they are inconsistent herewith."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaaker, I request that the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

Mr. READINGER. In asking the membership on this side of the House to vote for concurrence in these amendments, I would like to point out that the only amendments made by the Senate clearly spell out the fact that this bill does not pertain to anything other than the General Fund and repeals any acts that are inconsistent with this act.

At the time House Bill 734 was debated on the floor of this House, it was pointed out by this side of the House that it did cover the Highway Department. It was stated by the Majority Leader at that time that it was not intended to cover it and he did not think it did, but I guess on more sober reflection and less haste the Senate majority has decided it does cover the Highway Department. So they amended it to be sure that it does not.

But in asking for this side of the House to concur in these amendments, we are by no means agreeing that this bill is any better now with the amendments than it was when it left this House.

It was a bad bill then, it is still a bad bill. At least, these amendments take out one of the big departments which could not operate under the terms of this bill.

You will recall that the other day I again brought up this matter to point out to you what it would do to some of the other departments, particularly Property and Supplies.

So we are today in the position of concurring in these amendments because they make a bad bill a little less bad.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:
